Jewish Center Nereides, competing at the annual synchronized swimming meet held at Scioto Country Club, Aug. 15, captured an enviable number of prizes.

The meet opened with stunt competition in which Sue Mock, Jacque Smith and Ellen Gruber took first, third and fourth places respectively.

In routine competition that evening, the first event was junior solo in which Marilyn Schumick, who portrayed "The Conquering Charioteer" placed second, and "The Little 'Ole Winemaker," Kris Stephens, took home a fourth place ribbon.

In senior solo, Sue Mock, whose theme was "Ice Extravaganza," took first place and Jacque Smith, who entered "Gone Native," took fourth place.

In the junior duet, in which Karen Susil and Marlene Gurevitz entering as "Wittle Wet Wabbits," took second place, and Arne Lou Schumick and Christine Eberle won fourth place as slaves from "The Story of Esther."

In the senior duet, Sue Mock and Jacque Smith captured first place in their "Pink Panthers." As women from "The Vineyards," Toni Stephens and Ellen Gruber took second place, and Roseanne Kramer and Bev Galbreath, as "Jailbirds," took fourth place.

The team number performed by Nereides Marilyn and Anna Lou Schumick, Karen Susil, Roseanne Kramer, Marlene Gurevitz, Lisa Davidson and Christine Eberle told the story of the importance of trees in Israel and took second place.

Other pools participating in the meet were Holiday, Reynoldsburg, Brookside, Scioto Country Club and Columbus Country Club.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

Hurrah for the Kerr brothers, German Village realtors. They own a big chunk of property on the north side of Beck-st — second haus east of Mohawk, the two priceless Deutsch singles to the east of it, and the handsome but neglected four-family in back of them, which is flush with Berger-al.

The Kerrs plan to pull down their westernmost Haus and erect an attractive new-oldie there. They will restore both Deutsch singles and you can imagine what honeys they will be. Wonderful to relate, the Kerrs will transform the Berger Alley Haus from a four-family back to what it was originally—a two-family. To my way of thinking, this last is the best idea of all.

For I feel that the basic appeal of German Village is not cramped, high - saturation quarters, but graciousness and spaciousness within a tight framework of old-world quaintness. Too often throughout our Village handsome singles have been duplexed and doubles made into four-family units. Perhaps this was justified five years ago when the future of German Village was in doubt and any expenditure down here was therefore a gamble.

But now that German Village is "in," rabbit-warren units should be going out. One of the favorites of this year's tour was Mary Caroline Newton's gracious, elegant two-story Haus at 545 City Park-av. Those who took to its serent beauty tour day would be surprised to know that when Mary Caroline bought it, it had been bungled into a duplex. At the corner of Jackson and Rader, Clara Pierce has about finished making a Deutsch double into a stunning, and Ach-how-costly single — her own home.

Landlords who buy to rent naturally expect a decent return for their money. The owner with multi-units may have higher income than the one who does not, but his grief has been doubled or quadrupled, and his bills also. Those who duplex and four-family to get a whopping return might take into account the changing picture of German Village.

Who wants to live like a rabbit? More and more, large, spacious doubles are being restored down here. Because of this increasing supply of room rental units in German Village, the landlord who made a rabbit warren out of his once spacious Village property should expect a heavy turnover as his tenants flee his cubby-holes for roomier quarters in the Village.

Of course, with each turnover the landlard should expect loss in rent, decorating costs, advertising charges, heat bills in winter, etc. Eventually he will have to rip out his rabbit-warren units and return his home to what it was before.

So I say hurrah for the Kerr brothers, who are going to change a four-family back to its original two-family state. And hurrah for Mary Caroline Newton for changing her home from a duplex back to its original commodious glory.

And hurrah for Clara Pierce for converting a Deutsch double into a single so luxurious that, although not finished yet, it is being spoken of as one of the showplaces on next year's tour.

So help me Gott, someone has bought one of the tiniest cutest old singles in German Village and has made a duplex out of it!

Whitehall Needs AdultChaperones

The chaperones are needed for four dances each month — two for the junior high group and two for senior high students. They will be scheduled on Friday and Saturday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

Chaperones from past years have said that the evenings will not be dull, and that they are actually entertaining while providing a needed service to the youth of the community.

Steve Bays Pitches WBBA Stars To Win

The WBBA All-Stars downed their counterparts from Christ the King, 1-0, in a tight pitching duel last week at the North American Aviation Park — the two clubs participating in the annual Shrine Brotherhood Night.

Winning WBBA pitcher Steve Bays went the route for the winners, allowing two hits, walking five and fanning eight. His opponent — Christ the King's Passero — allowed only one hit, one walk and struck out three.

THE WBBA stars scored the game's lone marker when Mike Gilmore walked, Dave Brobst doubled and Mike Darr lined out — Gilmore coming home when a double play attempt went awry and the ball sailed over the third baseman's head.

Bays, captain of the WBBA stars, got out of hot water in the final frame after loading the bases on walks with nobody out.

Steve got the next batter to ground to the mound and then whiffed the next two men to end the game.

ASSIGNED

IN RESPONSE to a recent request for the opinion of City Attorney John Young regarding horsepower of motors used on Hoover Reservoir, R. E. Betz, superintendent of the Division of Parks and Forestry, received the following reference to the City Code:

"Hoover Reservoir — No watercraft shall operate at speeds exceeding eight miles per hour on the Hoover Reservoir. In addition, no motor propelled boat shall be operated with a motor in excess of six horsepower. The total maximum horsepower attached to any boat shall not exceed six horsepower."

Center Plans Reach Final Stages

The new sign at the northeast corner of Livingston-av and Brice-rd points to the breaking of ground within 90 days on the proposed $5.5 million Walnut Hills Regional Shopping Center.

Developer Simon Cooper, president of Coso Corporation, announced that it will be Central Ohio's first enclosed-mall shopping center, and that it will be contained under eight acres of a single roof. All shop fronts will be enclosed in the mall and will be heated and air-conditioned with each having retractable fronts. There will be parking facilities for 2,100 automobiles.

MAYOR GEORGE W. TWYFORD (left) and Richard J. Solove, secretary-treasurer of the Coso Development Corporation, look over the site where the new $5.5 million Walnut Hills Regional Shopping Center will be standing about next summer. Solove credits Twyford's efforts in leading to the selection of Reynoldsburg for the center's location.

Richard J. Solove, secretary-treasurer of Coso, said the center has materialized because of the cooperation and assistance shown by Reynoldsburg city officials. He praised Mayor George W. Twyford for his support of the proposed center.

"Twyford's untiring efforts in helping to overcome obstacles in reading the final plans led to the final selection of Reynoldsburg for the center's location," Solove said.

Planned to open in the summer of 1966, the center will have 40 stores. Tenants already committed, include: Woolco Department Store, Big Bear Supermarket, Gray Drug Store, a Firestone Store with a 12-bay center, Huntington National Bank with drive-in facilities, Modern Finance and Sherwin-Williams Paint Store.

Located just three-tenths of a mile from the Brice-rd cloverleaf off the East Expressway (I-70), the center is expected to annually add to the city's funds about $90,000 in real estate taxes; $350,000 in personal property taxes and $500,000 in sales taxes.

Architects for the project are Crocci, Abbot and Leon Seligson, with Coburn Morgan, design consultant. Mortgage financing was handled through PanOhio Mortgages, Inc., by the John Hancock Insurance Company, Boston, Mass.

Jewish Center Sports Roundup

In one of the higher scoring games of the season, the Len Immke Buickmen outslugged B.V.D., 23-19, producing a three-way tie for first between B.V.D., Len Immke and Ontario.

With only two games remaining and with two different winners for rounds one and two, the members of the league are experiencing a climatic finish to a most successful season.

MEYER KRAVITZ, the outstanding pitcher in the league, was sorely missed by his B.V.D. team as it allowed Len Immke 35 hits.

The outstanding slugger for Immke was Captain Irv Flox with five consecutive singles. Aiding the cause were home runs by Dave Madison, Bob Grad and Abe Cooperman.

ONTARIO won its game from Martin's Market with little effort, 15-6, as Dr. Benton Block, Marv Grossman, Jules Vogel, Dr. Larry Lawrence, Martin Adler, Irv Smith and Murray Rosen collected three hits apiece to give pitcher-captain Sandy Goldston unlimited support.

The only highlight for the losers were two consecutive home runs by tiny Al Press, the league's longest ball hitter.

In the third game of the evening, Friedman, Cummins, and Stern Insurance outhit Hackman Realty 16-12. Doing the damage for FCS were Dr. Hal Canin, Sandy Stern and Harvey Roth. For the losers, Sig Wasserman, Henry Grinsfelder, Bernie Shapiro and Dr. Jesse Shapiro led the attack.

COFFEE BREAK

Individualism Is Fine But Not For Breakfast

By ADELINE DALEY

I feel now that I've missed my calling. I should be out working as a short-order cook at a diner with all of the experience I've gained from "hashing" for this family.

Who else can take and prepare orders for hamburgers as rapidly as I can? "Three without onions, four with, one with cheese, two hold the relish . . ." I must also remember who prefers them broiled or grilled as well as who takes mustard, catsup or both (yes, both).

I get as many as eight different "calls" at breakfast, too. Although this may mean nothing more than setting out seven different kinds of cereal and perhaps preparing the Blue Plate special, a couple of orders of eggs — or as we say in the trade, cacklefruit — with a stack of wheat, a side order of bacon and a cup of Java.

I must admit, however, that it doesn't make much difference how the eggs are ordered — sunnyside up, easy-over or any other way — my creations seem to come out the same way, a form of semi-scrambled eggs which have a habit of sticking to the pan. So I don't think that I'm Dog-gy Diner's answer to Julia Child and the Cordon Bleu cooking school.

What I've never been able to figure out is why children in the same family have such a wide variety of tastes. What happens in the families that subsist on a diet of hominy grits? That's what I want to know.

Maybe we shouldn't feel so sorry for the millions of Chinese who must live solely on rice, either. Although I'd be willing to bet that my kids would find 18 different ways for me to fix it.

Thus, my biggest problem is trying to satisfy the majority and appease the minority at each meal, without offering a menu as long as the one at the Tour d'Argent. About the only thing they can agree on is that they all dislike peas, green beans, broccoli, squash, asparagus and just about any other vegetable you can name except corn-on-the-cob, preferably out-of-season.

You'd think that they could agree on such a universal favorite as ice cream and enjoy all kinds, but here again, each one has a different choice. Sometimes we don't select a compromise flavor until the 37th ballot.

On the positive side, they all seem to rate market steaks high on the list. But let's see now, who wants it rare, medium, well-done and who would just as soon eat the pound of hot dogs I also bought, hoping somebody did not like steak . . .?

Goodwill Plans 11 Style Shows

Miss Karla Hambel of Westerville, National Goodwill Worker for 1965 and interviewer at Goodwill Industries, will make appearances at the style shows and at the exhibit of the Governor's Committee on "Employ the Handicapped" in the Buckeye Building, in which Goodwill has a display. She will take part in the fair parades on both of the Saturdays and Sundays at the fair.

RETIRES

Lieutenant-Col. George Bleimes, 4565 Hamilton-rd, Gahanna, has retired from service with the 121st Tactical Fighter Group of the Ohio National Guard.

Youth Leaders Feted For Service To City

Surprise presentation of plaques to three men active in Whitehall's youth program was a highlight of Sabre Shrine's annual Brotherhood Night, held Aug. 26 at NAA Park.

Honored were Charles Evans, retiring this year after six years as president of Whitehall Baseball Association; Harold Fleck, active in leadership in the organization, and John LaCorte, city recreation director.

Awards were presented by John Bishop, chairman of the recreation board, on behalf of the WBBA, Bantam Football League and the recreation board.

More than 2000 were on hand at the annual affair, including special guests of the Shrine — children from St. Vincent's Orphanage and Franklin Village.

Four-inning exhibition baseball games were played by young all-stars of NAA, Christ The King and Jewish Center sponsored teams, and a selected team from Whitehall.

Zayre To Build In New Whitehall Shopping Site

The Zayre Corp. will open a second department store and automotive service center here early next spring, according to an announcement made today by Stanley H. Feldberg, Zayre president.

Zayre will be the major occupant of a new shopping center which will be constructed on a site now occupied by the In-Town Auto Theater, E. Main-st in Whitehall.

The developer of the new center is the Kimco Corp. of New York City. Marty Kimmel, president of Kimco, said a food market and several small service stores also will occupy the center.

The new Zayre store will cover 70,000 square feet and contain 85 customer-designed departments. It will be patterned after and offer the same customer service found at Zayre's first store here, located on W. Broad-st in Lincoln Village.

Health Centers Promise Help, Not Just Diagnoses

By JANE ROBINSON

"Your child needs glasses."

"Your child needs to go to the dentist."

"Your child needs this — or that — or something else."

Public schools have been sending home such notes for years.

And those notes often weren't worth a hill of beans to either the parent or child.

Mothers and fathers have a pretty good idea what their youngsters need—whether it's a tonsillectomy or a pair of shoes.

But the information is useless without money for action.

Plans to set up Health Service Centers that not only will diagnose but also remedy are the latest to get the green light from the advisory board of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization.

In Junior High Schools

The four centers will be located in Champion, Barrett, Everett, and Starling Junior High Schools.

Here, at least three hours a day, physicians, dentists and dental technicians will be on hand to help children of all ages and all creeds.

When the demand goes beyond medical care that can be furnished at the centers, the patient will be referred to proper specialists or hospitals.

Hand-in-hand with the new program that is part of Columbus' war on problems, stemming from poverty, is the establishment of three nursing stations. Located in Franklin, Monroe and Roosevelt Junior High, they will be staffed full-time.

The job of the nurses will be to spot health problems and refer the children for Center or clinical treatment.

Tentatively, a budget of $336,072 has been set up, but this is subject to review of the CMACAO executive committee and may have to be trimmed.

It was recommended that salaries be set in accordance with the scale of the local Public Health Department.

According to Dr. Samuel Stellman, executive director of the CMACAO, approval Monday of an application for federal funds to expand the Family Centered Program can bring help to 550 "bottom of the barrel" families.

A pilot program involving less than 100 families was carried out last year by the Junior League, UCC, Franklin County Welfare and other agencies.

Through it families where at least two or three major social problems existed (delinquency, criminality, desertion, illegitimacy — to name but a few) were counseled as a unit.

And it worked.

Situations Improve

When the program was evaluated this summer, it was found that 59 percent of the families offered "Family Centered" guidance had pulled themselves out of the poverty area.

It isn't a cheap program, requiring highly skilled staffing, but it is one that Stellman believes can hold a family together. With a tentative budget of $268,328, application will probably be made for $114,000 from Washington and the balance provided through the services of the staffs of 10 agencies now participating.

In other action a Head Start program was approved for the South-Western School District and an okay given for the eight neighborhood coordinators to be employed as well as 30 neighborhood works ("havenots" themselves) to work in the poverty pockets of the city and county.

Dr. Stellman emphasized that none of these budget figures can be regarded as absolute.

To date, the Community Action Organization has only $1,080,000 allocated until June 1, 1966. There may be more coming but no one knows how much, or when.

In the meantime, a million dollars can only be stretched so far, and Stellman and his staff are determined that none of it will be wasted on "fat."

City To Seek Federal Boost For Recreation

By FRANK RYAN

Columbus soon may gain a $900,000 federal "windfall" for area recreational facilities as the result of recently enacted national legislation. And this may be only the beginning of local programs with sizeable federal participation.

The "new" recreation money may come Columbus' way as a result of provisions of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965. The new Congressional act includes federal aid of up to two-thirds of construction costs for neighborhood facilities.

These could include neighborhood or community centers, youth centers, health stations and public buildings to provide other social services in a neighborhood. Project priority will be assigned when such construction is in low income areas, and when it furthers the objectives of the "Anti-Poverty" program.

Of immediate interest to city officials are planned recreational developments in three areas. They include a recreation center at Bolivar Arms, addition of an indoor swimming pool at Thompson Recreation Center and a recreation center and outdoor pool in the Blackburn area. The first two projects are in the city's North Side. The Blackburn area project would serve the Near East Side of the city.

Another potential aid to local recreational capital improvements was seen in liberalization of the existing "open space" federal aid program. The original "open space" law allowed up to 30 percent federal aid for acquisition of developed land for approved community facilities. The 1965 law increases federal participation to 50 percent.

In commenting on the possibility of federal help, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner said:

"Of course I'm trying to qualify Columbus for every dollar of federal aid we can get. If my city does not get these funds, there are thousands of other cities out to get them. All I'm doing is trying to bring back our federal income tax money in the form of capital improvements."

Sensenbrenner said federal help for recreational capital improvements would allow the city to expand and accelerate its recreation program. He said all aspects of the Housing and Urban Development Act "and all other federal legislation" — would be carefully studied to determine other potential areas of federal aid.

"We need more senior citizens buildings, and everybody deserves good housing," the mayor commented, adding, "I'm all for anything that will make my city a better place in which to live."

Actually, the new federal law, enacted on Aug. 11, is not yet ready for application. Officials in the Chicago regional office of the Housing and Home Financing Agency confirmed that administrative procedures must yet be set up for the new national program.

But Columbus officials are pressing ahead in efforts to develop a co-ordinated program and tentative application for federal funding of local projects. A Tuesday meeting was attended by Recreation Director Nick Barack, Finance Director John Stanley and Dr. Samuel D. Stellman, executive director of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO).

The purpose of the meeting was to lay groundwork for a program in which recreational and social service needs might be combined. An application for federal funds for recreational purposes would be greatly enhanced if it carries the endorsement of CMACAO, local officials agree.

Although no specific development plans were discussed Tuesday, here are some of the potential areas where local recreation and anti-poverty programs could be combined:

- Priority consideration will be given to building recreational facilities where the anti-poverty program is most active. It is axiomatic that these will be in areas of low income.
- Recreation buildings may take on added use for specific social services. For example: Most recreation centers do not open for public use until 2:30 p.m. during school months and noon during the summer. It is possible that they could serve as health centers or for other social services during morning hours.

Barack reported that the Columbus Recreation Commission has endorsed the principle of obtaining federal funds for recreation capital improvements. The commission reviews plans and programs for the Recreation Department.

Dr. Stellman said he hopes Tuesday's meeting will spark a program beneficial to both CMACAO and the Recreation Department. He said that he could speak only for himself until he presents all available information to the CMACAO Board of Trustees. The trustees will determine the extent of CMACAO participation, he said.

"Poverty is a community problem," Dr. Stellman said, "and the whole community has a responsibility in this area. We are interested in any plan which makes it easier for us to reach the people and for them to reach us."

T&C Thrills Kids With Two Shows

Town and Country shopping officials were red-faced August 20, when it was discovered that they had advertised a Ken-L-Ration Dog Food "Kids Dog Show" not only for Friday of last week, as planned, but for Saturday also, not as planned.

Not wanting to disappoint a lot of kids and their pooches, Ken-L-Ration and Town and Country hastily arranged to stage shows on both days. It probably was a fortunate "boo-boo," since the turnout was so great that they probably could not have been handled well in one show.

Winners in the two-day five-class events were: best groomed dog — Joe Koska, 4009 Etna, and Buni Goulston, Gahanna; Smallest dog—Karen Lyons, 62 N. Chesterfield, and Sharon Fetch, 66 Collinwood; best tricks — Debbie Gorenstein, 1580 Kenwick, and Donna Winstead, 984 Euclaire; largest dog — Mark Bragg, 361 Siebert, and Edwin Pennybacker, 1381 Oak Hill; best costumed — Jenifer Sehring, 181 Ashbourne, and Sharon Fetch, 66 Collingwood.

Education Is The First Step From Ghetto To Getting

Public rioting, whether in Los Angeles, Harlem, Rochester, Geneva-on-the-Lake or Russells Point, shoots from a common triggering cause — irresponsibility.

Rioting by college students at summer resorts can not be excused because "the kids are just letting off steam." And public rioting in the ghettos of our metropolitan areas should never be written off as noble, heroic efforts toward correcting local or imagined oppression or injustices.

But neither should we visit upon all college students the sins of the small minority who precipitate riots. Nor should we label as lawless and unredeemable all who live within the confines of the ghetto.

These are the extreme, the simple, the expedient opinions. They are not answers. They do not represent a philosophy geared to solving the problem.

When all the eloquent rationales have been spoken and written; when all the emotional appeals have been trumpeted; when all the bitter denunciations have been recorded, the ultimate solution still will rest in the application of common sense and simple justice.

The problem of rioting students should prove much the easier to solve. When firm, consistent law enforcement is combined with reasonable disciplinary action from the courts and colleges, the student riot problem will be well on the way to solution.

The students can be made to see that there is nothing to gain and much to lose by such irresponsible action. They have a future to protect. The vast majority will go on to useful, productive lives, and their misadventure will be remembered as just that — and nothing more.

The problem in the ghetto is quite different. We must remember that the ghetto is not a location, but a condition. It is a condition where most people have nothing to lose, nothing to protect. Their legacy has been fear, hunger, and rejection. They are too consumed in the fight for day-to-day survival to hope for a better future.

Certainly, firm, consistent law enforcement and just courts will always be called for to maintain law and order — in and out of the ghettos. But law enforcement, alone, is not the answer in a society which is producing agitators and lawbreakers faster than we can build jails to hold them.

It is not enough to remove to our jails those who seek self-glory at the expense of law, order and the safety of those they pretend to represent. The irresponsible, hate-filled leader of the mob will always find a following among the uneducated, the destitute and the bitter inhabitants of the ghetto.

Our biggest job lies in dealing with the potential followers of the false prophets, and the most effective tool is education. When we secure to the young of the ghetto the full bounty of equal educational opportunities; when we place them and keep them in first-rate schools, then — and only then — can we hope for them to gain the maximum benefit of the many other "equal opportunities" guaranteed to all citizens by our Constitution.

We can call it a "War on Poverty," a "Civil Rights Movement," or a "Fight for National Survival." Under any title the stakes are just as high. We cannot be deterred by those who say "let's go back" any more than we would accept anarchy as a legitimate means of achieving social reforms.

We must demand respect for the law. And we must demand laws worthy of respect and equally applied. But, above all, we must first educate to make all other worthy goals attainable. And we must make whatever sacrifice is necessary to meet this primary objective.

Calling Ohioans!

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE
Former Governor, State of Ohio

Anyone attempting to suggest that all is not well, and that the present state administration may not have achieved perfection, must do so with fear and trepidation.

The merest intimation may bring accusations that the writer is basely motivated, a case of sour grapes, or selfish politics directed against a purely motivated collection of unselfish civic leaders molded into a noble organization seeking only the public good. The inference also is present in some publications that the next election should be skipped, and all Ohioans should join hands (except when applauding) in support of one party, one governor, simple establishment state.

Even though realizing the need for retreat to the closest storm cellar when the verbal missiles begin flying, perhaps it might not be too audacious to point out these facts:

The Wall Street Journal of Aug. 17, 1965, in the lead sentence to a story on state finances said, "The traditional fiscal weakling, the state treasury, is looking surprisingly robust these days — thanks in no small measure to the curative effects of a four-year business boom."

The story did not refer to Ohio but to the whole country — it seems that all states, even those with just "ordinary governors," are enjoying the benefits of national prosperity.

The Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank a day later reported that Ohio rated ninth among the nation's 10 largest states in the rate of growth between 1960 and 1964. Comparision of 1960 and 1964 figures showed Ohio in 1964 had:

- 36,000 fewer farm jobs
- 10,000 fewer manufacturing jobs
- 11,000 fewer transportation and utility jobs
- 10,000 fewer construction jobs.

In 1964 Ohio had more jobs than in 1960 as follows:

- 41,000 more government jobs
- 36,000 more service jobs
- 11,000 more wholesale and retail jobs
- 9,000 more finance, real estate and insurance jobs.

The net gain in total jobs in 1964 over 1960 was only 14,000, with an estimated 135,000 increase in population over the age of 18.

Among Ohio's major cities only Columbus and Dayton kept pace with the national increase of 5.5 percent

Cleveland and Akron had gains of less than 1 percent. Toledo, Canton, Cincinnati and Youngstown-Warren had fewer employed than in 1960.

In view of all that has been written about 200,000 new and additional jobs, the raiding of other states, the new explosive, expanded State Department of Development, the repetitious speeches in all parts of the state, the continuous tours, is it possible that we have actually lost ground?

Everyone knows that profit is not a dirty word in Ohio, it's been repeated time and time again at $15,000 a page. Then what is it that has slowed Ohio's growth? Could it be the lack of sound administration of the state's basic programs? Could it be the uneasiness that business feels in the easy promises that seem to lack substance? Could it be that the administration has gone to the well too often with bond issues and the ever-constant demand on business to finance campaigns for these bond issues? Could it be the sacrifice of quality to political convenience? Could it be the impression that the violation of commitments so often repeated, could be damaging to the future of the investors in Ohio?

It is time that Ohioans stopped accepting without question the empty promises, and carnival tactics that have become a trademark of the present state administration. We will continue discussing the past, the present and the impact on the future in subsequent columns.

Labor Day A Tribute To Dedicated Worker

Labor Day is everybody's day — for almost everybody does some physical or mental toil, bodily or intellectual exertion. It may be the newspaper delivery boy making his daily round in the neighborhood. It may be a typical mother's day, where the 40-hour work week is unknown. It may be a composer working on a symphony. It may be the work of the military sweating-out the insect-infested swamps of Viet Nam.

When Labor Day was first celebrated in New York in 1882 under the sponsorship of the Central Labor Union, it became the day set aside for commemoration by organized labor.

However, today, Labor Day, in a broad sense, is dedicated to all those in the work force, skilled and unskilled, white collar and blue, educators, artists, and members of all the professions.

Labor, of course, is not limited to brawn alone. Labor of the mind is exemplified by the men of science; labor of the spirit is epitomized by the religious, and labor of the heart is personified in the work of medicine and social service, among others.

Therefore, let us pause during Labor Day in tribute to the opportunity in America for physical, mental and spiritual work, the responsibility each entails and above all else, the pleasure to be derived from work that is well-performed.

Guest Pulpit . . .

The sound of the alarm, the realization that this is Monday, may well send one under the pillow for another few winks wondering about another week of work ahead.

But this is temporary, and certainly reactions that are geared to light reflecting if any at all.

Work is one of the great blessings from God to Mankind. The writer of Ecclesiastes says, "The sleep of a laboring man is sweet." I well remember having worked a full eight-hour day, and then being called back into a full night shift — when the opportunity was offered about 9 the following morning to "sack in", what sweetness, what luxury, following a good bath and meal, to slip into a good bed and sleep.

Rev. Geil

Labor Day has been set aside in memory of this worthy portion of man's existence.

God says "Six days shalt thou labor and so all thy work" — mankind, although he groans and fusses, really could not do without this blessing of work. In a world blighted by sin, man, born in sin, needs the therapeutic values in honest toil.

The Lord Jesus Christ recognized man's basic need, hence He said to him, "All ye that labor and are heavy laden, come unto me and I will give you rest." Man not only labors but he is heavy laden with the load of sin and its guilt. Christ said, "I will give you release," — if we confess our sin, He is faithful and just to cleanse.

Herein is the secret of rest, not just for tired muscles of the body, but for the very sinews of the soul — release, rest, peace, joy — in Him we become new creatures. To know Him as Lord and Savior enhances our concept of work. It becomes our joy to apply ourselves to our tasks for the glory of God.

May labor ever carry its connotation of spiritual value. Truly it is one of God's great gifts to His creature —Man. Woe is the individual who looks with disdain upon the privilege and responsibility of honest labor.

Jones' Immigration View Challenged

To the Editor:

In the column "An Editor's Outlook," of Aug. 19, Jenkin Lloyd Jones has made an extensive attack on the new immigration law pending before the Senate. As one means of furthering his arguments he quotes from the New York Times of March 1924.

In fairness to my fellow readers of the Spectator it would be appropriate were you to reprint the enclosed editorial from the New York Times of Aug. 5, 1965. It expresses in far more eloquent language than I command, my sentiments.

Bud Kramer

(From the New York Times 8-5-65)
FAREWELL TO QUOTAS

The national origins quota system, which became the basis of this country's immigration law in 1924, was a natural product of a reactionary era. The United States was then deep in the mood of Harding isolationism, periodic "Red scares" and the revival of the Ku Klux Klan. The quotas, which were devised to keep out immigrants from Eastern and Southern Europe and thus to stabilize the racial make-up of the nation, were proper symbols of an age trying desperately to block change and cling to old ways.

The quota system was also the illegitimate child of the new social sciences. Early work in anthropology and sociology produced a naive faith that people could be classified into types or races with distinct, unalterable, inherited traits. The crude interpretation of the new IQ tests in World War I seemed to demonstrate that intelligence had a racial component since soldiers from Southern and Eastern Europe had lower scores than those from Northern and Western Europe. Thus one respected sociologist of 50 years ago matter-of-factly referred to immigrants from Eastern Europe as "the beaten member of beaten breeds."

This melancholy chapter in American history is worth recalling because the national origins quota law is still on the status books. The House Judiciary Committee by a large, bipartisan majority has written a new immigration law which would wipe these quotas out of existence. When this bill comes to a vote in the House it is safe to predict that the echoes of the old pseudo-science will once again reverberate in the arguments of the opposition. The intellectual poison of racism is slow to work its way out of any people's system. But this initial approval of immigration reform is indicative of a healthier, more mature national spirit. As with the passage of the right-to-vote bill for Southern Negroes, the United States is striving to live up to its ideals.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

If "politics is rotten," as the professional pessimists are saying, there is no mystery about it. Nincompoops, foul balls, double-talkers, and deliberately dishonest men manage to get nominated and elected time after time because the "peepul" just can't be bothered to pay much attention.

The only single force that keeps this country from blowing up is the salubrious fact that here and there, now and then, an able and totally honest man or woman does manage to get into office.

Both parties for the last 24 years have managed to rig their own national conventions against any man who "couldn't be handled."

In 1952, the Republicans managed to sell the late and great Bob Taft down the river. I was at every session of that convention and actually heard some private operative for Taft blurt out to the senator on Wednesday noon in the hotel lobby, "Nixon has made a deal with Dewey." That got us Warren!

In 1964, the Eastern Establishment "ganged up" on Goldwater and saw to it that he didn't have a ghost of a chance to be elected.

As of this moment, the Republican Party doesn't even have a candidate for President.

But, every so often, a ray of hope shines through the fog of "practical politics." Texas sent Tower to the Senate in spite of all that the "lunatic fringe" could do. George Murphy went to the Senate from California, despite all that the corrupt state Republican monopoly could do.

In the 1964 campaign, Ronald Reagan was overnight the most refreshing thing that politics had produced in 20 years. May his tribe increase. God knows both parties are desperately bankrupt in greatness.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

BACKGROUND OF LABOR DAY

We Americans and our Canadian friends have set aside the first Monday in September as a day to recognize the worth and dignity of labor.

People in other industrial nations of the world pay homage to labor, but in different times and in different ways.

In the United States, the movement culminating in the establishment of Labor Day began with the Knights of Labor, the first significant trade union. They first paraded in New York in 1882.

In 1884 the Knights adopted a resolution that the first Monday in September should be considered Labor Day, and steps were taken to have it recognized as a legal holiday. Workmen of all organizations aided in the movement. On Feb. 21, 1887, Oregon passed the first law recognizing the day. New York, New Jersey, and Colorado soon followed.

On Jan. 28, 1894, a bill passed the Congress making the day a legal national holiday. Now Labor Day is observed in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and all U.S. possessions.

In Canada, Labor Day is a statutory holiday dating also from 1894. The observance is similar to ours.

In Europe and in Central and South America, May 1 is the date generally selected by trade unions, Socialist parties, and labor organizations in general for public celebrations.

The connection which Socialists have tried to establish between "Labor Day" and the traditional May Day festivals seems rather imaginary. In 1883 the Welsh Socialist Robert Owen spoke of May 1 as the beginning of the millennium. Except for this rather vague reference, the observance of a day for labor cannot be dated earlier than 1889. In that year the first (Paris) congress of the Second Socialist International selected May 1 as the day of celebrations. Attempts to enforce general observances caused bloody clashes with police.

In Britain, Labor Day has been celebrated since 1892 on the first Sunday after May Day. Traditional meeting place is Hyde Park, London.

We and the Canadians differ from the rest of the world not only in time, but also in the manner of celebrating Labor Day. While the observance is limited elsewhere most strictly to the so-called working class, we close most businesses and relax with all sorts of holiday activities. Practically, also, Labor Day is the time dividing summer from fall, school, and other autumn activities.

The Japanese celebrate Nov. 23, the New Zealanders Oct. 29 and the Spaniards July 18. But nowhere else is Labor Day the same as it is with us.

Wants City Tax Answers

To the Editor:

Well, it is about time someone stood up against the unfair practice of the City of Columbus, reference the City Income Tax which has been assessed perhaps illegally for nearly 13 years.

After reading the mayor of Reynoldsburg's comments in your last two editions, I must say I am completely shocked to say the least. Columbus City Attorney John Young stated the question was "purely academic," which could be construed to mean we, the public, are so stupid we cannot read. I have personally spoken to two attorneys, and I must say they agreed wholeheartedly with the mayor of Reynoldsburg, and stated that "John Young is merely trying to protect the City of Columbus." What about the citizens of Columbus? Don't we count, we only pay Mr. Young's salary.

Why nothing in the Columbus newspapers, the two dailies? Could it be they are red-faced that such a thing could happen and go by unnoticed? Or, is it something much more sinister?

A Disgruntled Taxpayer

'Church' Is 'Good Crutch'

To the Editor:

I never found the Lord in a church—He found me on the wayside.

I dreamed of a person in a gold robe and was told to remember the Lord. The next Sunday I went to an EUB church and the minister had a sermon on who Christ really is . . . God came down as man in Jesus Christ to be an example to man.

Christ is sacred to me and every church is His soul-saving station. We are at war and need everyone, who believes, to put on a Christian uniform.

God is a wonderful crutch. Come to church and bring a friend.

Mary Mehr

Letters Should Be Signed

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your determination to give Columbus a bona fide newspaper which will be an oasis in our desert of biased journalism.

However, we cannot agree with Mr. Reider's statement of policy of withholding the identity of letter writers who request it because of possible reprisals and harassment.

Letter writers should have the courage of their convictions and have no hesitancy in having their real name and addresses made public regardless of consequences. In our multiple society with its diversity of opinions we must expect abusive criticism from those who would deny our constitutional right of freedom of speech and opinion.

It is through honest public debate that we resolve our differences peaceably with ballots instead of bullets. Otherwise, cowards and charlatans are permitted to hide behind anonymity.

Mingo Hasn't Taken Any Scalps, But He's Collected A Few Hearts

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

So maybe you don't like frontier stories, guys in buckskin and feathers with long rifles and tomahawks.

Even if you don't, you owe it to a family here in Columbus, and two down-to-earth celebrities, to turn your dial tonight at 7:30 to the Daniel Boone show in color on Channel 4.

Several months ago when Fess Parker, who stars on this show, was in Columbus he chopped an hour out of the middle of a tight schedule to visit Mr. and Mrs. Carlton McMann and their children who live at 2651 Summit-st.

Fess had never met these very ordinary working people but the Leukemia Society here had. They called Fess and told him one of his fans, Steve McMann, couldn't get downtown but would like very much to see him.

Steve was almost seven years old, they told Fess, and was dying in a few months from leukemia.

Needless to say, a lot of important people stood around waiting for an hour or so that day while Fess dressed himself up in his Daniel Boone costume and delighted Steve and his family with some tales that haven't been filmed.

Steve died a few months later. I have no doubt that if he has a choice in heaven he'll choose to roam the frontier up there with Daniel.

Still don't like frontier stories? Well, there is a sequel to this tale.

Now, Fess Parker had not mentioned his visit with Steve. To him it was a personal episode. He didn't even tell Ed Ames, his co-star who plays the half-breed, Mingo, in the show.

But the other McMann children, Steve's brothers Gene, 10, Chris, 8 and his sister, Brenda 13, learned somehow that Mingo would visit Columbus. They were avid fans. They wanted to see him in person. But, of course, they knew he was very busy.

Mingo is a busy star. Everywhere. In California, playing the role of Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls;" on location, filming the new Boone episodes; in New York cutting his new albums for RCA; in other cities, making night club engagements.

In Columbus, he was busy, too. Visiting the kids, in costume, at children's Hospital, at St. Vincent's Orphanage, at Jet Stadium, at Veterans Memorial and public appearances on the air.

But in the middle of this hectic activity, someone mentioned the McMann children. They told Ed for the first time about Fess Parker's visit with Steve just before he died. They told him that Chris, Steve's brother, was afflicted with cerebral palsy, and Gene was receiving special schooling.

They knew he was too busy to visit a couple of kids who have a hard time getting around, so they would be loyal fans and be content to watch him on Channel 4.

Well, Mingo had other ideas. That afternoon a car with Hollywood streamers stopped in front of the McMann home. A crowd gathered quickly, staring at the tall Indian who stepped out of the car. The kids recognized him instantly.

"There's Mingo!"

Inside the McMann home, Chris and Gene and Brenda were spellbound. Their grandmother was there, with a camera — and tears in her eyes. Their dad, Carlton, was there — a smile on his face.

In a moment Brenda was taking snapshots, along with grandma. Gene was fascinated with the bullwhip Ed uses so effectively in the Daniel Boone show. Chris was busy with questions, inspecting Mingo's costume.

A reporter and a WLW-C representative glanced from the happy kids at each other. They turned away quickly. They both had a tear in their eyes, too.

Somehow, when you look back on it, there's something about these guys who play the leading roles in frontier stories that makes you a Daniel Boone fan for the rest of your life.

"WHERE'S YOUR FEATHER, and long hair?" was Chris' immediate concern when Mingo dropped in on the McMann kids during his visit here last week. Later, out front, he gave an impromptu performance with the bullwhip which fascinated Gene. Brenda, who also watches the Daniel Boone show, has a camera full of pictures she took and can't wait till school starts to show the kids who missed seeing the television star in person.

School Safety Patrol Corps Kicks Off New Program

Members of the Junior High Safety Corps in 22 Columbus junior high schools were honored guests of the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. at the second annual breakfast Tuesday.

In addition to recognition for past achievement, the breakfast was also the kick-off for the Corps safety activities in the new school year.

Speakers for the after-breakaf stprogram were Paul R. Gingher, president of the American Automobile Association, and C. L. Dumaree, assistant superintendent of Columbus schools. The AAA club, the schools and the police department are co-sponsors of the safety project.

The top five schools winning awards this year are McGuffey Junior High, recipient of the AAA traveling trophy, and Buckeye, Crestview, Hilltonia and Westmoor Junior High schools, all tying for second place, which received trophies presented by the Columbus Auto Club and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

NBC-TV To Present Foreign Policy Show

NBC-TV and TV-4 will present an unprecedented three and one-half hour news special titled "American White Paper: United States Foreign Policy," on Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 7:30 to 11 p.m. EDT.

The documentary will show achievements of other countries as well as America's in helping underdeveloped nations.

On Sunday, Sept. 5, at 2 p.m., a special round-table discussion on the subject of foreign policy will be telecast by TV-4.

The panel will include Chet Huntley, moderator, narrator of American White Paper; Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Francis Wilcox, dean of the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University; Samuel P. YEAH – WE DON'T LIKE HIM EITHER!

THE SPECTATOR is normally a pretty nice place to work — that is, until "He" comes back each fall. The "Fearless One", bold, dastardly predictor of high school football games, returned to the fold this week, complete with charts, crystal ball, ouiji boards, etc. The Spectator staff created the "Fearless Voodoo Doll" (above) which most area high schools would probably like to have in their possession each week following his predictions on the outcomes of Friday games.

'Fearless One', (Ugh) Returns!

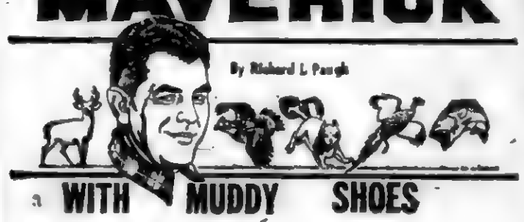
(Eds. note — The following is the first scratching of the "Fearless Predictor," the "black sheep" of the Spectator family.)

Hello again fans!

It's wonderful to be back in Columbus, Ohio again to provide my fantastic forecasting abilities for The Spectator papers.

THE OBVIOUS attempt above at poorly-disguised jealousy is the same type of greeting I get everywhere these days from those who refuse to recognize the pure genius of my abilities.

My co-workers infringe upon my humility, failing to announce my fail-proof new system of predicting games (Forecasting A Go-Go) which I will introduce next week for the first time anywhere.



They also hesitate to remind you of my record-breaking right-wrong clip last year of .773 (football and basketball).

AS ALWAYS, letters sent my way by any frate fans out there will receive the same disdain which I have exhibited in the past.

In the realization that my rare talents will guide me through another successful predicting season, I remain—

Humbly yours,
"Fearless"

WITH MUDDY SHOES

". . . AND FISH ALL NIGHT"

Most folks in Central Ohio recognize immediately the name of Emerson Burkhart, them uch talked about paintname of Emerson Burkhart, the much talked about painter. Wherever his oils are shown, crowds pack the halls and stay late.

He is a renegade amongst the artists, a conversationalist impossible to corner and a very determined fisherman.

HE HAS FISHED and painted in the far corners of the world, eating the fish and selling the paintings for fabulous sums. I asked him which he would rather do, fish or paint, and his answer was elusive and typical — "I like to paint all day and fish all night."

Emerson Burkhart is an individualist who defies convention at every turn. He long ago fell out with the book-bound artists who make up the academically astute at every show.

His fishing habits are as unorthodox as his approach to a blank canvas. He shuns the exotic trips such as the far north and tropical streams. He is at his best when working the waters right around Columbus.

AS HE EMPHASIZED to me last month, he'd rather fish all night at Hoover Dam than mingle with the stuffshirts on a trip to the Great North. He finds companionship the easiest with what he calls "the common man."

His ancient brick mansion on Woodland Avenue is forever stuffed with undergraduate college students. Although his friends number in the thousands and include people from every strata of life, he prefers to pick and choose his first-name acquaintances.

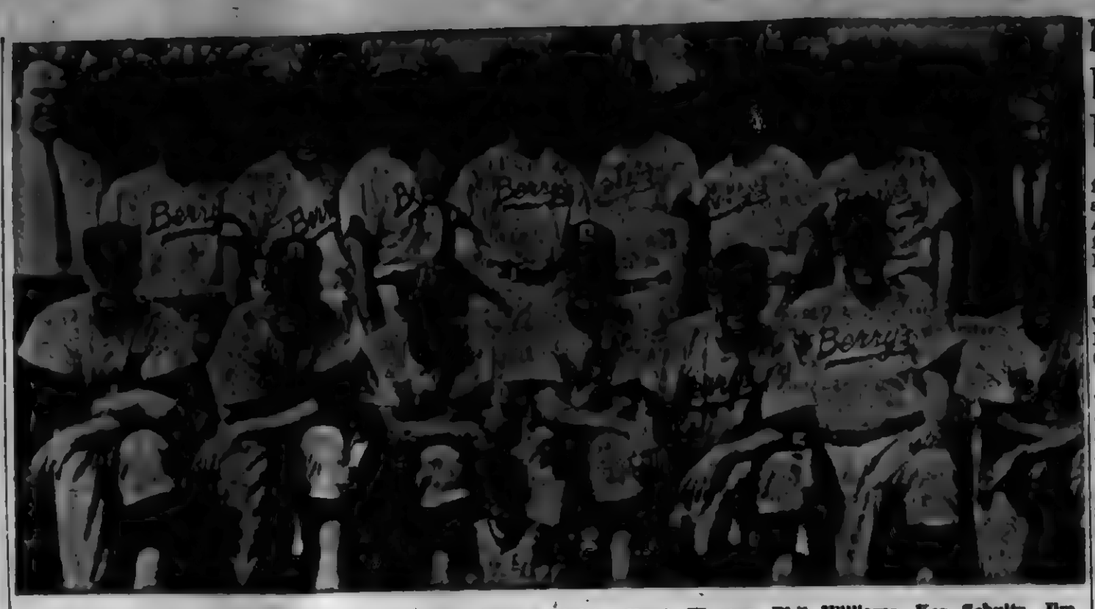
In June of every year, he throws his house open to all comers. At that time, you may find dewy-eyed teenagers side by side with wealthy dowagers, ohing and ahing over his latest paintings.

STRANGELY ENOUGH, Burkhart has only one or two oils of fish on display. His taste runs to people and scenery. If you start him talking about fishing, you may never get your questions about painting answered.

His language is colorful to say the least, saying immediately what comes to his mind in his way of carrying his end of a conversation.

He fishes as he thinks, very unorthodox. He wouldn't think of going fishing for walleyes at Hoover Dam when light still streaks the sky. Midnight is his starting time. He'll fish for two or three hours in the middle of the night whether the fish are biting or not.

SHOULD IT BE a good night, he'll stay until just before dawn, keeping just enough to eat and putting the rest back to be caught again. He has never hunted and says he never will. He claims total beauty is found in life, not death.



This is an about face from the Burkhart of 10 years ago. His wife died in the middle fifties and his painting took on a morbid cast. He dwelled on subjects such as skulls, coffins and anything else with death as a main theme. It was during this era that his trouble with the rest of the art world occurred. If his death-like paintings were refused space at a showing, he stomped out—never to return.

Since then, his fame has spread far and wide and I venture a guess that those critics who held him off then would gladly welcome his return.

ON MY LAST trip to his house, he just couldn't wait to show me his new fishing reel. It is an Ambassador 5000 Deluxe, the finest made in the world today. He had just returned from lower Mexico with a group of canvases I had stopped by to see. But the oils had to wait until I had properly admired the beautiful reel.

Although Emerson is no longer a boy, he has a sparkle to his personality that starts an epidemic wherever he goes. I was present when Columbus' own Jerrie Mock came to his open house.

I knew I was witnessing a big event for here were two hundred spirits, both daring to do what they wanted and being roaring successes while thoroughly enjoying themselves.

THE SHADE-LINK insurance entry in the Central Ohio League recently completed an outstanding season, winning both (Saturday and Sunday) divisions of the C-O loop and bringing home the Ohio National Baseball Congress and National Baseball Congress Bi-State Regional titles to Columbus. Overall, the Shade-Link nine compiled a 32-3 record. Team members included (kneeling, from left): Chuck Wagner, Phil Williams, Ken Schultz, Jim Workman, Jeff Brown, George Steele and Manager Don Albert. Standing: sponsor Gene Shade, Buddy Schiller, Ken Hay, John Piecoro, John Knox, John Dorian, Curt Tong, Jim Vincent and sponsor Dick Link. Missing are John Durant and Chuck Egelhoff. Mascot Doug Albert is pictured in front.

Phone Call 'Saved Day' For Shade-Link Nine

Central Ohio semi-pro baseball fans are happy local insurancemen Gene Shade and Dick Link took a "risk" and agreed to the last-minute sponsorship of the state's number one semi-pro nine this summer.

The Shade-Link club, which recently wrapped up one of the most successful campaigns ever staged by a local semi-pro nine, almost missed out on entering the Central Ohio League earlier this year when it turned up at the league meeting — just before deadline—without a sponsor.

MANAGER Don Albert called Gene Shade, explained the difficulty and, after a quick call to Dick Link, the club had a sponsor.

The result of that phone call was a nine which nailed down both divisions (Saturday and Sunday) of the C-O League and added the playoffs and the Ohio National Baseball Congress title before bringing home the National Baseball Congress Bi-State Regional championship.

Shade-Link completed its season with an outstanding 32-3 won-loss mark.

SPECIAL TEAM awards this season included the Ben Ratner Sportsmanship Plaque, presented by Central Ohio League umpires.

Pitcher Chuck Egelhoff, outfielder Jeff Brown and infielders Ken Schultz and Jim Vincent were named to the C-O All-Star list while Vincent, Schultz, outfielder George Steele and pitcher John Durant made the Ohio N.B.C. All-Star lineup.

Bi-State All-Stars from Srale-Link included Schultz, Brown, pitcher Ken Hay, infielder Jim Workman and outfielders Curt Tong and George Steele. The latter also won the Louisville Slugger batting championship (presented by the Ohio N.B.C.)

THE CLUB piled up a hot .303 team batting average and turned in a fine .943 fielding average. Opposition batters were held to a .158 team BA.

RBI leader was Tong (31) with Steele, Hay and Vincent each knocking in 19 runs.

Here are the Shade-Link individual BAs for the season: Ken Schultz (.410), George Steele (.387), Ken Hay (.377), Jeff Brown (.360), Curt Tong (.355), Buddy Schiller (.302), John Piecoro (.271), Phil Williams (.264), Jim Workman (.259), John Durant (.250), Jim Vincent (.235), John Dorrian (.185), John Knox (.250), Chuck Wagner (.200) and Chuck Egelhoff (.285).

IN THE pitching department, Ken Hay (10-0) and John Durant (8-2) were strikeout kings with 70 and 83 K's respectively.

Other pitchers included: Curt Tong (3-0), Chuck Egelhoff (2-0), George Steele (4-0) and Chuck Wagner (5-1).

Wagner (0.56), Durant (0.96) and Hay (1.28) recorded the club's top ERA's.

Better Education Means Better Job Opportunity

The more education you have the better your chances are of getting and keeping a good job, advises John Marshall, owner and manager of Snelling and Snelling Personnel Consultants. Many employers today demand a high school diploma even for menial jobs.

Marshall states that of the over 1500 people placed in jobs by his firm so far this year, only a few had less than a high school education.

Snelling and Snelling has always urged its clients to get as much education as possible, Marshall said, pointing out that it is not uncommon for Snelling and Snelling counselors to persuade a high school or college drop-out to go back to school. Sometimes they are able to place young men and women with limited education with firms that pay college tuition or otherwise provide for special or formal schooling.

This summer Snelling and Snelling in Columbus ran a community service project called "Free Jobs for Summer Students" that resulted in hundreds of placements, and while the effort cost Snelling considerable time and money, there was no charge to any student.

Projects such as these, Marshall believes, can prevent many school drop-outs, by affording a student a greater opportunity to return to school and complete his education.

On the local front, Snelling supplies speakers for schools, student groups and civic organizations to discuss down-to-earth approaches to job seeking and available opportunities. Marshall says that his employes are particularly proud of these activities and of the fact that anyone can come in and discuss his situation with them at no charge.

He emphasized that the only time a fee is charged is after a person has actually accepted a position suggested by the firm.

Ohio Lions Gives $10,000 To OSU

The funds will be used for several studies including the treatment of eye tumors, according to Dr. Torrence A. Makley, professor and chairman of the Ohio state department of aphthalmology.

The coffee break as usually practiced is not an efficient substitute for breakfast.

Schoedinger To Build At Two New Sites

Schoedinger & Co., Funeral Directors, 229 E. State-st, has purchased two tracts of land for further expansion of the company, it was announced today by Robert S. Schoedinger, president.

The acquisition of 3.5 acres on Granville-rd (Rt. 161) at Karl-rd when developed will provide complete funeral services for Worthington and the radiply expanding north area of the county. Another tract of 2.5 acres on Livingston-av at Big Walnut Creek will be developed to serve Reynoldsburg, the east and southeast areas of the county.

Established in 1855, Schoedinger & Co. is celebrating its 110th anniversary this year. The fourth and fifth generation of the family are now active in the management of the company.

Part-Time Jobs Available Here

Married women who wish to supplement the family income but who cannot afford to work full time are working as temporary secretaries, filing clerks and switchboard operators for short periods of time, more or less at their own convenience.

"There's an almost limitless list of temporary office positions which can be capably filled by women with normal office skills," said Mr. Dewey, Columbus manager of Manpower, Inc.

"Temporary office opportunities for the older woman are as good as for her younger sister," he said. A recent study of women who work for Manpower in temporary office jobs showed that 28 percent are in their 40's and 20.9 percent over 50.

Dewey said that Manpower office workers are given special training in the latest office techniques and procedures before being assigned to one of the company's many customers in the Columbus area.

TO HOST CONVENTION

The Federated Democratic Women of Ohio will hold its bi-annual convention Sept. 10 and 11 at the Sheraton Columbus (Plaza). The Franklin County Club will host the affair with Mrs. Max Newhouse and Mrs. Walter Denney, president and vice-president, as co-chairmen.

Industrial Site Sold

Pennington Bakeries, headquarters in Cincinnati, have acquired the property at 772 Harmon-av, it was announced today.

Plans are being drawn for construction of a 20,000 sq.ft. distribution center for Pennington bakery products, to include a retail store for the sale of baked goods, according to Morgan Pennington, president of the company.

The construction is expected to get under way soon.

The 3.2 acre site, overlooking the Southwest Freeway, was sold for Mrs. Katherine Eisel by Frank Shea of Feibel-Wears-Shea, Realtors at 145 N. High-st. Byron Ford handled legal matters for Mrs. Eisel. The Pennington firm was represented by Martin H. Theil of R. G. Denmead and Co., Realtors at 57 E. Gay-st. Legal counsel was Michael H. Austin.

WINS WORLD FAIR TRIP

New Florida Home Area Features Waterfront Sites

A new estate-type home area, made up largely of choice waterfront locations, has just been put on the market by General Development Corporation at North Port Charlotte, the Sarasota County division of this 92,700-acre residential community on Florida's southwest coast.

The new housing area, according to officials for the $175,000,000 Miami-based development firm, has been created to meet a growing demand by home buyers for waterfront sites.

Hundreds of waterfront homes have already been sold there. Together with North Port Charlotte, this community has 38 miles of natural shoreline, plus 64 miles of man-made waterways. Plans call for an additional 118 miles.

In keeping with FHA recommendations and a continuing trend toward higher housing standards at all of its Florida developments, the company has installed all utility lines underground in the new North Port Charlotte home area.

Waterfront homes, including homesites, are priced from $16,915 to $26,133 and up. All are on waterways with direct access to Charlotte Harbor and the Gulf of Mexico. Non-waterfront homes, with homesite, sell from $11,915 to $16,265.

Homesites are available for immediate construction, with all improvements, including water, sidewalks, hydrants, sewerage and underground wiring, already completed.

Largest and most advanced of seven city-sized communities General Development Corporation is building on both Florida coasts, Port Charlotte already has more than 6,000 homes and close to 14,000 residents.

With the Port Charlotte South housing area virtually built up, the company is placing greater emphasis on home-building operations at North Port Charlotte where a big new shopping center is nearing completion.

The local agent for General Development Corporation is Marvin C. Yerke and Associates, 232 S. High-st, Columbus.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Some September Shopping Tips

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — seedless grapes, peaches, summer apples, cantaloupes.

Vegetables — tomatoes, sweet corn, potatoes, cabbage, peppers.

September . . . a postscript to summer, the beginning of autumn with nippy mornings — and a last chance at the harvest of summer's goodness.

Most abundant of September foods will be grapes, frozen orange concentrate, purple plums, turkeys and peanut butter.

Mrs. Franks

But there will also be more apples, with plenty of McIntosh, Rambo, Maiden Blush and Duchess available now, and the fall varieties will start late in the month. For greater fruit variety, the late peaches are sizing well and local Honeyrock and western cantaloupes are good; so are the honey dews. The watermelon season is winding up earlier than usual this year, but you'll find some at attractive prices for Labor Day events. Bartlett pears will be available but this will be a low year for pear production.

And be sure to take advantage of the continued featured prices on frozen orange juice. This year's Florida orange crop was heavy; the pack of frozen concentrate orange juice the second largest on record.

September's late vegetable show will offer Ohio-grown goodness until frost. Tomatoes are outstanding now — the time to finish up canning and juice making. Sweet corn, snap beans, lima beans, beets, peppers and cabbage are among the vegetables you'll want to use while you can get them with fresh-from-the-garden flavor.

This year's peanut crop will be 2,205 million pounds, the largest since 1948. That means plenty for back - to - school sandwiches, and the price even more favorable than during the past months.

For a fall barbecue, select a broiler-fryer or a turkey. Broilers will increase about 10 percent compared to last September. Summer turkey time is on its way, with an especially large late summer crop ready for market.

Beef prices are expected to show a slight reduction from current levels during September and October, but market men say that prices will stay above those of a year ago. Pork also is expected to make a seasonal price drop this fall, but don't expect the quick spring-back that is usually seen in the autmun. Farrowings are down from a year ago and producers are being cautious of again over-expanding production.

WLW-C To Expand Color Telecasting

Although WLW-C has been carrying NBC programs in color since 1954, and has been experimenting with color-casting studios and remote color shows since 1960, this fall TV-4 adds another Columbus first—local live color. With the latest in electronic equipment, plus new physical facilities, TV-4 plans a whole new concept in local colorcasts.

Local programs, plus those presented by NBC and Crosley Broadcasting, bring the total number of program hours devoted to color to a total of 95 hours per week, or almost 67 percent of the weekly broadcasting period and 96 percent of all evening telecast time.

Gladstone Opening Delayed

Columbus school officials, in the final countdown before next Wednesday's school blast-off, this week announced that all systems are "go" with one exception — the new Gladstone Elementary will not be completed in time for opening day.

Children in the Gladstone district will be temporarily housed at Brentnell and Trevvit Elementaries.

Letters from the school principal will be mailed this week to each parent, informing them that children will be picked up at the Gladstone site, and transported to temporary classrooms by bus.

Youngsters will be formed into classes and provided with full day schooling. When Gladstone opens, classes, with their teachers, will be kept intact.

Officials have tallied up an impressive 106,228 students expected on opening day, Sept. 8.

Enrollment will increase by about 4100 over last year.

Columbus schools will conduct half-day classes on opening day, with full-day sessions starting Thursday, Sept. 9.

Two other new elementaries, in addition to Gladstone, will join the Columbus School system this fall, and addition and remodeling work at 17 existing schools will add another 105 classrooms to the school system.

Those in the city's northern area are:

Brookhaven, four classrooms, Linmoor Junior High, four classrooms and shop facilities; Arlington Park, seven classrooms; Brentnell, four classrooms; Devonshire, six classrooms and Valley Forge, 12 classrooms.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

I have a secret suspicion that viewers are being denied some of television's greatest dramatic moments by not being provided with epilogues to the commercials.

For example: we are familiar with the man who hasn't taken his wife out to dance for years because she has gray hair. We have seen how she "washed away the gray" with a magic liquid available to everyone in The Great Society at the corner drug store.

We have seen her husband glow with pride and we have been told that "he feels younger himself" simply by gazing at her long black hair. When the curtain falls the happy pair is headed for the the nearest dance hall.

But what happens then? Did Euripides stop "Medea" at the first act curtain? Do we bid goodbye to Cinderella before she tries on the glass slipper?

No, friends, a thousand times NO!

Henceforth, this column pledges itself to bring you the full story — starting with the gray haired lady and her raven-colored wash basin.

When they get to their first dance in five years, it is apparent that the husband does, indeed, "feel younger himself" — so much so that he falls in love with the hat check girl who is a blonde. They are married five years before he discovers that his new wife is also really gray haired and it is costing him $478.24 a year to wash it away.

Meanwhile his first wife, who has custody of the three children (all prematurely gray), has married her hairdresser, a handsome younger man with naturally wavy blond hair who has always wanted children of his own even if they're someone else's.

And what of the harried mother who can't get the members of her family to brush their teeth after every meal? (As a matter of fact she can't get them to brush their teeth after any meal.) They're always late for school or off to the Little League.

Do they solve it all by getting up earlier? No, but the little rat in the baseball cap becomes world famous by his discovery that it is not necessary to brush his teeth to remain cavity-free.

We have all seen the commercial which is addressed to those two young people who need the "active" deodorant for overly active people. We have seen the handsome lad sitting in the grass and the pretty girl dawdling in the orchard. We have seen them suddenly become wildly athletic at close quarters, confident that they will never offend because their underarms are filtered.

But I have sad news. They never get married. They've used all their spending money to protect their overly active arms and they've neglected other problems. She has an active head of dandruff and he's wearing (phew!) those smelly sneakers.

Think of the countless unfinished dramas!

Did you know that the friendly neighbor who comes over in the afternoon to advise the housewife how to clean her sink stays to dinner and steals her husband?

Did you know that the dear old mother-in-law who shows that housewife how to wax her floors slips on the way out and breaks her neck?

Did you know that The White Knight is going steady with The Jolly Green Giant?

See what we're missing?

STATE FAIR PACKS 'EM IN . . .

By CHUCK HARTLE

The consensus is that it's a pretty fair Fair. Attendance at the sprawling Ohio Exposition on the city's North Side is running ahead of last year every day. And the people seem to be enjoying themselves.

Total attendance for the entire run is estimated to hit between 800,000 and a million. That's more than will go to the home games of some major league baseball teams in a season . . . more than will attend all OSU home sporting events in an entire year . . . and it's nearly 10 percent of the population of Ohio.

That's a lot of people to get on and off the freeway, park cars, spend money, temporarily lose children, and develop sore feet. Even the Jazz Festival, this year's only grandstand attraction with an admission charge, was successful. It played to an audience totaling 10,000.

The Jets have done it. Thanks to a Monday night loss by second-place Toronto, the home-town team is the International League pennant winner.

A short-circuit in labor-management relations resulted in "indefinite furloughs" for the 3,000 employes of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant here last Friday. The company, which complained of production-line sabotage, was satisfied the problem would not recur and everyone's back at work today.

"B-6, B-9, B-4, B-7, B-GONE!" That's how the last card was interpreted by Vice Squad Chief Herman Beck at a church bingo game Saturday.

Beck closed the game operated in a former auto showroom at 1155 W. Fifth-av by the Holy Apostles American Orthodox Church. Reason given was that a percentage of the profit was going to the supplier of the game equipment.

The church had previously been permitted to operate the game when it was assumed all profits were going to the church itself.

Upper Arlington may continue to build its Turkey Run sewer extension and tap into the Columbus lines in spite of official objections.

The Common Pleas Court refused to give Columbus an injunction to halt construction.

One of the facilities to be served by this line in the future is a new Catholic high school. Long-range plans for a school on W. Henderson-rd, west of Reed-rd, were discussed during the hearing on the sewer construction injunction.

Don't try to get on the freeway from W. Broad-st. The on-ramps have been closed for 30 days to see if accident rates can be reduced.

Richard H. Jemison, who is under indictment for the Broad-and-High murder of a pharmacist and the murder of his wife, has been judged "legally sane" by Lima State Hospital officials. This means he'll stand trial.

Twenty retarded children will attend the Childhood League's pre-school program. Three teachers and two volunteers will operate the school which is located at 850 S. 18th-st. Annual cost to the league is $30,000.

Even dogs are going to the dogs. Two of them were used by theives to frighten a 10-year-old boy into giving up his wristwatch. It's actually hard to blame the dogs, but how do you account for the three teenage boys who carried out the crime?

While we're on the subject, how do you account for the fact that nearly all types of crime are increasing faster in Columbus than throughout the nation?

This is a busy, prosperous city, yet the first half of 1965 has seen 14 murders, 30 forcible rapes, 243 robberies, 2182 burglaries, 1260 grand larcenies, 947 car thefts, and 270 aggravated assaults.

Even though more people are up to no good, the county is setting records for honest employment at the same time. Ours is the only one of the eight largest counties in the state to hit a new high in jobs in 1964.

Local Arrowmen Attend National OA Convention

Thirty-five Boy Scouts and Explorers from the Central Ohio Council, BSA, left early last Friday morning, Aug. 27, for the National Order of the Arrow Conference at the University of Indiana at Bloomington, Ind. The conference lasted until the end of August.

The Order of the Arrow, a national brotherhood of Boy Scout honor campers, held the conference in celebration of its 50th anniversary. Over 4500 Boy Scouts from all 50 states attended to discuss new goals and objectives for the 521 Arrow lodges across the nation.

Urban Renewal Bus Tour Slated Sept. 14

Urban Renewal areas will be viewed by 1,000 club women from throughout Franklin County during a bus tour of the sites Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner will address the women at 9:30 a.m. at Whetstone Recreation Center, and the guided tour in air-conditioned Columbus Transit coaches will leave at 9:40.

The tour will be followed by a chicken dinner at noon at the park, and a speakers' program featuring Urban Renewal Director Patrick Phelan of 1074 Valley-dr.

Also speaking will be Mrs. H. Richard Hahn of Upper Arlington, president of United Church Women, and Mrs. H. C. Booth, president of Hilltop Community Council.

Reservations may be made by calling 469-6102. Cost of the tour, dinner and program is $1.50.

The tour will cover a wide section of the east and north sides, Ohio State University, Thurber Village, Goodale, Market-Mohawk, Children's Hospital, East Side Housing Code Enforcement area, Bolivar Arms, American Addition and Linden.

Urban Renewal Department will launch this fall a concentrated effort to pass its $6 million capital improvement bond issue.

Funds would be used to complete the six existing federally-assisted renewal projects, and initiate studies to determine where neighborhood rehabilitation programs and housing code enforcement areas should begin.

Earlier, when slum areas were more prevalent and threatened to spread, urban renewal was primarily clearance and redevelopment. Officials point out that the effort now is for rehabilitation.

Women's groups pending representatives on the year's fourth urban renewal bus tour, Sept. 14 include League of Women Voters, PTA's, Federated Club Women, United Church Women, Council of Catholic Women, wives of Columbus firefighters and police officers, Child Conservation League, University Women and Golden Age clubs.

A heavy sprinkling of club women from Whitehall, Bexley, Eastmoor and Berwick are registered for the tour.

Following the close of the official program at 1 p.m., the City Division of Parks and Forestry has scheduled a free admission, guided tour through the Park of Roses at Whetstone.

Sunday, Sept. 26, will be a red-letter day for thousands of Central Ohio youngsters who attend Kiwanis Kids Day at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

And, it will be an even bigger day for the lucky seven who are chosen "base commanders." They will be given special privileges — seats of honor with the big brass, special tours, introductions and some fine souvenirs.

It's easy to enter the "Base Commander Contest." Every boy and girl is invited to fill out the coupon accompanying this story and mail it to the address shown. Deadline for entries is Sept. 20. Those chosen commanders will be notified by telephone.

Compton Girls Host Jamaican Schoolmate

Seeing one's country through the eyes of a visitor from another land adds a new dimension; makes America's wonders, its big cities and its hometowns more exciting.

And Mr. and Mrs. William Compton and their three daughters of 604 S. Yearling-rd, found Niagara Falls, New York City, the World's Fair, and even their own Whitehall more meaningful for having shared them with their guest from Jamaica this summer.

Joyce Hew, a senior at Evangel College in Springfield, Ill., where Karen and Beverly Compton are studying as sophomores, spent her summer vacation with the Comptons and accompanied the family on the trip.

Adding to the trip's gaiety was a first-time meeting between Joyce and her pen pal for 12 years—Delmar Simpson, now serving in the U.S. Navy aboard a submarine.

Simpson and his wife met the Comptons in New York. "We worried, Mrs. Compton laughed, "about finding them in the crowd in front of the Empire State Building, but we spotted them right away."

The Comptons left last Thursday to take the girls back to college. Joyce, a French major, will return to her native Montego Bay in Jamaica after graduation next June.

There will probably be a visit in Hong Kong where her parents have moved since their retirement last year. "But I think I'll go back to Jamaica," Joyce said. "It's my country."

Karen is a science major at Evangel, and Beverly is majoring in elementary education. Evangel is a liberal arts college of the Assemblies of God denomination.

★ WHITEHALL EYES MOUND EXTENSION ★

Council Defeats Liquor Bill

A measure to restrict the issuance of any more liquor permits in Whitehall went down to resounding five-to-two defeat at council session Tuesday.

Only Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, sponsor, and Loren Mason voted in favor of the resolution.

Residents' insistent opposition to the planned extension of E. Mound-st was again heard by councilmen during a recess.

And finance chairman Marvin Levine reported that his committee recommended a salary ordinance that would shorten firefighters' working week from 72 to 56 hours, and would grant a $60 a month raise to all police and firemen.

Councilman Raymond Shipley, in voting "no" on banning more liquor permits, commented that council should continue to consider each case separately.

He further remarked that "we have an international airport in our back yard. This (resolution) might discourage fine restaurants and motels from coming to Whitehall."

The proposed extension of E. Mound-st from Shady Lane-rd west would be constructed by Seymour Luckoff and would amount to a private drive, providing a second access to the developer's Whitehall Park Apartments, 4669 E. Main-st.

Traffic on E. Main-st, already congested with Whitehall Discount Center shoppers, is the reason for the road.

Protesting residents, however, doubt that the extension is necessary. And, they feel, it would serve no purpose since traffic would move on Shady Lane straight to Main-st where there is no traffic light.

Scheduling Argued

Chairman Loren Mason's announcement that the service committee would not meet to study the problem again until after the next council meeting, and his indecision on whether or not it would appear on the agenda then, prompted a sharp exchange between him and council president Walter Siemer.

"These people (Ludington residents) have a right to know when it will be heard so they can be here to protect their rights," Siemer said, and firmly placed the matter on the agenda for the next regular session.

Mason set an earlier service committee meeting for Thursday, Sept. 16, 7:30 p.m.

Cost of the proposed salary ordinance, according to Levine, will be about $94,000 annually. "But," he said, "it is a necessary investment in the future of our city.

"This ordinance will rectify a sadly inadequate salary schedule (police and firemen) and will put us in a competitive position with Columbus and other cities."

Whitehall Dems Plan Campaign

Paul Haytcher, city solicitor in Whitehall and Democratic candidate for mayor, is offering to publicly debate the Demos' campaign issues with Walter Moling, GOP mayor candidate.

Moling, former mayor of Whitehall, is seeking a return to the office in the November election.

The Democrats, according to Haytcher, will campaign on affecting:

Limitation of apartment and commercial zoning, expanded recreation program, minimum housing code, establishment of a citizens' committee, street and sidewalk maintenance, bus line extension, appointment of a woman juvenile officer, and a city charter.

The Democrats will launch their campaign with a kick-off dinner meeting at Del-Matto's Restaurant, 4882 E. Main-st, Wednesday, Sept. 15, 7:30 p.m.

Pre-School Opens Monday

On Monday, Sept. 13, Christ Lutheran Church, 2314 E. Main-st, Bexley, opens its pre-school for four-year-olds for the third consecutive year.

From 9:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. each Monday through Thursday, children will play, sing, listen to stories, do simple handcraft, and take part in other similar scivities.

Enrollment is still open for a limited number of children and any four-year-old of the community is welcome.

Parents who are interested and would like more information about the school may call the church office, 235-2314.

Olde Orchard Pupils To Study At Christ Church

Columbus School Board Tuesday approved renting six classrooms at Christ Methodist Church, 1480 Zettler-rd, to temporarily house children from Olde Orchard District until that school is completed.

The school, under construction at 800 McNaughten-rd, is expected to be completed by mid-November, providing the weather or other factors don't delay progress.

Cost of the rental will be $630 a month.

Siyum Hasafer Time Changed

The Siyum Hasafer scheduled to take place at the Ahavas Sholon Synagogue, 2586 E. Broad-st on Sunday, Sept. 19, will be held at 1 p.m. instead of the time announced previously.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Block of Circleville will be present to donate a new Torah to the Heritage House Synagogue in honor of their son, David.

FUN, FOOD, SAFETY TOPICS OF SCHOOL PATROL DAY

WHITEHALL'S SCHOOL PATROL took to the woods last Friday for a day-long session, conducted by the city Police Department, of safety instruction, food and fun. The city's first workshop for school patrol members was held at Blacklick Woods. Youngsters were transported by the city school buses and, after the morning workshop, were served lunch, visited the park's zoo, played games and watched movies. Sgt. P. A. Jackson, safety officer, instructs patrol members in procedures for assisting their schoolmates across the streets with safety. (More pictures inside)

Five File For Three Bexley Council Seats

More than a quarter century of service to his city will come to a close for Charles Kurtz, Jr., Bexley Council president, at the end of his current term.

In announcing that he would not run for re-election, Kurtz cited the press of business as not allowing enough time to devote to council affairs. He is president of Keever Starch Co.

Five candidates, including two incumbents, have filed for three seats on Bexley's council, and the incumbent auditor is also being challenged in the November elections.

Bexley voters will also decide on two proposed amendments to the city charter that would affect the rules of succession to the mayor's office should it become vacant, and the duties of the mayor.

Incumbent council members are Mrs. Ruth Mann, wife of Dr. Sheldon J. Mann, and William O. Schoedinger, president F. O. Schoedinger Sheet Metal Co.

Also filing petitions for the three council seats are, Herbert Lape, II, unsuccessful candidate for mayor in the last election; Kenneth McClure, who lost his bid for council in the last election by a scant 100 votes, and Sanford B. Sanford, a relative newcomer to Bexley.

Ralph Linscott, auditor since 1953 and Bexley councilman before then, will be challenged by Edward Zender.

The two charter amendments, introduced by Kurtz, would relax the rigid rules governing duties of the mayor and succession to the office.

The amendments propose that, should the office become vacant during a term and council president would be unable to fill the post, council may appoint another member of its group or any qualified elector of the city to act as interim mayor.

The second amendment would authorize council, should it be necessary, to separate the duties of service and safety director from the office of the mayor.

Kurtz, oldest member of Bexley council in terms of service, is described by Mayor William Schneider as acting "always in the best interests of the city. He doesn't let personalities enter into it (decisions on council.)"

Appointed in March, 1940, he has been re-elected to council six times. He has served as president of the group for most of his 26 years as a Bexley legislator.

TO BECOME CLASSROOM

Capital Purchases Mayer Showroom Site

The Chevrolet showroom on the north side of E. Main-st, at the end of College-av, will become a classroom for Capital University students with the opening of school on Sept. 14.

The university has purchased the property, now occupied by Lex Mayer Chevrolet, from Fred C. Beasley of Athens at a cost of $212,000.

The site is just east of property owned by the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary, and west of White Castle Restaurant.

There are no immediate plans to remodel the building. The 40 by 60-foot air-conditioned showroom will become a classroom for the nursing department and women's health and physical education, and is large enough for 50 to 60 students.

The building's eight offices will be used by the faculty. There are also 4000 square feet on the second floor, and a 100 by 35-foot wing in the back that will be used for maintenance, storage and repair.

Off-street parking is also available on the west side of the building for about 100 cars of students and visitors.

The expansion of the 32-acre campus will help solve the problem of a record 1650 enrollment that will severely tax present university facilities.

Mayer is moving his location to 5065 E. Main-st, and vacated his present building Sept. 6.

Adult Study Classes Slated In Whitehall

Registration for adult education classes will be held at Whitehall-Yearling High, 675 Yearling-rd, Monday through Thursday, Sept. 13, through 16, 7 to 9 p.m.

Classes are scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 20, and registration will be closed when classes are filled.

Adults in over increasing numbers are returning to school to take evening courses for reasons as varied as are the subjects offered.

High school diploma courses were taken by 200 of the more than 1200 enrolled in the Whitehall program last year. A class of 17 received diplomas.

The popular speed reading course is among new subjects added to the curriculum this year. Other courses range from academic instruction to special interest topics.

Included are, basic electricity, electronics, dancing, bridge, floral designs, ceramics, painting and drawing, woodworking, upholstery, drafing, Spanish, French, knitting, interior decorating, sewing, cake decorating, driver education and public speaking.

Special courses could be offered to groups on request.

School District Plan Upheld

An East Side mother appeared at the Columbus School Board meeting Tuesday to express opposition to any plan to assign children to schools outside their own neighborhood, in order to effect racial balance in schools.

Mrs. A. H. Rausch, 1300 Eastminster-rd, explained that she was appearing on her own behalf, and not as a representative from any organization.

"I wish to express my opposition to any plan, by whatever name, to enroll a child in a school other than the one to which he would normally be assigned based on neighborhood residence," she read in a prepared statement.

"I have no argument with the Civil Rights movement," she continued.

She expressed concern at additional expenditure of tax money, and the consequences of uprooting children from their neighborhood social environment.

"My children go to James Road and Johnson Park Schools because we live in that area," she said.

Mrs. Rausch questioned whether racially balancing schools would benefit all children, make for better public education or contribute to better race relations.

She urged the School Board "to be seekers of facts . . . not to base your decision . . . on argument about Civil Rights.

"I am confident," she concluded, "that the members of the Board of Education will . . . continue to exercise their proper function as administrators of public education."

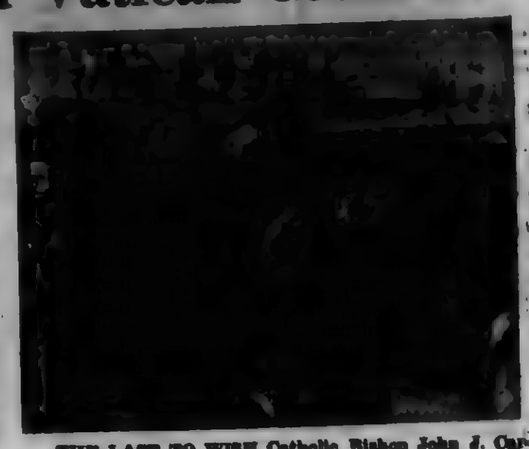
Bishop Carberry Enroute To Second Vatican Council

Catholic Bishop John J. Carberry of the Columbus Diocese left Sept. 2 for New York enroute to participate in the historic final session of the Second Vatican Council.



Opening date of the council is Tuesday, Sept. 14, and prior to that date, the bishop's itinerary is chock full of activity.

Up to Sept. 8, Bishop Carberry attended to business in New York. Today, the bishop flew to Paris. On Sept. 10, Bishop Carberry will celebrate Mass for the priests, religious and laity of the Diocese of Columbus at the Shrine of the Miraculous Medal in Paris.

On Sept. 11, Bishop Carberry will fly to Rome for the council.

When the bishops of the world convene in St. Peter's Basilica, they will find 11 agenda items in differing stages of the complicated conciliar process of discussion, preliminary vote, emendation and final definitive vote before formal promulgation.

When questioned about the closing date of the council, Bishop Carberry stated that while no definite date has been given for the close, and while this is conditioned by the speed with which the work is completed, the hope has been expressed by many bishops that the council will complete its labors by early December so that the closing of this meeting will take place on Dec. 8, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception of Our Lady. His Holiness Pope Paul VI has declared that this session will definitely bring the Second Vatican Council to a conclusion.

Bishop Carberry spoke of the great work that must begin at the end of the council activities. He said that in a certain sense, the real work of the council will only begin when the formal gatherings have ended. He said that we have evidence of the great amount of work necessary in carrying out the decree on the liturgy.

He expressed his own hopes that similiar progress would be made on the other constitutions and decrees. He spoke in particular of the work which he is presently engaged as a member of the Bishop's Commission for Ecumenical Affairs.

This commission headed by Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore has a membership of six other bishops. This commission is charged with the work of arranging for meetings with various other churches and non-Catholic denominations.

Bishop Carberry serves as head of the sub-commission dealing with the National Council of Churches. He cited this work as part of the great challenge awaiting the bishops of the world in implementing the work of the council.

License Request Report In Error

A recently published report that an application was currently pending by Jack L. Bommer for the sale of 3.2 beer for carry-out at Specialty Food Market, 1435-9 S. Hamilton-rd, has been labeled erroneous by Bommer.

He explained that he had applied to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control for the permit in August, 1964. However, he went out of business in April of this year.

Bommer said that, although he had complied with the Liquor Department's request for proof of being out of business, he was still notified last month that he would receive the license.

The confusion was compounded by announcement of an application on file for a liquor license for a night club at the same address—1435-9 S. Hamilton-rd — made by Dave Schneider.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

When a landlord puts thought, time, money, and the sweat of his brow into rental property, then comes up with a distinguished creation, he deserves recognition. Such a man is Arlingtonian, Harold Greene. One of my favorite Deutsch doubles in German Willage is Harold's place at 881-83 S. Third-st. Every time I pass it I pin an imaginary "well-done" citation on Harold.

Although just beyond our Willage border, Harold's cottage at 343 E. Sycamore-st, is also in the blue ribbon category of his Third-st double. For months now Harold has worked lovingly on the old Deutsch double at Rader and Willow. Rumor has it that this was the old Rader Haus, from which came the name Rader Addition on Court Haus maps.

Harold ran into luck with his first tenants. On the west live Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenton. Praise Gott, more lovely young people for der Willage! Charles attends Ohio State. His jaunty English sports car adds to the swarm of smart-set cars that is pushing the jallopies from Willage streets.

Mrs. Fenton is a city employe. She agreed to design Harold Greene's fence and to landscape his grounds. Mrs. Fenton came up with a handsome enclosure, one that has never been used before in our Willage.

It is made of wide vertical slats, every other one set back enough to let air and light into the garden, yet assure privacy. Not only has it been treated to look old, but being of vertical construction, it is really a sophisticated version of the old-fashioned picket fences once common down here.

Inside this fence Mrs. Fenton designed and planted her own patio and tiny garden. Owner Greene followed her suggestions and came up with a different version to the east. Each patio is different, each right out of Haus und Garten magazine. Harold has had surgery done on the noble old maple tree, which shades both gardens and adds its patriarchial calm to the old neighborhood.

Yah, Harold Greene deserves a citation for restoring the Rader Haus to the company of his other two. Better than a citation was the fact that when he had completed his second half, he practically had to beat prospective renters off with a baseball bat. One of the lucky tenants is an interior decorator. Another taste maker for our Willage.

Harold Greene did quality work at his three German Willage homes. Harold Greene got quality tenants. The morale should be obvious.

Dis summer I said aufwiedershen to German Willage. Yah, I schpent two months on Long Isuand near Oyster Bay. Natives dere schtill called it Erster Bay, said sore for saw, earl for oil, und called be Bawb instead of Bob. Mit two months exposure to such accents, naturalich I lost mein German vone in my summer columns.

Dis delighted mein linotypers, who often grumble, "Why can't that Schmitz kook learn to spell?" Sorry, but the protests of readers have gotten through to me. Now dat I am back in German Willage der sauerkraut again schticks out of mein ears.

About Long Island — I leased a heavenlich place mit enough schpace — 5 bedrooms, 4½ baths — to put friends und relatives up. Dis Haus belonged to der widow of a U.S. admiral. She vas justifiably proud of her sunken Garten, gazebo, rows und circles of boxwood, und inside, autographed photos of President FDR, Vinston Churchill, General MacArthur und other notables.

At first I too enjoyed her big Haus und spacious grounds on a private road a stone's hrow from Long Island Sound. A far cry from mein kleine domain at Beck und Lazelle! But because of der drought mein Frau und I schpent much time changing garden hoses und lamenting our German Willage Garten, vhich can be vatered effectively mit an eye dropper.

As for der so-called blissful country quiet, I missed schticking mein kopf from out of mein front door und having passing motorists call out greetings. Und I missed being able to yell back: "Come in for a cup of coffee und a piece of Noodie's geranium cake."

To make matters vorse, Willage friends telephoned und tantalized me mit such information as: "Joe und Bernice Kinnery have done a stylish paint job on the old stagecoach house across from your home." Or, "Bill (Watch My Smoke) Kramer has leased three sides of his doubles in back of you at Lazelle and Willow and they aren't even finished."

Or, "Bill and Jane Scheurer have bought an interesting two-story at 845 S. Fifth to restore. Down the street, two fellows, Baker and Hoffman, are doing over 870. This will blow the lid off that end of Fifth-st.

Also, friends phoned that "Mr. Reiner has scrapped his 1941 bakery front and has sandblasted his building. Beautiful and a good business move." Also, "Sell your Standard Oil stock. Standard Oil has been dickering for Schwartz's Castle at Third and Livingston. Standard wants to tear the castle down and move its station back to where the Southside landmark is now."

Also, "Your column of several months ago was right — Lazarus employes are still flocking to the Village. And now with Ohio State University 10 minutes from German Village by way of route I-71, there are six Ohio Staters — students and instructors — living within a block of your house."

Vell now, mit so many telephone calls reaching me on Long Island, I began to count der days until mein lease ran out. Finally I came back to Columbus und unloaded mein car. Then after driving 625 miles I hopped in it again und slowly drove each of der Willage schtreets und alleys.

In der past 16 years der Schmitzes have owned und lived in seven homes. Ve have begged, borrowed, but not yet schtolen, several others. Ve have leased two apartments, vone in Manhattan, der other in Schvitzerland. Ve have owned three mobile homes und two travel trailers to knock about in. Ve have toured 47 of our 50 schtates, including Alaska. Ve have traveled most of Canada und Mexico und half of Europe.

During that time I never could understand a popular saying. But now that I have returned to mein kleine Haus in friendly German Willage, I find myself quoting it often, mit understanding und delight:

"Be it ever so humble, dere's no place like Heim."

Great Books Course Draws Area Youth

By CARL JAPIKSE

A new experiment in reading is being conducted this summer at the Jeffrey Mansion in Bexley. For many years Adult Great Book groups have been active in the Columbus area, but now a Junior Great Books group has also been started.

For children in the fifth through ninth grade, the program has been meeting in the mansion on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 throughout the summer vacation.

Participants read a selection a week, then discuss the work at their meeting. While the group is led by an adult who starts the discussion rolling with questions, she does not answer the questions, draw any conclusions, argue a point or sum up. The ideas and arguments come entirely from the children.

"This gives the children a chance to read books they wouldn't read on their own, and it makes them think for themselves," commented Mrs. William O'Donnell, who has been leading the sessions this summer.

And they do think for themselves. They aren't supposed to read any critical opinions of the work, although a quote from Mad magazine creeps in occasionally, but draw opinions from what they have observed in life. And topics such as the John Birch Society and seances have been brought up during the summer discussions.

Besides Hamlet and Macbeth (they read Charles and Mary Lamb's version), they have been reading and discussing works by Edgar Allen Poe, William Blake, Daniel Defoe and Washington Irving, to name a few.

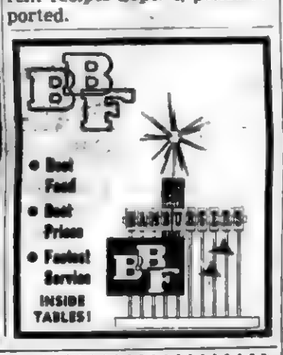
Mrs. O'Donnell feels the new program has been very successful this summer. By word-of-mouth publicity only, the group has grown from just a few to 15 or 20 each week. While many of the children are from Bexley, there are some from the South Side, two from Reynoldsburg, and two from Whitehall.

Mrs. O'Donnell said she hoped the program would continue this fall, with the group possibly meeting after school instead of in the evenings.

Police Tighten Traffic Watch

Francis C. McWilliams, captain of the traffic bureau of the Columbus Police Department, has branded two East Side corners as high accident intersections for the period of Aug. 16 through Aug. 31.

They are Hampton and Broad and James and Livingston.



McWilliams said that enforcement will be tightened on the two corners.

One fatal occured in the East Area during the period of surveillance. The death occurred on Aug. 17 as a result of a Livingston and James accident that happened July 27.

Mrs. Robert Lazarus, Jr., chairman of the residential division said "without the womanpower required, the campaign cannot be a success." She urges all interested women to contact the area chairman listed above, or the United Appeal office at 228-5696, Ex. 10, so that each home in the county may be reached.

The United Appeal Drive combines the needs of 67 community health, welfare, and recreation services into one efficient request for financial support. More than 250,000 residents of Columbus and Franklin County benefit each year from these vital community serv-

A GUIDE FOR PARENTS IN CHOOSING A DANCING SCHOOL

TELEPHONE THE SCHOOL AND GET THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION:

Dance Training for Children Under 8 Years of Age: Does the school have a program specially designed for children between the ages of 3 to 8? What is included in this program, and how will it benefit your child in developing a sense of rhythm and movement, coordination, ability to take directions, and an appreciation of music? If ballet is given are the French ballet terms taught?

Ballet Training for 8 Year Olds and Over: Is the ballet lesson at least an hour long? What method is taught — Russian, French, Italian, or a combination of these three? Again, are the French ballet terms taught?

Toe Shoes: Are students required to be at least 8 years of age, to have had a minimum of 1 full (preferably 2 years) of ballet training, to have acquired the fundamental knowledge and strength necessary for dancing on the tips of their toes in toe shoes?

Placement of Students: Is the beginner student placed according to his or her age group? Is the student with previous training placed according to the progress he has made and not merely according to age) or the number of years of previous study?

Size of Class: Can the teacher handle 10 to 15 students at a time? What is the maximum in a class? If fewer students are placed in a class, is it because of lack of space, teacher's ability to handle small groups only, or the number of students enrolled?

Cost of Lessons and Amount of Instruction: What is the price of lessons? Is it for a half-hour, 45 minutes, or an hour?

Make-up Lessons: Can students make up lessons missed due to illness?

Observing Classes: Is there a regularly scheduled time when you may observe to see your child's progress? Is the area for parents and visitors separated from the area in which the students dance?

Equipment Needed: Do they require equipment such as leotards, ballet shoes, tap shoes, etc.? What will the items needed by your child cost?

Recitals and Public Appearances: What are their policies concerning annual recitals and public appearances? What is the cost? What amount of the lesson time is spent in learning recital dances?

VISIT THE SCHOOL AND SEE ITS FACILITIES

Size of Classroom: Is it large enough for the students to dance?

Ballet Barres: Are they permanently installed or must they use the back of chairs or temporary barres?

Mirrors in the Classrooms: There are necessary so the students may observe whether they are doing a step correctly.

Heating System: Is a proper, healthful temperature maintained?

Dressing Rooms: Do they have separate dressing rooms for boys and girls? Is the space adequate?

Maintenance of School: Is the school clean?

OBSERVE THE CLASSES AND SEE THE SCHOOL IN OPERATION

Do the students get the full time of their lessons or do they lose 5 or 10 minutes while the teacher takes payments, marks the attendance, answers the phone, etc.

How does the teacher hold the students' attention and maintain discipline? What kind of personality does the teacher have? Do all the students get the full amount of instruction or is the time wasted in taking turns?

Observe the advanced classes in addition to the class in which your child may be placed, as this will give you an indication of the quality of training and what the school can produce.

COMPARE: GET COMPLETE INFORMATION FROM SEVERAL SCHOOLS.

Advertisements and publicity can be misleading. A competent teacher has spent many years of intensive study in gaining a thorough knowledge of dance. A good teacher knows what his instruction is worth. A good teacher is primarily concerned with imparting his knowledge to his students, in seeing his students benefit from dance training, in developing an appreciation for dance and the related arts, and in seeing them derive pleasure in dancing.

If you are considering dancing lessons for your child, or even if you have already enrolled with another dancing teacher, you are cordially invited to visit our school — without obligation.

Backfield Savvy, Tighter Defense Brighten Bexley's Grid Fortunes

Bexley's '64 football forces might have won plenty of friends but they didn't influence many people — especially in the CBL where only winless Urbana prevented the Lions from the loop basement.

Blanked in four games and held to seven points per game, Bexley surrendered 24 markers per game and closed out with a 1-8 record.

ALTHOUGH 14 seniors departer from that club, including four offensive starters and six on the defense), the grid outlook for the '65 Lions is brigter.

Backfield inexperience was the big bugaboo last fall; it won't be this season.

"Our backfield will be faster and bigger than last season with all our leading prospects, with the exception of sophomore Colby Crall, having a year of experience under their belts," says head Lion mentor Don DeJong.

"WE WON'T BE explosive because we don't have that man who can do the 100 in under 10.5 except at quarterback, but we'll grind out the yards and play possession football this year," DeJong added.

Even when the offense loses possession, the Lions will be better off than last year. DeJong lists his defensive unit as a major strength this season, lauding its speed and pursuit.

Although Bexley's '65 line won't be big, weight-wise, it will be bigger than its forerunner. "We hope to make up for lack of size with quickness and aggressiveness," the Lion coach added.

WITH ONLY 11 letter winners available on his 36-man squad, DeJong admits that depth will be a problem. "A key injury could really hurt us," Don admits, "at least until some of our younger boys mature."

Most costly could be an injury in the backfield where Bexley is short on lettermen.

Back at quarterback will be senior Rick Weber, a 5-11, 150-pound speedster, who'll have soph Jim Moriarty (a 5-9, 145-pounder who hits like a 300-pounder according to DeJong) as ready relief.

HEAVY MIKE Luby, (5-11, 175) returns at fullback while Pat Schultz (5-10, 160), Bexley's top scorer last fall, is back at one halfback.

The remaining halfback slot is up for grabs with seniors Paul Davis (5-10, 150) and Jim Mangus, juniors Jim Rosel (5-8, 150) and A. J. Myers (5-9, 140-pound speedster currently out with a shoulder injury) and soph Colby Crall (6-0, 175) all in the running.

Returning senior vets Fred Grimm (6-1, 170) and Woody Jones (6-0, 175) are likely two-ways starters at end with senior Wes Seidel (5-11, 160, a ready replacement.

ONLY VET back at tackle is senior Pat Leach, a 6-1, 195-pounder who'll go both ways.

DeJong has plenty of talent available for the second spot, however, with senior Carl Petzinger 5-8, 170) junior Dan Miller (5-11, 160) and sophs Mike Ritchey (5-10, 185, will go both ways) and Larry Hambill (5-10, 165) vying for the nod.

The guard spot is particularly strong with four letter winners back who are familiar with the position. Available are seniors Chris Harbold (5-10, 165), Dave Herwald (5-6, 165) and Bruce Levin (5-6, 160) and Junior Doug Felger (5-7, 145).

TOP NON-LETTERMAN prospect is John Main (5-9, 150 junior).

A sophomore — Dennis Maupin (5-11, 175)—has apparently secured the number one center slot.

Bexley's final letterman is Mike Noles, a 5-10, 165-pound transfer from Aquinas, who DeJong likes at defensive end and fullback.

OTHER PROSPECTS who should see service on Bexley's varsity this fall are linemen Bob Curl, Laird Smith, Herb Magley and Dennis Walker.

Most of DeJong's top boys will see two-way service with Harbold, Herwald, Crall and Maupin listed as linebackers, Levin and Felger figured for middle guard and Luby, Weber, Schultz, Myers, Moriarty and Joe Thelbert, a 5-9, 145-pound senior, all ticksted for defensive halfback duty.

In regard to the Buckeye Athletic Conference (four teams split from CBL) race, DeJong sees Delaware (had young '64 team, lost very few) as the best title bet.

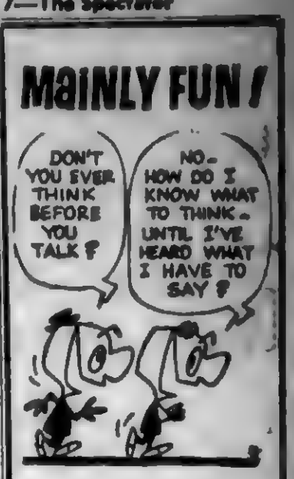
Hilltop Sportsman Club Inc. Will Hold 'Sighting-In' Day

The Hilltop Sportsman's Club, Inc., in affiliation with the National Rifle Association, will hold a "Sighting-In-Day" on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 25-26, at its club grounds, located two miles west of Darbydale on Rt. 665, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

On Sept. 26 David Brown, Franklin County game protector, Ohio Division of Wildlife, will hold a Hunter Safety Clinic.



THE PURPOSE of "Sighting-In-Day" is to allow the hunting public to use the club's facilities to sight-in their hunting arms prior to going into the field.

Many city-dwelling hunters have no opportunity to sight-in their rifles or pattern their shotguns and as a result lose and cripple game during the hunting season.

Range facilities, targets and assistance for those who require it will be available for hunters to pattern shotguns, sight-in shotguns with slugs or sight-in rifles. Hunters must provide their own ammunition.

THE HUNTER Safety Clinic on Sunday will be worthwhile for all hunters, but especially for those younger hunters who will be taking to the fields for the first time this year.

Jeff Toy Captures Grand National Title

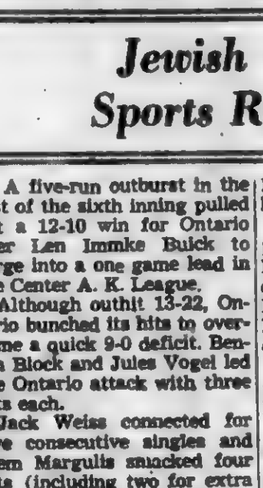
Jeff Toy

Jeff, piloting a sleek racer sponsored by Toledo's Carl Schmidt Oldsmobile Agency, finished first in the 40-lap finale to join seven other national division champs who sped to the top of some 1480 qualifiers from almost every state in the Union.

Young Jeff also placed third in the "B" class in a car sponsored by his father, Sam Toy, owner of Toy's Radiator Service in Columbus.



Jeff climbed the qualification ladder by gaining berths in sectional, regional and state competition, earning his chance to race in the final lineup (10 fastest cars) by winning a slot in the Grand National prelims.

Last year, young Mr. Toy brought laurels home also by capturing the Eastern States Quarter Midget AA Open Title.

The Champion Spark Plug and Mobil Oil companies provided trophies at the Grand National, also supplying gasoline and technical help to the young drivers.

Owner of the winning car (too old to race this year) was Ron Gallagher. Ron's father, Adrian was chief mechanic.

THE JUNIOR MYSTIQUE
If she's under 17 she's forever on display whether she's walking down Main Street or alone in her room; so she absolutely has to look her best all of the time. That means hair that's sleek and beautiful and easy to keep that way. She's probably very clever at developing a style that she finds acceptable. But acceptable to whom? She's often too apt to simply plunge at a fad that appeals to her and her friends and distort it until it simply isn't becoming nor at all acceptable to anyone with any fashion "know". And then there is the matter of hair-care. Our daughters really don't know a great deal about that. In fact they're apt to do considerable damage to their hair before you can stop them.
A wise mother knows that the once-a-week salon appointment can be worth its weight in gold for the growing girl. She will have our professional guidance when she needs it.

THAT NICE WARM FEELING
No matter what the climate, there is a certain nice, warm feeling in being well-groomed for any occasion. Part of this is in your hair coloring. The wrong color does so many depressing things to your skin-tones. And it's impossible to choose a color for a costume ensemble that will give you that gentle, genteel, well-put-together look, unless your hair and skin-tones belong together. Often your hair-color will be your own, with just a teeny bit of something added. Our regular patrons know they're welcome to touch things over. But if you are not a regular patron, we would like to know that we'd be glad to advise you. No charge! Of course!

13 VETS BACK BUT . . .

'Quickness' Must Be '65 Hawks' Byword

"Nobody's gonna' get pushed around in the Central Catholic League this year."

That's how one CCL coach expressed this feeling about what he considers improved balance in the league this fall.

The veteran area mentor, who'll never be able to credit his enviable coaching successes to optimism, sized up the upcoming CCL race thusly: "Watterson and DeSales will be excellent again this season. Ready will be big and strong. That leaves poor, little 'ole us."

Ryan isn't telling any tales about his three CCL competitors this fall. The co-champs are tough again, returning a multitude of lettermen and Ready, the loop doormat last fall, has turned a few heads, literally, in recent scrimmages with West and Reynoldsburg.

BUT "POOR, little 'ole us" should climb up the win-less ladder and not be halted at 3-5-1 as they were last season.

Hartley does have 13 returning lettermen on its 115-man squad this fall but the 13 doesn't include three offensive starters and six more on the defensive unit from the '64 club.

Ryan figures most of his headaches will come from his defensive line where most of those missing starters pulled up stakes.

OFFENSIVELY, Ryan admits that his upcoming backfield will exhibit "pretty good speed," adding that the line in front of them will be small but quick—the latter factor a particular Hawk strength this season, in Ryan's estimation.

Likely starters in the back field are returning vets at halfback — senior Joe Gatte (5-8, 165) and junior speedster Steve Grier (5-8, 165) — and fullback — senior Scott French (170).

Toughest spot to fill will be that vacated by quarterback Tom Schlager. Junior Johnny Brandt, a 5-8, 140-pounder, seems most likely to succeed Schlager.

RYAN CAN fill every offensive line spot but one with a returning letterman (all but one of those starters in '64)

The ends should be seniors Larry Irwin (5-11, 150) and Tom Miller (5-11, 170), the latter a converted fullback.

Senior vet Bill Astley (185) is back at one tackle with Aquinas transfer "Bongo" Jander likely at the other spot. The return of guards Joe Hayes (145) and Larry Kneuven (155) and senior center John Kuskowski (170) completes the offensive eleven.

BACK TO familiar spots on the Hawk's defensive unit are senior defensive end Jerry McMenemy (5-11, 170), senior defensive tackle Sam McKee (5-11, 215), senior corner man George McNamara (5-11, 170) and junior safety Jerry Dill (5-10, 160).

Academy Returns 13 Vets For '65 Campaign

Academy football coach Dick Price will have 13 returning lettermen in a squad of 80 to form a '65 nucleus, intent on bettering the Vikings' 3-4-1 '64 mark (2-4-1 in FCL play).

Missing off that '64 unit are nine lettermen — six of whom were starters.

PRICE WILL have to find replacements for halfbacks Terry Larrimer and Dan Fouche, tackles Andy Prout and George Green, guard Bill Exline and end Pete Bigelow.

The Viking mentor is hoping a good portion of the returnees can make a successful conversion to the offense from the defensive unit where they logged most of their playing time last season.

Price figures his line size adequate for the teams Academy will face this fall but admits his backfield speed will not be fast, certainly no faster than last season.

IN THE BACKFIELD, regular '64 quarterback — junior Herb Lape (5-10, 155) — returns with junior vets Herb Douce (5-8, 140) and Neil Larrimer (5-8, 155) probable at the halfback slots.

Another letterman halfback, 5-10, 160-pound senior Steve Mahaffey, might be converted to end to fill Bigelow's shoes.

Co-captain Al Unetic, who was stationed at guard last season, is another veteran who'll be switched, the 5-8, 180-pounder completing Price's backfield alignment at fullback.

ON THE LINE, the Viking coach could go to an all-vet senior lineup with Mahaffey and co-captain John Whitney (5-11, 155) at ends, Ken Watman (5-10, 180) and Stan Lisle (6-2, 205) at tackles, Bob Peterson (5-11, 185) and Joe DeVennish (5-8, 175) at guards and either Chuck Ebinger (5-11, 170) or Butch Mentser (5-8, 160) at center.

Academy's remaining letterman — senior Jim Gordon (5-8, 140) — will see service at a defensive halfback spot.

A practice injury has already weakened Price's backfield corps with halfback Bob Kirk sidelined with a broken leg. Another Viking halfback who should see plenty of action this fall is 145-pounder Jack Hammond.

TWO LINE prospects who could work their way into the starting lineup by the time Academy opens at Maumee Valley Country Day (Saturday, Sept. 18) are junior tackle Steve Price (280) and 180-pound guard Rick Brandes.

ALLEN'S PASSING POSSIBLE FORTE

Vet-Loaded Rams To Face Tougher CBL Competition

How can you have 15 returning lettermen and still be plagued with inexperience plus the possibility that your '65 eleven might finish last in your league?

Whitehall's Jim Bline can tell you how — because his Rams fit all three categories this season.

BLINE'S 15 returnees represent only 12 of 22 starting spots on the Rams' '65 edition. The possibility of a last-place finish becomes distinct when you consider that Whitehall is in a four-team alignment this fall with Arlington, Mt. Vernon and Worthington — none of whom look like pushovers this year.

But the Rams' outlook for '65 is far from gloomy with chances good that Whitehall will top its above-par 6-4 '64 mark.

A total of 12 seniors have departed from that club but 15 returning vets certainly gives Bline something to get started with.

DESPITE what Bline terms as "average" backfield speed and a line which more than likely will be smallest of the four CBL schools, the Ram mentor admits his charges looked pretty good in a pair of recent scrimmages against Walnut Ridge and Zanesville.

"We'll be a good team," Bline says, "but a lot will depend on weekly improvement. We've got no individual standouts this season. This is one of the best groups, as far as attitude and working together go, I've ever had."

Plenty of competition for a number of starting vacancies never hurts in building a solid team either.

WITH THE exception of three-year letterman Tom Barton, a 6-0, 175-pound senior returning at fullback and linebacker, Whitehall's backfield should have a new look.

Mike Fleming, a 6-1, 165 senior who lettered last as a sophomore, could nail down one halfback spot with Rick Foltz, a 5-11, 175 pound senior who lettered at center last season, possible at the other running slot, as well as a linebacker.

ANOTHER transfer from Arizona, Dan Dersam (5-8, 185), could break into the lineup at fullback and linebacker.

Bline lists two other returning lettermen as defensive backs—5-9, 155-pound Count Fuller, a junior, and 5-6, 155-pound Harvey Eader, a senior who'll also sub at quarterback.

On the line, Bline has three lettermen ends to pick from in Gary Stimmell (5-10, 160), Tom Kleinline (6-1, 185) and Mike Griffin (6-1, 175) — all seniors who'll probably go both ways (Stimmel and Griffin at linebackers).

AT ONE tackle Jim Heaton (6-2, 185), the only returning regular offensive lineman, looks set while the Rams will have three lettermen guards back in senior Wes Seymour (5-6, 160), junior Dave Mowrer 5-11, 195) and senior Randy Rhodes (5-11, 170).

The vacant center post could be filled amply by Ken Flowers, a 5-9, 210 pound returnee to the Ram system from California where he lettered last season. (Flowers is also ticketed for defensive tackle duty).

And Whitehall's wealth of grid talent isn't limited only to lettermen.

Scott Graeler, for instance, a 6-5, 230-pounder who Bline rates as "greatly improved," will probably open up at the tackle spot opposite Heaton.

Others who should see plenty of service this fall are senior end John Bankes (6-2, 170) speedy fullback "Tip" Nelson (5-6, 135), tackle Pat Packard (5-10, 185), QB and defensive halfback Darrell Hicks (5-10, 150), defensive back Gary Hunter (5-6, 140), center Mike Scudder, linebacker Ken Schmitt and halfback Randy Nichols (converted from end).

In regard to Whitehall's small line, Bline hopes to make up for that with quickness, adding that his Rams' inexperience will force many prospects to "get educated quickly."

Bline, who hopes passing will be a Ram asset this season, sees Mt. Vernon and Arlington a the top clubs in the CBL. "We hope to be the 'darkhorse'," he concluded.

Prior to this he spent 14 successful years teaching music in Ohio Public Schools. He is widely known throughout Ohio and other states as a professional flutist, guest conductor, adjudicator and clinician. the rite of fall

Tomrrow's Opponent . . .

Outside the crowded locker room, the band is playing. In the crowded stands on either side Mom is adjusting a blanket across her legs, shutting out the crisp evening.

Dad is hurrying back to his seat with popcorn for your little brother who's still fascinated by the clouds of white air with each exhalation.

Your girl is included in the line of cheerleaders forming the corridor leading to the playing field. The coach is methodically going over the kickoff routine for the thousandth time.

A striped-shirted official appears. With a loud shout, the room erupts into the brisk darkness through a single door.

Your cleats resound across the gravel of a darkened, deserted playground as a mass of padded figures jog toward a lighted patch of green ahead.

The glamor, excitement and satisfaction of the opening kickoff are only five minutes away.

The three weeks preceding the opening of each high school football season make up the rite of fall — three weeks of major overhaul to gear the mighty machine foward one smooth, well-oiled function.

From West Jefferson to Westerville, from Franklin Heights to Marion-Franklin, hundreds of area gridders are approaching the final countdown toward kickoff this week.

The picture here (taken at Reynoldsburg Senior High) could have been taken at any one of some 40 local practice fields.

. . . Today's Fatigue

HEAD COACH John Thompson mixes encouragement with demands while working with gridders fresh out of Junior High on opening day of practice. Above, Thompson takes advantage of break in practice routine to warn soph prospects: "If you don't start working, I'll send you over to practice with the big boys!"

NEW BLOCKING drill technique backfires on assistant coach Dick Fishbaugh, who's dumped unceremoniously by pair of linemen, eager to make impression on mentor.

NOBODY EVER said trying the "wrestler's bridge" in full equipment (above) is much fun — especially if you're a big fellow like Reynoldsburg soph Jerry Milliron (256 pounds). Several jogs around the practice field and exercises like these prepare muscles for heavier contact later in practice. One of five prospects vying for vacant quarterback spot, junior Gary Shade (below) matures ed assignment: "If you don't know the play, ask questions! That's the only way to learn!"

Photos and Story By Jack Wittenmeier

AFTER THE close of each practice session, the most rewarding spot is the shower room where machine is converted back into humanity again. Above, Raider Junior Denny Spires, pressed into two-way service this fall due to Reynoldsburg depth problems, soaks in post-practice luxury.

A Test For Parental Love

The experts have had their annual say on the subject of school dropouts. They have pleaded with both the parents and the potential dropouts to consider the dire consequences of failing to complete high school. The decision now rests with those most directly affected.

The school bells have sounded, and most students already are adjusting to the process of gaining knowledge and skills. Few can really appreciate just how significant and far-reaching are the effects of a high school diploma.

There are two groups of youngsters who — though they may not now realize it — have a fair inkling of what life may hold for them as dropouts. The one group heard the school bells, but lacked the courage to respond. The other group is in school (mostly under parental pressure) but determined to head for the exit at the first sign of adversity.

These two groups share much common ground. They are defeated in spirit; they feel left behind; they would like to awake in the morning to discover they have received a diploma without the bothersome ordeal of earning it. In short, they have refused to cultivate and harvest the seed, yet they want to participate in the banquet.

And life will never be any easier for the dropouts. They will grow to adulthood without really maturing, for maturity, in today's society, demands basic skills and knowledge. And if they are now behind their contemporaries who are staying in school, the gap will continue to widen with each passing year.

Oh, but aren't there some exceptions? Isn't it true that some students must drop out of school to bring desperately needed income into the home? And isn't the normal curriculum just too difficult for students who haven't what it takes for college?

Some years back, the answer might have been "yes" to each of these questions. But not today. It is true that more high school students than ever before are both financially and scholastically prepared for college. Yet, never before have our school systems been better equipped to accommodate those whose formal education will not or cannot go beyond the secondary grades.

In Columbus, for example, the school system has two very effective tools designed specifically for the potential dropout. The Work-Study Program permits the student to share time between classes and employment. School subject matter is tailored to the student's best potential in a limited area.

And for students of low-income families there is the Neighborhood Youth Corps. This federally subsidized program permits the needy student to work part-time during school months and full time when schools are not in session. It is a program to prepare the youngsters for post-school, worthwhile employment, while relieving existing financial pressures.

With these two programs in good working order, there is no valid reason why parents should allow their children to "con" them into permitting an early exit from the classrooms. The true love of most parents is best tested at times when a firm and resolute "no" is the right answer.

Would any responsible parent sign his minor child into a binding, lifetime contract to work for a maximum of $70 or $80 per week? This is the "unwritten" contract permitted by parents who allow their children to become dropouts.

It is not too late to get that son or daughter back to school for the term which has just begun, or to keep in school those who are now there. Any cost of achieving this objective is guaranteed to be less than the future cost of not having done so.

The more education you get, the greater your earning potential in the years ahead. School graduates earn more and have a better job choice. If you quit school now, you could be reducing your lifetime earning potential by as much as 50 percent. Don't gamble with your future—shortchange your education now and you may be short of change the rest of your life.

Voters Should Know Governor's Stand

Ohioans will decide in November if a one percent increase in the state sales tax is the right answer for solving the state's sorry lack of support for public school education.

The voting public has every right to expect an opinion from the elected official in whom they have vested ultimate responsibility for operation of all departments of state — their governor.

Candidate James A. Rhodes built his entire platform for election on one basic plank — no new or increased taxes. He has steadfastly refused to acknowledge that his $1 billion dollars of bonded indebtedness is a tax increase. And this despite the fact that Ohioans will, for many years into the future, be paying 50 cents of non-productive interest for every dollar borrowed.

But now we have an issue where the questions are clear. Does the state need more tax revenue to meet its responsibility in the area of public education? If so, is the same true in other areas of state responsibility — such as mental health? If the answer is "yes" to both questions, is a sales tax increase the right answer?

And if the state already has enough tax dollars to meet all responsibilities, why aren't they being met?

Candidate Rhodes represented his opinions to be answers for the operation of the state. Certainly his opinions, as governor, should be no less freely given.

Calling Ohioans!

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE
Former Governor, State of Ohio

The Ohio Supreme Court has recently in effect ruled that Ohio's public boards, commissions and agencies may conduct the affairs of government in secret.

For years Ohio has been pointed to as an example of a state that insisted that its business, being public, should be conducted in public. The court's decision holds that the only meeting or part of a meeting in which the public has a right to participate is that in which a vote is being cast which reflects a final decision.

This was never intended to be the concept of the open meeting law. This statute was intended to provide to the public not only the decision but also the methods used in arriving at the result. The public is entitled to know the discussion that took place and who said what that might have influenced the final result. How can the public make decisions on the ability of their representatives unless they are permitted to see them in action?

There is no greater guarantee of action in behalf of the public welfare than that that action be able to withstand the cold searching light of the public gaze. No time should be wasted in closing the loophole that the Supreme Court has indicated prevents the existing law from fulfilling its intended purpose.

According to a local column, when Governor Rhodes puts on a press party it's big. More than 1000 were fed at a press party preceding the opening of the State Fair. The same source quoted the Governor as saying that, "Next year the party will be twice as big and better than even this year."

Perhaps it might not be considered amiss to wonder who foots the bill for the party. Is it the taxpayers who subsidize the state fair when it loses money, the Governor, the concessionaires or some others?

One of the basic objectives of education is to teach our young people to be able to distinguish between truth and error. Unless they are able to make this distinction, regardless of the form in which it appears, our system of education has failed. If the only way they can tell the difference is by whether or not the product is properly labeled, then we have taught them to read but not to think.

An Editor's Outlook... by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Geologist Tells Best Way To 'Dig' Diamonds

I was shooting the breeze after dinner with my next-door neighbor, Charlie Oliphant, the eminent geologist, and he was telling me about his latest oil-sniffing expedition north of Fort St. John in British Columbia.

And then the talk moved into the Yukon and the possibility of fabulous mother lodes of gold, hidden, perhaps, by half a foot of moss. And finally Charlie got a far-away look in his eye and said, "Funny thing about those Wisconsin diamonds."

James

"Those what?"

"Diamonds," he repeated. "Some pretty good ones, too, found three-quarters of a century ago in Wisconsin, Michigan, and even Southern Ohio. Strange that they were discovered close to the southernmost points of the same glacial drift."

"What does that mean?"

"That a glacier carried them down, and that somewhere just under the soft pine needles of Ontario there may be the greatest diamond pipe on earth."

"Marvelous!" I said. "Do you suppose someone will ever find it?"

"Undoubtedly — unless —"

"Unless, what?"

"Unless there's anything to the new theory based on the odd-looking east shoreline of Hudson Bay, and the meteor and the eruptions and all that."

"Tell me about it," I insisted.

"No," said Charlie, "but I'll let you read about it."

So the next evening he came by with photostated copies of three scientific papers.

The first was an article by William H. Hobbs in the Journal of Geology for May-June, 1899.

Professor Hobbs stated that in 1876 a 15-carat yellow diamond was found at Eagle, Wis., near Waukesha. Within a few years others had been picked up at Waukesha, West Bend and the village of Oregon near Madison. Then 10 diamonds were discovered in the gravel of Plum Creek in Pierce County, just east of St. Paul.

In 1894 an 11-carat diamond turned up near Dowagiac, Mich., and four years later a six-carat stone at Milford, Clermont County, Ohio, at the edge of Cincinnati. All were found in deposits left by the same glacial advance.

Professor Hobbs said he hoped newspapers would reprint his article because other finds would point the way to the source, which he expected would be located within 10 years.

Now we jump two-thirds of a century to the second article which came from the February, 1965, issue of Canadian Petro Engineering. It describes the 12-year $18-million aerial magnetic survey financed jointly by several Canadian provinces, and points with interest to a strange 160-mile long magnetic belt stretching south from James Bay at the bottom of Hudson Bay. Along and just below this belt are six outcrops of rare carbonatite. The article mentions that the Kimberly diamond pipes of South Africa are found close to carbonatite plugs.

The third paper is contained in the July, 1965 issue of the Journal of Geology and was written by Prof. H. P. Schwarcz of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario.

Doctor Schwarcz is fascinated by the lower east shore of Hudson Bay, which seems to form an almost perfect arc of a huge circle, and by a number of lakes in the Canadian Shield that appear to be part of concentric rings.

His hypothesis is that in pre-Cambrian times, a gigantic meteorite struck the south-center of Hudson Bay. It made a crater 283 miles across and may have penetrated 30 miles into the earth's surface. If so, it would have fractured the mantle to a depth of 60 to 90 miles.

Diamonds are the product of heat and pressure working on elemental carbon. Such an impact would release tremendous volcanic activity, and up from the deep would flow the Earth's blood — lava which could have included eclogite, the diamond-bearing mantle rock. The Belcher Islands in the center of lower Hudson Bay are volcanic.

In the Ice Ages, says Professor Schwarcz, a grinding, crawling glacier could well have picked up precious stones and carried them south, even as far as what is now the Ohio River.

I called on Charlie again and asked him what he thought.

"The meteorite theory is intriguing," he acknowledged. "That Hudson Bay shoreline gives it a lot of force, and you'll notice how the east cape at the entrance to James Bay acts as though it were trying to keep the circle going. But I still like the conventional pipe idea. I'll bet the bonanza lies in the old blue mud, and maybe there's a party of fishermen standing on top of it now."

"If we could find the pipe," I insisted, "how far down would we have to dig?"

"I wouldn't dig at all," said Charlie. "I'd just pass the good news around and open up a combination grocery, saloon and dance hall. History teaches that it's the only sure way to make money out of the mining business."

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

When I was nine years old, Mark Twain spent a weekend at Rome Center, Mich., as a guest of my old doctor Grampa. They had been personal friends for many years, dating back to the days when Samuel Clemens was still a pilot on the old Mississippi. On the way up river, he acquired a terrible boil in a very delicate place. The dock boss at Council Bluffs told him where Grampa's office was. Twain went up to have the boil lanced. That was the beginning of a lifelong friendship.

Years later, when Twain had become a social lion and a platform celebrity, he was booked to speak at the old Boody House theatre in Toledo. Grampa and I went down to Adrian and took the little old LS and MS local train to Toledo. We had dinner with Mr. Clemens and then went to the lecture. Afterwards, we all rode back to Adrian on a late local freight, got the horses out of the livery barn in Adrian and drove back to Rome Center, getting there about 2 a.m.

From that moment until Twain had to be driven to Adrain about noon on Monday, no one can imagine what a thrill it was for me, a hungry-minded kid, aged 9, to listen to the old-time visiting of such a pair. I had read everything by Twain that I could get my hands on in Grampa's library and so was all primed to meet this amazing man.

They smoked long black Cheroot cigars that Mark Twain carried by the box, and drank cider that was old enough to need no label on the bottle. I lay on my belly for hours, before the old baseburner hard coal stove, and drank in every word of that priceless weekend.

One thing I have remembered from that day to this was their high, wide and hilarious discussion about education. (Grampa was squire, JP and board of education all in one.)

Mark Twain said, "You know Dr. Ross, it is impossible to educate anyone's kids beyond their intelligence, and if you do, you may get a freak or a "nut."

Teaching lazy minded kids how to THINK is no deal. How to work with their hands is just as important as how to read, and manual training is coming into its own for drop-outs. More power to those who teach it.

Letter Is Challenged

To the Editor:

The letter by Tom Brittenham ("Bigotry," Aug. 16) is typical of a modern syndrome — saying one thing and meaning another.

I am as deeply concerned as Mr. Brittenham represents himself to be, but as helpless to change the reasons for my concern as Mr. B is to have the telephone company wrest the phone that offends him so from its moorings.

Mr. B.'s last paragraph was a jewel — "a good healthy public forum in which conflicting viewpoints on vital issues can be expressed." I've attended a few of these and unless you have the stomach for the extreme left-wing liberal viewpoint, you'd better not get to your feet.

I would be interested to know how intelligent, thoughtful and sound are Mr. Brittenham's sources of information. I'll take odds he has never read one Congressional Record on Communist testimony, knows only what he has read in the papers regarding the frightening, unconstitutional mess that was passed under the guise of a voting rights bill. In short, I'll bet he likes it the way it is and wouldn't ever trouble to inform himself of the way it is likely to be.

When a conservative says something, it is vicious labeling and dirt smearing and is immediately connected with the K.K.K. (a group every conservative abhors as much as the Black Muslims) but when Mr. Brittenham says something it is "intelligent, thoughtful and sound."

Wants Lights For Gay St.

To the Editor:

We have no street lights on E. Gay-st from Fourth to Grant-av.

Two occupants of my house have been attacked and robbed this year. One person fought two off and suffered painful injuries. The other was beaten and ribs broken and is still under the doctor's care. He is unable to work.

Both incidents were reported to police. The second victim was taken to Grant Hospital by police. The first one elected to suffer it out without a trip to the hospital.

Thugs have robbed the parking lots west of us three or four times and the restaurant on the corner of Fifth and Gay was also robbed recently. The register was carried out of building. We do not go out after a paper after dark unless we are accompanied by another person.

Why can't we have police on a beat at least until we have street lights? The assistant safety director has heard of this, but probably he does not have the entire responsibility of this problem.

4-H Judging Is Questioned

To the Editor:

What is 4-H? Right now I'm not sure because I am confused.

If you can manage an "A" on your local judging and can compete for a place in the county, well then fine and good, but if the local judge knows you you suddenly get graded on your personality, etc., instead of your project.

If you've done good work in the past then you are likely to get a good grade. But if you haven't and your project is good you may still receive a bad grade.

Four-H is an organization for all who want to join. Let's teach them good, fair, true work and fun.

I hope you will not mind my writing a comment on your paper. I like the way you print it up. Especially, I appreciate the articles about our sons in the service . . .

Mrs. Arthur Auten

Guest Pulpit . . .

General of the Army Douglas MacArthur said at the close of World War II, "Men since the beginning of time have sought peace . . . The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual recrudescence and improvement of human character that will synchronize with our almost matchless advance in science, art, literature and material and cultural developments of the past 2,000 years. It must be of the spirit if we are to save the flesh."

Rev. Adams

That there are great advances in the material efforts of mankind stands beyond question. That man has been able to adorn his culture with great and small achievements, magnificent and trivial objects, is beyond question. To attempt to diminish the great accomplishments that are present for the betterment of human life would be foolish and fraudulent.

But the problem of peace, of living together, of man and man is present and involves all the economic, political, and social concerns of man. The divergence between man's accomplishment and man's impoverishment is so glaring that documentation would be a short and redundant effort.

It is to man that God addresses His Word. Man not in some abstract notion, but man in his concrete life—his economic, political, and social life. It is with man in his concrete position that Jesus lived and moved and spoke. Those who affirm that Jesus is the Christ, the Act of God in History, understand that God addressed Himself to man. The Bible has the recurring theme that God acts in the midst of life. If the words "Biblical faith" mean anything at all, the meaning in part must include the faith that God acts.

Understanding this is a difficult and joyous task. It is in part what MacArthur meant when he referred to the "theological problem." Understanding this demands the confidence that only active faith brings. Grasping this means being grasped by the understanding that God acts. Grasping this means searching the understanding that God was in Christ in the world and is yet present to all mankind. Grasping this is understanding Easter.

This is part of the great struggle of the church — the People of God — in the present generation. The struggle is to understand again and again what it means to affirm concretely that God acts. To understand that man is called to maturity and responsibility in all of his dealing — whether near at hand or removed in place.

The context of life has changed and is changing. The context of doing things and talking about things changes from epoch to epoch. Man must understand the context of life if he is to address himself to the issues of this generation with the Word of the Lord that shall stand forever. For the Word of God came into the world with the good news that men in all conditions are accepted, forgiven, made whole, made new creations, and accountable no matter what the context or style of life.

The PTA Election: Now It Can Be Told

By ADELINE DALEY

With so many best-sellers on the bookstands revealing a now-it-can-be-told account of how a president is elected, I'm surprised that nobody has written a similar document unfolding the drama, the intrigue which goes on behind the scenes of a PTA presidential campaign.

But do you find rival candidates promising two cupcakes on every plate at PTA meetings and bigger and better Halloween parties? Hardly, because PTA presidential aspirants are all drafted—the only true draft since Washington's.

Consequently, this book would have a reverse angle. It would detail the various methods which are used in trying to avoid becoming a PTA president.

For instance, such popular political shenanigans as moving, starting a rumor that you can't make cupcakes, having your kids expelled from school, remaining single or getting pregnant. (For the latter, of course, you'll have to refer to another type text.)

The book would begin with a search for a candidate being conducted in a smoke-filled kitchen by the nominating committee which finally settle on a poor, harassed mother of several small children who is spotted as presidential timber mainly because she has never turned down a Room Mother appointment or thought of an excuse fast enough to avoid serving as chairman of the Rag Drives.

It is decided that the best time to tell her she has been nominated is to telephone her while she is taking a bath. Who can argue with only a towel draped around you while dripping water on the carpets?

The high point of the book would be the night of the election in which our candidate wins overwhelmingly. In fact, there are only two "nay" votes — her own and her husband's. But this isn't too surprising because the public opinion polls indicated it and besides she was the only name on the ballot.

The book would provide an inside report on her life as president, once she is elected. One chapter would be devoted to an explanation of the One Big Fiasco in her administration, similar to the 150 different versions being written about the Bay of Pigs episode.

This, of course, would be the PTA Rummage Sale in which, inadvertently, she turned in two of her husband's suits.

But, ah, what a lonely life a PTA president leads, especially when she attempts to make Room Mother and Rag Drive appointments. All she hears from her constituents is — we're moving, my kids were expelled, I'm pregnant, etc.

FOOD MARKET THIS WEEK

Record Grape Crop Coming . . .

By ESTELLE R. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — seedless grapes, prune plums, McIntosh apples, melons.

Other — frozen orange juice, peanut butter, dairy products.

Mrs. Franks

A record crop of over 3.5 million tons of table grapes will be coming out of California this year. Thompson Seedless top the list for economy at present, but other favorites which will stand out at produce counters from now through November include, Tokay, Red and White Malaga, Ribier, Almeria, Cardinal and Emperors.

If you like Eastern grapes, watch for them during September and October. Fredonias are in the market now and Concord harvest has started in a light way. And if you are lucky, you may find the Delaware — a light red, small juicy and very sweet grape, considered the highest quality of Eastern grapes for table use. The Niagara, an amber - to - white grape, is sweet and juicy and may also be found occasionally at roadside markets.

Melon Line Available

A full line of melons—cantaloupes, honeydews, Casabas, Cranshaws, Persian, and the last of-the-season watermelons—is available now.

To give you an idea of how to spot a ripe melon, here are a few suggestions:

Cantaloupes: Check the stem end of the melon; it should resemble a smooth, slightly indented thumb print. This indicates the melon was ripe and "slipped" from the vine. Next check the webbing which should be well raised, dry and grayish on a yellowish of grayish-green background.

Honeydews: The "feel" of a rind indicates ripeness. If the melon has a waxy, greenish-white rind, it is not ready to eat; hold it at room temperature for a few days. A ripe honeydew has a satin-smooth, creamy-white rind.

Casabas: These melons have a rough, wrinkled, green rind which turns buttery yellow, with the furrows deepening as they mature.

Cranshaws: These look like large squashes. Ripened off the vine, a cranshaw melon is very perishable and is easily bruised. When harvested, the melon has a lot of green in the rind. As it ripens, the green turns to a golden color and the rind is somewhat speckled.

Persian: Looking for all the world like an over-grown cantaloupe, a ripe Persian melon has a fine greenish-gray netting over a green rind.

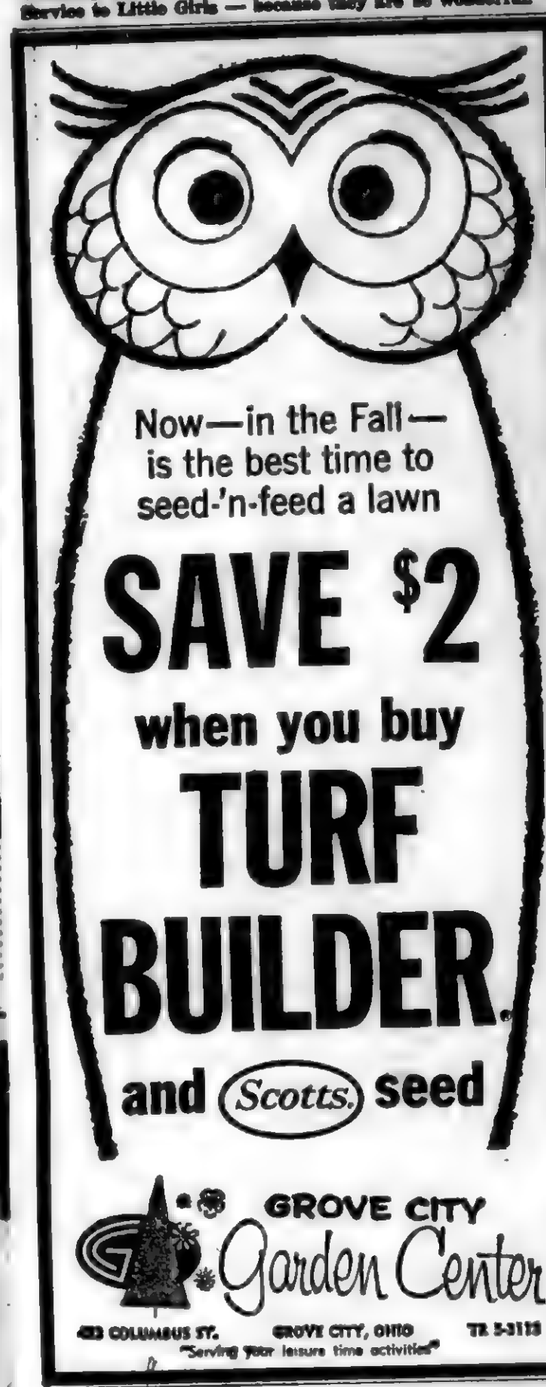
FALL HOME SECTION
Sept. 9, 1965

Many families will be planning new homes . . . or moving into larger, more comfortable homes. Other families, particularly young marrieds starting out, will be buying a home for the first time.



In these pages we hope to be of some assistance to Columbus area families who will be making plans for the wonderful experience and pride of home ownership.

THEY'RE WONDERFUL

"LET HIM SKIP His BATH TONIGHT," the familiar public service to little boys seen on Columbus Outdoor Advertising Company billboards, evoked such gratifying reaction that the company adopted a message this year for Little Girls, as shown above. Now on display around Columbus, "Leave Her Alone With Your Cologne," is based on real life. Everyone knows that every Little Girl loves to imitate her mother in the process of growing up and sometimes the little ones get into difficulties with mother's lipstick, clothes and cologne. Thus, Columbus Outdoor Advertising has placed these posters on display as a Public Service to Little Girls — because they are so wonderful.

What's New? Restaurateurs Coming Here To Find Out

More than 4,000 delegates and about 20,000 registrants are expected at the Mid-American Restaurant Convention and Exposition being staged at Veterans Memorial Building Sept. 14, 15 and 16 by the Ohio State Restaurant Association.

From New York to San Francisco — from all over the United States — famous chefs will converge on Columbus during the National American Institute of Chefs Conferences as a part of the OSRA convention.

Culinary masterpieces and rare gourmet will be as commonplace as hamburgers as equipment manufacturers and suppliers, restaurateurs, food scientists and master chefs gather to pay homage to the culinary arts.

The restaurant people will see exhibits featuring 31 new equipment piecr and 28 completely new food items.

There will be an Unusual Recipes Contest at noon on Wednesday.

Headquarters for the convention will be the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel. On hand to entertain the delegates between rare dishes and business meetings will be the famous "Four Saints."

Altogether, 503 Columbus-based Nationwide employes loaned 1,193 pints of blood in the 12 months ending July 31. Of these, 131 were first-time contributors. This year's Gallon Club membership of 185 is an increase of 38 over last year.

A New Home May Be Answer, Says Specialist

Before you remodel your present house, make sure it's worth the expense and time, suggests Doris Snook, Ohio State University extension housing specialist. Unless the house is in good condition, the cost of remodeling may be as much as or more than building a new one.

Check these points: Are the foundation walls cracked? Floors sagging and shaky? Walls out of plumb? Roof lines uneven and distorted? Do doors and windows fit poorly? Does siding, roof, chimney or stairway need replacing? Will a complete job of plastering and painting be needed?

If all the answers are yes, you'd better reconsider. The cost of remodeling may be more than the building is worth.

Check to see if modern conveniences — plumbing, heating, wiring — can be put into the old shell. Look at the lay-out of the rooms. Can they be arranged for convenience, privacy, needed activities?

Consider, too, the location of the house. Does it have easy access to highways, schools, community services, churches and shopping centers? Would another location be more convenient for your family now, or in the future? Other location factors to consider are availability of water, ease and method of sewage disposal, drainage and exposures.

'Good Show!' Report Spectator Users

Hard work behind the scenes in overhauling THE SPECTATOR into a major newspaper in Columbus and Central Ohio is paying off to both readers and advertisers.

A recent example was comment in a bulletin from the Lane Shopping Center Merchants Association:

"Our Back-To-School Promotion in the August 26th edition of The Spectator newspaper with Lane Advertisements and fine publicity was a great success and a real traffic builder to our Center. Many of the stores reported high percentage increases, some reported the largest gross day that they ever enjoyed."

The bulletin told merchants, "The Spectator did an outstanding job for our Center . . . Let's keep the ball rolling!"

Officers Elected At Bogen Heating

New officers of Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning Co., 490 N. High-st, were announced at a recent board meeting by W. E. Bogen, chairman of the board.

Thomas E. Bogen, newly elected president, is a professional engineer, having graduated from Ohio State University, and has been associated with the company for 10 years. During that time he has worked in all phases of the business, including service, installation, sales and engineering.

T. E. Bogen

Other newly-elected officers are Lewis B. Lannon, vice-president; William P. Mitchell, treasurer and John H. Bogen, secretary. Arthur D. Bogen remains as general manager.

ON RECOVERY SHIP

Senior Chief Hospital Corpsman John J. Glandon, USN, son of Mrs. George M. Reid of 1286 Pauline-st, served aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain, primary recovery ship for Project Gemini 5, during splashdown and subsequent recovery operations of astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad.

Tickets Mailed For Ruth Lyons Show At Vets

The 4,015 tickets for the Ruth Lyons' "50-50 Club" appearance at Veterans Memorial Friday, Sept. 17, at noon on TV-4, are in the mail.

Immediately following Miss Lyons' announcement of her plans to visit Columbus, the deluge of mail began. More than 10,000 letters requesting tickets, with postmarks from every corner of the Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana area were received. To honor all of the requests would have more than filled both St. John Arena and the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

The process of selecting the ticket recipients was done in as fair a manner as possible. First, all the letters with postmarks from outside the TV-4 Central Ohio coverage area were disqualified. From the remaining thousands, letters were drawn at random until the 4,015 tickets had been distributed.

Planning Six New BBF's

Plans to build six more BBF restaurants here have been announced by Columbus restaurant men Milton Lustnauer and Roy Tuggle. Locations will be announced in the near future.

Upon their completion, the local business operation will include 19 units, located throughout the city.

The first BBF opened here at Central Point in 1961. Since then, the whirling satellite sign has become a landmark in communities throughout the three-state area.

All BBF units are company owned and operated, and there are no franchises. Vice-president in charge of all personnel and operations is James W. Near of Reynoldsburg. Main offices for the firm are located at 619 Harrisburg-pk.

Gallery Players To Hold Tryouts

Gallery Players of the Jewish Center will hold tryouts for "Seidman and Son," the first in the 1965-66 Americana series. Tryouts are scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 12, at 2 p.m., and Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m., in the Green Room at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av.

"Seidman and Son," written by Elick Moll, will be a Columbus premiere for Gallery Players, and requires a cast of nine men and 12 women, with ages from 16 to 60. The show concerns a New York dress manufacturer and his Seventh Avenue place of business, and the cast will require four models.

Anyone interested in obtaining a script or more information may call the Gallery Players office, BE. 1-2731.

Public Invited To Conference

A Family Life Conference will be held Sept. 10 and 11 at the Weber Road Alliance Church, 1088 E. Weber-rd. Dr. Forrest C. Stevenson, Jr., executive director of the Christian Foundation for Emotional Health in Lincoln Park, Mich., with centers also in Detroit and suburban areas, will be the main speaker.

THEY'RE WONDERFUL

"LET HIM SKIP HIS BATH TONIGHT," the familiar public service to little boys seen on Columbus Outdoor Advertising Company billboards, evoked such gratifying reaction that the company adopted a message this year for Little Girls, as shown above. Now on display around Columbus, "Leave Her Alone With Your Cologne," is based on real life. Everyone knows that every Little Girl loves to imitate her mother in the process of growing up and sometimes the little ones get into difficulties with mother's lipstick, clothes and cologne. Thus, Columbus Outdoor Advertising has placed these posters on display as a Public Service to Little Girls — because they are so wonderful.

More than 4,000 delegates and about 20,000 registrants are expected at the Mid-American Restaurant Convention and Exposition being staged at Veterans Memorial Building Sept. 14, 15 and 16 by the Ohio State Restaurant Association.

From New York to San Francisco — from all over the United States — famous chefs will converge on Columbus during the National American Institute of Chefs Conference as a part of the OSRA convention.

Culinary masterpieces and rare gourmet will be as commonplace as hamburgers as equipment manufacturers and suppliers, restaurateurs, food scientists and master chefs gather to pay homage to the culinary arts.

The restaurant people will see exhibits featuring 31 new equipment piecr and 28 completely new food items.

There will be an Unusual Recipes Contest at noon on Wednesday.

Headquarters for the convention will oe the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel. On hand to entertain the delegates between rare dishes and business meetings will be the famous "Four Saints."

A New Home May Be Answer, Says Specialist

Before you remodel your present house, make sure it's worth the expense and time, suggests Doris Snook, Ohio State University extension housing specialist. Unless the house is in good condition, the cost of remodeling may be as much as or more than building a new one.

Check these points: Are the foundation walls cracked? Floors sagging and shaky? Walls out of plumb? Roof lines uneven and distorted? Do doors and windows fit poorly? Does siding, roof, chimney or stairway need replacing? Will a complete job of plastering and painting be needed?

If all the answers are yes, you'd better reconsider. The cost of remodeling may be more than the building is worth.

Check to see if modern conveniences — plumbing, heating, wiring — can be put into the old shell. Look at the layout of the rooms. Can they be arranged for convenience, privacy, needed activities?

Consider, too, the location of the house. Does it have easy access to highways, schools, community services, churches and shopping centers? Would another location be more convenient for your family now, or in the future? Other location factors to consider are availability of water, ease and method of sewage disposal, drainage and exposures.

Planning Six New BBF's

Plans to build six more BBF restaurants here have been announced by Columbus restaurant men Milton Lustnauer and Roy Tuggle. Locations will be announced in the near future.

Upon their completion, the local business operation will include 19 units, located throughout the city.

The first BBF opened here at Central Point in 1961. Since then, the whirling satellite sign has become a landmark in communities throughout the three-state area.

All BBF units are company owned and operated, and there are no franchises. Vice-president in charge of all personnel and operations is James W. Near of Reynoldsburg. Main offices for the firm are located at 619 Harrisburg-pk.

Gallery Players To Hold Tryouts

Gallery Players of the Jewish Center will hold tryouts for "Seidman and Son," the first in the 1965-66 Americana series. Tryouts are scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 12, at 2 p.m., and Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m., in the Green Room at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av.

"Seidman and Son," written by Elick Moll, will be a Columbus premiere for Gallery Players, and requires a cast of nine men and 12 women, with ages from 16 to 60. The show concerns a New York dress manufacturer and his Seventh Avenue place of business, and the cast will require four models.

Anyone interested in obtaining a script or more information may call the Gallery Players office, BE. 1-2731.

Public Invited To Conference

A Family Life Conference will be held Sept. 10 and 11 at the Weber Road Alliance Church, 1089 E. Weber-rd. Dr. Forrest C. Stevenson, Jr., executive director of the Christian Foundation for Emotional Health in Lincoln Park, Mich., with centers also in Detroit and suburban areas, will be the main speaker.

Dr. Stevenson will speak Friday at 7:30 p.m. on "Christian Living and the New Morality." Roger Osborn, of this city, will speak at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday on "You and Your Teenager." Dr. Stevenson will also speak on Saturday at 10 and 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

All sessions are free and open to the public.

'Good Show!' Report Spectator Users

Hard work behind the scenes is overhauling THE SPECTATOR into a major newspaper in Columbus and Central Ohio is paying off to both readers and advertisers.

A recent example was comment in a bulletin from the Lane Shopping Center Merchants Association:

"Our Back-To-School Promotion in the August 26th edition of The Spectator newspaper with Lane Advertisements and fine publicity was a great success and a real traffic builder to our Center. Many of the stores reported high percentage increases, some reported the largest gross day that they ever enjoyed."

The bulletin told merchants, "The Spectator did an outstanding job for our Center . . . Let's keep the ball rolling!"

The 4,015 tickets for the Ruth Lyons' "50-50 Club" appearance at Veterans Memorial Friday, Sept. 17, at noon on TV-4, are in the mail.

Immediately following Miss Lyons' announcement of her plans to visit Columbus, the deluge of mail began. More than 10,000 letters requesting tickets, with postmarks from every corner of the Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana area were received. To honor all of the requests would have more than filled both St. John Arena and the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

The process of selecting the ticket recipients was done in as fair a manner as possible. First, all the letters with postmarks from outside the TV-4 Central Ohio coverage area were disqualified. From the remaining thousands, letters were drawn at random until the 4,015 tickets had been distributed.

Officers Elected At Bogen Heating

New officers of Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning Co., 490 N. High-st, were announced at a recent board meeting by W. E. Bogen, chairman of the board.

Thomas E. Bogen, newly elected president, is a professional engineer, having graduated from Ohio State University, and has been associated with the company for 10 years. During that time he has worked in all phases of the business, including service, installation, sales and engineering.

Other newly-elected officers are Lewis B. Lannon, vice-president; William P. Mitchell, treasurer and John H. Bogen, secretary. Arthur D. Bogen remains as general manager.

ON RECOVERY SHIP

Senior Chief Hospital Corpsman John J. Glandon, USN, son of Mrs. George M. Reid of 1286 Pauline-st, served aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain, primary recovery ship for Project Gemini 5, during splashdown and subsequent recovery operations of astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad.

Would you prefer to spread your cost of Winter Heating over the entire year?
You can — with the Gas Company's Budget Payment Plan. You can avoid paying peak gas bills — for your home — in the cold winter months. With the Budget Payment Plan, you normally pay the same amount each month. If abnormal weather conditions or other factors necessitate a change in the budget amount, your monthly payment will be adjusted. What would you pay each month? Look under "Budget Amount" on your September gas bill. You would begin paying that amount the following month. To enjoy the advantages of the Budget Payment Plan, check the square on the back of your September gas bill and return it to the Gas Company.

Numbers Make Big News

By CHUCK HARTLE

The world may seem to be shrinking because you can travel around it faster. But, it's also getting bigger in terms of the numbers of people you rub shoulders with. Two examples of bigger and bigger numbers are in the news this week.

The Ohio State Fair set all new attendance records this year, playing to a total gate of 902,271 and racking up 566,476 paid admissions. The goal for next year is one million people through the turnstiles.

Big numbers are not only goals to be achieved, but also problems to handle . . . in schools, for instance. More than 190,000 pupils are expected to show up for school this week in Columbus and Franklin county.

Expected enrollments are: Columbus Public schools, 160,228; Columbus Diocese Catholic schools, 17,634; Franklin County schools, 25,000; South - Western School District, 14,000; Upper Arlington, 8,250; Whitehall, 5,700; Westerville, 5,300; Worthington, 5,283; Grandview, 1,700 and Bexley, 2,650.

One place where the experts are puzzled by small numbers is Jet Stadium. Only 1,701 fans found their way to the W. Mound-st sports arena for the opening game of the International League play-offs Friday. And the home town team just happens to be champion of the league!

They won that first game and the succeeding one before dropping the third. Attendance for the three-game home stand was 4,710.

One of the interesting sidelights of the State Fair was seeing 70 Ohio heifers joining the international "jet-set." As you could guess these were not run-of-the-barnyard cattle, but pure-bred Jerseys and Brown Swiss.

They were sent to India by the Christian Rural Overseas Program of the Ohio Council of Churches. They'll be crossbred with Indian cattle to help improve milk-producing qualities.

Even though Lex Mayers Chevrolet is leaving 2212 E. Main-st, the old showroom will continue to be used for the latest models with the sleekest lines. Capital University has purchased the property to hold classes in nursing and women's health and physical education in it.

Do you suppose they'll keep the windows as clean and easy to see through as Lex did?

Echoes of the twenties rang through New Albany last week as the village's last two taverns were closed. Residents had voted them "dry" in 1964, and the last extension by legal appeal had run out.

It appears unlikely that any number of "speaks" will spring up. It isn't far to "wet" spots down the road.

Bishop Carberry, bishop of the Columbus Diocese of the Catholic Church, will offer Mass at the Shrine of the Miraculous Medal in Paris tomorrow and then will leave for Rome. He will attend the final session of the Vatican Council.

About 40,000 of Franklin County's needy people will be able to double the value of their dollars spent on food. They'll participate in a federal food stamp program now extended to a total of five Ohio counties.

The program will be run by the county welfare department.

In spite of efforts of friends to save him, Jim Bolin, 16, of 4112 Sexton-dr, drowned in an abandoned quarry west of Columbus Saturday.

A Lockbourne AFB warehouse looked like a washing machine that was 20 feet tall when a fire broke out and firemen turned their high-pressure hoses on the soap powder stored inside, creating a sea of suds.

Unfortunately, the soap seemed to be the high sudsing kind and hampered efforts to fight the fire.

More than 20 base firemen were overcome by smoke and three were temporarily hospitalized.

More than 500 estate cases hanging fire in probate court were ordered "extinguished" by Judge Joseph J. Van Heyde. He scheduled hearings on four delinquent cases every 30 minutes each day beginning Oct. 4 until all of them are completed.

State auditors are checking the books in the county treasurer's office. They were brought in following dismissal of two employes for "manipulating funds."

Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher said no charges would be brought since all missing funds had been replaced.

Columbus is seeking Federal Aviation Agency approval of a site southwest of Columbus for a $1.6 million airport. The field would accommodate the largest planes used by businesses. Commercial airlines would noet use it, however.

The In-Town Auto Theater on E. Main-st in Whitehall will be replaced by a shoping center including a Zayre department store.

Woody Hayes this year has one of the smallest football squads in the Big Ten, in terms of numbers. His 57 players are not many for two-platoon football.

Every week seems to have its news of gun battles and teenage criminals. This one was no exception. Included was a running gun battle in German Village, a shooting at a Reynoldsburg service station, and the arrest of five teenagers implicated in 35 burglaries in Grandview and Upper Arlington.

Bethel Rd. Closed For Improvement

Improvement of Bethel-rd is under way between Godown and Olentangy River-rds, closing Bethel for 45 days.

County commissioners recently approved a contract to improve and widen the road between Olentangy River-rd and Riverside-dr (Rt. 33).

County Engineer Guy Elbin says the initial phase of the work includes lowering Bethel two feet at the C&O Railroad underpass, just east of Kenny-rd.

New approaches from Bethel to Kenny, Shuster and Postlewaite-rds are part of this work. Elbin recommends that motorists detour over Godown, Reed and Henderson-rds.

'Fearless' Predictions

Kids! Be A Commander At LAFB!

IT WAS A sneak preview of Kids Day for Mike Penrose, son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Cecil R. Penrose of Lockbourne AFB when Maj. Raymond Irvine briefed him on a F-101B Voodoo. The seventh grader from Hamilton Local Junior High went away convinced that piloting the 1,000 mile-an-hour fighter took a lot of know-how he didn't have.

Kids! This is it! Your big chance to be a commander at Lockbourne Air Force Base and ride in a staff car or fire engine!

Just clip out this coupon for the big Kiwanis-U.S. Air Force Kids Day which will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Sunday, Sept. 26.

But hurry, deadline for the coupon is Monday, Sept. 20. If your name is drawn, you may be the base commander, troop carrier commander, tanker commander, air policeman, head nurse, fire chief or fighter commander.

You will receive VIP treatment for about two hours, riding in the vehicle that suits your position . . . AND you will be accompanied by your real-life counterpart at the air base!

In the middle of the afternoon, you will be whisked to Lockbourne's big stage and introduced to your post to a huge crowd of people.

You will also be given a souvenir jacket with a patch from Lockbourne AFB on it and presented with a scroll telling about your "command."

And, finally, photographers will take your picture so that your buddies will know you were a commander at Lockbourne.

Names of the winning boys and girls will be selected in advance of Kids Day and families will be notified.

Just fill out this coupon and send it to the address given and you may be Lockbourne's NEW COMMANDER!

Even if you aren't a drawing winner, there is still plenty to see during Kids Day.

Among the entertainers will be Flippo, Lucy, Jeannie Cummins, Spook Beckman, Gene Fullen and Hugh DeMoss.

The Wright-Patterson Air Force Band will perform and the Ohio Air National Guard will give a firepower demonstration. There will also be a terrific C-130 demonstration, and the sentry dogs which have been performing at the Ohio State Fair will show how they work.

And kids, there will be plenty of flyovers. The F-101 Voodoo supersonic fighter interceptor among them.

World War I vintage Stearman fighter planes will contrast the spectacle of modern day aircraft.

The static displays will be for roaming, looking, feeling and wiggling. Among the planes you can climb in and look around is the KC-135 jet tanker, the B-47 bomber, the C-130, F-100, F-101, the C-47 and the T-33.

You can also see genuine survival equipment along with the USAF forward air controller and his equipment. Check out the Minute Man missile, too.

Kiwanians ordered miles of hot dogs and tanks of soft drinks for eatin' and sippin'. Some 200-300 Kiwanians are waiting to serve you.

As Base Commander Col. Frank E. Sullivan has said, "This is open house for ALL of Central Ohio.

It's Not A Vacation Home If You Can't Relax There

Unfortunately, many people who want the former wind up with the latter. The time they hoped to spend relaxing from chores at home is used for burdensome maintenance jobs around the "vacation" house.

Vacation homes, more than any other kind of building, should be short on work and long on fun. That's why they should rate as "low-maintenance" buildings, both inside and outside.

Low-maintenance design begins with the selection of suitable exterior materials. Prefinished mineral fiber siding, for example, can be cleaned simply by an occasional washing. The material comes with a long-lasting acrylic coating in a wide range of colors and textures.

Inside, vinyl asbestos floors, plastic laminate countertops and tables, furniture coverings of washable synthetics, and fiberglass curtains can make housekeeping easier.

The time these materials save you from working around the house is time that can be spent relaxing. And that's what vacation homes are for.

266-Unit 'Village Houses' On Eakin Rd. To Open Soon

Hardesty Village, the 266-unit, $6 million dollar condominium community of two-story village houses, will open Sept. 19. The village is located at Eakin-rd and Wayne-av.

This concept in home ownership in the city, already popular in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Miami, is relatively new to the Columbus area. The village will consist of two and three-bedroom village homes with a self-contained convenience center for shopping and services, a proposed swimming pool, recreation facilities and park area.

The 266 units will adjoin the commercial and recreation areas. The community is lighted at night for beauty as well as security. A brick walled entry and gatehouse highlight the two roadways into the Village. The motor court is beautified by fountains and statuary.

Each dwelling unit will have basement, ground floor and second story, plus space for two-car parking with optional carport at the patio entrance. Each home is completely soundproofed. Prices will range from under $15,000 upward.

William E. Loving, Jr., president of Central Homes, Inc., 22 Buttles-av, is the builder. Bert Weinhold, vice-president in charge of sales, said construction and marketing of the village may require two years. General superintendent of construction for Hardesty Village is L. D. Weifenbach.

Brubaker and Brandt, 1453 W. Fifth-av, are the architects.

A long period of careful study and planning preceded the construction of the village. Research was done on similar villages in Europe, and in other parts of the United States.

Each village house has a completely private patio, adding to the old European flavor. There are lovely stone mallways and plush landscaping.

The homes, individually soundproofer, are fully air-conditioned and contain General Electric range, refrigerator, washer and dryer.

Condominium ownership offers the advantages of lower water and sewer rates, as well as lower heating and cooling utility bills, according to Loving. Community beauty is assured through extremely low-cost maintenance charged to each owner. Hardesty Village is the first FHA-approved condominium in Ohio, and third in the country.

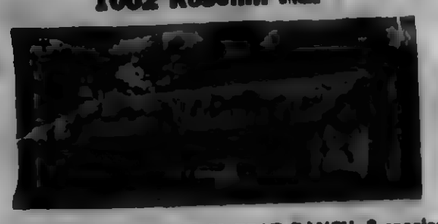
The village is situated five minutes from downtown Columbus, near two shopping centers, and only a few blocks to the Columbus Outerbelt, connecting with any area in Columbus. It is also served by public transportation.

Interior decor for the model village houses is under the supervision of Gwyneth Corbett of Gwynco Associates, a leading consultant in the field of interior decorating and building.

Charity Bazaar At Northland Starts Sept. 21

Committee chairmen of the various charitable, fraternal and civic organizations throughout Columbus and Franklin County are putting their imaginations to work in preparation for participation in Northland Shopping Center's Charity Bazaar Festival, on the mall, Sept. 21 to 25.

The projects so far include such items as hand-painted fabrics, baked goods and even the services of a fortune teller.



Organizations are being asked not to sell commercially-manufactured products.

Organizations which have not yet applied for reservations in Northland's Charity Bazaar Festival may still take advantage of this opportunity to boost fund-raising efforts, during Northland's semi-annual sale days, by calling 267-9258. Booth reservations may be for less than the full five days.

Prizes will be awarded for originality and imagination in decorating.

Everything in your home—heating, cooling, lighting and appliances — can be run by modern, efficient flameless electricity.

Automatic humidity control ensures just the right amount of moisture in the air for a wonderful feeling of well-being. It keeps the skin and nasal passages from drying out and many people feel it also helps to reduce the chances of catching a cold. In addition, proper humidity balance keeps furniture from drying out or warping, and reduces mildew.

You'll be able to sit back and enjoy the comfort of a springtime atmosphere year-round. In winter, flameless electric heating does away with cold drafts and sudden blasts of heat. In summer, flameless electric air conditioning provides gentle cooling action. Electrostatic air filters also remove pollen and other foreign matter from the air.

Because electric comfort conditioning uses no fuel, but only clean, modern flameless electricity, even light-colored walls, draperies and furnishings will stay new-looking season after season.

Working Partner Is Insulation

The working partner of flameless electric comfort conditioning is full insulation, conforming to the all-weather comfort standard for your climate. In addition to increasing the value of your home, this is your assurance of lower operating costs and great comfort.

Selective Temperature Control

With most types of electric heating, thermostats in each room throughout your house let you select the degree of heating you want—when and where you want it. Bedrooms, for example, can be set at one temperature while living areas are kept at another.

Because electric equipment uses few or no moving parts, it's as quiet as can be.

Finally, because electric comfort conditioning requires little or no extra space in your house, you gain additional room which can mean a bonus in the way of a family room, recreation room, workroom, or perhaps a photo darkroom or a den.

Kennedy Documentary To Be Aired By Chan. 6. Sept. 9

"Young Man From Boston," the story of the life of John F. Kennedy and his rise to the presidency, will be presented on WTVN, Channel Six, Thursday, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m.

In portraying the personal life of Kennedy, the special tells of his growing years, as a young football player, a Harvard freshman, an enthusiastic sailor, a war hero and a devoted father and husband.

Many of the photographs and film clips are possessions of family and close friends and have never been seen before. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was consulted throughout the production and gave her approval to the whole script.

It took eight months of preparation and thousands of man hours to achieve this production. All aspects were researched and authenticated by Jules North, who did much for ABC's "The Making of a President," which won the "Emmy" for the best single program of 1964.

The special will be narrated by Joseph Cotton and musical background will be provided by the Kingston Trio, the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Gordon MacRae.

The telling of the life of John F. Kennedy is not a political show. The assassination itself is omitted, showing only the President and Mrs. Kennedy in the motorcade in Dallas and switching to the funeral and the eternal flame in Arlington.

New Ballet Group Slates Auditions

The newly-formed Christopher Ballet Company will hold auditions for membership on Saturday, Sept. 11, at the Ditzie Nagy Academy of Dance, 2431 E. Main-st. Auditions will be held at 1 p.m. for ages 10 to 13 and at 2:30 for ages 14 and up. Only those now studying under recognized teachers of ballet may audition, and if accepted for membership in the company, must continue under such a teacher.

Judges for the audition are John Williams, of the Ballet Guild of Cleveland; Ditzie Nagy Baccie, artistic director, and Tatjana Smith, associate artistic director, of the Christopher Ballet Company.

Persons desiring further information may call 231-9675 or 231-6757. A spokesman for the group said the first performance of the new company is planned for early spring of 1966.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

In the same mail recently I received two items of more than casual interest. One was the chilling Newsweek magazine survey "Crime in the Streets." The other was a "toy" gun copyrighted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc.

The plastic gun is the "Napoleon Solo Gun," based on the NBC-TV series, "The Man from UNCLE," and manufactured by the Ideal Toy Company of Hollis, New York. It was even more chilling than the magazine article, which indicated that 48 percent of all persons arrested for serious crime last year were 17 years old or younger. (Read that statistic again.)

The Ideal Toy Company proudly states: "The gun converts into a rifle with stock, silencer, telescopic sight and a bipod" — which is almost identical to the equipment used to murder a U.S. President from a window in a Dallas book warehouse.

Have they forgotten so soon? It has been only 21 months since part of John Kennedy's head was blown off by bullets from a rifle with a silencer and telescopic sight bought from a mail order house. Have they forgotten so soon?

The amazing intent and satirical style of the television program are obvious and certainly "The Man from UNCLE" has its place in the network schedule That is not my concern at this moment. My concern is with the type of playthings we put in the hands of our young people—specifically the "Napoleon Solo Gun," named after the hero of a weekly program avidly followed by youngsters.

We are living in a society that is rich beyond our parents' dreams but, at this writing, things are not going so well in our society, particularly at the fringes — and the fringe is getting wider every day.

When things don't go well, some people resort to the gun. They are answered by the gun — and then, watch out, Charlie! We're all in trouble.

This is not to suggest that a private manufacturer is not entitled to sell what the public will buy. If we can't control the sale of real guns to adults, it is wildly optimistic to think the flourishing market in substitutes can be curtailed.

But isn't it time that everyone in an executive position in any enterprise of any size joins in an effort to make killing unfashionable?

If I were the executive producer of a television program of the actor whose picture is on the box or a member of the board of directors of a studio which is running guns on the side, I don't believe I would sleep very well these nights.

"Harmless kids' playthings," someone always observes at this point. Yet I cannot ever forget what a classmate of Lee Harvey Oswald said during a television interview. His words should be engraved over the door of every toy manufacturer in the country:

"I remember that Lee carried around a plastic toy gun for a while in high school and was worried because it didn't look like a real gun. He finally painted it but still it didn't look real. Later he came to me and said he knew of a store window that had a gun in it and he planned to break the glass and steal it. He even bought himself a glass cutter . . ."

I wonder how many youngsters will be similarly inspired by the plastic gun from "The Man from UNCLE?"

The cost is within the reach of everyone. It's just about equal to the price of a trip to visit a relative in state prison —or to lay a wreath of flowers on a grave.

Free Drive-In Dates 'The Robe'

The Christian Free Drive-In Theatre, located just south of 1900 W. Mound-st, Saturday, and Sunday nights Sept. 11 and 12, is showing "The Robe" in Cinemascope and color at 7:30 p.m.

This film follows the career of a drunken and dissolute Roman tribune, Marcellus, assigned the duty of executing three criminals in th eprovidence of Jerusalem. It is from the novel by Lloyd C. Douglas.

Free pop will be given to each child 15 years old and under and the church group having the largest number present on Saturday night will receive a free skating party at Hilliard Skating Rink.

County Plans To Join Innis And McCutcheon

Bids are expected to be open late this year or early 1966 for a project to join McCutcheon and Innis-rds just west of Sunbury-rd, according to County Engineer Guy Elbin.

County commissioners approved plans for the project last week which will carry McCutcheon-rd (which now deadends from the east at Sunbury) across the latter road.

A new bridge will be constructed over Alum Creek on Innis-rd.

Moves To Liquor Job

Capt. John T. McCrate, chief of the investigative section of the State Highway Patrol, retired Sept. 7 to accept an administrative position with the State Department of Liquor Control.

In his new job which pays $600 a month, McCrate is assistant chief of the investigative training and inspection division.

McCrate, 53, of 3498 Girbert-st, Grove City, is married to the former Lucille Patser of Grove City. They have two children.

The Wonderful World Of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Shep was given to us as a puppy. He has grown into a fine specimen of mixed-dog. His one fault is that he is the friendliest dog in the world. He would open the door if he could and invite anyone in who comes by.

My husband is gone a lot and I hoped Shep would be a good watch dog. He watches, all right, but only in the capacity of official greeter, complete with a big hello, charming smile and wagging tail. Is there something I can do to make him more of a watch dog?—N.P.

DEAR N.P.: As long as Shep is so effusive in his greeting, it's unlikely anyone can drop in unnoticed, so this four-legged "Welcome Waggin" does serve his purpose—sort of. While chances are good he could be made to trade that smile for a snarl—with the proper (?) training—be sure that end result is what you really want.

If Shep makes the switch, he could become just as enthusiastic in his new people-eater role as he now is in his people-greeter capacity.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What kind of first aid can I use for my cat, Caesar? He gets stung on the nose by bees and he still chases them. —R.R.

DEAR R.R.: Scrape off (do not squeeze) the stinger. There isn't too much you can do beyond that, at home. (Obviously soaking the affected part is out of the question.) In case of severe allergic reaction a veterinarian would have to give an injection of adrenalin at once.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Before I moved here, the vet was treating my dog's itching skin for something he called "eczema." When I took Lucky into his new vet, he started treating him for something he called "dermatitis." How do I know which one to believe? —B.P.

DEAR B. P. You can believe both veterinarians. Admittedly, it is confusing, but eczema and dermatitis are merely different names for the same skin condition.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I read in one of your columns that too much music is bad for birds. Since then I've been wondering if the music my parakeet loves is bad for her. Especially her favorite record, "Do Wah Diddy Diddy." Whenever she hears music, she does a hop. Is all this bad for good old Tweedy?—D.P.

DEAR D.P.: Music, as such, isn't bad for birds — even a record like Tweedy's favorite. If good old Tweedy isn't too old, the exercise she gets while doing her dance step is probably even beneficial. The bird-bugging problem with music — or with noises that may resemble it — is the volume. Too many decibels (sound units) are detrimental to birds' brains and related parts of their anatomy.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When we got our Siamese cat in Siam, he was quite gentle. This summer we came back to our apartment in the States and now Tasie is mean. For no reason, he will walk over to you and bite your leg. He does this quite often. Do you know what there is about the States that makes him mean? He is more than a year old now.—N.D.

DEAR N.D.: The frustrations that invoke such behavior from Tasie are not based solely on his move to the U.S. If Tasie is a confined cat, he has no way to release his aggressions by hunting. Nor is there any possibility of finding female companionship to pique and then, presumably placate his passion.

His ego, not his country, should be held accountable for this. Hormones, not geography, are primarily responsible. Surgery, plus as much exercise as his surroundings allow, will help overcome Tasie's tendency to attack.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a cat that loves to go out and sit under our lawn sprinkler if it isn't turned on too hard. Is she insane?—C.S.

DEAR C.S.: Not necessarily. Many cats seemingly possessing all their faculties don't have enough sense to come in out of the rain (or fraction thereof). On a hot day, this would really seem to be a good idea. The difficulty is that cats often sit in a draft. If soaked, they may easily catch pneumonia. (Be sure yours gets a good rubdown, or at least a warm bed, after a drenching.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have gone through five dogs in the last four years. They all died. We like dogs but it is an awful nuisance always having to get new ones. The good thing is we never had to pay anything for these dogs. All ours have been free mongrels.

A friend had a dog that died of distemper. She said that our last dog looked like hers before it died. My father doesn't believe in expensive shots for dogs — says it makes sissies of them. Could you tell me what distemper looks like in a dog and is my father right?—L.S.

DEAR L.S.: It would be impossible to give you an exact description of a dog with distemper. The symptoms and appearance of the affected dog varies with the form the virus takes—and with the complications that might be present.

A veterinarian is the logical one to diagnose a case of distemper, and even he may have to resort to precise laboratory tests. If an occasional dog "yelps" when given a distemper injection it could mean the dog was a "sissy" to begin with. However, an injection wouldn't mold, nor alter the dog's personality.

Vaccinations do, however, have a lot to do with allowing a dog to live long enough to develop a personality in the first place. Possibly your dogs have been dying from distemper. Then another one would likely suffer the same fate, unless it was vaccinated beforehand. If your father is not willing to spend the money necessary to protect a dog then it is inhumane to bring another one home.

Whether a dog is "true" or not, it is entitled to proper care, and this includes vaccination for distemper and other virus diseases. A willingness to give a dog a home can hardly be considered a kindness if the dog is then exposed to a lingering illness and death.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

Unlike baseball, which has a rule for everything, a President may use as many pens as he wants to sign a bill. George Washington used one duck quill per signature and as far as I know, never gave one to anybody.

But nowadays a President figures out beforehand how many people he wants to favor and then uses that number of pens to write his name. Again, unlike baseball, there are no official records, but Washington observers feel Mr. Johnson is clearly the champion pen-giver and may have already established an all-time mark.

If LBJ can improve his halting writing style, and if Congress will pass enough bills, I figure every registered voter will have at least one pen by the election of '68.

MAVERICK

By Richard L. Forsyth

WITH MUDDY SHOES

Ohio can well be proud of its deer, in size if not in number. Since the inception of the Buckeye Big Bucks Club, eight years ago, Ohio has been constantly in the top 10 states mentioned in the Boone & Crocket Record Book.

I feel this is due in a great part to the untiring efforts of the reporting system of the Big Bucks Club. With C. W. McWilliams at the helm this year, the club has completed a system of locating and measuring large deer racks that is the best in the nation.

THE BBBC was the first of its kind in the nation on a statewide basis and was formed in February, 1957, under the guiding hand of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio at their annual convention.

Strict rules were drawn up and the only way one may join is to drop a deer in fair chase that has a rack large enough to meet BBBC's standards. There are now 166 members from all over Ohio.

The deerhunters held their annual picnic and business meeting last Sunday at Lake Maria, just east of Mansfield. Friction had developed between the president and the liaison man in the Division of Wildlife. The president asked for and received a vote of loyalty from the club and all ended well.

THE MAJOR part of the meeting was taken up with the discussion of the 1965 deer regulations. It was brought up that the five northwesterly counties which have a special season on any size, any sex deer are a loss to the rest of the state.

Wildlife Council regulations request anyone hunting in that area to furnish written permission from the landowner where they intend to hunt. This disincludes almost all the taxpayers but the landowners in those five counties.

It was stated that this is a large step toward the old European baronial system. Although the 85 percent of the people in Ohio must support the rural landowners with parities, soil bank monies and tax inequities, they have no return in values from these great, supported land masses.

IT WAS further pointed out that the "five day bucks only" law in southeastern Ohio was a return to the emotional thinking of 30 years ago. Many of the hunters there expressed fear that the hunters would continue to shoot the first deer in sight and hope it was a legal kill.

In these cases, the hunter mistakenly killing a young buck or a doe would, of course, leave it for the buzzards. This is against any and all good conservation practices.

Other men were concerned about the early dates of the hunt. They feel that a lot of meat will be spoiled by the high temperatures usually found during the first week in November.

ALMOST TO a man, the Buckeye Big Bucks felt that a closed season would increase the herd and make it harder for the poachers to work. They stated that apparently the only reason the season would be open this year would be the five dollars gleaned from each hunter (This amounted to $155,000 last year.).

The problem of Ravenna Arsenal and its heavy deer population was discussed. It was decided that, if the grounds are to be used for an atom plant, the entire deer herd should be removed from there and turned loose where the people of Ohio could enjoy them. (The Division of Wildlife plane check showed 2,700 deer on the reservation but officials on the grounds stated that there are more than 5,200 inside the fences.)

I feel that, atom plant or not, the wildlife of Ohio belongs to the people of Ohio, not to special military interests and firm action should be taken through our Senators and Representatives to get the herd out of there or let the entire public have a shot at them.

THE ARSENAL is inactive and has been for years. Neither it nor the deer thereon are necessary to our nation's defense.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

They're Off! . . .

They're at the starting gate and tomorrow night, when kickoff whistles sound, they'll be off!

At the outset of each football season, everybody's a league champion. It isn't until the wins and losses are socked away each week that the picture becomes sharp and gets in focus.

IN THE Wittenmeier past three seasons, we can't remember when things were so much out of focus, so early.

But here's how it looks from here, 24 hours before kickoff:

CITY LEAGUE

EAST'S Tigers are defending champs and should be no worst than a co-favorite again this year. Big asset is defense where eight of 11 members of a stingy unit (70 points in nine games) return.

Sharing the spotlight with East is Brookhaven (number one pick in consensus of CL coaches). Offensively potent with speed to burn, Bearcats are also defensively sound.

Other City elevens who could surprise the experts are Eastmoor (big but inexperienced), Central (plenty of depth) and Marion-Franklin (explosive offense).

CENTRAL BUCKEYE

On paper, Mt. Vernon has the edge but it's pretty hard to [illegible] Arlington lost heavily but with over 100 candidates out each year nobody ever counts the Bears out.

To complicate matters, Worthington and Whitehall have plenty of vets back and can't help but be better than last season. No "breathers" scheduled this season in CBL.

BUCKEYE ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

OBL'S "SMALL" schools will have the balance this fall in BAC they couldn't find in seasons past.

Delaware's Pacers have most people back but Bexley appears to be able to provide dramatic about-face this season. Final order could be: Delaware, Bexley, Grandview and Urbana.

COUNTY LEAGUE

IT'S DIFFICULT to drop West Jefferson or Reynoldsburg from the top spot but the Riders excused 12 good seniors last season and the Raiders lost 18.

FCL coaches like St. Marys who returns three-fourths of a speedy backfield which averaged 30 points per game last season.

West Jefferson, Reynoldsburg and possibly Canal Winchester, could give the Rams a real run for the money.

MID-EIGHT LEAGUE

LONDON, whose lone loss was a narrow one to unbeaten loop champ Gahanna, last fall, is everyone's pick this time around.

Better not exclude the Lions, however. They'll be a contender as will Hilliard, who has speed and the remnants of a young, break-even '64 club.

Westerville will be improved but one of the three above should rule the roost come November.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE

LOOKS LIKE a re-run of the '64 season with Watterson and DeSales (co-champs last fall) likely to battle it out again. The competition will be stiffer, however, with both Hartley and Ready improved.

Hawks have speed, Knights have size but [illegible] are still probably a year or so away. Give the edge to DeSales 1(7 lettermen back) over Watterson.

SOUTH SUBURBAN

PLEASANT VIEW, who closed with a flurry last season, is the top bet to unseat Franklin Heights, who lost heavily in the graduation department (all but one starter).

Panthers will have one of the best fullbacks in the area. Only injuries have prevented them going head and shoulders above other three league mates.

Hamilton Township still has the size but little depth (26 candidates). Teays Valley will be improved but not enough to seriously contend.

AREA Sports

21 Million Vets Eligible Under New Home Law

"Cold War" veterans now qualify for low-down-payment, government-insured mortgages up to $30,000, announced Orin Morris, president of the Columbus Board of Realtors.

A federal housing law, just signed by President Johnson, extends home loan benefits to post-Korean War veterans and assists older veterans who have not used up their eligibility.

This includes World War I and Spanish-American War veterans.

Under the new program, the Federal Housing Administration would insure 100 percent of the first $15,000 of a home mortgage, 90 per cent of the value in excess of $15,000 to $20,000, and 85 per cent of the value in excess of $20,000 to $30,000.

"In other words," explained Mr. Morris, "a veteran would need no down payment for a home worth $15,000 or less. For a home worth $20,000, he needs a $500 down payment, and for a $30,000 home he needs $2,000."

The veteran must have served at least 90 days on active military service and have received an honorable discharge, Morris said.

He advised eligible veterans interested in purchasing a home to consult a professional realtor.

★ MAYOR APPOINTS MAN WHO CAUSED HIS PRIMARY DEFEAT ★

Polzer Back As Service Director

By FRANK RYAN

Whitehall Mayor Bill Holzhause has re-appointed as service director the man who quit the post early this year to run against him in the Republican primary election.

James C. Polzer, credited with bringing about the defeat of Holzhause by former Mayor Walter B. Moling last May, will serve at least until the end of the year.

(The 69-year-old Moling will attempt a political comeback when he faces Democrat Paul J. Haytcher, who, at 41, is completing his second term as Whitehall solicitor.)

Holzhause officially revealed the Polzer appointment in an exclusive interview with The Spectator. The mayor was candid in discussing the persons behind his decision.

"Actually," he said, "I was faced with a unique problem. I had to find a man who was familiar with the city and its service department operation, and who would be willing to take over for a possibly limited tenure.

"I recently learned that Mr. Polzer would be willing to come out of retirement to serve as service director for the balance of the year. He has the distinct advantage of having organized and put into operation the present procedures followed in the service department. There have been no major changes in either personnel or procedures since he left the job."

Whitehall has been without a service director since the resignation in early August of Joe Shannon, who served in the post for six months. It has since become increasingly apparent that the duties of mayor and service director are more than one man can handle.

Holzhause pinpointed the problem with the frank admission that he could not effectively handle both jobs. "I gave serious thought and effort to holding down both jobs," the mayor said. "But I soon found that one man [illegible] not do justice to two full-time jobs."

But if Holzhause faced a unique problem in trying to find a qualified prospect for a short-term appointment, his decision was no less unique in the history of Whitehall politics and city government operation.

Polzer and Donald G. Waddell headed the 1963 campaign in which Holzhause scored a stunning 49-vote victory over Moling, who was then seeking his fifth consecutive term. It was the first try for public office by Holzhause, who ran as an Independent.

But Holzhause, who decided to seek a second term as a Republican candidate, lost the support of both men. Polzer entered the race just prior to the filing deadline, and Waddell headed up the Polzer campaign. Waddell had earlier resigned the safety director's post to which he was appoint-

Group Desires Annex To Bexley

Columbus, growing by leaps and bounds through a series of annexations in past decade, may lose a little to Bexley if a few Preston-rd residents convert their expressed interest into action.

Bexley Council was informed Tuesday night that the schools had received a request from a homeowner on Preston-rd, just west of the city's boundary, to send her child to Bexley's Schools.

The school system has a long-standing rule to accept no non-resident students, therefore children living on the street between Bexley's western boundary and Wolfe Park must travel across the city to a Columbus school.

Dr. E. E. Jarvis, school superintendent, in a letter to council informed members that a number of Preston-rd residents had indicated a desire that Preston be annexed into Bexley.

Council members also learned from another letter that they would be asked to rezone a two-acre tract along Alum Creek, west of Westland, to permit construction of apartments.

Approval was given ordinances to assess various residents the city's cost of cutting weeds on their property, for a total of $13.65.

Also approved was the assessment of $1134 to Mark Merkle, the cost of installing a sidewalk on his property along E. Broad from Merkle to Gould-rd.

COUNCIL REPORT

Referred to committee for study was a request for a four-way stop sign at Denver and Cassingham. The traffic record listed one small accident at the intersection this year as the first since 1962.

Also assigned to committee was a letter signed by College-av residents asking that parking be limited on the west side of College-av. There is now a parking ban on the east side of the street.

Cinema East Opens Tonight In Whitehall

Convenience, comfort and contemporary design distinguish the new Cinema East Theater at 4177 E. Broad-st, opening to the public this week.

A far departure from stereotyped theaters, Cinema East was designed by owner Charles Sugarman and architect, Leon Seligson.

"Lord Jim," premiere film of the first-run movies to be shown at the theater, will be seen by first-nighters at Thursday's opening. A benefit showing for Bexley Unit, Columbus Symphony Orchestra, was held Wednesday night.

Sugarman, guided by his belief that people are becoming more discriminating in their taste and that theater owners must not only keep pace but think ahead, chose patrons' comfort and convenience as planning keys.

The high, circular wall of rough-cut stone on E. Broad is actually the back of the theater. The entrance and the 90 by 32-foot marquee conveniently face the well-lighted parking area. An entrance with a canopy over a double driveway is an innovation.

And a ticket counter inside the lobby replaces the old concept of a box office outdoors. The modern concession stand, recessed into a wall in the lobby, may also be reach-

Public Invited To Open Meeting On Whitehall Recreation Center

A public meeting to air details of the proposed city recreation center and to launch a program to publicize the bond levy needed for its construction, will be held by the Whitehall Recreation Board Monday, Sept. 20, 8 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

The 20-year levy for nine-tenths of a mill, to appear on the November ballot would, if passed, cost the average taxpayer about $6 a year.

Estimated total cost of the facility, including land, building, architect and legal fees, is $770,000.

Proposed site of the building is the land immediately north of the high school, just south of a small shopping center on Yearling-rd. A frame house occupies part of the site.

However, Leon Schottenstein, owner of the tract, last week requested council to rezone the land to general commercial to permit construction of a restaurant.

Under normal procedures the rezoning measure would not be ready for council action for at least two months, after the Nov. 2 election that will decide the fate of the recreation center.

A rezoning request is referred to Planning and Zoning Commission for 30 days' study and a recommendation is made. A public hearing is then scheduled for another four weeks later.

The Yearling-rd site was particularly preferred by the Recreation Board for its central location and for its proximity to the high school.

The proposed center would include a swimming pool of a size to permit competitive swimming, and would make possible a high school swimming team.

Other features of the center are a gymnasium with a full-size collegiate court which may be divided into two smaller courts, meeting, and arts and crafts rooms, exercise and games rooms, auditorium with stage and kitchen.

A pistol and rifle range on the lower level would provide a practice range for Whitehall Police officers, as well as for rifle and pistol teams.

The building architect, Harold Schofield, will be on hand at the Sept. 20 meeting to answer questions and explain details of the center.

Eastmoor-Whitehall Battle Highlights Area Grid Sked

BELLI SERIES — was what Reynoldsburg saw most Friday night in its opener with Gahanna. The Lions' 205-pound fullback Dave Belli (34) made quite a few dents in the Raider defense. Above, Reynoldsburg's Gary Lacey (23) and Mike Gorrell (66) prepare to make sure Belli is halted on this first half gainer.

"You just throw away all the statistics and go at it."

That's the way Whitehall Coach Jim Bline described his Rams annual rivalry game with Eastmoor — coming up tomorrow night on the Ram rectangle.

"NO MATTER what kind of problems they're having at Eastmoor, when you say 'Whitehall', everything changes," Bline added. "It's always a tough one."

Last fall, Eastmoor snapped a two-year win skein by Whitehall in the series, winning 12-0 on the virtue of a pair of TD scampers by Wayne Mixon.

AGAINST Westerville last week, the Rams piled up 229 on offense (14 first downs) while holding the Wildcats outside the 20 yard line except on the opening kickoff when Westerville took it 87 yards to paydirt.

But Whitehall matched that effort on the ensuing kickoff and trailed, 8-6, with 11:30 left in the first period. "I guess that's the sign of a good ball club, coming right back like that," Bline said.

Both clubs should be physically healthy for the rivalry renewal. The Rams are nursing a few bumps and bruises but everyone should be ready to go tomorrow night, Bline believes.

IT'S PRETTY much the same at Eastmoor with one exception. Warrior coach Bob Stuart lists starting halfback Rick Lech (bad knee bruise) as his only questionable starter.

"We were real happy with the Westerville game," Bline remarked, "when you consider we didn't have a scouting report and went in 'cold'."

"We felt both our offense and defense played well," Bline added. "The passing was good (quarterback Mike Allen hit on eight of 13 tosses) and the defense blocked two punts (both by corner man Mike Griffin, one recovered for TD by Rick Foltz)."

BLINE'S MAIN concern tomorrow night will be Eastmoor's beefy line. "Our scout at the Hartley game said Eastmoor's line looked like a college line, averaging over 200 lbs. per man. We'll be greatly outweighed with only one starter reaching that 200 mark," the Ram coach said.

Another Whitehall problem should be the Warriors' left halfback, 5-8, 150-pound junior sprinter Phil Stark. "If he gets loose, we'll never catch him," Bline added.

"We know Eastmoor's 6-2 defense will give us problems. We'll just have to force them out of it. We know we can't just play 'hard nose' football with them, they're just too big," the Whitehall mentor concluded.

EASTMOOR'S Bob Stuart is mainly concerned about how his Warriors can put the stopper on Mike Allen, Whitehall's quarterback. "We know he can 'sneak' and roll out well and he throws an awful good pass," Stuart said. "We ought to know how good he is — we brought him up over here," the Warrior coach added. (Allen transferred from E-M last summer).

Although Hartley only outgained his Warriors by some 50 yards last Friday, "six million mistakes" proved fatal to E-M win hopes, Stuart stated. "They only really had one good drive against us."

The Warrior coach was pleased with the play of his interior line against the Hawks. "Inside tackle we did OK. If we can shore up the perimeters of our defense, we will be all right," Stuart concluded.

IN OTHER area games tomorrow night, Gahanna (1-0) hosts Bexley (0-1), East (1-0) entertains Ready (1-0), Marion-Franklin (1-0) visits Hartley (1-0) and Walnut Ridge (0-1) journeys to Zanesville (1-0).

The other area eleven — Academy — opens its season Saturday at Toledo against Country Day.

Hartley, Whitehall, East 11s Sock Away Opening Victories

East, Hartley, Whitehall and Gahanna notched impressive opening wins last weekend while three other area elevens stumbled in '65 debuts.

Neither a driving rainstorm nor Steubenville's highly-regarded reputation could discourage the Tigers who presented new coach Chuck Robson with a 19-6 debut victory Saturday night.

HARTLEY matched its speed against Eastmoor's size and came out on top, 24-2—one of four Central Catholic elevens to sidetrack City League opponents last weekend.

Whitehall, unruffled by an 87-yard opening kickoff touchdown by Westerville, declared turnabout "fair play" and rolled on to a lopsided 36-8 win over the Wildcats.

Reynoldsburg got a "Belli" full of Gahanna's 200 lb. fullback Dave as the '64 Mid-Eight champs warmed up for a title defense with a defense-minded 14-6 over the Raiders.

ELSEWHERE, Bexley almost got revenge for a 32-0 '64 dubbing, before bowing to Logan, 16-6, while Walnut Ridge suffered a 12-6 setback at the hands of Ashville's Teays Valley.

Workhorse fullback Scott French tallied two of Hartley's three touchdowns against Eastmoor.

After a scoreless first period, the Hawks capitalized on a poor Warrior punt to march in from the E-M 23—French carrying the final five yards.

THE HAWKS doubled their margin shortly after intermission by rolling 66 yards in six plays with French again lighting up the scoreboard.

Eastmoor regained two of those points in the final stanza when Larry Mixon diagnosed a Hartley reverse and nabbed the Hawk ball carrier in the end zone.

Jerry Dill tossed cold water on further Eastmoor scoring shortly thereafter, however, ending a Warrior drive inside Hartley's 30 by picking off an E-M aerial and sprinting 77 yards to put the game on ice.

CHUCK WRIGHT was the best "mudder" in sight at Steubenville Saturday, scoring twice in the defending CL champs' win over Central Catholic.

Wright provided East with a 13-6 first half bulge, enlarged by six more points in the third frame when flanker back Rod Jones gathered in a 25-yard scoring toss from quarterback Paul Stith.

Westerville's Darrell Ballinger grabbed Whitehall's opening kickoff and didn't stop running until he crossed the final stripe, 87 yards away, Friday.

THE FANS hadn't even stopped buzzing about that one when the Rams' Mike Fleming duplicated Ballinger's feat (less ten yards) on the ensuing kickoff.

That was the extent of the Wildcats' offense but not Whitehall's as the Rams tallied twice in the second and once each in both periods after intermission.

Tom Barton, Count Fuller and quarterback Mike Allen racked up other touchdowns via short runs while Rick Foltz jumped on a blocked Westerville punt for the other score.

GAHANNA fullback Dave Belli wouldn't be too welcome in Reynoldsburg after what he did to the Raiders' defense Friday night.

Belli piled up 126 of Gahanna's total 227 rushing yards, breaking up a tight defensive battle with four minutes remaining in the first half, by circling end for a TD.

Reynoldsburg's fullback Gene Harshaw knotted the count in the third frame but Gahanna battled back to "carbon copy" their winning 14-6

OUTA' MY WAY! — When Gahanna fullback Dave Belli set his sights on the Reynoldsburg end zone on this TD sweep Friday night, he was determined not to stop. Referee at left prepares to signal score and elude what looks like a pretty good straightarm. Gahanna won, 14-6.

In other games, Len Immke Buick took a forfeit from Hackman Realty after a hitting spree resulted in an hour's play to complete two innings. Hackman decided to give the game to Len Immke.

'AW' Plaque Nears Reality

A plaque commemorating the late Alexander W. Livingston, developer of the first edible tomato, which was grown in Reynoldsburg in 1870, will soon become a reality.

Mayor George W. Twyford, who set up the memorial fund to place a plaque in the Municipal Building in memory of the achievement, has received a final contribution to clear the way for the plaque.

The first to give to the fund were two descendants of "A.W." Livingston, Alan S. Livingston, 3000 S. Dorchester-rd, now president of the Livingston Seed Co., 880 Kinnear-rd, and Frank A. Livingston, 1655 Doone-rd.

The Libby, McNeil and Libby Co., Inc., with a tomato plant at Leipsic, O., has promised to complete the donation. Public relations director, Nick Egoroff, said they would like to see a big red tomato out in front of the building also.

Final plans for the plaque are being completed by Gilbert F. Dodds, of the Franklin County Historical Society. He will meet soon with Twyford to draw plans for the dedication ceremonies.

WHO'S FOR AROASTED OX?

THIS SATURDAY, Sept. 18, will be taste-treat day for those who show up at the ninth annual Ox Roast of the Groveport Lutheran Church. For 18 hours before the serving begins at 4 p.m. the meat will be pit-roasted to bring out the flavor with which a housewife's oven cannot compete. Fred Krentz and Chet Weatherington are co-chairmen of the affair, which will be held as usual in the field just a quarter-mile west of Groveport on Groveport-pk. The $1.25 ticket entitles the holder to a huge beef sandwich, baked beans, potato chips, cole slaw or apple sauce, home baked pie or cake and choice of beverage. Those who don't care for the big tent as a dining room will be provided with carry-out service. Among those working on the project are, from the left, Jim Campbell, George Ottman and his son, Craig, Mrs. Virginia Myers, publicity chairman, and her daughter, Sandy, Mrs. Nora Carruthers and Mrs. Fern Ottman.

WHO BELIVES IN SIGNS?

THREE CITY OFFICIALS went down Main-st tacking campaign signs reading "Twyford Works For You." Some fun-loving passerby must have thought they read "Lurks For You," and called the police saying "three suspicious persons were lurking around several places in town." The police knew of the "three desperados" that were loose and never bothered to give chase. The three "lurkers" were Mayor George W. Twyford, Safety Director James A. Steer and Service Director Charles M. Laird.

'64 margin over the Raiders when Bob Mach drove in from the one-yard line one period later.

CHUCK KEMPER scored all his team's points on a pair of TD runs and conversion romps as Logan fought off Bexley's bid for an opening win.

The Lions pulled up within two points after three quarters, thanks to Rick Weber's eight-yard dash to paydirt.

Two big plays provided Teays Valley with all the offense it needed to sidetrack Walnut Ridge.

THE VIKINGS' John Davies covered a Scottie fumble in W-R's end zone in the first period for a score and added what proved to be the winning tally in the third stanzo when Dick Hay went 58 yards after taking a flip from Bruce Reese.

The Scots' lone score came in the final period when quarterback Dick Wollett hit end Pat Beveridge with a 12-yard TD pass.

Plan Would Develop Potential Of Rivers As Center Of Cily's Recreation Activities

PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF THE WEST BANK OF THE SCIOTO RIVER IN COLUMBUS' DOWNTOWN AREA

Total development of the Scioto and Olentangy riverfronts with particular emphasis on the downtown areas as a recreational and cultural center — long a dream with city leaders — is now, at least, down on paper.

A comprehensive preliminary master plan, immense in scope, has been conceived by the Downtown Area Committee, and work will proceed in phases.

The study includes the area from the Grenlawn-av Dam north on the Scioto to the Columbus Zoo, and from the confluences of the two rivers north on the Olentangy to Rt. 161 in Worthington.

No target date for its total completion has been even tentatively set. Progress will depend on how soon money is available and needed land is acquired, according to Emerson Betz, superintendent, City Division of Parks and Forestry, developing agency for the plan.

Discussing the conception of the preliminary master plan, Betz said, "Robert Levy of the Union Co., was 'godfather' of the plan, it was followed through by the Downtown Area Committee, and has the blessings of the Chamber of Commerce and many other civic organizations and agencies." Labrenz and Associates drafted the plan.

Work is already under way on improving the lower Scioto from Greenlawn-av north, and the development of a park at the foot of Whittier-st. "The boat landing areas have been graded," Beaz said, "in expectation of putting in landing ramps for boats, the border of the bank has been prepared with limestone.

"As soon as the police auto pound is removed from the area to the foot of Moler-st, Whittier park will be completed," he continued.

The plan for developing the area west of the central business district was strongly influenced by existing major thoroughfares, railings and firmly established business and residential areas which will remain.

The river bottom area bounded on the east, north and south by the Scioto, and on the west by the innerbelt, would be developed with an eye to varied cultural and recreational interests.

Included in the complex would be park and recreation grounds, boating facilities, government buildings, cultural facilities, commercial and residential areas.

A canal, located along the innerbelt, is an integral part of the design. It would create an island, provide boat launching areas and an opportunity to create a riverfront atmosphere with the development of a mall of specialty shops.

Civic Center

Included in the design concept of the civic center area is Central High, Veterans Memorial, the city health and safety building on the west side of the river, and the state office building complex on the east side.

Improvements would include viewing stands on the river's west hillside between Town and Broad-sts, for audiences at concerts and pageants.

Flagpoles for the 50 state flags would be installed on the east side of the river between Town and Broad-sts, and a pedestrian mall from Rich-st to Veterans Memorial which would utilize the abandoned Washington-blvd right-of-way.

In future development the mall would be extended to Sunshine Park. A system of secondary walks at water's edge would provide fishing areas.

It is anticipated that all types of pleasure craft would be permitted. An excursion of sight-seeing boats might also be used.

Scioto River

Development of the banks of the Scioto would provide a greenbelt, where possible, from Columbus Zoo to the downtown area.

The land just above Griggs Dam is now used for recreation. Large areas of undeveloped land, including Marble Cliff quarries, would seem feasible to acquire in sections as the land is abandoned.

It would also be desirable to acquire riverfront land from Griggs Reservoir to O'Chaughnessy Dam for pedestrian paths and trails.

A greenbelt is also planned for the Olentangy from Rt. 161 in Worthington to the confluence of the two rivers.

Development of the west bank would be determined by location of the proposed Olentangy Expressway. A system of pedestrian walks if possible along the west side.

Boating would be possible from Dodridge-st north of Rt. 161 for canoes and rowboats. Power boating would be feasible south of the King Avenue Dam, provided there is river channel improvement.

Development Stages

First phase of development would include the pedestrian mall on the west side of the Scioto, from the city health and safety building, including the viewing stands, to Veterans Memorial, and the east side of the river, including Civic Center-dr, from the Olentangy River to Whittier Park.

Second phase of development would be Sullivant Park, assuming that Greenlawn Dam can be raised. Construction of Sullivant Park would necessitate clearing existing substandard housing and miscellaneous commercial establishments.

Third phase would complete the greenbelt between Sullivant Park and Whittier Park.

Fourth and final phase of the downtown development would be the area west of the Chesapeake and Ohio RR to the innerbelt, including Sunshine Park.

Improving this area is based entirely on urban renewal planning, now under study.

Concurrent with the first three phases would be improvement of land adjacent to the Scioto and Olentangy Rivers, to proceed on a continuing basis determined by availability of funds for land acquisition.

Japanese, U. S. Scientists Trade Ideas At Ohio State

Twelve of Japan's leading physicists and chemists are participating in a seminar on far infrared spectroscopy at Ohio State University. The three-day session ends tomorrow (Friday).

The Japanese scientists will discuss new developments in their field with a similar number of American scientists attending from educational and research institutions in this country.

Infrared spectroscopy is the science of determining properties of matter by measuring the way infrared radiation interacts with the matter.

The seminar, first of its kind in this country, is one of several planned under the United States-Japan Cooperative Science Program. The program is being sponsored in this country by the National Science Foundation and in Japan by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science.

Officials expect the program to result in better cooperation between American and Japanese laboratories.

Dr. Ely E. Bell, of 4663 Olentangy-blvd in Clintonville, is in charge of the American arrangements. Dr. Hiroshi Yoshinaga of Osaka University, Japan, is coordinating the Japanese participation.

Oetjen, of 516 Schreyer-pl, Beechwold, served as chief scientist of the National Science Foundation in Tokyo from 1962 to 1964.

No man who ever held the office of President would congratulate a friend on obtaining it. He will make one man ungrateful, and a hundred men his enemies, for every office he can bestow.—John Adams.

No Mere Downpour Will Ever Dampen Grandma Zip's Spirits

By JANE ROBINSON

It was a dismal, rainy day last Saturday afternoon, but the sun was shining on Mrs. Elizabeth Zipf.

She was celebrating her 101st birthday and happy as sweet 16, surrounded by her five sons, two daughters and 150 friends and progeny.

The reception was held at St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church where "Grandma" Zipf has worshipped since a child. No gift was more treasured than the eight-inch gold cross presented by her church's pastor, Rev. LeRoy Green, in memory of her lifetime membership.

When the party was over, her daughter, Mrs. Helen Redd, asked, "Mother, are you tired?"

"Of course, not," was the snappy reply. "Why should I be? All I have done is have a wonderful time and I'm ready for another one," laughed the indomitable centenarian.

Mrs. Zipf, who lives with Mrs. Redd on Champion-av, takes birthdays in her stride. She is as active today as at her 99th celebration when she let it be known that she preferred bingo to aches and pains and planning for tomorrow to looking back on a hundred busy years.

Among the scores of gifts showered on "the zippy Mrs. Zipf" were an elegant birthday cake from Resch's Bakery and roses from Lou Viereck, the Florist.

With the excitement over for another year, Mrs. Zipf is consoling herself with the thought that Christmas is not too far away.

Holidays have always been a big thing in the Zipf family and she knows that she'll be seeing her children, her 11 grandchildren, her 23 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren when Dec. 25 rolls around.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

German Willage has been getting so much publicity mein filing cabinet is bursting its letter "6" section. From a personal schtandpoint der most interesting item vas a color photo of mein Garten. Dis appeared inder August issue of "American Home" while I vas on Long Island.

Several thoughtful Columbusites, including Mrs. Paul Isaly, sent me clippings, which vere forwarded to me by my faithful neighbor, John, "Hans" Dober. Der "American Home" photo interested our Long Island friends too.

An Old Brookeville connection said, "That Hollywood company wanted to film 'The Group' on our estate and we were interested. But then Jim and I read that McCarthy woman's novel. It was utterly filthy and we told the Hollywood people so. Now you move to a funny place like this German Village of yours and appear in 'American Home'. Well!"

Although I appreciated der "American Home" schot, I had reservations about it. After der editor had planned deir article, dey wrote me for permission to use deir photo, which had been taken while I vas avay. Along mit my permission I sent dem a "before" photo. Dey used it but since deir schpace vas already planned, dey put two photos vhere dey had planned vone. Both vere so schmall I needed a magnifying glass to see dem.

Dis photo is also over a year old und does not show George Shea's handsome new brick vork. Please, German Willage Society chentlemen, take an up-to-date shot of mein Garten for offical use.

"House und Home" vhich calls itself "Managment Publication of the Housing Industry", had its August issue devoted to urban rehabilitation. Dis fascinating article used German Willage as its impressive opening, den vhent on to similar efforts in Philadelphia und New Orleans.

It showed before und after views of Dorothy und Ralph Fisher's story-book cottage at 481 S. Third-st, of Frank Fetch's early restoration on Vail-st. und of Kaizerplatz at Willow und Mohawk.

Ve who live in der Willage are proud of der owners of Kaizerplatz, Sam und Bess Shamansky und Thomas Maimone, for mopping up dat schpot und giving us a complex significan. enough to be praised in a national publication. Of course, Kaizerplatz is a modest effort compared to the Philadelphia und New Orleans rehabilitations presented. Dese represented as much as five million in Geld.

So far no big Columbus investor has bought a complete German Willage block und done it up brown. It is, however, common knowledge dat vone of der dumpiest rows in German Willage has been bought by a hush-hush front for a family organization so imposing its name is a household vord in Southern und Central Ohio. Vonce di family acquires der neighboring properties you can expect a million-dollar-plus restoration in German Willage. Und den, vonderful to contemplate . . . goodbye dumps.

Vone of der first tings I did vhen I got back from Lon Gisland vas to rush down und inschpect Alice und Marion Boyer's Haus across from Beck Square. No doubt about it, mein friends der Boyers have der architectural jewel of German Willage.

Der Boyers schtill have deir big (11 rooms, 3½ baths) country Heim on der outskirts of Canal Vinchester. It is schtill up for sale. Some lucky couple mit growing kids is going to enjoy dis gracious Haus — mit elewator yet! — der beautiful landscaping, und der lush acreage big enough for ponies und horses. Vonce dis family acquires der Boyer's country dream, Alice und Marion vill call Beck-st home.

IN AFROTC

STEPHEN L. MILLER, of 980 Chelsea-av, has completed four weeks of U. S. Air Force training at the Strategic Air Command's Plattsburg AFB, N. Y. A member of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) unit at Ohio State University, he is the son of Mrs. Georgia H. Miller. The graduate of Bexley High School will be eligible for appointment as an Air Force second lieutenant upon graduation and completion of AFROTC training.

INSISTING THAT it was inappropriate that she should be pictured at ease in a home that is still at sixes and sevens ("I am really an immaculate housekeeper"), Mrs. Kenneth Northamer had an alternate idea. "It would be much more natural to snap me out in the yard, in shorts and flats, trying to make something grow," she laughed.

Bert Northamer Has Two Heroes: The Colonel And ??

By JANE ROBINSON

Col. Kenneth Northamer brought a lovely lady with him when he came to take over the command of Lockbourne AFB recently.

His wife, Bert, is attractive, poised, gracious and dedicated to both her family and the responsibilities that are hers as the first lady of a huge military installation.

However, the Spectator learned that there is another man in her life.

His name?

Well, we better tell before someone thinks there is scandal involved.

It is none other than that grand old man of baseball, Casey Stengel.

Underdog Fan

An avid baseball fan (woe to anyone who intrudes upon her privacy during the World Series next month!) Mrs. Northamer has long rooted for the underdog.

And when Casey Stengel took over the Mets in their role as the doormats of the National League, she was presented with a ready-made hero.

But her dream that she would see him have the pleasure of bringing home a pennant is sinking fast as the Mets burrow more deeply into the cellar.

It's highly improbable however, that Mrs. Northamer can beg, borrow or steal the time to mourn the decline of her idol.

She is a woman to whom home is terribly important and she's approaching the setting up of her new household with the tenacity of a first sergeant.

During her husband's long career she has refused to regard her residences as temporary, making each one a home instead of a point of assignment.

In only one area has she given in to the inevitable, and that is with the matter of roses.

An enthusiastic flower gardener (and wherever she goes, a few tomato plants are a "must") she has long given up putting in rose bushes that she knows may never reach their prime before duty calls the family elsewhere.

There'll Be Tulips

The old farmhouse which is reserved for the ranking officer at LAFB fascinates Mrs. Northamer and she is impatiently waiting to move in. (It is currently being rewired.) She wants to get her tulips in for next spring, unpack the personal items that make a strange base "home" and to get "organized" so that she can plunge into the roll of hostess, which she enjoys.

An inveterate reader, history and politics are her particular forte and she already has her heart set on leisure hours in the Ohio Room of the Columbus Public Library where she can learn both the fable and the facts of Central Ohio.

She is busy speculating on how the old farmhouse came to be. It is apparent to her, that its rambling rooms were built over a period of years.

"I'd love to know," she smiled, "whether the house was enlarged to correlate with a growing family or with a growing fortune."

A theatre addict with a lively curiosity concerning Scioto Downs . . . two pleasures that await Bert Northamer will be postponed until next summer when the track and the Kenley series reopen.

It's Top Secret

And about that name "Bert."

Her real name is "top secret" and from her attitude it is unlikely that even the FBI could get her to reveal it.

The Northamer's daughter, Karen, a recent graduate of Washington School for Secretaries, is with her parents, and their son Lt. Kenneth Northamer, Jr., is stationed at Ft. Bragg.

Looking back over the years of itinerant living (Kenneth, Jr., was born in Alaska a few days before Pearl Harbor and Japan was their home during the Korean conflict) Mrs. Northamer has few regrets. She thinks the advantages of a world-wide education overshadows the problem of adjustment the children experienced as school-hoppers as teenagers.

Loves Antiques

In fact she may even be guilty of using these hobbies to her own advantage.

Not long ago she discovered a beautiful antique, marble topped buffet. Pointing out the carved ducks and fish it bears, it did not take her long to convince the Colonel that it was an item the Northamer household could not afford to be without.

Sitting in her living room, stacked with packing cases bearing unique legends such as "linnens" and "traies" (she translated the latter into TV tables) it was not difficult to imagine yourself in a well-appointed home.

Why?

Because the charm and hospitality of Bert Northamer is not dependent upon her surroundings.

She has the ability to make herself and her guests at home wherever she may be.

Andrew Hinderman Killed In Viet Nam

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hinderman of 1671 Belmead-av were notified Sept. 11 that their only son, Andrew, 21, was killed in action in Viet Nam early that day.

Hinderman

Andrew was a 1962 graduate of Franklin Heights High School. He also was a graduate of the Columbus Drafting College and took further drafting courses at Ohio State University.

Before enlisting in the Marines last Sept. 17, he was employed at the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., as a draftsman.

He also sang in the choir of the West Park Methodist Church, along with his father, while his mother played the organ. Mrs. Hinderman has been the church organist for 27 years.

Andrew was reportedly killed by a sniper bullet while on patrol. He was in the radio communications section and was assigned to carry a 20-foot antenna. He was a private first class in the Marine Corps and had been stationed at Da Nang Air Base. He had been in combat since his arrival in Viet Nam three months ago.

Albert Hinderman was retired May 1 after 20 years with the Columbia Gas of Ohio, the firm at which his son was employed as a draftsman before the enlistment. Mr. Hinderman was widely known as a member of the "Dagpatchers" during many of his years with the Gas Co.

Director—

ed by Holzhause.

While Polzer finished a distant third in the Republican balloting for mayor, the 245 votes he garnered probably spelled the difference between victory and defeat for Holzhause — who lost the election by 64 votes.

Holzhause declined to dwell on the political "falling out" with Polzer.

"My final choice (in selecting a service director) had to be based on what is best for the people of Whitehall," he said. "If I had made by decision on the basis of political differences, I would not be worthy of the trust the people placed in me when they elected me as their mayor."

Then Holzhause quipped: "Just because I'm a lame duck mayor is no reason why I should turn over a crippled city government to the next mayor of Whitehall."

Holzhause admitted that he had considered other applicants and prospective candidates for the city post.

"I was interested in getting someone who could do more than just fill a vacancy," he said. But even a qualified man would need time to acquaint himself with the workload, the equipment and the personnel available to meet demands. And time is something we don't have much of."

One of the "time" elements concerning the mayor is the weather.

"Even with the temperatures in the 80 to 90-degree range lately," he said, "I had to think of the snowfall that might hit Whitehall before the end of the year. If and when that happens, we'll need someone acquainted with the city and the service department to do the job right."

And if Polzer lacks popular support for his political ambitions, he seems to enjoy strong bi-partisan support for his ability to head the city's service department. Reliable sources in Whitehall political circles report that Polzer has some support in both the Haytcher and Moling camps.

If Polzer performs to expectations, it could be that Holzhause is actually making a political appointment for the man who will succeed him as mayor.

Plan Would Develop Potential Of Rivers As Center Of Cily's Recreation Activities

PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF THE WEST BANK OF THE SCIOTO RIVER IN COLUMBUS' DOWNTOWN AREA

Total development of the Scioto and Olentangy riverfronts with particular emphasis on the downtown areas as a recreational and cultural center — long a dream with city leaders — is now, at least, down on paper.

A comprehensive preliminary master plan, immense in scope, has been conceived by the Downtown Area Committee, and work will proceed in phases.

The study includes the area from the Grenlawn-av Dam north on the Scioto to the Columbus Zoo, and from the confluences of the two rivers north on the Olentangy to Rt. 161 in Worthington.

No target date for its total completion has been even tentatively set. Progress will depend on how soon money is available and needed land is acquired, according to Emerson Betz, superintendent, City Division of Parks and Forestry, developing agency for the plan.

Discussing the conception of the preliminary master plan, Betz said, "Robert Levy of the Union Co., was 'godfather' of the plan, it was followed through by the Downtown Area Committee, and has the blessings of the Chamber of Commerce and many other civic organizations and agencies." Labrenz and Associates drafted the plan.

Work is already under way on improving the lower Scioto from Greenlawn-av north, and the development of a park at the foot of Whittier-st. "The boat landing areas have been graded," Beaz said, "in expectation of putting in landing ramps for boats, the border of the bank has been prepared with limestone.

"As soon as the police auto pound is removed from the area to the foot of Moler-st, Whittier park will be completed," he continued.

The plan for developing the area west of the central business district was strongly influenced by existing major thoroughfares, railings and firmly established business and residential areas which will remain.

The river bottom area bounded on the east, north and south by the Scioto, and on the west by the innerbelt, would be developed with an eye to varied cultural and recreational interests.

Included in the complex would be park and recreation grounds, boating facilities, government buildings, cultural facilities, commercial and residential areas.

A canal, located along the innerbelt, is an integral part of the design. It would create an island, provide boat launching areas and an opportunity to create a riverfront atmosphere with the development of a mall of specialty shops.

Civic Center

Included in the design concept of the civic center area is Central High, Veterans Memorial, the city health and safety building on the west side of the river, and the state office building complex on the east side.

Improvements would include viewing stands on the river's west hillside between Town and Broad-sts, for audiences at concerts and pageants.

Flagpoles for the 50 state flags would be installed on the east side of the river between Town and Broad-sts, and a pedestrian mall from Rich-st to Veterans Memorial which would utilize the abandoned Washington-blvd right-of-way.

In future development the mall would be extended to Sunshine Park. A system of secondary walks at water's edge would provide fishing areas.

It is anticipated that all types of pleasure craft would be permitted. An excursion of sight-seeing boats might also be used.

Scioto River

Development of the banks of the Scioto would provide a greenbelt, where possible, from Columbus Zoo to the downtown area.

The land just above Griggs Dam is now used for recreation. Large areas of undeveloped land, including Marble Cliff quarries, would seem feasible to acquire in sections as the land is abandoned.

It would also be desirable to acquire riverfront land from Griggs Reservoir to O'Chaughnessy Dam for pedestrian paths and trails.

A greenbelt is also planned for the Olentangy from Rt. 161 in Worthington to the confluence of the two rivers.

Development of the west bank would be determined by location of the proposed Olentangy Expressway. A system of pedestrian walks is possible along the west side.

Boating would be possible from Dodridge-st north of Rt. 161 for canoes and rowboats. Power boating would be feasible south of the King Avenue Dam, provided there is river channel improvement.

Development Stages

First phase of development would include the pedestrian mall on the west side of the Scioto, from the city health and safety building, including the viewing stands, to Veterans Memorial, and the east side of the river, including Civic Center-dr, from the Olentangy River to Whittier Park.

Second phase of development would be Sullivant Park, assuming that Greenlawn Dam can be raised. Construction of Sullivant Park would necessitate clearing existing substandard housing and miscellaneous commercial establishments.

Third phase would complete the greenbelt between Sullivant Park and Whittier Park.

Fourth and final phase of the downtown development would be the area west of the Chesapeake and Ohio RR to the innerbelt, including Sunshine Park.

Improving this area is based entirely on urban renewal planning, now under study.

Concurrent with the first three phases would be improvement of land adjacent to the Scioto and Olentangy Rivers, to proceed on a continuing basis determined by availability of funds for land acquisition.

Japanese, U. S. Scientists Trade Ideas At Ohio State

Twelve of Japan's leading physicists and chemists are participating in a seminar on far infrared spectroscopy at Ohio State University. The three-day session ends tomorrow (Friday).

The Japanese scientists will discuss new developments in their field with a similar number of American scientists attending from educational and research institutions in this country.

Infrared spectroscopy is the science of determining properties of matter by measuring the way infrared radiation interacts with the matter.

The seminar, first of its kind in this country, is one of several planned under the United States - Japan Cooperative Science Program. The program is being sponsored in this country by the National Science Foundation and in Japan by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science.

Officials expect the program to result in better cooperation between American and Japanese laboratories.

Dr. Ely E. Bell, of 4663 Olentangy-blvd in Clintonville, is in charge of the American arrangements. Dr. Hiroshi Yoshinaga of Osaka University, Japan, is coordinating the Japanese participation.

Dr. Robert A. Oetjen, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences laid much of the groundwork for the seminar.

No Mere Downpour Will Ever Dampen Grandma Zip's Spirits

By JANE ROBINSON

It was a dismal, rainy day last Saturday afternoon, but the sun was shining on Mrs. Elizabeth Zipf.

She was celebrating her 101st birthday and happy as sweet 16, surrounded by her five sons, two daughters and 150 friends and progeny.

The reception was held at St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church where "Grandma" Zipf has worshipped since a child. No gift was more treasured than the eight-inch gold cross presented by her church's pastor, Rev. LeRoy Green, in memory of her lifetime membership.

When the party was over, her daughter, Mrs. Helen Redd, asked, "Mother, are you tired?"

"Of course, not," was the snappy reply. "Why should I be? All I have done is have a wonderful time and I'm ready for another one," laughed the indomitable centenarian.

Mrs. Zipf, who lives with Mrs. Redd on Champion-av, takes birthdays in her stride. She is as active today as at her 99th celebration when she let it be known that she preferred bingo to aches and pains and planning for tomorrow to looking back on a hundred busy years.

Among the scores of gifts showered on "the zippy Mrs. Zipf" were an elegant birthday cake from Resch's Bakery and roses from Lou Viereck, the Florist.

With the excitement over for another year, Mrs. Zipf is consoling herself with the thought that Christmas is not too far away.

Holidays have always been a big thing in the Zipf family and she knows that she'll be seeing her children, her 11 grandchildren, her 23 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren when Dec. 25 rolls around.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

German Willage has been getting so much publicity mein filing cabinet is bursting its letter "6" section. From a personal schtandpoint der most interesting item vas a color photo of mein Garten, Dis appeared inder August issue of "American Home" while I vas on Long Island.

Several thoughtful Columbusites, including Mrs. Paul Isaly, sent me clippings, vhich vere forwarded to me by my faithful neighbor, John, "Hans" Dober. Der "American Home" photo interested our Long Island friends too.

An Old Brookeville connection said, "That Hollywood company wanted to film 'The Group' on our estate and we were interested. But then Jim and I read that McCarthy woman's novel. It was utterly filthy and we told the Hollywood people so. Now you move to a funny place like this German Village of yours and appear in 'American Home'. Well!"

Although I appreciated der "American Home" schot, I had reservations about it. After der editor had planned deir article, dey wrote me for permission to use deir photo, vhich had been taken vhile I vas avay. Along mit my permission I sent dem a "before" photo. Dey used it but since deir schpace vas already planned, dey put two photos vhere dey had planned vone. Both vere so schmall I needed a magnifying glass to see dem.

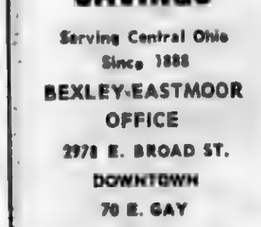
Dis photo is also over a year old und does not show George Shea's handsome new brick vork. Please, German Willage Society chentlemen, take an up-to-date shot of mein Garten for offical use.

"House und Home" vhich calls itself "Managment Publication of the Housing Industry", had its August issue devoted to urban rehabilitation. Dis fascinating article used German Willage as its impressive opening, den vhent on to similar efforts in Philadelphia und New Orleans.

It showed before und after views of Dorothy und Ralph Fisher's story-book cottage at 481 S. Third-st, of Frank Fetch's early restoration on Vall-st. und of Kaizerplatz at Villow und Mohawk.



Ve who live in der Willage are proud of der owners of Kaizerplatz, Sam und Bee Shamansky und Thomas Maimone, for mopping up dat schpot und giving us a complex significan. enough to be praised in a national publication. Of course, Kaizerplatz is a modest effort compared to the Philadelphia und New Orleans rehabilitations presented. Dese represented as much as five million in Geld.

So far no big Columbus investor has bought a complete German Willage block und done it up brown. It is, however, common knowledge dat vone of der dumpiest rows in German Willage has been bought by a hush-hush front for a family organization so imposing its name is a household vord in Southern und Central Ohio. Vonce di family acquires der neighboring properties you can expect a million-dollar-plus restoration in German Willage. Und den, vonderful to contemplate . . . goodbye dumps.

Vone of der first tings I did vhen I got back from Lon Gisland vas to rush down und inschpect Alice und Marion Boyer's Haus across from Beck Square. No doubt about it, mein friends der Boyers have der architectural jewel of German Willage.

Der Boyers schtill have deir big (11 rooms, 3½ baths) country Heim on der outskirts of Canal Vinchester. It is schtill up for sale. Some lucky couple mit growing kids is going to enjoy dis gracious Haus — mit elewator yet! — der beautiful landscaping, und der lush acreage big enough for ponies und horses. Vonce dis family acquires der Boyer's country dream, Alice und Marion vill cal' Beck-st home.

INSISTING THAT it was inappropriate that she should be pictured at ease in a home that is still at sixes and sevens ("I am really an immaculate housekeeper"), Mrs. Kenneth Northamer had an alternate idea. "It would be much more natural to snap me out in the yard, in shorts and flats, trying to make something grow," she laughed.

Bert Northamer Has Two Heroes: The Colonel And ??

By JANE ROBINSON

Col. Kenneth Northamer brought a lovely lady with him when he came to take over the command of Lockbourne AFB recently.

His wife, Bert, is attractive, poised, gracious and dedicated to both her family and the responsibilities that are hers as the first lady of a huge military installation.

However, the Spectator learned that there is another man in her life.

His name?

Well, we better tell before someone thinks there is scandal involved.

It is none other than that grand old man of baseball, Casey Stengel.

Underdog Fan

An avid baseball fan (woe to anyone who intrudes upon her privacy during the World Series next month!) Mrs. Northamer has long rooted for the underdog.

And when Casey Stengel took over the Mets in their role as the doormats of the National League, she was presented with a ready-made hero.

But her dream that she would see him have the pleasure of bringing home a pennant is sinking fast as the Mets burrow more deeply into the cellar.

It's highly improbable however, that Mrs. Northamer can beg, borrow or steal the time to mourn the decline of her idol.

She is a woman to whom home is terribly important and she's approaching the setting up of her new household with the tenacity of a first sergeant.

During her husband's long career she has refused to regard her residences as temporary, making each one a home instead of a point of assignment.

In only one area has she given in to the inevitable, and that is with the matter of roses.

An enthusiastic flower gardener (and wherever she goes, a few tomato plants are a "must") she has long given up putting in rose bushes that she knows may never reach their prime before duty calls the family elsewhere.

There'll Be Tulips

The old farmhouse which is reserved for the ranking officer at LAFB fascinates Mrs. Northamer and she is impatiently waiting to move in. (It is currently being rewired.) She wants to get her tulips in for next spring, unpack the personal items that make a strange base "home" and to get "organized" so that she can plunge into the roll of hostess, which she enjoys.

An inveterate reader, history and politics are her particular forte and she already has her heart set on leisure hours in the Ohio Room of the Columbus Public Library where she can learn both the fable and the facts of Central Ohio.

She is busy speculating on how the old farmhouse came to be. It is apparent to her, that its rambling rooms were built over a period of years.

"I'd love to know," she smiled, "whether the house was enlarged to correlate with a growing family or with a growing fortune."

A theatre addict with a lively curiosity concerning Scioto Downs . . . two pleasures that await Bert Northamer will be postponed until next summer when the track and the Kenley series reopen.

It's Top Secret

And about that name "Bert."

Her real name is "top secret" and from her attitude it is unlikely that even the FBI could get her to reveal it.

The Northamer's daughter, Karen, a recent graduate of Washington School for Secretaries, is with her parents, and their son Lt. Kenneth Northamer, Jr., is stationed at Ft. Bragg.

Looking back over the years of itinerant living (Kenneth, Jr., was born in Alaska a few days before Pearl Harbor and Japan was their home during the Korean conflict) Mrs. Northamer has few regrets. She thinks the advantages of a world-wide education overshadows the problem of adjustment the children experienced as school-hoppers as teenagers.

Loves Antiques

In fact she may even be guilty of using these hobbies to her own advantage.

Not long ago she discovered a beautiful antique, marble topped buffet. Pointing out the carved ducks and fish it bears, it did not take her long to convince the Colonel that it was an item the Northamer household could not afford to be without.

Sitting in her living room, stacked with packing cases bearing unique legends such as "linnens" and "traies" (she translated the latter into TV tables) it was not difficult to imagine yourself in a well-appointed home.

Why?

Because the charm and hospitality of Bert Northamer is not dependent upon her surroundings.

She has the ability to make herself and her guests at home wherever she may be.

The graduate of Bexley High School will be eligible for appointment as an Air Force second lieutenant upon graduation and completion of AFROTC training.

Andrew Hinderman Killed In Viet Nam

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hinderman of 1671 Belmead-av were notified Sept. 11 that their only son, Andrew, 21, was killed in action in Viet Nam early that day.

Hinderman

Andrew was a 1962 graduate of Franklin Heights High School. He also was a graduate of the Columbus Drafting College and took further drafting courses at Ohio State University.

Before enlisting in the Marines last Sept. 17, he was employed at the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., as a draftsman.

He also sang in the choir of the West Park Methodist Church, along with his father, while his mother played the organ. Mrs. Hinderman has been the church organist for 27 years.

Andrew was reportedly killed by a sniper bullet while on patrol. He was in the radio communications section and was assigned to carry a 20-foot antenna. He was a private first class in the Marine Corps and had been stationed at Da Nang Air Base. He had been in combat since his arrival in Viet Nam three months ago.

Albert Hinderman was retired May 1 after 20 years with the Columbia Gas of Ohio, the firm at which his son was employed as a draftsman before the enlistment. Mr. Hinderman was widely known as a member of the "Dagpatchers" during many of his years with the Gas Co.

ed by Holzhause.

While Polzer finished a distant third in the Republican balloting for mayor, the 245 votes he garnered probably spelled the difference between victory and defeat for Holzhause — who lost the election by 64 votes.

Holzhause declined to dwell on the political "failing out" with Polzer.

"My final choice (in selecting a service director) had to be based on what is best for the people of Whitehall," he said. "If I had made by decision on the basis of political differences, I would not be worthy of the trust the people placed in me when they elected me as their mayor."

Then Holzhause quipped: "Just because I'm a lame duck mayor is no reason why I should turn over a crippled city government to the next mayor of Whitehall."

Holzhause admitted that he had considered other applicants and prospective candidates for the city post.

"I was interested in getting someone who could do more than just fill a vacancy," he said. But even a qualified man would need time to acquaint himself with the workload, the equipment and the personnel available to meet demands. And time is something we don't have much of."

One of the "time" elements concerning the mayor is the weather.

"Even with the temperatures in the 80 to 90-degree range lately," he said, "I had to think of the snowfall that might hit Whitehall before the end of the year. If and when that happens, we'll need someone acquainted with the city and the service department to do the job right."

And if Polzer lacks popular support for his political ambitions, he seems to enjoy strong bi-partisan support for his ability to head the city's service department. Reliable sources in Whitehall political circles report that Polzer has some support in both the Haytcher and Moling camps.

If Polzer performs to expectations, it could be that Holzhause is actually making a political appointment for the man who will succeed him as mayor.

Plan Would Develop Potential Of Rivers As Center Of Cily's Recreation Activities

PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF THE WEST BANK OF THE SCIOTO RIVER IN COLUMBUS' DOWNTOWN AREA

Total development of the Scioto and Olentangy riverfronts with particular emphasis on the downtown areas as a recreational and cultural center — long a dream with city leaders — is now, at least, down on paper.

A comprehensive preliminary master plan, immense in scope, has been conceived by the Downtown Area Committee, and work will proceed in phases.

The study includes the area from the Greniawn-av Dam north on the Scioto to the Columbus Zoo, and from the confluences of the two rivers north on the Olentangy to Rt. 161 in Worthington.

No target date for its total completion has been even tentatively set. Progress will depend on how soon money is available and needed land is acquired, according to Emerson Betz, superintendent, City Division of Parks and Forestry, developing agency for the plan.

Discussing the conception of the preliminary master plan, Betz said, "Robert Levy of the Union Co., was 'godfather' of the plan, it was followed through by the Downtown Area Committee, and has the blessings of the Chamber of Commerce and many other civic organizations and agencies." Labrenz and Associates drafted the plan.

Work is already under way on improving the lower Scioto from Greenlawn-av north, and the development of a park at the foot of Whittier-st. "The boat landing areas have been graded," Beaz said, "in expectation of putting in landing ramps for boats, the border of the bank has been prepared with limestone.

"As soon as the police auto pound is removed from the area to the foot of Moler-st, Whittier park will be completed," he continued.

The plan for developing the area west of the central business district was strongly influenced by existing major thoroughfares, railings and firmly established business and residential areas which will remain.

The river bottom area bounded on the east, north and south by the Scioto, and on the west by the innerbelt, would be developed with an eye to varied cultural and recreational interests.

Included in the complex would be park and recreation grounds, boating facilities, government buildings, cultural facilities, commercial and residential areas.

A canal, located along the innerbelt, is an integral part of the design. It would create an island, provide boat launching areas and an opportunity to create a riverfront atmosphere with the development of a mall of specialty shops.

Civic Center

Included in the design concept of the civic center area is Central High, Veterans Memorial, the city health and safety building on the west side of the river, and the state office building complex on the east side.

Improvements would include viewing stands on the river's west hillside between Town and Broad-sts, for audiences at concerts and pageants.

Flagpoles for the 50 state flags would be installed on the east side of the river between Town and Broad-sts, and a pedestrian mall from Rich-st to Veterans Memorial which would utilize the abandoned Washington-blvd right-of-way.

In future development the mall would be extended to Sunshine Park. A system of secondary walks at water's edge would provide fishing areas.

It is anticipated that all types of pleasure craft would be permitted. An excursion of sight-seeing boats might also be used.

Scioto River

Development of the banks of the Scioto would provide a greenbelt, where possible, from Columbus Zoo to the downtown area.

The land just above Griggs Dam is now used for recreation. Large areas of undeveloped land, including Marble Cliff quarries, would seem feasible to acquire in sections as the land is abandoned.

It would also be desirable to acquire riverfront land from Griggs Reservoir to O'Chaughnessy Dam for pedestrian paths and trails.

A greenbelt is also planned for the Olentangy from Rt. 161 in Worthington to the confluence of the two rivers.

Development of the west bank would be determined by location of the proposed Olentangy Expressway. A system of pedestrian walks if possible along the west side.

Boating would be possible from Dodridge-st north of Rt. 161 for canoes and rowboats. Power boating would be feasible south of the King Avenue Dam, provided there is river channel improvement.

Development Stages

First phase of development would include the pedestrian mall on the west side of the Scioto, from the city health and safety building, including the viewing stands, to Veterans Memorial, and the east side of the river, including Civic Center-dr, from the Olentangy River to Whittier Park.

Second phase of development would be Sullivant Park, assuming that Greenlawn Dam can be raised. Construction of Sullivant Park would necessitate clearing existing substandard housing and miscellaneous commercial establishments.

Third phase would complete the greenbelt between Sullivant Park and Whittier Park.

Fourth and final phase of the downtown development would be the area west of the Chesapeake and Ohio RR to the innerbelt, including Sunshine Park.

Improving this area is based entirely on urban renewal planning, now under study.

Concurrent with the first three phases would be improvement of land adjacent to the Scioto and Olentangy Rivers, to proceed on a continuing basis determined by availability of funds for land acquisition.

Japanese, U. S. Scientists Trade Ideas At Ohio State

Twelve of Japan's leading physicists and chemists are participating in a seminar on far infrared spectroscopy at Ohio State University. The three-day session ends tomorrow (Friday).

The Japanese scientists will discuss new developments in their field with a similar number of American scientists attending from educational and research institutions in this country.

Infrared spectroscopy is the science of determining properties of matter by measuring the way infrared radiation interacts with the matter.

The seminar, first of its kind in this country, is one of several planned under the United States - Japan Cooperative Science Program. The program is being sponsored in this country by the National Science Foundation and in Japan by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science.

Officials expect the program to result in better cooperation between American and Japanese laboratories.

Dr. Ely E. Bell, of 4663 Olentangy-blvd in Clintonville, is in charge of the American arrangements. Dr. Hiroshi Yoshinaga of Osaka University, Japan, is coordinating the Japanese participation.

Oetjen, of 516 Schreyer-pl, Beechwold, served as chief scientist of the National Science Foundation in Tokyo from 1962 to 1964.

No man who ever held the office of President would congratulate a friend on obtaining it. He will make one man ungrateful, and a hundred men his enemies, for every office he can bestow.—John Adams.

No Mere Downpour Will Ever Dampen Grandma Zip's Spirits

By JANE ROBINSON

It was a dismal, rainy day last Saturday afternoon, but the sun was shining on Mrs. Elizabeth Zipf.

She was celebrating her 101st birthday and happy as sweet 16, surrounded by her five sons, two daughters and 150 friends and progeny.

The reception was held at St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church where "Grandma" Zipf has worshipped since a child. No gift was more treasured than the eight-inch gold cross presented by her church's pastor, Rev. LeRoy Green, in memory of her lifetime membership.

When the party was over, her daughter, Mrs. Helen Redd, asked, "Mother, are you tired?"

"Of course, not," was the snappy reply. "Why should I be? All I have done is have a wonderful time and I'm ready for another one," laughed the indomitable centenarian.

Mrs. Zipf, who lives with Mrs. Redd on Champion-av, takes birthdays in her stride. She is as active today as at her 99th celebration when she let it be known that she preferred bingo to aches and pains and planning for tomorrow to looking back on a hundred busy years.

Among the scores of gifts showered on "the zippy Mrs. Zipf" were an elegant birthday cake from Resch's Bakery and roses from Lou Viereck, the Florist.

With the excitement over for another year, Mrs. Zipf is consoling herself with the thought that Christmas is not too far away.

Holidays have always been a big thing in the Zipf family and she knows that she'll be seeing her children, her 11 grandchildren, her 23 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren when Dec. 25 rolls around.

Der Willage Vanderer

By B. L. SCHMITZ

German Willage has been getting so much publicity mein filing cabinet is bursting its letter "6" section. From a personal schtandpoint der most interesting item vas a color photo of mein Garten. Dis appeared inder August issue of "American Home" while I vas on Long Island.

Several thoughtful Columbusites, including Mrs. Paul Isaly, sent me clippings, vhich vere forwarded to me by my faithful neighbor, John, "Hans" Dober. Der "American Home" photo interested our Long Island friends too.

An Old Brookeville connection said, "That Hollywood company wanted to film 'The Group' on our estate and we were interested. But then Jim and I read that McCarthy woman's novel. It was utterly filthy and we told the Hollywood people so. Now you move to a funny place like this German Village of yours and appear in 'American Home'. Well!"

Although I appreciated der "American Home" schot, I had reservations about it. After der editor had planned deir article, dey wrote me for permission to use deir photo, vhich had been taken vhile I vas avay. Along mit my permission I sent dem a "before" photo. Dey used it but since deir schpace vas already planned, dey put two photos vhere dey had planned vone. Both vere so schmall I needed a magnifying glass to see dem.

Dis photo is also over a year old und does not show George Shea's handsome new brick vork. Please, German Willage Society chentlemen, take an up-to-date shot of mein Garten for offical use.

"House und Home" vhich calls itself "Managment Publication of the Housing Industry", had its August issue devoted to urban rehabilitation. Dis fascinating article used German Willage as its impressive opening, den vhent on to similar efforts in Philadelphia und New Orleans.

Ve who live in der Willage are proud of der owners of Kaizerplatz, Sam und Bess Shamansky und Thomas Maimone, for mopping up dat schpot und giving us a complex significan. enough to be praised in a national publication. Of course, Kaizerplatz is a modest effort compared to the Philadelphia und New Orleans rehabilitations presented. Dese represented as much as five million in Geld.

So far no big Columbus investor has bought a complete German Willage block und done it up brown. It is, however, common knowledge dat vone of der dumpiest rows in German Willage has been bought by a hush-hush front for a family organization so imposing its name is a household vord in Southern und Central Ohio. Vonce di. family acquires der neighboring properties you can expect a million-dollar-plus restoration in German Willage. Und den, vonderful to contemplate . . . goodbye dumps.

Vone of der first tings I did vhen I got back from Lon Gisland vas to rush down und inschpect Alice und Marion Boyer's Haus across from Beck Square. No doubt about it, mein friends der Boyers have der architectural jewel of German Willage.

Der Boyers schtill have deir big (11 rooms, 3½ baths) country Heim on der outskirts of Canal Vinchester. It is schtill up for sale. Some lucky couple mit growing kids is going to enjoy dis gracious Haus — mit elewator yet! — der beautiful landscaping, und der lush acreage big enough for ponies und horses. Vonce dis family acquires der Boyer's country dream, Alice und Marion vill cal' Beck-st home.

INSISTING THAT it was inappropriate that she should be pictured at ease in a home that is still at sixes and sevens ("I am really an immaculate housekeeper"), Mrs. Kenneth Northamer had an alternate idea. "It would be much more natural to snap me out in the yard, in shorts and flats, trying to make something grow," she laughed.

Bert Northamer Has Two Heroes: The Colonel And ??

By JANE ROBINSON

Col. Kenneth Northamer brought a lovely lady with him when he came to take over the command of Lockbourne AFB recently.

His wife, Bert, is attractive, poised, gracious and dedicated to both her family and the responsibilities that are hers as the first lady of a huge military installation.

However, the Spectator learned that there is another man in her life.

His name?

Well, we better tell before someone thinks there is scandal involved.

It is none other than that grand old man of baseball, Casey Stengel.

Underdog Fan

An avid baseball fan (woe to anyone who intrudes upon her privacy during the World Series next month!) Mrs. Northamer has long rooted for the underdog.

And when Casey Stengel took over the Mets in their role as the doormats of the National League, she was presented with a ready-made hero.

But her dream that she would see him have the pleasure of bringing home a pennant is sinking fast as the Mets burrow more deeply into the cellar.

It's highly improbable however, that Mrs. Northamer can beg, borrow or steal the time to mourn the decline of her idol.

She is a woman to whom home is terribly important and she's approaching the setting up of her new household with the tenacity of a first sergeant.

During her husband's long career she has refused to regard her residences as temporary, making each one a home instead of a point of assignment.

In only one area has she given in to the inevitable, and that is with the matter of roses.

An enthusiastic flower gardener (and wherever she goes, a few tomato plants are a "must") she has long given up putting in rose bushes that she knows may never reach their prime before duty calls the family elsewhere.

There'll Be Tulips

The old farmhouse which is reserved for the ranking officer at LAFB fascinates Mrs. Northamer and she is impatiently waiting to move in. (It is currently being rewired.) She wants to get her tulips in for next spring, unpack the personal items that make a strange base "home" and to get "organized" so that she can plunge into the roll of hostess, which she enjoys.

An inveterate reader, history and politics are her particular forte and she already has her heart set on leisure hours in the Ohio Room of the Columbus Public Library where she can learn both the fable and the facts of Central Ohio.

She is busy speculating on how the old farmhouse came to be. It is apparent to her, that its rambling rooms were built over a period of years.

"I'd love to know," she smiled, "whether the house was enlarged to correlate with a growing family or with a growing fortune."

A theatre addict with a lively curiosity concerning Scioto Downs . . . two pleasures that await Bert Northamer will be postponed until next summer when the track and the Kenley series reopen.

It's Top Secret

And about that name "Bert."

Her real name is "top secret" and from her attitude it is unlikely that even the FBI could get her to reveal it.

The Northamer's daughter, Karen, a recent graduate of Washington School for Secretaries, is with her parents, and their son Lt. Kenneth Northamer, Jr., is stationed at Ft. Bragg.

Looking back over the years of itinerant living (Kenneth, Jr., was born in Alaska a few days before Pearl Harbor and Japan was their home during the Korean conflict) Mrs. Northamer has few regrets. She thinks the advantages of a world-wide education overshadows the problem of adjustment the children experienced as school-hoppers as teenagers.

Loves Antiques

In fact she may even be guilty of using these hobbies to her own advantage.

Not long ago she discovered a beautiful antique, marble topped buffet. Pointing out the carved ducks and fish it bears, it did not take her long to convince the Colonel that it was an item the Northamer household could not afford to be without.

Sitting in her living room, stacked with packing cases bearing unique legends such as "linnens" and "traies" (she translated the latter into TV tables) it was not difficult to imagine yourself in a well-appointed home.

Why?

Because the charm and hospitality of Bert Northamer is not dependent upon her surroundings.

She has the ability to make herself and her guests at home wherever she may be.

STEPHEN L. MILLER, of 930 Chelsea-av, has completed four weeks of U. S. Air Force training at the Strategic Air Command's Plattsburg AFB, N. Y. The graduate of Bexley High School will be eligible for appointment as an Air Force second lieutenant upon graduation and completion of AFROTC training.

Andrew Hinderman Killed In Viet Nam

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hinderman of 1671 Belmead-av were notified Sept. 11 that their only son, Andrew, 21, was killed in action in Viet Nam early that day.

Hinderman

Andrew was a 1962 graduate of Franklin Heights High School. He also was a graduate of the Columbus Drafting College and took further drafting courses at Ohio State University.

Before enlisting in the Marines last Sept. 17, he was employed at the Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., as a draftsman.

He also sang in the choir of the West Park Methodist Church, along with his father, while his mother played the organ. Mrs. Hinderman has been the church organist for 27 years.

Andrew was reportedly killed by a sniper bullet while on patrol. He was in the radio communications section and was assigned to carry a 10-foot antenna. He was a private first class in the Marine Corps and had been stationed at Da Nang Air Base. He had been in combat since his arrival in Viet Nam three months ago.

Albert Hinderman was retired May 1 after 20 years with the Columbia Gas of Ohio, the firm at which his son was employed as a draftsman before the enlistment. Mr. Hinderman was widely known as a member of the "Dagpatchers" during many of his years with the Gas Co.

Director—

ed by Holzhause.

While Polzer finished a distant third in the Republican balloting for mayor, the 245 votes he garnered probably spelled the difference between victory and defeat for Holzhause — who lost the election by 64 votes.

Holzhause declined to dwell on the political "falling out" with Polzer.

"My final choice (in selecting a service director) had to be based on what is best for the people of Whitehall," he said. "If I had made by decision on the basis of political differences, I would not be worthy of the trust the people placed in me when they elected me as their mayor."

Then Holzhause quipped: "Just because I'm a lame duck mayor is no reason why I should turn over a crippled city government to the next mayor of Whitehall."

Holzhause admitted that he had considered other applicants and prospective candidates for the city post.

"I was interested in getting someone who could do more than just fill a vacancy," he said. But even a qualified man would need time to acquaint himself with the workload, the equipment and the personnel available to meet demands. And time is something we don't have much of."

One of the "time" elements concerning the mayor is the weather.

"Even with the temperatures in the 80 to 90-degree range lately," he said, "I had to think of the snowfall that might hit Whitehall before the end of the year. If and when that happens, we'll need someone acquainted with the city and the service department to do the job right."

And if Polzer lacks popular support for his political ambitions, he seems to enjoy strong bi-partisan support for his ability to head the city's service department. Reliable sources in Whitehall political circles report that Polzer has some support in both the Haytcher and Moling camps.

If Polzer performs to expectations, it could be that Holzhause is actually making a political appointment for the man who will succeed him as mayor.

Speaker's Rule Modification Is Approved

By FRANK RYAN

Modification of the long-controversial "Speaker's Rule" at Ohio State University has brought a collective — if figurative — sigh of relief from most of the administrative and student leaders who had sought a new rule.

The general consensus is that Tuesday's action by the university Board of Trustees has eliminated the threat of massive demonstrations in protest of the so-called "gag rule." The 4-3 decision by the trustees approved virtually the same changes recommended by the Faculty Advisory Committee and supported by OSU President Novice Fawcett at the July 8 meeting of the trustees.

The trustees rejected the measure by a 5-3 vote in July, with former Senator John W. Bricker acting as spokesman for the dissenting trustees. Bricker and Trustees Carlton S. Dargusch and Mervin B. France cast "no" votes at the Tuesday meeting.

Two trustees who had voted against the rule change in July, John G. Ketterer and Frederick E. Jones, were not at Tuesday's meeting, held in the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center at Wooster. Ketterer reportedly was involved in a labor negotiation meeting for his client, Timken Roller Bearing Co., while Jones was touring Europe.

Board Chairman Allan B. Loop said both Ketterer and Jones knew on July 8 the scheduled date and location of Tuesday's meeting. None of the principals involved in the Tuesday meeting would discuss speculation that the two members were absent by design.

The rule modification was effected when the three board members who had voted for a change in July were joined by James W. Shocknessy, attending his first meeting as a board member. The motion to adopt the rule modification was introduced by Stanley C. Allyn and seconded by Jacob E. Davis. Chairman Loop added his favorable vote during roll call.

The measure was brought to the attention of trustees as the last item of the meeting when President Fawcett noted changes in the July proposal and asked approval of the new rule. The changes made clear the intent to limit speaker invitation privileges to "recognized" student organizations, and specified procedures to be followed when an invited speaker's appearance is "attended by extreme emotional feeling."

Before casting his vote in favor of the change, Shocknessy asked Fawcett to summarize the difference between the rule as proposed in July and at the Tuesday meeting. Fawcett replied that "the emphasis is on recognized student organizations so as to preserve orderly procedures."

The university president, in his brief remarks supporting the change, said the new rule would "strengthen the university as it continues its quest for excellence."

The two most important features of the newly-adopted rule are these:

- Student organizations which have not qualified for recognition under university rules may not "reserve university facilities for meetings or for other purposes," and
- Provisions in Section Three of the new rule which spell out procedure to be followed when the element of "extreme emotional feeling" is involved. The Faculty Advisory Committee is charged with prescribing "conditions for the orderly and scholarly conduct of (such) meetings, but may not select the speaker or topic."

OSU CAMPUS REPORT

Section Three also provides that "Such conditions shall include, but are not necessarily limited to: Designating a member of the tenured university faculty as chairman; limiting attendance to students, faculty and staff; requiring the inclusion of one or more additional speakers at the meeting in question or at a subsequent meeting so that other points of view may be expressed; or requiring a debate format in which the speaker debates with a qualified opponent."

In continuing his opposition to any rule change, Bricker said of the proposal:

"I think that's a decided improvement on the rule that was submitted (in July), but with all that . . . I'm opposed to passing any rule at this time."

Bricker also charged that there is "an element of civil disobedience not only threatened but active on the campus," and added "I'm opposed to the Board of Trustees giving in to it."

Theoretically, the board's action could be short-lived. The trustees will meet again in mid-October, at which time the "Speaker's Rule" could again be considered. Assuming presence of the two absent members who previously opposed modification of the rule, a vote of the full Board of Trustees could reinstate the so-called "gag rule" by a 5-4 vote.

However, reliable OSU sources have indicated that they do not except the rule to be given any new consideration in October. One source said that such a "reversal" move would "not only cause irreparable damage to the university, but would be a source of embarrassment to the Board of Trustees."

Some university sources see the rule modification as a stimulus to those groups who have sought outright abolishment of the speaker's rule. "But," said one student leader, "this will not present any serious problem. The decision of the trustees to modify the rule has stolen the thunder from the more militant proponents of radical change.

"They are not likely to find any appreciable popular support so long as recognized student organizations can choose their speakers."

Sanford Weinberg, a graduate student who represented himself as a spokesman for the Free Speech Front at OSU, was reluctant to commend the action of the trustees.

"We must recognize," he said, "that a rule in itself doesn't establish free speech — on campus or anywhere else. It is in the application of the rule."

"It is our hope that the rule will be tested by inviting speakers who would have been rejected (under the old rule). We plan to bring about tests of the new rule by seeking that speakers representing minority views have an opportunity to address those students who wish to hear them."

He indicated renewal of plans to invite Herbert Aptheker, a Marxist, to speak on campus. But, under the modified rule, Aptheker could not appear under the sponsorship of the Free Speech Front. FSF is not a "recognized" student organization and is therefore ineligible to use campus facilities.

OSU Speaker's Rule Text Shows Old, New Versions

Editor's Note: Many people have argued the pros and cons of the controversial Ohio State University Speaker's Rule. But few outside the campus have had access to the actual working of the rule as it has stood for 14 years and the changes approved Tuesday by the OSU trustees. Following is the full text of the rule (21.09), with revisions printed in bold face type.

GUEST SPEAKERS (21.09) — "Section 1. It is the policy of the University to foster a spirit of free inquiry and to encourage the timely discussion of the broad range of issues which concern our nation, provided that the views expressed are stated openly and are subject to critical evaluation. Within our prevailing standards of decency and honesty, this policy shall be construed to mean that no topic or issue is too controversial for intelligent discussion on the campus. Restraints on free inquiry should be held to that minimum which is consistent with preserving an organized society in which change is accomplished by peaceful, democratic means.

"Section 2. To this end, a recognized student organization, after consultation with its faculty adviser, may invite guest speakers to the campus to address meetings (see Rule 61.05, Section 3, subject only on the following provisions:

a) Sponsorship must be by a recognized student organization.

b) Arrangements for the use of University facilities must be made in accordance with Rules 53.09 and 61.05.

c) It must be made clear that the student organization, not the University, is extending the invitation and that any views the speaker may express are his own and not those of the University.

d) The student organization must take whatever steps are necessary to insure that the meeting is conducted in an orderly manner.

e) The student organization must provide means for critical evaluation of the speaker's view, which must include as a minimum, an open question period following the meeting.

"Section 3. In a situation attended by extreme emotional feeling, the Faculty Advisory Committee to the President and the Board of Trustees shall prescribe conditions for the orderly and scholarly conduct ort the meeting but may not select the speaker or topic. Such conditions may include, but are not necessarily limited to: designating a member of the tenured University Faculty as chairman; limiting attendance to students, faculty and staff; encouraging the inclusion of one or more additional speakers at the meeting in question or at a subsequent meeting so that other points of view may be expressed; or requiring a debate format in which the speaker debates with a qualified opponent.

"The committee shall function on its own initiative or at the request of any of the following: the sponsoring student organization, its Faculty Advisor, the FAC, the Faculty Council, the Council on Student Affairs, the President of the University or his designated representative.

"Section 4. A speaker invited by a student organization must not advocate action or urge the audience to take action which is illegal under the law of the United States, the State of Ohio, any political subdivision of the State of Ohio, or which is prohibited by the rules of the University. It is the responsibility of the student organization to inform speakers of this prohibition.

"Section 5. The maximum penalties for a failure to observe the provisions of Section 2 or for sponsoring a speaker who violates the prohibition of Section 4 of this rule shall be (a) for a single negligent violation (including, as a single violation, multiple violations relating to the same meeting) in any academic year, suspension of the right of the student organization to invite a guest speaker to the campus for twelve months' period and (b) for more than one negligent violation in any academic year, or for any willful violation, termination of the student organization's recognized status. Charges that a student organization has violated this rule shall be investigated through a hearing before the Council on Student Affairs, at which the rights of representation, submission of evidence, and the introduction of witnesses shall be granted, and a permanent record be kept if the student organization undertakes to pay the costs of such record. The Council on Student Affairs shall make findings of fact and such recommendations as it may deem appropriate and submit these to the President, who shall have final authority to determine whether the charges have been sustained and to impose the appropriate penalty.

"Section 6. Faculty and others entitled to sponsor a meeting involving the use of University facilities (see Rule 61.05) are expected to observe the spirit of this rule."

ORGANIZED ACTIVITIES (53.01) — "The Executive Dean for Student Relations shall promulgate rules governing all organized activities (including social functions) which are University connected and in which students or the wives of students participate.

"These rules shall include a requirement that each recognized organization shall have an Adviser, selected by the student organization from members of the tenured University Faculty. Exceptions to the requirement that the Adviser be a tenured member of the University Faculty may be made by the Council on Student Affairs. The Adviser in accepting the appointment, agrees to maintain contact with the organization so as to be familiar with its program and personnel. In addition, the Adviser shall be responsible for advising the organization as to its program and personnel, having in mind not only the objectives of the particular group but also the purposes of the University, one of which is to foster a spirit of free inquiry in a setting which provides for open-minded objective, and critical evaluation of the ideas expressed."

ACADEMIC FREEDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY (21.01) — "Section 1. The Ohio State University favors the fullest academic freedom consistent with its educational program and with national security. It believes that steadfast adherence to the principles of free discussion and investigation, with correlative responsibility, is the cornerstone of such an institution in a free society; that the continued strength of the educational process depends upon an unqualified dedication to our traditional freedoms and the preservation of the moral and intellectual integrity of the teacher. In the United States, in contrast to much of the world where doctrinaire propaganda, officially stated and enforced, is substituted for freedom of individual thought and expression, the molding of the lives of young people outside the family circle is largely entrusted to the church and the school, and this University holds inviolate the essential rights of the teacher. Honesty and objectivity, however, must always be cardinal principles in teaching, and only those who are free in conscience have the right to teach in a university which is founded upon the principle of intellectual integrity.

"Section 2. A teacher, regardless of tenure in The Ohio State University, is entitled to freedom of research and publication, of classroom discussion of all matters relevant to the subject matter of his course, and of expression of opinion as a citizen, subject to the obligation to be accurate and to exercise appropriate restraint in accordance with the standards of his learned profession.

"The teacher's privileges imply correlative responsibilities in addition to maintaining those standards of competence set forth as minimal for his rank, and particularly those relating to scholarship and teaching ability, the teacher also has the obligation to maintain the proper attitude of objectivity, conscientious industry and cooperation with his associates and the University. Further, he has the responsibility to refrain from introducing into his teaching controverial matter unrelated to his subject; and in making public statements, he has the responsibility to make it clear that he is not an institutional spokesman."

STUDENT USE OF UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS (53.09) — "Section 1. University facilities assigned to a student organization shall be used only for the usual activities of such student organization. If a student organization desires to use University facilities, which facilities have been assigned to the organization, for purposes other than its usual activities, it shall request permission for such use from the Executive Dean, Special Services, in accordance with Rule 61.05.

"Section 2. No student, group of students, or student organization may announce a meeting involving the use of University facilities or use University facilities for a meeting unless permission for such has been obtained from the Executive Dean, Special Services, in accordance with Rule 61.05."

UNIVERSITY FACILITIES (61.05) — "Section 1. University facilities may be scheduled and used only if the meeting is sponsored by at least one of the following: (a) the University, (b) an administrative unit of the University, (c) the President or a member of his Cabinet, (d) a member of the University Faculty, (e) a club or committee of the University Faculty members, University staff members, or their wives, or (f) a recognized student organization (see Rule 53.01).

"Section 2. The Executive Dean, Special Services, shall be responsible for the scheduling of and shall have the necessary authority to schedule all University facilities. (See Rule 11.1107.) No meeting shall be scheduled in or announced for any University facility unless permission to use the facility has been obtained in advance from the Executive Dean, Special Services. All requests for the use of University facilities shall indicate the nature of the proposed meeting. If the proposed meeting is one to which a guest speaker is to be invited, the request for the use of University facilities shall indicate the name of the guest speaker and shall be submitted to the Executive Dean, Special Services, at least two weeks prior to the date the meeting is to be held, but such two-week period may be waived by the Executive Dean, Special Services, if the exigencies of the situation so require and the orderly scheduling of University facilities would not be unduly prejudiced." (See Rule 21.09.)

"Section 3. The word 'meeting' as used in Rule 21.09, 53.09, and 61.05, means any meeting using University facilities to which the facility, staff, students, or public is invited, except (1) regularly scheduled University courses, (2) conferences approved under University procedures, and (3) meetings of state, regional, national, or international organizations approved under the University procedures.

"Section 4. The responsibility and authority of the Executive Dean, Special Services, under this Rule may be delegated by him to a member of the University Faculty or of the staff of this University."

TAX RIDDLE: Many Called, Few Have Chosen On State Sales Tax Increase

By DAVE HESS

This article is being reprinted from a column entitled 'Capitolizing' and was written by Dave Hess for a publication called 'The Commentator' — a bi-weekly news magazine published by the Public Affairs Department of WRFD radio.

Though maintaining a public pose against "new or additional taxes," Governor Rhodes privately could be hoping that Ohio voters approve a proposed sales tax hike in November. The proposition, sponsored by the Ohio Council for Education (OCE), calls for a one-cent boost — from three to four cents — in the state sales tax. Rejected as an initiated bill by the legislature, the proposal now goes to the people. If approved, it would raise an estimated $116 million a year in new revenue and be tied to a plan for improving the quality of Ohio's public education.

Rhodes, of course, has consistently hewed to a line against new taxes. But, says a high Administration source, "the governor definitely will not oppose the Ohio Council's proposal . . . nor will he actively support it." In short, Rhodes appears to be adopting a hands-off attitude.

Considering his adamant anti-tax position, why the sudden lapse into apparent neutrality? Several reasons, spoken and implied, have been offered.

First, says the Administration source, "the governor believes this is a decision the people must make. It was the people, after all, who signed the petitions to put the question on the ballot."

Second, on a more realistic note, the source revealed that the governor "is finding more and more people for the sales tax increase, so long as it's tied to the education improvements." Whether there's a tide of public opinion running in favor of the tax hike is debatable, however, despite an OCE survey that implied that nearly six out of 10 Ohio voters would be willing to boost the sales tax to pay for better schools. In any case, Rhodes seems adequately impressed with the results of this survey to choose caution over valor in reacting to the tax proposal.

Third, and perhaps most significant, the governor apparently senses dire consequences for his own anticipated tax revision program, slated for 1967 or soon after, if OCE's proposal is defeated in November. Rhodes hoped that OCE would not put the tax question on the ballot, thereby clearing the board for his own plan which admittedly has not yet crystallized. But now that OCE has proceeded, the governor necessarily must alter his course from one of outright opposition to at least silent neutrality. There is even a logic in this situation that would lead Rhodes to quietly support the tax hike in an effort to avert its defeat.

To begin with, the governor's formulation of a broad tax revision program in 1967 would be just the first step in its adoption. Following this essentially technical job, Rhodes then would be faced with the political task of persuading the legislature — and the people — to buy it. This second phase of his effort would be doubly difficult following the popular rejection of a simple one-penny sales tax boost.

There's another twist to this line of reasoning: November passage of the sales tax hike would enable Rhodes to soften the blow of the '67 tax revision. A yearly inflow of $116 million would relieve some of the pressure on the state treasury, and permit Rhodes to submit a more modest —and politically feasible — reform program.

One could counter, of course, that passage of the sales tax boost would take the governor off the hook altogether, that its implementation would remove the need for a 1967 tax revision aimed at bringing in additional revenue. But most Ohio government and tax authorities, including the governor's own financial experts, concede that tax reform is long overdue and that, at best, a one-cent sales tax increase will not bridge the chasm between state income and needs.

While the governor ponders his strategy, several other interested groups are drifting aimlessly, caught in an uncertainty that could lead to a collapse of organized opposition to the tax hike.

The Ohio AFL-CIO, for instance, which "strongly opposes the enactment, extension or increase of existing regressive taxes, such as the sales tax," will convene its executive board next month to try to develop a policy on the matter. Whether labor settles on a course of action, however, is uncertain, despite its past opposition. AFL-CIO President Frank King, who doubles as Senate Democratic leader, says labor is "wholeheartedly in accord with improving public education, but we're opposed to the sales tax as a means to do it."

But will this materialize into an active resistance campaign? King won't say for sure, acutely sensitive to the split within labor ranks on state issues that bear either a partisan or financial flavor.

Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, strongly opposed to a sales tax hike, seems reluctant to carry the burden of active opposition alone. Executive Director George Hammond speaks hopefully of an "ad hoc committee formed of several groups to fight this thing." But so far none of the other interested parties appears prepared to join such a coalition.

Ohio Farm Bureau Federation—whose executive vice-president, D. R. Stanfield, believed that "a state income tax is the only logical new tax to produce revenue commensurate to our needs"—probably will maintain a scrupulous neutrality on the issue. Here, again, silence in the face of established policy.

The same strategy apparently will be adopted by the Ohio Manufacturers Association and Ohio Chamber of Commerce, neither of which claims any proprietary interest in the matter. "At this juncture," says OMA executive director Tom Johnson, "I just don't see that we have a direct interest. Our primary concern is with taxes aimed at producers, not consumers." Essentially the same response was eliminated from the Chamber.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties have voiced opposition to a sales tax increase. But, again, neither seems to be girding up for battle. "I wouldn't think that a political party should be ardently for or against it," muses Republican House Speaker Roger Cloud. "It's a fair question for the people to decide."

"Our platform indicates we're against it," reminds House Minority leader A. G. Lancione, "but as a party and as individual Democrats, I'd be surprised if we opposed it actively."

From some quarters there is speculation that this cautious neutrality, which springs from a reluctance to tangle on an issue that spells better schools, really translates into a tacit hope that the issue will pass. As one spokesman put it: "God knows, the need is plain to see . . . to fight it would be like coming out for man-eating sharks and against an early spring."

If this is the case, OCE's battle may be half-won. For the absence of organized opposition would clear the way for a positive campaign — free from enervating and time-consuming bitterness — that could focus on the constructive rewards of higher taxes.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm writing because I think my boy friend is pulling my leg. He says there is only one easy way to get a tick off Fancy, my dog. You are supposed to pour a drop of whiskey on the tick and then wait for it to get drunk and fall off.

When I asked at the bottle shop, the man said most of his customers didn't have ticks and he didn't know whether it would work or not. My sister's husband, a dentist, said that it's better to give Fancy the whiskey because then any tick sucking his blood would get drunk. Before I waste a lot of whiskey, and maybe get laughed at besides, I would like to know if there is anything to all this. —L.B.

DEAR L.B.: Whiskey has been recommended for so many problems, "de-ticking" might as well be added to the list. There are, however, other products that would be at least as effective and considerably cheaper. Plain mineral oil is one. If whiskey is more convenient, the direct drop method would be preferable to loading the ticks indirectly through Fancy's bloodstream.

One flaw to the alcoholic approach is that when the ticks sobered up they might be tempted to come back for another round—and, as the expression goes, get tight as a tick.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have all kinds of birds in our garden but the children seldom get a good look at them. So my husband built a feeder and put it on the outside of our kitchen window. For two weeks now, it has been sitting there full of feed and no birds come near it. The children are very disappointed. What can we do—P.F.

DEAR P.F.: This feeder would be more appealing some other time of year. Right now there should be enough natural food available so the birds are less inclined to take a chance on something new. For another thing, the feeder may be too exposed. If bushes are near by, birds feel more secure. A filmy curtain on the inside of the window may also help.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

If a man has any brains at all, let him hold on to his calling, and, in the grand sweep of things, his turn will come at last. — William McCune

Citizenship Fete Climaxes Not-Too-Typical Love Story

By MARTHA G. NEWTON

Four years ago an attractive young woman, Stephanie Daskalopoulos, met an American of Greek parentage in Athens, Greece. A week later, they were married. Two months after that she walked on American soil. Now she is an American citizen.

This all happened when Thomas Chakeres, manager of Bargainland Surplus Sales U. S. A., went to Tripolis, Greece, to visit relatives — and he found a wife.

One day he called on a man (who was Stephanie's godfather) who showed him a family picture of friends. It included three brothers and four sisters. When Thomas Chakeres looked it over he immediately pointed to Stephanie and said: "That's the girl I want to marry."

Both men went to Athens, where Stephanie was attending business school and returned to Karpini, Stephanie's birthplace, bringing Stephanie with them. A week later she repeated marriage vows in the church of her mother-in-law, whom she had not as yet met.

Stephanie studied citizenship at Columbus Evening High School last winter. Now she is one of 250 newly naturalized citizens who will be honored by the Citizenship Committee of Columbus, Inc., in a program and reception at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, Sunday, Sept. 19, at 3 p.m.

On the program is Rabbi Jerome B. Folkman who will talk on "The American In Our Day." The public is invited.

Cystic Fibrosis Fund Campaign Begins Friday

The Columbus Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation begins its annual appeal for funds Sept. 17, 18 and 19. Contributions help support the Cystic Fibrosis Clinical and Treatment Center at Children's Hospital.

Mrs. Robert Draper, campaign co-chairman, said that more than 4,000 volunteers will be visiting homes in the community.

★ BUT, WHAT ABOUT REDUCING SURPLUSES? ★

Food Stamps Are Seen As Boon To Budgets

By JANE ROBINSON

Most families stretching their food budgets with surplus commodity foods will welcome the variety that the food stamp program, announced last weekend, will bring to the dinner table.

And few tears will be shed for the dried eggs and rice that have been the bugaboo of many housewives.

Furthermore, the low-income families eligible for government aid in food purchase will find bringing home groceries from a nearby market presents much less a problem than lugging surplus commodities from the distribution center at the Fairgrounds.

However, the stamp program will still be something less than manna from heaven to those with critical budget problems.

The bonus food stamps issued are contingent upon the family purchasing a certain dollar value of stamps.

System Is Explained

This figure varies according to the income and the size of the family. For example, a family of five with an income between $100 and $110 a month would receive $40 in bonus stamps when it buys $44 work of stamps.

No one is denying that is quite a bargain.

However, if that family is also paying $50 a month rent and, in wintertime, utility bills total $25 there is no $44 at its fingertips.

At the other end of the scale, neither the problem nor the benefits are so great. A mother and father with eight children could earn up to $445 and still be eligible for the stamp program. The purchase of $136 worth of stamps would bring a bonus of $44.

The stamp purchase plan is inflexible inasmuch as the total allotment of stamps must be bought, or none at all. Also, if a family is to maintain eligibility, the participating family must buy the stamps consistently. (They are issued monthly except to families whose income is weekly or semi-monthly. For such cases the stamps are distributed twice a month).

Any food designed for human consumption except coffee, tea and cocoa and that obviously labeled to be of foreign import can be obtained with the stamps. Off-limits for the stamp-shopper are tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

Three other cities in Ohio, (Cincinnati, Toledo and Cleveland), are already using the stamp plan. In these cities, it has been found that food retailers and local banks are willing to cooperate with the welfare departments administering the program.

'Good As Money'

The stamps are regarded as money by the retailer and by the banks. The banks in turn deposit the stamps with the Federal Reserve Bank and are credited with the amount represented by them.

When the new attack on poverty is started in Franklin County, the battle on food surpluses by the federal government will definitely be thrown back.

Currently, 250 tons of surplus commodities are channeled into low-income homes every month.

And that is a lot of dried milk, rice, flour, meat, peanut butter, oleo, dried eggs, canned meat, cheese and cereal.

In fact, it is roughly one-third of that distributed in Franklin County and seven neighboring counties serviced by the Columbus warehouse.

The use of surplus commodity foods served a dual purpose. Not only were the poor able to eat better, but Uncle Sam put to use the surplus agricultural products that are jamming warehouses across the nation. At least one State Welfare spokesman speculates that this surplus is the factor that has kept the government from permitting the stamp plan to become more general. However, non-profit institutions and schools still will receive the commodities.

Experience in other communities indicates that most people now receiving surplus foods will switch to the new plan when it is under way early this winter.

Attractive To Many

Furthermore, authorities have noted that families affected by strikes and other temporary loss of income will buy stamps when they will not use surplus foods.

All welfare spokesmen agree that it takes cooking skill and often ingenuity to prepare commodity foods appetizingly. And sometimes a housewife loses interest in the food simply because it is "surplus."

It is not yet known where the Welfare Department will set up office for the stamp staff. By law, public building area may not be used.

According to Roger Williams of the Welfare Department, costs of administering either food program should prove similar. However, some savings is anticipated by putting the job of warehouse and distribution into the hands of retailers.

These retailers aren't likely to cry about this. The value of the commodity foods distributed monthly is roughly a quarter of a million dollars.

As the two programs are regarded to give about the same benefits to the recipients, this means about $250,000 will be left at the check-out counters of the city that previously wasn't expendable.

'Bargain Box' Slated Later This Month

A huge sale of merchandise donated by the Junior League of Columbus, Inc., as well as merchants throughout Columbus will take place Monday, Sept. 27, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Tuesday, Sept. 28, 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Veterans Memorial Building.

Known as "Bargain Box," the 17th annual sale will include clothes for the entire family, household items, books, records, furniture, sports equipment and linens arranged in 23 different departments.

The $200,000 raised over the past 16 years by Bargain Box has benefited 15 agencies directly and in addition has made possible the Children's Trouping Theatre, PLAN awards and many others.

There is no mistake; there has been no mistake; and there shall be no mistake.

PRINCIPAL DENIES SOUTH GUILT

Washburn Backs His Student Body

Harold Washburn, principal of South High School, is deeply resentful of the implications made concerning the "caliber of our students" after the rock-throwing incident following the South-Watterson football contest Friday night.

"I have worked in four different high schools in the Columbus area," he explained, "and the cooperation and discipline of South High students compares favorably with them all."

He emphasized that two eye witnesses state the incident involved young boys below even the junior high level.

"Our entire student body is upset about this matter," he stated, adding that it is completely unfair they should be asked to shoulder the blame for an act of delinquency for which they are in no way responsible.

Both Washburn and Ken Olbert, principal of neighboring Barrett Junior High, concurred with the opinion that parents in the neighborhood could help the threat of future incidents by turning on their porch lights after athletic contests.

Street lighting in the area of the school leaves much to be desired. (Police officials across the nation agree that crime and acts of juvenile delinquency cannot flourish in well-lighted areas.)

Washburn was also emphatic in his contention that the Friday night act was completely spontaneous and without any racial implications.

It is highly unlikely that any parent would approve of their child being involved in a stoning that could have more serious consequences than one boy being knocked unconscious.

However, too many parents, according to the Ohio Youth Commission, feel that they are helpless to stop their children from "being swept away by delinquency."

The commission in a recently published bulletin attempts to answer the question, "What can parents do?"

One of the more probing questions asked of parents is whether their parenthood is "merely a sideline" among their values.

Another point made is that, if parents want their children to become mature, stable, self-disciplined and self-directing adults, they must begin early to encourage them towards these goals and must recognize the psychological needs as well as the physical needs of youth.

"Be reasonable" is another bit of advice given, with the warning that unreasonable or unrealistic demands upon a child leads to eventual disregard of the parent as authority.

Parents as well as children can get off on the wrong foot. The Ohio Youth Commission infers that if parents would take a critical look at themselves and take appropriate action, the job of the juvenile courts may be lightened.

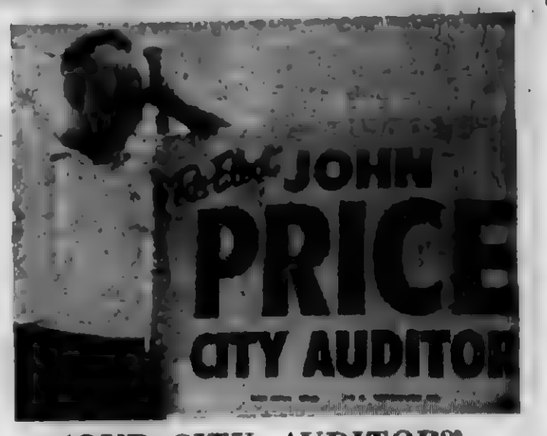
Barrett Parent Pledge Ready For 'Big Push'



In light of Friday's post-game incident, Barrett Junior High's effort to enlist parental cooperation in curbing juvenile delinquency becomes increasingly interesting.

Next week, according to Principal Ken Olbert, the program — which involves asking parents to sign pledges backing common sense rules of behavior for their children — will move into high gear.

Already, Olbert states, approximately one-fourth of homeroom teachers have reported signed pledges sent to them.

The plan, which is a pilot project initiated by Olbert with the cooperation of the Barrett PTA, is in line with the thinking that the home and the school can work hand-in-hand for the welfare of the child by setting up reasonable standards and demanding that he live up to the code.

Olbert, who has been encouraged by the initial response to the program, further stated that failure to cooperate on the parent's part would tell him something about the neighborhood which he hopes and believes is not true.

'OUR CITY AUDITOR?'

KIND OF CONFUSING—Campaign signs of Columbus' John Price, urging "re-elect as city auditor," posted in Whitehall, have prompted phone calls from residents to Whitehall's auditor for 12 years, Walter Heiber. "Didn't know Price was our city auditor," puzzled residents said. This sign was at Main-st and Westphal last Friday.

IN COLUMBUS COUNCIL RACES

Democrats Begin 'Teamwork For Progress' Campaign

"Teamwork For Columbus Progress" was the theme adopted by the three Democratic candidates for Columbus City Council as they officially launched their campaign Thursday. They unveiled an eight-plank platform during a morning news conference.

The candidates, James Baumann, M. D. Portman, and Donald L. Woodland, touched on subjects ranging from industrial and economic growth to elimination of bickering between council and the city administration. They called for closer working relations with community leaders and administrators and neighborhood groups, sounder financial policies and recognition of professional counsel.

The Democrats, who will face three Republican-backed candidates in the non-partisan election Nov. 2, also advocated:

A county-wide rapid transit system, combined urban renewal and planning and zoning code enforcement, riverfront improvement projects, expansion of the parks and recreation programs and modernizing of the older downtown sections.

The candidates said their program was geared "to meet the needs of a city whose population will approach one million within the next decade.

"Columbus City Hall," they said, "needs a new team to replace the bickering councilmen who place their personal ambitions above the best interests of the city."

Firm Water, Sewer Issues

Some of the strongest language of the platform was reserved for the area of industrial and economic growth. It pledged support for the stand of the city administration and leading civic groups in financing sewer expansion programs through a combination of rate increases and bonding, rather than following the plan of the present council for bond financing only.

Pledging support to the city administration and "leading civic groups" for sewer, water and refuse disposal programs, the Democratic candidates said:

"We cannot afford the luxury of a politically diluted water and sewer program as proposed by the present foot-dragging council . . . These councilmen ignored the advice of their own consultants and recommended financing schemes that were exposed as dangerous and inadequate.

"The administration program was forthright, without consideration of political effect, while council's weak-kneed, inaccurate stand resulted in costly delay."

In the area of traffic and transportation, the three Democrats pledged support for prompt completion of the Outerbelt Expressway System and legislation to "hasten grade crossing elimination (projects) in all parts of the city."

Promise Transit Action

The Democratic trio accused present Republican council of sweeping "under the rug" a recommendation by the Citizens Transit Study Committee that the city purchase the Columbus Transit Co., now wholly owned by Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. (The parent firm president has said the C&SOE will divest itself of the transit company when the current franchise with the city expires in June, 1966.)

The Democrats pledged a two-pronged approach to mass transit problems — "review of the cost-of-service bus franchise with the aim of further improving bus service, and early planning and completion of a county-wide rapid transit system to speed the movement of people to and from the central city."

Baumann, Portman and Woodland also pledged support to the Olentangy Freeway project alignment previously backed by the engineering consultant, state highway officials and the city administration. "Present council leadership," they said, "has caused serious delay. . . . They want a plan to which no one objects (and) this is childish and unrealistic."

The Republican council also was taken to task for what the Democratic candidates termed a "give-away" to "a few private stall operators at Central Market." (Council Republicans have said they will provide a long-term-low-cost lease of land in the Market-Mohawk area as the site of a $300,000 new Central Market building.)

The Democrats promised "wholehearted support" of all existing urban renewal programs "to rid our city of blight and to speed development of cleared areas by private enterprise." Also recommended was unification of housing and zoning code enforcement under one authority.

"A new zoning code is long overdue," the candidates said, "and we intend to expedite this important program."

Calling for more parks — particularly in the central city — the Democratic council candidates urged speedy improvement of the Scioto River banks west of Town-st and "more green areas in congested neighborhoods."

In the matter of downtown development, they called for special emphasis in the area north of Long-st and the Union Depot area. Also favored was close cooperation with the state in placing new buildings in the Civic Center.

Charge Irresponsibility

Charging present council leadership with irresponsibility in fiscal matters, the three Democrats specifically cited the 1964 stand by Council President William R. Fornof in the Scioto Conservancy District controversy and his current plan for an exclusive bonding program for sewer expansion projects.

They said Fornof's SCD stand eventually would have cost property owners additional taxes in excess of $50 million. "This ridiculous tax measure exposed by the administration, showed highly questionable leadership," they said.

Of Fornof's plan for bond financing only to meet sewer expansion needs, the Democrats said:

"This plan would have cost the taxpayers twice the necessary amount. Bond carrying charges would have equalled the cost of the entire program. Furthermore, it would have deprived funds needed for police, fire, sanitation and other city services.

The Democractic candidates also charged the present council with "erratic expenditure of funds for consultants and then ignoring what they recommend to do."

The Democrats promised a vigorous campaign of "taking our case to the people," and said their election would give Columbus a city council "capable of meeting its responsibilities to all citizens through a program of cooperation with the city administration and professional, civic and neighborhood leadership."

CELEBRATING his ninth decade, James Cash Penney will break the "90" mark Sept. 16. He is founder of the department store chain bearing his name. Helping him celebrate will be more than 56,000 associates in the nearly 1,700 Penney department stores throughout the country.

Department Store Founder Turns 90

James Cash Penney, founder of the J. C. Penney Stores, will observe his 90th birthday Thursday, Sept. 16, and the "party" will be anything but small and intimate.

More than 56,000 associates in the nearly 1,700 Penney department stores throughout the country will participate in observances of the birthday.

Manager H. P. Hebert at Great Southern Shopping Center said that each Penney store, including the one here, will have an appropriately decorated cake.

Candles on each cake will be lighted at a time coinciding with a similar ceremony taking place at 3 p.m. (EDT) at the company's central office in New York City.

As Penney nears the nine-generation mark, his major interest continues to be in the company he founded back in April, 1902, when he opened his first store in the frontier mining town of Kemmerer, Wyo.

While Penney has not been involved for many years in direct management of the firm bearing his name, he continues to serve on the board of directors. And he exerts an inspirational influence on associates that cannot be measured, according to Manager Hebert.

Columbus Is A Little Safer

Whether one agrees or not with the general policies of Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, there is no denying his abiding love for both his city and its residents. A measure of that affection is reflected in added protection for residents of 10 selected "high crime rate" areas in the city.

Two-man teams of "foot" patrolmen are patrolling these areas during the nighttime hours. They make themselves known to merchants and residents of their areas. Walkie-talkie equipment enables them to summon help quickly from Central Police Headquarters.

Each team includes an officer fresh from the police training academy and a seasoned policeman. These 20 men hardly can be expected to eliminate, or even drastically reduce, the crime rate in the areas they patrol. The battle against the criminal element just isn't that easily won.

But they will be there — hopefully, when the criminal least expects them and the law abiding citizen needs them.

Sensenbrenner pledged to add 100 policemen to the undermanned Columbus Police Department. Council wisely followed the mayor's request for funds to hire the new policemen. All 100 will have been added to active duty by the end of the year.

Thanks Mayor Jack. All Columbus residents will be a little safer because of a worthwhile promise well kept.

Calling Ohioans!

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE
Former Governor, State of Ohio

What did the Governor of Michigan say to the Governor of Ohio?

Governor George Romney is being widely mentioned as the 1968 Republican Presidential nominee. Yet he dared to point out the fiscal irresponsibility of a fellow Republican Governor who could be helpful in helping him attain the nomination.

In pointing out the $1,500,000,000 debt that Ohio has incurred since 1963, Governor Romney did point out that down the road this will mean higher costs. To knowledgeable Ohioans it is a further reminder of the backlog of needs that is building up behind the public relations smoke screen of the present administration.

State fairs are desirable but in and of themselves they do not staff university faculties, provide elementary school teachers, provide professional staffs for our benevolent and penal institutions. On one day a local paper carried four pictures of the Governor participating in various ceremonial functions in various parts of the state. For the Governor, good politics; for the people of Ohio, no progress.

The rate of job growth in Ohio continues to lag behind the large industrial states that are meeting their needs on a current basis.

Perhaps the Governor of Ohio will have a better answer for the Governor of Michigan than a typical, terse, irritated, "I'm not going to comment on that." He can always point to the fact that he has set a new record in crowning queens this season.

The recent fiasco at Ohio's Central State College again points to the necessity of strong state prohibitions against situations leading to a conflict of interests. No person can properly serve two masters having opposing responsibilities. A state examiner having the responsibility of auditing the operations of a state institution cannot accept a salary from those he has been called upon to audit. Maceo Hill, the state examiner involved, was a veteran employe of the state auditor's office, having been appointed by the present Governor when he was state auditor.

The report shows that Hill was receiving $1500 a year as a tennis coach and $636.75 for expenses. All of this while he was on the state auditor's payroll. He quit recently, but is this the answer?

How many more incidents of neglect will have to come to the surface before state officials begin to enforce conflict of interest codes in the executive branches of government and the people demand the passage of legislation providing strong, enforceable conflict restrictions against elected public officials?

Century Of Service

Zion Lodge No. 62 of B'nai B'rith will mark its 100th anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 19. Today's leaders and members of Zion Lodge can look back to a proud heritage and history of service and fellowship.

But more important, their continuing zeal and effort assure that the good seed of community service will ever produce the bountiful harvest. The history and progress of Zion Lodge and of the Jewish Community are almost synonymous.

The work of B'nai B'rith and Zion Lodge No. 62 have contributed greatly to the spiritual, moral and intellectual health of the Jewish Community. And in the process, the total community has become a better place in which to live.

'It's My Year To Haul The Scouts Around'

An Editor's Outlook . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

This pretty young chick got off the plane at St. Louis and left in her seat a copy of a magazine called "Glamour." I picked it up and right away I could see by the "foundation garment" and bikini ads that it was aimed at the female late-teen and coed crowd.

So there was this article "On Becoming 18" which purported to tell a young girl what to talk about on her first college blind date. I never read more awful advice.

Jones

"It is actually possible to block out possible topics of conversation in your mind and cautiously use them up over the weekend," said the writer.

She suggested: What do you know about Madame Blavatsky? Why was Tamerlane considered Great? Ever read any Eudora Welty? Where'd you prep?

Now, it occurs to me that the only one of those questions the normal young American male could reply to is, "Where'd you prep?" And after he says Sioux Falls East High there's going to be an awkward silence.

The writer further suggested that the girl may intrigue the young man by slipping in provocative phrases like, "As we anti-vivisectionists always say . . ." Now, this idea does have some merit. She could certainly wake up a sleepy male by remarking parenthetically, "As my father, the Grand Kleagle, said . . ." or "As my mother laughingly remarked while strangling the parakeet . . ." or "As I told my Young Communist cell . . ." But it might not help her get another date.

The article then tackled the problem of how to cover your ignorance. Suppose, said the writer, he mentioned Marisol. The trick is to "skid along in the discussion, ever avoiding the word 'he' or 'it,' putting everything into the passive voice and never asking concrete statements, thus forcing him to say something crucial and definitive like, 'But I still think her sculpture reflects the central experience of our time,' which puts you on firm ground again."

Now this is one of the troubles with our country —millions of people "skidding along," pretending to know things they don't. What America needs is more future mothers who have the courage to roll their baby blue eyes up at their dates and ask, "Who or what the . . . is Marisol?" Since the young man who brought up the matter is probably a poseur, this rugged honesty will knock him off his perch.

The idea that a girl can become a fascinating conversationalist if she jots down a series of unrelated topics on the bus up to the junior prom is questionable. Conversationalists are made around the family dinner table from about age three. Children with reasonable brainpower are turned into conversationalists if parents talk intelligently to each other, if kids are exposed to adult ideas early, if they are read to instead of being fobbed off on the deadly repetition of TV.

The art of conversation is the art of knowing at least a little about a lot of things. It requires neither depth nor originality. Some of the world's most delightful talkers are shallow thinkers, while many a specialized genius stands in glum and embarrassed silence at a cocktail party.

There, are of course, tricks to it. And the lady writer for "Glamour" must be given credit for trying to help insecure adolescents, for we adults too often forget the tortures of that wonderful awkward age when girls try to mask their confusions in hysterical babble and when the collars of young men never seem to quite fit.

But the real trick of conversation is the art of interview. It is the art of finding out what your companion is interested in and drawing him out. All human beings are, to a degree, egocentric, and nothing warms us to a person like the feeling that he or she is fascinated by us.

Youths who are stupid or inordinately vain can be trapped by the "Oh-you-great-big-wonderful man" technique, which requires nothing more than an adoring expression. But most discriminating males will expect a good date to take a cut at conversational pitches and, once in a while, perhaps, get the ball out of the infield. A young woman, bent on impressing, doesn't have to be an expert on slaloms, the under-four-minute mile, the thrust of the Saturn V or four-barrel carburetors, but if she knows enough to ask a few leading questions it helps.

An impossible situation arises, of course, where a callow gentleman can do nothing but recite old football scores. But the solution for the lady is not, as the "Glamour" writer suggested, to bore him back with a monologue on opera plots. The solution is to get her teeth straightened so she won't be reduced to trying to impress idiots.

"Smoothness" is largely a matter of being at ease. The at-ease young person usually feels capable of being interesting. To be interesting you have to know something. Synthetic conversation gimmicks rarely work.

By the way, who WAS Madame Blavatsky, and what did Marisol sculpt?

PAYDAY BLUES

All the dollars I can gain
Are half as much as twice as much.
But still they all go down the drain
For this and that and such and such.

Every dollar I can catch
Vanishes without a trace.
However well I close my hatch,
It always opens in my face.

However hard I try to save
Some dollars for a rainy day,
Up comes a new inflation wave,
And all my dollars float away.

So what to do? How pay the rent
And all the bills, and try to save?
Perhaps now I should buy a tent
Or take a long lease on a cave.

We hear much about keeping up with Jones, "status" living, net incomes, and a lot of other related things. But the chief problem of most seems to be how to make ends meet with an average wage, to live decently and to try to save at least a few bucks for future needs. To say it's not easy would be the understatement of the decade.

Half a century ago the standard wage for labor was $1 for a 10-hour day. But of course that dollar would buy a basket of food or a fair pair of shoes. It's all a matter of relativity.

It says here . . .
The threat of inflation is our greatest economic danger.

Block Party No Cause For Call To Police

To the Editor:

We hear constantly the saying, "Get to know your neighbors better." The Bible says "Love Thy Neighbor." What better way than to have a real old-fashioned get-together with them?

Our neighborhood has held two block parties this summer. Both have been very orderly with a grill-out and later some singing and dancing. We do not feel we have been extremely noisy — just good natured people having good, clean fun on a Saturday night—not during a working day.

At both parties someone has complained to the police. On both occasions there have been some people close by who were unable to come. All have said the little noise did not bother them at all, nor did it keep them from sleeping. Knowing this, we are positive that our parties are not cause enough for a visit from the police department. The police have so much more important things to do.

In the future if we do annoy someone, we hope they will have the courtesy to come to us and politely request us to be more quiet. We are some very understanding neighbors, but all of us feel the indignity of a police visit.

Trying to be good neighbors

Cites Lighting Progress

To the Editor:

I noticed in your Spectator of Sept. 9 a letter requesting street lighting on E. Gay-st from Fourth to Grant, signed "East Gay Street Resident."

I am happy to advise that a contract was let to light Gay-st from Front to Grant. The work is progressing on Grant on the west end of Gay-st. Also involved in this street lighting program downtown are Front-st (Fulton to Broad); Town-st (Front to Third); State-st (Front to Third); Chestnut-st (High to Fourth) and Spring-st (Fourth to Grant). All of this work is under contract and we expect to have mercury vapor lamps, similar to those on Third-st and Civic Center-dr, installed and lighted before Christmas this year.

Anonymous Writers Defended

To the Editor:

I object to Mr. Paul Wiley's letter of Sept. 2, implying only cowards refuse to sign their names to letters to the editors. I disagree, because I find usually only politicians will sign their names and bombard the mailbags only before an election.

Mr. Wiley must be an independently wealthy person, or he would not express his views so openly. But, as an average taxpayer and citizen, not running for a public office, nor wishing to make a name for myself, and wanting to keep a job because I like the little luxuries in life (like food and clothes for the kiddies), I completely disagree with Mr. Wiley and openly request, please withhold my name.

I think politicians politicking in the people's mail bag should be forbidden by law.

(Name Withheld)

To the Editor:

I would dearly love to agree with Mr. Wiley, but unfortunately there are those with whom you engage in the particular type of debate who do not respect the rules.

I once wrote a letter in which I was naive enough to believe the word parent pertained to members of both races. After 16 abusive phone calls, none of the enraged callers identified themselves, I realized that there are those who do not wish to associate themselves even through the word parenthood with members of another race.

I have yet to back down from my convictions. But I have no right to expose my five children and my husband to this anonymous abuse. So in some cases I use a pen name.

Wants 50-Cent State Fair Ticket

To the Editor:

Since The Spectator prints both sides of the "Ohio" story I wish to submit the following thought for reflection on behalf of your readers and all citizens of Ohio.

It would seem to me that if the present administration really had the interest of Ohio and its citizens at heart, instead of building new multimillion dollar state office buildings, it would mean much more if the Ohioans were permitted the luxury of being admitted to the "Wonderful World of the Ohio State Fair," for 50 cents.

The admission price was raised from 75 cents to one dollar this year.

Is it possible that we are being duped by more "monkey business" in our "Wonderful World of Ohio?"

Notes Contrast In Columnists

To the Editor:

Your paper certainly carries an abundance of items and articles of down to earth logic and sound common sense . . . and from hearty approval to total condemnation of left-wing Socialist and pro-Communist slants and persuasions.

As an example of how far intellectualism can go astray when it cuts itself loose from common sense the letter in the Aug. 26 issue by T. Brittenham ("Hears Sound of Bigotry") is an excellent illustration.

And on the same page, and in adjoining columns we find such diametrically opposite views and philosophy as that of the great thinker and editor Lloyd Jones in the third from the last paragraph of the article on "Cat Ballou," contrasting with the opposite line of reasoning in the four lines, last of the third paragraph of the article on racial riots by one Robert W. Reider.

Mr. Reider seems utterly unable to distinguish between a position that is extremely right and one that is extremely wrong.

This condition applies to many of our writers who have access to our communications and accounts in large measure to our losing battle with the diabolical conspiracy to take from us our economic, political and religious liberties and reduce us to a condition of one-world slavery.

The articles by Uncle Doc Ross I consider especially wholesome.

Sincerely yours,
James A. Weis

Applauds Education Editorial

To the Editor:

I certainly did enjoy reading your editorial on "Education Is the First Step from Ghetto to Getting." How I wish enough good people would shout this type of philosophy instead of the kind that is being shouted.

Thank you for printing such a wonderful brand of common sense.

Mrs. Frederic D. Stanton

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

I still can't get over the shocking suggestion that the Olentangy scenic drive north of Route 161, be torn out and the land used for another northern outlet for Franklin County traffic, with terribly expensive diversion of the original stream flow. For heaven's sake, don't do it!

Thousands of Columbus citizens, same as this writer for half a century, have enjoyed the relaxing ride away from the hustle and bustle of drivers who already have Route 23 clear to Delaware.

What a joy it is to cross over Route 161, and then take one's time all the way to Stratford, listening to all of nature's marvelous and soothing voices that abound in those still undisturbed miles. There are many spots where one can drive off the road and just sit, watching the birds and bees and the small animals that have even yet survived extinction by man's mad race.

It is time for every medium of public impact to become aroused on this folly and stop it before inexcusable injury is done.

People are finding out, years too late, the wisdom of "un-lax and live longer." All along that marvelous strip the foliage and wild flowers are indescribably beautiful and the songs of the birds, frogs, turtles, along with the up-flopping of the fish, all go together to give any man's soul a good bath.

So, right now, stop this madness of destroying one of the few remaining "escapes" in the greater Columbus Metropolitan area!

Guest Pulpit . . .

A sense of frustration has gripped our world.

Everywhere men are groping in their spiritual darkness, seeking the light of peace, hope, security, and lasting fulfillment. In the midst of the greatest material wealth our nation or any nation in history has ever known, men and women openly admit that their lives lack purpose and meaningful existence. Why? It is the direct result of living in spiritual poverty.

Galloway

The truth of the Bible is that God loves you and has a wonderful plan of spiritual abundance provided for you. Jesus himself said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." John 10:10. Why is it then that so many people are not enjoying a full and meaningful life? It is because of their failure to allow God to have them.

While in college I supported my family one year by working as the custodian of the college church. One hot summer afternoon while I was cleaning in the large sanctuary, a little bird flew in the open widow.

At first he seemed to be quite enamored with his elaborate surroundings. He ventured merrily through the air exploring the sanctuary. After a while the infatuation wore off and, to the little bird's bewilderment, he discovered that he was trapped. Faster and faster he flew, trying desperately to escape his self-imposed imprisonment.

I longed to help the little bird and my moment of opportunity came when at last he fell to the floor in the balcony. I ran up the back stairs to where he had fallen, and in love reached down, but just then the frustrated little fellow took off again. How many times God in His love has reached down to help you, but you have taken off on your own again.

At last the bird fell to the floor in utter helplessness and complete dependency. This time in love I reached down, picked the fallen, lost bird up, walked over to the window and set him free.

A hymn written by James Rowe expresses it this way: "I was sinking deep in sin, far from the peaceful shore; very deeply stained within, sinking to rise no more. But the Master of the sea, heard my despairing cry, from the waters lifted me; now safe am I. Love lifted me! When nothing else could help, love lifted me!"

Jesus waits this day to lift you out of spiritual death and poverty to give you spiritual abundance.

COFFEE BREAK

I'll Meet You Halfway 'Twixt Mia And Willie

As one who has flunked more Ladies' Home Journal marriage quizzes than perhaps all of the Gabor sisters combined, I have concluded that a major factor is that my husband and I do not "communicate." We do not "talk things out" as advocated by the magazine marriage counselors.

And, Dear Abby, it isn't my fault—entirely. I am forever trying to "discuss things in the open" to clear the air. For instance, some mornings ago I greeted him at the breakfast table with a knotty problem on which I felt we should attempt to come to some agreement: "Well, they're still on the yacht," I began.

"Who is?" he replied.

"Mia Farrow and Frank Sinatra, for Pete's sake!" I replied.

"Oh, them," he shrugged, turning to the sports page. He then spent 15 minutes discussing the Giants' chances.

"What do you think that 49-year-old fool is trying to prove?" I offered next.

"Warren Spahn isn't that old," he retorted. "Give the guy a chance."

"I am referring to Frank Sinatra," I replied. "Incidentally, they've pisced Allison in coma . . ."

"JUNE Alyson is in a coma?" he asked excitedly (only because she happens to be one of his favorites).

"No, Allison in 'Peyton Place,' the part Mia Farrow plays. If she marries Frankie, the TV producers are going to have her die because Frank doesn't like his wives to work."

I decided that he was showing about as much interest as the time I attempted to patch up the Sandra Dee-Bobby Darin marriage, but I tried again:

"Do you know what I can't figure out?"

"What can't you figure out?" he replied.

"What is the world are Claudette Colbert, Rosalind Russell and Merle Oberon doing on the yacht? Why didn't Frankie invite chums closer to Mia's age — Annette Funicello, Hayley Mills, or the youngest Lennon sister?".

"Hmmmm," my husband commented. "Looks like Willie Mays is on another hitting streak."

I gave up. How can I "communicate" with a man who doesn't share my concern over Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti's bigamy problems?

I made one last desperate attempt to gain his attention and "save our marriage" by making up a fantastic tale: "Good Lord, did you read that Nina Khrushchev is reported to be the 'other woman' in the Liz Taylor-Dick Burton marital triangle?"

"I see Marichal is pitching tonight," he replied.

PERSONABLE ROSE ADAMS
. . . May Hit Silver Screen

IN MOVIE SCENE . . .

Creativity Is Drive For Columbus' Rose Adams

When it comes to creativity, Rose Adams, 1100 E. Broad-st, is loaded.

And, she has two outlets . . . outlets so diversified they hardly seem related. First, she's an accomplished lady of the theater, having appeared in a number of Columbus productions, and (2) she's an interior decorator for Carlile's Furniture, 445 N. High-st.

"Actually, it was a search for a creative outlet that led me to both undertakings," the personable north Columbus native said.

She started as interior decorator at Carlile's four years ago and, today, she's also a buyer there and handles much of the company's public relations chores.

In the theatrical line, Mrs. Adams' most recent success was as the part of "Penny" in "Your Can't Take It With You" at Playhouse-on-the-Green.

Although she's never been in a motion picture, she may get her chance soon. Rose's sister, the famed performer Dody Goodman, is collaborating on a movie that may include the entire family — including "Mom and Pop" Goodman of 310 Westview-av.

Dody is working in New York with Chris Alexander (the illustrator for "Little Me") on the movie. Rose took part in a scene Easter Sunday. She paraded in front of Tiffany's with a lamp shade on her head.

There'll be a number of other show business personalities involved, including Ed Begley.

Anderson Dance Classes Begin

The Mary Ann Anderson Dance Studio is opening fall classes this week.

A well known East Columbus dance teacher, Miss Anderson has spent the summer studying new material in Cincinnati. She said she arranges small classes to provide more individual attention.

Miss Anderson, who can be reached at 231-5355 or 235-6742, is secretary-treasurer of Columbus Chapter, National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists.

It's a chance in a lifetime to become a VERY IMPORTANT PERSON, with photographers swarming to take your picture and other kids trying to get your autograph.

Furthermore, when your "spot in the sun" is over, there will be a jacket with the patch of your "command" to take home as a souvenir of the day when you were a "big shot."

So don't put off mailing the accompanying coupon.

JACK HEADLEE, owner of Jack's Appliance at 26 E. Columbia-st, Hilliard, checks a new model color TV set with his wife, Lavonne.

COLOR CLOSING IN . . .

B&W Portables Lead In Television Buying

Jack Headlee, 40, 250 Avery-rd, Hilliard, knows the appliance business. He ought to—he's been working at it for 17 years now. And, he can spot a trend when he sees it.

In June of 1963, Headlee opened Jack's Appliance Store at 26 E. Columbia-st, Hilliard. He says people are going more for the living color bit than ever before.

"Color TV, that's the thing now," Headlee theorized. He backed up that statement by pointing out that color TV sales have already exceeded black-and-white sets when it comes to buying consoles.

He added, however, that the black-and-white portable sales are still leading. He says they amount to about 60 percent of his television business in Hilliard.

"I guess it just points out," Headlee added, "that, although people enjoy color television, they still want the convenience of a portable set —even though it's black-and-white."

Of course Jack's Appliance does more than offer top quality televisions. They have everything from washing machines to small appliances.

They have a full line of Frigidaire appliances, Zenith TV sets, radios, stereos, Hoover cleaners and Sun-Ray gas ranges, to name a few.

Many of his appliances are, already, 1966 models.

Headlee is a Hilliard native. When he came out of the Army he started working with an appliance service store, liked it and decided to open a place of his own.

Besides the appliance business, Headlee also owns a laundromat right next door, which opened in Hilliard in 1960.

And just around the corner at 26 Center-st, Headlee operates an appliance reconditioning shop for trade-ins. He also has a warehouse on Avery-rd.

Headlee and his pretty wife, Lavonne, have three children, Diana (18), Arlene (13) and Sheila (10).

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless Predictor" got off to his slowest start in three years, tallying a 14 right, nine wrong score sheet for week one.

His new system (Forecasting A Go-Go) sputtered at Whetstone, shuttered at Eastmoor and ground to an abrupt stop Saturday at Steubenville.

Sneering at his initial week failures, the despised "Fearless One" pounded out these results for week two:

Bexley at Gahanna—Bully Belli! Gahanna.

Carroill at Canal Winchester—I hate rivalries. Maybe Carroll?

Central at Newark—Wildcats claw Pirates. Newark.

Liberty Union at Dublin—Hoping the Shamrocks hold out . . . Dublin.

Ready at East—Knights 100 percent improved but . . . East.

Pleasant View at Grandview — Panthers rear back. P-V.

Groveport at Reynoldsburg—Could be very wrong but . . . Groveport.

Hillsboro at Hamilton Twp. Down in the Hills'. Hillsboro.

Marion-Franklin-Hartley — Flip of coin comes up . . . M-F.

St. Mary at Mifflin—Closer than last week but . . . St. Mary.

West Jefferson at Northwestern—Riders bounce back. West Jeff.

Whetstone at Worthington — Cardinals soar again. Worthington.

Licking Valley at Watkins Memorial — Warriors sidetracked. L-V

*Academy at Country Day (Toledo) — Good opening. Academy.

* Sunday game.

Bob Redding Captures Ox Roast 'Shoe Title

Robert Redding of Kiousville, O., captured the 15th annual Ox Roast horseshoe title on Labor Day at West Jefferson.

Bob tossed 417 ringers out of 634 shoes in 10 games but didn't have a ringer to spare as John Leach of Columbus, the '64 defending champ, extended Bob, 51-47, in a final, 92-shoe playoff contest.

REDDING, Leach and Carl Young of Columbus concluded their round robin schedules with 7-2 marks. Leach nipped Young, 51-46, in the first playoff game.

Class B was taken by Larry Mathews of Columbus with Forest Dougherty of New Rome and Herb Witter, Columbus, placing second and third, respectively.

ELMER HENDREN and J. Keller, both of Columbus, placed first and second in Class D as did Ernest Redding and Ralph Self of Mt. Sterling in Class E.

Bob Redding's record-breaking Ox Roast qualifying score of 79 percent and 257 points in 100 shoes topped the 44-entry field. (Tom Pearce's mark this year of 76 percent and 252 points is second high in Ox Roast annals).

BOB REDDING also toured the best individual game of the meet, an 82.5 percent game with Lester Rose.

Nine players topped the 50 percent mark in ringer production in match games, topped by Redding's 65.8 percent. J. Leach had 63.3 percent; C. Young, 60.1; J. Nicholl, 57.1; T. Pearce, 56.8; H. Anderson, 55.3; T. Harris, 53.3; L. Rose, 52.6 and M. Montgomery, 52.5.

'Cautious Optimism' Is Slaughter's Byword At Capital U.

Capital University football mentor Gene Slaughter, like any college grid coach experiencing depth problems, is "cautiously optimistic" about the Crusaders chances in the Ohio Conference this fall.

"Cautious" because 17 lettermen have departed from a fine 7-1 '64 squad (second place tie in OC) and "optimistic" because 21 lettermen, including three all-conference picks, return.

THE CRUSADERS piled up 231 points and limited opponents to 67 last fall — the former a school mark, the latter best in 27 years. But five offensive and six defensive starters won't be back this year.

Cap's split-T offense will again be powered this year by tri-captain Ron Paxson, a Whitehall quarterback product, and fullback Gordon McMaken, a pair of all-OC selections last fall.

Ready backup for McMaken at fullback is available in sophomore Bob Neely, ex of Pleasant View High School.

AT HALFBACK, ex-Eastmoor standout Jim Makar, another tri-captain and the Crusaders' leading scorer last year, returns to familiar surroundings with vets Jack Pettorini (St. Charles) and Ron Schenkenberger battling newcomer Sherm Lundy, an All-Ohio pick from East, for the remaining backfield nod.

Slaughter's concern about depth is underlined in the quarterback spot. Paxson, not exactly hefty at 160 pounds, hasn't gotten in a complete season yet due to injuries and Gene lists four freshmen in the backup department for his starter.

"Could be one or more of them might get a real baptism under fire," Slaughter says.

OFFENSIVE end looks solid with two outstanding Paxson targets — Larry Gornall (Eastmoor) and Dick Angelou — returning. Keeping both vets on their toes is sophomore Don VanOrder, late of Columbus West.

Only letter winner from end on in is tackle Dan Hunt and Slaughter admittedly faces the strong possibility of starting one or maybe two freshmen at the guard spots.

The Crusaders' defense should be strong with vets Leon Simpson and Bob Beelman back at end and tackle, respectively.

BEELMAN, Cap's other tri-captain and former North High standout, is a two-time all-OC choice.

HERE IS CAPITAL U's '65 schedule:

Sept. 25 — Mt. Union
Oct. 2 — at Baldwin-Wallace*
Oct. 9 — Heidelberg
Oct. 16 — at Marietta
Oct. 23 — at Akron
Oct. 30 — Ashland
Nov. 6 — Wooster
Nov. 13 — at Otterbein*

* Night games.
 Dad's Day.
 Homecoming.

CAPITAL UNIVERSITY football coach Gene Slaughter (with cap) has a tough act to follow this fall as he attempts to direct his '65 Crusaders to an equal or better showing after an outstanding 7-1 finish last season. The Cap mentor will have 19 Spectator-area gridders to help him achieve that goal this fall. Fresh prospects include (front row, from left): Nick Burgess (Canal Winchester), Doug Weber (Reynoldsburg), Chuck Roberts (East), Sherm Lundy (East), Dave Shipley (Linden) and Harry Raduegue (West). Other Franklin Countians included on Cap's '65 roster are (middle row, from left): Paul Wrobbel (Whitehall), tri-captain Bob Beelman (North), tri-captain Jim Makar (Eastmoor), Bob Neely (Pleasant View), Jack Petterini (St. Charles), Dan VanOrder (West) and Bill Johnson (Central). Back row: coach Slaughter, tri-captain Ron Paxson (Whitehall), Jim Blackwell (Eastmoor), Lynn Fettrow (Linden), Larry Moore (West) and Paul Frasure (Central).

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

For Kids Only . . .

Through the wonders of the electronic age, football fans from coast-to-coast get to follow roughly three quarters of a million dollars around practice fields, through TV press conferences and back to old neighborhoods for a full 60 minutes last week.

The wanderings of NBC cameramen attempted to solve for the viewing public, New York, Jet owner Sonny Werblin and coach Weeb Ewbank the burning request: "Will the Real Jets' Quarterback Please Stand Up?"

Wittenmeier

Before the contest had expired, Ewbank "told the truth" and admitted that the Jets' "poorest relation," Mike Taliaferro, would open the AFL season at quarterback.

The program was excellent. Every angle was covered—every angle except one.

All across the continental USA, thousands of kids were eagerly awaiting Walt Disney's "Wonderful World of Color" which began bare seconds after Ewbank made this dramatic choice.

WE THOUGHT NBC, for all its foresight, overlooked the fact that a large portion of its audience were preschoolers to whom a Huarte might well have been the latest sugar-coated breakfast cereal.

Our point is — a small portion of the hour should have dealt with a translation for the kids, something to hold their interest and keep them from crawling up and down Daddy and asking Mommy 45 times why they were the only kids in the block who didn't get some Huarte for breakfast.

Why couldn't NBC have done it like this:

ONCE UPON a time there was a rich but lonely king named Werblin who was sad because nobody liked to visit his castle, called Shea Stadium.

Weeb, the king's loyal Grand Wizard, was called by the king one day and asked, "Why doesn't anyone visit my castle?"

"Because you are so rich, sire," Weeb answered, "and never spend any of your gold for magic to please the people."

"PRAY TELL ME, Wizard, how can I spend my gold wisely and make my people want to visit my castle?"

"Search through your kingdom and find the two best servants in the land to assist me in pleasing the people," the Wizard answered. "But you must pay them handsomely because other kings who suffer the same malady as you will be trying to lure them to their castles."

"But you already have a loyal servant — the son of old Taliaferro, the village cobbler — who has served you well this past year," the King replied.

"TRUE SIRE, but he is shabbily dressed and surely not among the best of servants to be found in your kingdom."

"Very well," the king said. "You shall have the servants as you requested. Gold will be no object. But you must decide wisely which servant will bring visitors to my castle."

The Wizard left immediately and searched many days throughout the kingdom. When he returned, much of the king's gold was gone but Weeb had his two servants—Namuth, the son of a very successful family in the southern part of the kingdom, and Huarte, the son of a famous family which lived in the Irish section of the kingdom.

ALMOST AT ONCE, the people of the kingdom came from near and far to the castle to watch the wonders of the Wizard's two new servants.

They were richly clothed and the talk of the kingdom. No one hardly even noticed the cobbler's son, who only worked harder to please the Wizard.

One day Huarte came to the Wizard and told him his apprenticeship would have to wait because he had to finish some work for another Wizard in another part of the kingdom.

ABOUT THE same time, Namuth, who was troubled with a sickness common to servants, discovered that he couldn't perform all the tasks that the Wizard hoped he could do.

Since the king was growing restless, the Wizard challenged another wizard in a neighboring kingdom to a match of magic — sure that Namuth and Huarte could out-dazzle any other servants.

But as the contest drew to a close, both Namuth and Huarte had met their matches and Wizard Weeb was ready to admit defeat.

AS A LAST resort, he called the almost-forgotten cobbler's son to his side and asked him to do whatever he could to save the honor of the kingdom.

To everyone's surprise, the shabby servant outdid all the other servants and won the acclaim of everyone at the match.

When they returned to the castle, the King placed his sword on the shabby servant's shoulder and made him a knight, much to the delight of the whole kingdom, who suddenly realized that true wizardry was available right in their own back yard.

AND SO, the Wizard found the best servant in the kingdom, the once-shabby servant won back his old job and—most important—everyone visited the King's castle.

The only part of the story which would be tough to explain to the kids would be (1) why didn't the cobbler's son get more of the King's gold and (2) why wasn't the Wizard banished from the kingdom for "blowing" so much of the King's gold?

Sporting Chances

If you're wondering what becomes of those fish which escaped the hooks of youngsters at the Ohio State Fair, wonder no more.

Most of the fish, including non-game fish, have been deposited in ponds at Schiller, Eastgate, Linden, Goodale and Franklin Parks. These fish numbered over 700 with 100 channel catfish going to Hargus Lake.

MAVERICK

By Richard L. Pough

WITH MUDDY SHOES

Bushy Tails Beware! . . .

Suddenly it's September, with all the accompanying benefits like musky fishing and squirrel hunting. I had hardly found time to figure out enough alibis to cover the lack of spring bass when someone tore three calendar pages at once.

By the end of this month, many more fishermen will have trolled Dillon Dam and Leesville Reservoir with white bombers in search of the mystifying muskelunge. Autumn is he best time to try your skill against the 'lunge. Troll fast with weight to keep the lure deep and you stand a good chance.

THE STATE-WIDE squirrel season opened, daylight to dark, last Friday. You must be the proud possessor of a new yellow hunting license obtained from your local gun counter since Sept. 1. This license must be displayed on your back at all times in the field.

You may kill four squirrels each day but do not allow them to accumulate in your freezer as you may possess only eight.

If you hunt squirrels in a part of the state that is closed to deer hunters this year, you may hunt the bushy tails until Nov. 11 on private land and until Dec. 25 on public lands.

IF YOU decide to use public lands this year, check with your local game protector to see if any special rules apply to that area. If you hunt your squirrels in either deer zone check your license digest for the closing dates. It gets a might bookish.

If you are one who has hunted Ohio for several years, you might be missing a good location by not looking over he public hunting areas in your county. There are many public lands that have good stands of hardwoods and nut trees that make ideal squirrel hunting.

Always check the ground around the trees to see if the bubytails have been cutting nuts. If you find piles of shells, it's a good bet you will find their source with a bit of patience.

BY THE WAY, don't kill those reds and grays if you don't plan to eat them. That's mighty poor conservation practice.

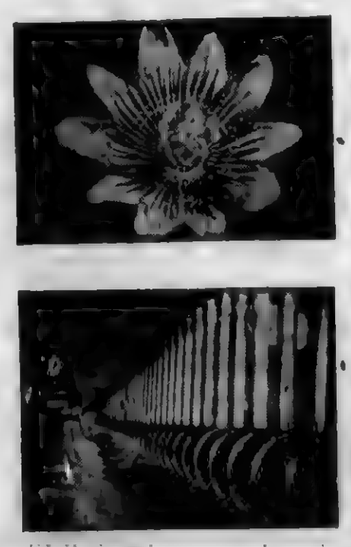
Lest we forget, all hunters under 16 years must have both a hunting license and an adult with them in the field. Keep in mind that some folks don't carry a rake across the yard without thwacking someone in the head with the handle. So train those youngsters will in advance of opening day if you want to have that safe feeling about them.



Just to prove you are right, let go with the left barrel at the side of that old shed from about ten feet away, it is an excellent object lesson to see that gaping hole.

History Lesson Might Better Race Relations

By ROYCE BRIER

Francis Keppel, United States Commissioner of Education, said: ". . . we are still graduating functional illiterates from our public schools."

It is impossible in a brief column to treat of "functional illiterates" pertaining to the whole field of education. But it may be possible to touch on American history, in one of its central problems, which is hardly being taught by "social studies" or "life adjustment" courses.

"How much does an average high school student learn about the crucial race problem in the American story? He learns Abraham Lincoln "freed" the slaves; he knows there was a civil war about it, and that's about it.

He doesn't know why there were Negro slaves, nor how Lincoln "freed" them, nor what problem it produced 100 years ago. He knows there is a black-white problem now, but he doesn't know why. Didn't Lincoln solve it?

In simple terms, he is plain dumb about a vital part of his life experience, and he could get smart about it in one high school semester.

The infamous slave trade grew because it fitted the Southern colonial economy. It didn't fit the Northern economy, so the North was against it.

In due time it became a moral problem. The South wanted to extend slavery to the western territories, and the North didn't. Lincoln hated slavery, but didn't think the government had power to interfere with it. He didn't think the government had power to prevent expansion to the free territories which didn't want slavery.

On this issue the secession was opened. Lincoln repeatedly disclaimed any intent to interfere with the institution in the South. Many politically powerful slave owners in Missouri and Kentucky hated secession and supported Lincoln war.

Lincoln protected them against rabid abolitionists, lest they swing their states out of the Union, and so ruin the Union. It was simple continental strategy — lose Missouri and Kentucky, give victory to the Confederacy.

Abolitionists said to heck with that, and pressed Lincoln hard. Lincoln said he had no power to "abolish" slavery, and anyway, most of the slaves were behind the rebel armies. In 1862 he compromised. He would emancipate in rebelled states (not Missouri and Kentucky) where the advancing Union armies controlled.

By the summer of 1863, with 300,000 youths already dead, 500,000 wounded, every living American was in a seering experience. It changed the Northern viewpoint, which began to swing to abolition with victory. It became apparent slavery was doomed — if the North won. But this only hardened the South, which in turn hardened the North.

In the last year Lincoln struggled with the question of what to do with four million liberated Negroes, largely illiterate children. He didn't think they could become full citizens immediately, but he did maneuver the anti-slavery movement. He didn't live for the showdown. His successors found no rational solution.

If American boys or girls, white or black, don't know all this, and much more, they don't know whence they came, or how. So why expect anything of them but confusion?

School Counselors To Have State Meet

School counselors from throughout Ohio are meeting Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24 and 25 to take a look at "Change: By Choice or Chance."

Occasion is the Thirteenth All Ohio Guidance Conference at the Ohio Youth Center on the Ohio Exposition Center Grounds. The first conference in 1951 was attended by 45 persons. This year over 1000 counselors and educators are expected to attend.

Among other activities this year, the counselors are participating in two of four work group sessions covering the topics: "Mahoning Valley Vocational School Program"; "Will Work Be Necessary in in the Future?" "The Akron Additional Experimental Programs"; and "The Bedford Plan for Industrial Education."

Saturday morning, Clarence J. Brown, Jr., publisher in Urbana; Mel Murray, manager of a radio station in Fostoria, and Lyle Hamilton, director, publications and public information, Columbus Public Schools, will participate in a symposium entitled "Boosting Your Public Relation Potential."

Charles L. Harrison, presently director of Community Services, Ohio Youth Commission, and former deputy superintendent of the Boys' Industrial School and a resident chaplain of the Boys' School for 14 years, will be the keynote speaker.

Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, associate professor of education, New York University, and an initial appointee by Sergent Shriver to head a planning group to develop the Women's Job Corps in the Presidential Task Force on War on Poverty, is the banquet speaker.

An innovation of the Conference are four Saturday morning breakfast seminars. These sessions are designed for new counselors, counselors representing small schools, intermediate size schools or school systems and counselors from a large school system. Each seminar group will have a leader and a recorder.

The function of school counselors is to provide educational assistance, to assist in vocational planning and to implement the personal growth of all students.

A goal is that each student will be helped to know himself better and understand his potentials, aptitudes, interests, strengths and weaknesses.

There are now approximately 2500 counselors in Ohio public schools. Over 60 percent of these are certificated.

Growth Boom Resounds In 'Old Metrop'

By CHUCK HASTLE

Columbus, boom-town of the Midwest, exploded in several directions this week. Biggest breakthrough was the approval of County Commissioners of annexation of 2364 acres in Sharon and Perry townships.

A verticle boom is in the works at the southwest corner of Broad and High-sts. A special committee recommended the site to the Governor for construction of a 15-story, $5-million state health department building. A large part of the site is already state-owned. And money is available from the $290-million bond issue approved by the voters last May.

In its contest with Worthington over the annexation of the big tract north and east of the suburban city, Columbus held all the high cards and did not hesitate to play them.

County Commissioner Glen L. Myers pointed out that one of the key factors in giving the land to Columbus was the inability of Worthington to provide sewer and water service to the area due to restrictions in its utilities contract with Columbus.

And, do you think Columbus was about to re-negotiate he contract to give its smaller neighbor a crack at the prize?

Ranco, which would like a little more space anyway, has agreed to the idea as long as Jaeger builds a new plant for the company somewhere in Franklin County.

Whitehall Council Special Meet Set

"Tabling to special meeting" was the main order of business at Whitehall Council's regular meeting, with action on several legislative measures tagged for consideration at a special session set Tuesday, Sept. 28.

The meeting was called to consider the lengthy salary ordinance for city employes that will raise police and firefighters' salaries, and lower firefighters' working week from 72 to 56 hours. Annual cost to the city will be $94,000.

Also slated for the special session is the proposal to extend Mound-st west from Shady Lane-rd to allow a second access to apartments now under construction next to Whitehall Discount Center.

A discussion meeting between Ludington residents who have stormily protested the road, Seymour Luckoff, developer of the apartments, city officials and councilmen has been arranged for Monday night.

Officials hope an amicable agreement between all parties will be reached.

A resolution to suspend rules and pass as an emergency measure a request that the city engineer prepare plans and cost estimates for the extension of Etna-rd failed with two negative votes.

Loren Mason, chairman of the service committee who had, according to other members, apparently been in favor of the measure in committee, cast the first negative vote. Gilbert O'Shaughnessy also voted no.

Therefore the resolution had only its first, routine reading.

Tabled to the next regular meeting, to allow additional time in committee, was the "noisy animal" ordinance.

Passed as an emergency measure was an ordinance to issue $19,933.80 of bonds for the construction of water lines and a sanitary sewer on E. Main, and a storm sewer on Westphal-av.

Traffic, Trade Prompt Hamilton-Main Priority

A determination that Great Eastern merchants should not be "penalized by progress" during a second Christmas shopping season has prompted a first-priority rating for completion of Hamilton-rd improvements at the E. Main intersection.

Construction work on the corner has already closed the westbound curb lane on Main, complicating the problem of traffic flow.

Expediting the project at that point is further needed to relieve congestion on the busy artery.

James Polzer, Whitehall's newly-appointed service director, said the contractor had assured him the entire Hamilton-rd project would be completed by the Nov. 15 deadline, weather permitting.

"But because bad weather might slow the work," Polzer said, "it is important that the Hamilton-Main intersection be completed first, before the road north.

"It would be unfair," he continued, "for these merchants to suffer (business losses) for a second year."

Great Eatern merchants and others on Hamilton-rd from Main-st north to Broad have protested their heavy losses for more than a year, the period Hamilton-rd has been torn up, first for sewer installations and then for road construction.

During last year's Christmas shopping season, access to some of the firms was so difficult most shoppers avoided the area.

Temple Israel Assistant Rabbi To Be Installed

Dr. Jerome D. Folkman, Rabbi, Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st, has announced the formal installation of Rabbi Edward D. Kiner as assistant rabbi of the Temple, scheduled for 8 p.m., Friday, Sept. 24. Guest preacher will be Rabbi Phflip Horowitz, Temple Brith Emeth, Cleveland.

Rabi Kiner will respond to the message of Rabbi Horowitz. Dr. Folkman will conduct the worship service.

Following the service, the Temple Israel Sisterhood will held a reception in the social hall honoring the guest preacher and Rabbi and Mrs. Kiner. The Kiners have two children.

Rabbi Kiner was ordained in 1951 at the Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of religion, Cincinnati, with the degree of Master of Arts in Hebrew Letters with Honors. He was educated at Yeshiva College, Columbia University and the Teachers Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary. He then returned to his native city, Cleveland, where he entered Western Reserve University as a full scholarship student.

In Cleveland, he served as a member of the faculty of the Park Synagogue and Brith Emeth.

While a student at the Hebrew Union College, he taught in a local congregation, supplied the pulpit of Congregation B'nai Israel, Williamson, W. Va., from 1953 to 1955, and in 1954 represented the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith at a Methodist summer camp for young people.

Rabbi Horowitz was born in Vienna and came to this country in 1928.

From 1947 to 1952, he was the educational director of Forest Hills Jewish Center, Forest Hills, N.Y. In that year, he came to Cleveland to be minister of religious education at the Euclid Avenue Temple, now known as the Fairmount Temple. Since 1959, he has been the Rabbi of Temple Brith Emeth.

Tight Race Shapes Up InWhitehall

Whitehall voters would be hard-pressed to ask more questions of office seekers than the candidates are asking each other. Will Holzhause support Moling . . . or Haytcher? Will either of the partisan candidates ever say an unkind word about the "lame duck" mayor? These and other questions may never be fully answered but the next six weeks should be devoted to "boning up" in these areas for "final exams" Nov. 2.

By FRANK RYAN

Early campaign strategy in Whitehall's mayoralty race is an open book to those who will "listen" to what the candidates are NOT saying.

Democratic candidate Paul J. Haytcher isn't saying much about his long-range political ambitions. Republican Walter B. Moling isn't saying anything about zoning—particularly the apartment type.

Neither party's standard-bearer is saying anything about the operation of the office under current Mayor Bill Holzhause. And Holzhause is returning the favor by saying nothing about his personal choice between the candidates.

The "loud silence" between the mayor candidates and the "lame duck" incumbent is all to the advantage of Holzhause. He would like it to last right through election day. But, observers feel, it won't.

Holzhause is under heavy pressure from followers of both Moling and Haytcher to make a choice. Reportedly he has a mid-October deadline to make his choice public.

Betting this week is that he will announce for Moling as a fellow-Republican and in the name of party unity. But those who remember the "unity" attempt of last November are less than secure in their hopes for a Holzhause-Moling partnership.

They remember the following chronology of events when some of the GOP leadership tried to avoid a primary clash between the two mayors:

Holzhause had said there wasn't "enough room in city hall" for both him and Moling. Moling had said he was in the primary race to stay. But Holzhause subsequently offered Moling the service director's job and then the tax commissioner's office.

The former four-term mayor turned down the first offer, but accepted the tax job. But the "unity glue" was not yet dry when Moling changed his mind and re-entered the primary race. The job offers, acceptance and then re-

JOINT VOCATIONAL PLAN NEEDS BOND ISSUE, LEVY

Voters in five east Franklin County school districts will be asked Dec. 7 to approve a $1,600,000 bond issue and operating levy for a new Joint Vocational School.

State Board of Education approved a $1,400,000 appropriation for the school at its September meeting. The additional money is being sought in the Dec. 7 special election.

Districts involved are Jefferson Local (Gahanna), Reynoldsburg, Canal Winchester, Madison Local and Whitehall City Schools.

The school would offer a vocational curriculum of supplementary programs for 11th and 12th graders of the five participating districts.

Students also would receive college preparation courses. They would return to their "home" high school, and be transported from there by bus to the vocational school.

The purpose of establishing such a school is to make available many more vocational courses of greatly expanded scope than is possible for individual districts.

Appearing on the panel Saturday morning will be James Stadaford, director of the vocational school district; Oscar K. Rogers, coordinator, vocational education at Reynoldsburg High, and Mrs. Ruth Kosar, advisory board member of the vocational school and member of Whitehall Board of Education.

Students who will appear are Barbara Cook of Canal Winchester, Mark Lee of Whitehall-Yearling, and Clayton Coffey of Madison Local.

A study is now being directed by Dr. M. J. Conrad, Ohio State University's bureau of educational research and plant planning, to select a site.

It is hoped that the building, to house 1,000 students, will be ready for occupancy by September, 1967.

The Joint Vocational concept will be aired on "Open Classroom" Saturday, Sept. 25, at 8:30 a.m. over WLW-C, Channel 4.

Educators and students will comprise a panel to explain the need and purpose of the school, the curriculum, and the current status of plans.

'JUST RICH ENOUGH TO BE POOR'

Bexleyites Launch Effort

"We're just rich enough to be poor," Dr. E. E. Jarvis, superintendent of Bexley Schools, told 167 residents organizing into a committee to promote the passage of a five-mill school operating levy on the fall ballot.

The city schools are not covered by any of the federal assistance programs because average annual income of residents is $10,000.

However, "only 37 percent of Bexley families have children in the city's schools," according to Paul Rosenfeld, publicity chairman, "and the rest are not directly involved in the school system.

"Education is something we just can't quibble about," Rosenfeld said, placing the responsibility for financing on all Bexley residents, not merely on those with children in the city schools.

Starting salary in Bexley is $4700, about $300 under Columbus.

"We're low man on the totem pole," Rosenfeld added, "under Columbus, Arlington, Westerville and just about all other communities."

The tax increase would amount to about $41 a year for the average family.

The committee is concerned that the issue may get "lost in the shuffle" with its placement on the ballot "at the end of the list of seven items."

Members are also concerned that voters may be apathetic about going to the polls since it is neither a mayoralty nor gubernatorial election.

John Loehnert, 120 N. Cassingham-av, is general chairman of the committee, and sub-committee chairmen are:

Paul Rosenfeld, publicity; Mrs. Robert Greene and Peter Mykrantz, speakers' bureau; Ed Ellman, door-to-door canvassers; Mrs. Tom Peters, telephone, and Mrs. David Roth, "get out to vote."

Clubs, organizations, PTAs and civic groups may secure a speaker for their meetings by calling Mrs. Greene.

Adult Classes Still Open In Gahanna

Adults wishing to attend classes in Gahanna's evening adult education program who did not register before the deadline, may still enter certain classes.

Some openings are available and registrations for those classes will be accepted on opening night, Monday, Sept. 27, and Thursday, Sept. 30, 6:30 p.m. at Gahanna High School.

LONG TIME WORKER FOR RED CROSS EXCHANGES CAREER FOR HUSBAND

KEY LEADERS in the Red Cross Office of Volunteers get together over changes to be made in the office. The changes are the retiring of Mrs. Stewart E. Wilson, center, as director of volunteers and the appointment of her successor Mrs. Bette Todd, left. Right is Mrs. Calvin Stacey, current chairman, Office of Volunteers.

A well known Red Cross worker, Mrs. Stewart E. Wilson, 431 Glenmont, formerly Nell Loudenslager, is retiring this month after 24 years association with the Franklin County Chapter. The announcement was made by Mrs. Calvin Stacey, chairman of the Office of Volunteers.

Known affectionately as Nell by her friends and coworkers, she first joined Red Cross in 1934 on a part time basis to assist the Chapter in roll call. For three months each year she took charge of signing up Red Cross member. The rest of the year she served as a volunteer doing office work and helping wherever needed.

She has many fond memories as a volunteer, particularly when she registered refugees during the Ohio Valley floods of 1937.

Her activities as a volunteer ended in 1941 the day after Pearl Harbor when she became director of fund raising for the Chapter. A hard worker, practically every business and community leader had met and/or worked with her in raising funds. Evidence of her ability to enlist key leaders in the community is the fact that not once in 10 years did the chapter fail to reach its goal.

In 1951 Red Cross joined partnership with United Appeal. Mrs. Wilson then represented Red Cross at United Appeal and served as office manager.

The Red Cross Blood Program needed her talents and in 1961 she was appointed director of donor recruitment. In 1963 she became director of volunteers, her present position.

With her marriage in April of this year to Stewart E. Wilson, those at Red Cross suspected she might soon be

Executive Director Alfred Baron said to her, "No one has done more for Red Cross in Franklin County. We hate to lose her but we are happy for her in her new life."

A successor will have big shoes to fill but according to Mrs. Stacey one has been found who will try her best. She is Mrs. Bette Todd of 585 Chatham-rd, who was formerly with a local insurance company.

Mrs. Todd has a good start as the new director of volunteers. One of her first projects was to ask Mrs. Wilson to become a volunteer after she retired, to which she replied yes.

WHY "THINK KINKS?"
It used to be, no good permanent wave was "permanent" unless it was kinky, frizzy and over-curled. It was so tight that creme rinses was actually invented to help yesterday's hairdressers comb through that scouring pad curl. Some women still believe a wave should behave that way. That's not true, nor is it pretty. It's not practical either, for waves don't "relax" halfway through as they used to. This is a new era . . . the days of suave, natural waves.

PRETTY PERSUASION
We don't force your hair into scrunched-up, unnatural patterns. Our new professional permanents are kind to your hair and the carefully formulated lotions bathe your hair in creamy beauty. Our precision-placed rollers pattern your hair so naturally that even Mother Nature would have to check her records to see if you got it from her.

COMES MARKED "PERSONAL"
We won't unpackage a permanent unless it's exactly right for you, your hair texture and current condition. There are three reasons you can't match a professional permanent outside a beauty salon. Even if you could get your hands on these personalized formulas . . . who would analyze your hair? We would . . . and we'd love the opportunity to prove it to you.

FROM UNDER THE DRYER
Olive Oil is wonderful . . . for salads. Before you listen to old wives' hair-care ideas, put your head in our hands.

WILL RALLY NEAR COLUMBUS

United Klan De-Hooded

"There will be a Klan rally in Franklin County within a month, practically in the lap of Columbus."

Flynn Harvey, Grand Dragon of Ohio of the United Klans of America, made this disclosure from his home at 418 Josephine-av.

United Klans will stage some "firsts" in Ohio this weekend on a farm near Cambridge.

The three-day rally, first for the group in Ohio during the recent Klan revival, will also be the first in a series "every weekend all over Ohio, until the weather gets too bad," according to Harvey.

The site is secured for the Franklin County rally, he said, but will not be announced until just before the date because, "it takes a certain number of days to get an injunction so we don't announce it too soon."

Harvey also disclosed that the United Klans had "de-hooded." Hoods are never worn now, he said, by decision of Robert Shelton, national head of the group.

"We have been accused of 'hiding behind a hood,'" he cited as main reason for the change.

Membership in the group is still guarded and members may remain anonymous. "It's up to a Klansman to tell his membership," Harvey said.

Harvey added, "membership in Columbus is 500 times what it was a year ago. And Columbus is one of our slowest cities."

The rally planned this Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be held on 35 acres of the Herschel Taylor farm on Rt. 209, about three miles from Cambridge.

"We're holding it there," Harvey said, "because there's so much more space. We could park thousands of cars. We're expecting maybe 30,000 people.

"Another reason for holding it there," Harvey continued, "is there used to be 500 members in the Cambridge area back in the 25s. The man who owns the farm used to be a Klan member."

Discussing the rally held near Cleveland by the National Knights of the Klan, Harvey declared that "police won't stop and search our cars as they did there, or I'll sue.

"And," he continued, "there will be no pickets — students or any group opposed. The speaker's platform will be behind a building and can't be seen or heard by anyone not on the grounds.

"And they won't get on the grounds because they have to pass through a gate. We'll have security guards there," he added.

He identified "security guards" as Klansmen.

"People must state their intention (before being admitted through the gates) and they will be watched. There will be no picket signs. If anyone is disorderly and doesn't leave when they're asked, we'll put them out," he concluded.

Robert Shelton, Imperial Wizard of the Klan, will be on hand, and a cross will be burned on all three nights, according to Harvey.

He discussed the present revival of the group, and predicted that, "We feel we'll be strong enough in the country by the next Presidential election to elect the next President."

City Officials Hope To Speed Upper Darby Land Acquisition

Columbus city officials are working toward an accelerated land acquisition program in connection with the proposed Upper Darby reservoir project.

During recent meetings with officials of the federal Housing and Home Financing Agency in Chicago, Columbus Finance Director John M. Stanley discussed procedures the city might follow in securing federal funds for land purchases.

Provisions of the 1965 Housing and Urban Development act passed by Congress in August indicate that Columbus could be eligible for as much as 50 percent federal aid for property acquisition under the national "Open Space" program.

The new "Open Space" law raises the amount of federal participation from 30 to 50 percent and includes the acquisition of developed land. However, Congress has not yet acted on the appropriations legislation necessary to finance the expanded program.

Stanley said the city will maintain contact with the Housing and Home Financing Agency, and that the city will be notified when application procedures have been established.

Service Director Warren J. Cremean is hopeful that the availability of additonal federal aid will enable the city to embark on a program of advance purchase of land for the water supply project. Present plans call for an initial expenditure of $100,000 during 1966.

City officials point to the savings realized by acquiring land before it is developed, and to the steadily rising cost of real estate — both developed and undeveloped. Present estimates place the cost of land for the Upper Darby project at between $2.5 and $3 million.

Although the Upper Darby project will be a strictly city built and operated facility, it was included in a study by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. Columbus officials say they have confirmed the finding by the Army Engineers that the project represents the most important single source of future water supply for the city.

Originally planned as a multi-purpose project (flood control, water supply and recreation), the current plans call only for construction of a reservoir. The Lower Darby project, now being constructed by the Army Engineers, will include flood control and recreation features.

One city official hopes the Ohio Department of Natural Resources will purchase land in the Upper Darby area to include recreational facilities with the city project. He also said "other" areas are being studied to keep down city costs.

The project will be located principally in Franklin and Madison counties, with a minor intrusion into Union County.

Mr. DuVall is also a poet, and a student of astronomy and the Bible.

And he has something to say about life.

"No dictionary defines it this way," he said, "but I believe 'life' means, the communications of faculties with their environment.

"With our faculties," he explained, "we see and hear — but without thought these things have no meaning. If we give thought to these things what we observe and hear will always answer.

"All of nature is disclosed in a blade of grass in early spring.

"And the longer I've lived," he twinkled, "the more I appreciate brevity. Simplicity is easily understood.

Many of Mr. DuVall's works, including landscapes done in the Hocking Hills, will be exhibited in the honor gallery of Town and Country's Shopping Center's sidewalk show and sale this weekend.

Mr. DuVall was the first exhibitor at the Columbus Public Library, about 55 years ago. "And," he said, "when the new Riverside Gallery was opened I was the first exhibitor there, during November and December."

"And in 1923," he said with quiet pride, "my canvas in the Cincinnati Museum was the one from 300 chosen for publication in the Paris Art Journal."

A friendly "neighbor," in the office next to his studio keeps an affectionate eye on Mr. DuVall.

Flippo the Clown will pass out autographed pictures during the parade and in the grounds following it.

The local feature of course is the annual "Little Miss Firefighter," and her court. The Achbar Grotto Clowns also will be there along with several bands, floats, horses and decorated vehicles.

The big event for the kids will be the Saturday matinee featuring reduced prices on all rides.

The firemen invite everyone to visit the ground and help celebrate their jubilee.

Remedial Program Proposed In Columbus

An after-school remedial program for children in the eight "target areas" of Columbus is the latest approach to the local War on Poverty.

Proposals of the Columbus and Diocesan schools have been approved by the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO) and already have reached the Chicago office of Economic Opportunity for a final okay.

If the project is given the go-ahead without cutbacks, there will be 24 schools opened by Columbus for this purpose and another six diocesan schools.

The ratio, according to James S. Wade, coordinator of intercultural education in the division of special services, of elementary centers to secondary ones will be two to one.

The target areas where the centers are to be opened include the Near North Side, South Linden, West Side, Downtown, Near East Side, East Central Area, the Near South Side and the South Side.

Chosen By Teachers

Children who need this type of help in grades four through six and in the junior and senior high levels will be identified by their teachers and principals. With their parents they will then be invited to participate.

A pilot program last year with seven centers operating in private facilities indicate that at least 1,230 pupils can benefit from the program.

Emphasizing the importance of such a program, Dr. Samuel Stellman, director of CMACAO, stated that the child who is having difficulty today is the child who becomes tomorrow's dropout.

Wade stressed that the program differs from a tutorial one. With after-school study (usually in the early evening hours) the child is provided an appropriate place to study under the supervision of teachers who are prepared to lend a willing hand.

Orientation Planned

One of the more important angles is orientation which will be carried out before the project goes into full swing.

Parents are invited to familiarize themselves with the program's aims. Teachers will acquaint center supervisors with instruction methods and areas that frequently present student problems.

Facing up to the fact that no clarroom in the world is as attractive to a youngster as the outdoors in early fall and late spring, the administration plans to open the centers only after school has been in session for at least six weeks. It will terminate when those May flowers begin to appear.

The federal government probably will provide about $53,000 to implement the program with the local agencies shouldering most of it, share with "in-kind" services.

What Do YOU Think Kids Eat?

By JANE ROBINSON

What do pre-school age youngsters live on?

The matter is currently the subject of a 12-state study.

While nutritionists believe they know a great deal about the eating habits of older children and adults, they maintain that little is know about what small fry eat and whether what they do eat is what they should.

Toward finding the answer, 17 Bexley families, 24 families in Columbus and six families in Hamilton Township are among 400 in Ohio that will be interviewed next month. (The entire study area includes most of the Mid-Western states.)

According to Dr. Eva D. Wilson, a home economist of OSU and one of the regional leaders in the project, three answers already are foreseen.

The child probably eats what he likes, what is available or what is on television.

Among the answers given by a half a dozen mothers were "air," "mashed potatoes," "hamburger prepared 431 ways," "breakfast cereal" and, "whatever is put before them."

CCL Elevens Take Edge Off CL's Supremacy Tag

A visitor from Cleveland remarked a couple of years ago after a game between a City League school and a Central Catholic League entry. "The parochial schools in Columbus sure can't compete with the large public schools like they can up north."

His remarks seem a bit premature in the wake of what's happened in eight games this fall between members of the two leagues.

CITY LEAGUE football has always meant grid supremacy in the Franklin County area but that's a pretty hard item to peddle these days with Catholic elevens copping seven of eight decisions in the first two weeks of play this season.

In those eight games, CCL clubs have piled up 216 points (27 per average) while limiting CL elevens to 58 (slightly under seven per game).

Apparently the powers that be are looking ahead to a local six-team Catholic League which should be realized with the addition of two new high schools (Wehrle Memorial, which opens in 1966, and a yet unnamed site in Northwest Columbus).

REPEATED bids to break into the City League have been turned down and one school's desire to join the new Metropolitan League was sidelined by a 'no' vote from other CCL members last spring.

A completely local Central Catholic League would be unlikely before 1970. In the meantime, the battle for "league supremacy" goes on.

★ 'The child having difficulty today is the child who becomes tomorrow's drop-out' — Samuel Stellman, CMACAO Director. ★

Remedial Program Proposed In Columbus

An after-school remedial program for children in the eight "target areas" of Columbus is the latest approach to the local War on Poverty.

Proposals of the Columbus and Diocesan schools have been approved by the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO) and already have reached the Chicago office of Economic Opportunity for a final okay.

If the project is given the go-ahead without cutbacks, there will be 24 schools opened by Columbus for this purpose and another six diocesan schools.

The ratio, according to James S. Wade, coordinator of intercultural education in the division of special services, of elementary centers to secondary ones will be two to one.

The target areas where the centers are to be opened include the Near North Side, South Linden, West Side, Downtown, Near East Side, East Central Area, the Near South Side and the South Side.

Chosen By Teachers

Children who need this type of help in grades four through six and in the junior and senior high levels will be identified by their teachers and principals. With their parents they will then be invited to participate.

A pilot program last year with seven centers operating in private facilities indicate that at least 1,230 pupils can benefit from the program.

Emphasizing the importance of such a program, Dr. Samuel Stellman, director of CMACAO, stated that the child who is having difficulty today is the child who becomes tomorrow's dropout.

Wade stressed that the program differs from a tutorial one. With after-school study (usually in the early evening hours) the child is provided an appropriate place to study under the supervision of teachers who are prepared to lend a willing hand.

Orientation Planned

One of the more important angles is orientation which will be carried out before the project goes into full swing.

Parents are invited to familiarize themselves with the program's aims. Teachers will acquaint center supervisors with instruction methods and areas that frequently present student problems.

Facing up to the fact that no clarroom in the world is as attractive to a youngster as the outdoors in early fall and late spring, the administration plans to open the centers only after school has been in session for at least six weeks. It will terminate when those May flowers begin to appear.

The federal government probably will provide about $53,000 to implement the program with the local agencies shouldering most of it, share with "in-kind" services.

FREE GLAUCOMA TEST OFFERED

MAYOR M. E. SENSENBRENNER recently signed a proclamation declaring Sunday, Sept. 26, as Sight Saving Sunday. The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness is sponsoring free glaucoma tests that day from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at eight high schools . . . North, East, South, West, Whetstone, Bexley, Worthington and Upper Arlington. The test is recommended for persons over 35, doesn't hurt and takes only a few minutes. From left, Robert Morrison, Glen Phillips and Dr. Hans Bredemeyer watch the mayor sign the proclamation. All three are active in the OSPB.

What Do YOU Think Kids Eat?

By JANE ROBINSON

What do pre-school age youngsters live on?

The matter is currently the subject of a 12-state study.

While nutritionists believe they know a great deal about the eating habits of older children and adults, they maintain that little is know about what small fry eat and whether what they do eat is what they should.

Toward finding the answer, 17 Bexley families, 24 families in Columbus and six families in Hamilton Township are among 400 in Ohio that will be interviewed next month. (The entire study area includes most of the Mid-Western states.)

According to Dr. Eva D. Wilson, a home economist of OSU and one of the regional leaders in the project, three answers already are foreseen.

The child probably eats what he likes, what is available or what is on television.

Among the answers given by a half a dozen mothers were "air," "mashed potatoes," "hamburger prepared 431 ways," "breakfast cereal" and, "whatever is put before them."

CCL Elevens Take Edge Off CL's Supremacy Tag

A visitor from Cleveland remarked a couple of years ago after a game between a City League school and a Central Catholic League entry. "The parochial schools in Columbus sure can't compete with the large public schools like they can up north."

His remarks seem a bit premature in the wake of what's happened in eight games this fall between members of the two leagues.

CITY LEAGUE football has always meant grid supremacy in the Franklin County area but that's a pretty hard item to peddle these days with Catholic elevens copping seven of eight decisions in the first two weeks of play this season.

In those eight games, CCL clubs have piled up 216 points (27 per average) while limiting CL elevens to 53 (slightly under seven per game).

Apparently the powers that be are looking ahead to a local six-team Catholic League which should be realized with the addition of two new high schools (Wehrle Memorial, which opens in 1966, and a yet unnamed site in Northwest Columbus).

REPEATED bids to break into the City League have been turned down and one school's desire to join the new Metropolitan League was sidelined by a 'no' vote from other CCL members last spring.

Their mother, Mrs. Kay Woolcott, is owner-operator of ABC Play School, 128 Pinecrest-dr.

A. R. Allen Rites Held Saturday

Funeral service for Arthur R. Allen, 57, of 2810 Dale-av, was held Sept. 18 in the Schoedinger State Street Chapel. Interment was in Glen Rest.

Allen, who had been promoted the previous Sunday to chairman of the board of the Ohio Federal Savings and Loan Association, shot himself in his office at 90 N. High-st, Sept. 16. He was reportedly suffering from a disease for which there is no cure.

He was past potentate of the Aladdin Shrine Temple; president of Columbus Zoological Society; a member of the Board of Realtors, Home Builders Association, the Savings and Loan League and the Development Committee.

Before being named chairman of the board of Ohio Federal, Allen served as president of the firm, a position he held since 1952. He joined the organization in 1945.

He was with the old Lilley Building and Loan firm from 1937 to 1945.

Allen was known as a sportsman in the Central Ohio area. Last March he suffered a cerebral thrombosis which curtailed most of his activities.

He was a native of Columbus and was a graduate of East High School, Ohio State University and Franklin University.

Survivors include wife, Glady M.; mother, Mrs. Harry R. Allen; two daughters, Mrs. Charles E. McKnight and Mrs. Thomas G. Waggenbrenner and four grandchildren.

A camp fire will take place at 7:30 p.m. Saturday evening and the public is invited to come at any time to view the campsite and see the activities.

Another event coming up in the White Oaks District is Weblos Day, which will be held at City Park on Livingston-av, across from Walnut Ridge High School, Oct. 2 at 1 p.m.

All Cub Scouts 10 and a half or older are invited to bring their parents and see what lies ahead of them in the Boy Scouts.

Troop 422, with scoutmaster Paul Heil, is going to show a nature trail. Troop 370, with scoutmaster Chester Wegenka, will exhibit the patrol method of scouting. Gilbert Powell, scoutmaster of Troop 482, will be working with his troop demonstrating fire building, while Charles Ringer, Jr. will be helping his Troop 288 build a model campsite. Troop 103 is going to cook bean-hole beans and will give a first aid demonstration. Earl Myers, their scoutmaster, said the beans will be served to spectators.

Registration is to take place between 1 and 2 p.m. and the day's activities will begin at 2 p.m. Each boy and his parents are asked to bring a sack lunch which will be eaten between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. Activities will continue until 6:30 p.m. at which time there will be a campfire headed by Tom Currier, neighborhood commissioner for the White Oaks District.

A special reminder to members of the District Committee and Institutional Representatives, there will be a meeting at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, at 7:30 p.m. in room 319 Sept. 28. This is for the White Oaks District only.

Gahanna Man Wins Promotion

He joined the company as a development engineer in 1957, at the Hawthorne (Chicago, Ill.) Works, following undergraduate study at Georgia Tech., and a tour of duty with the U. S. Army.

Carlson received a Master of Arts Degree in Business Administration at the University of Chicago.

Tragedy Of Betsy Leads Marwick Women To Pitch In

Within 24 hours after Dr. Robert Gibbs of New Orleans called his sister, Mrs. Carl Kunzi, while Betsy was still raging, 160 pounds of clothing were on the way to aid at least a few of the destitute left in the hurricane's wake.

The urgency in his voice led her to enlist the aid of a friend and neighbor, Mrs. Jack Reichert, even before she received the letter which so graphically describes the killer storm.

With no transports from Lockbourne en route to the disaster area (those carrying telephone trucks had already left) Mrs. Reichert dug down into her own sugar bowl for $16 to pay the Greyhound freight for the clothes collected from her Marwick neighbors.

And when the letter arrived, the $16 began to look almost like chicken feed to her.

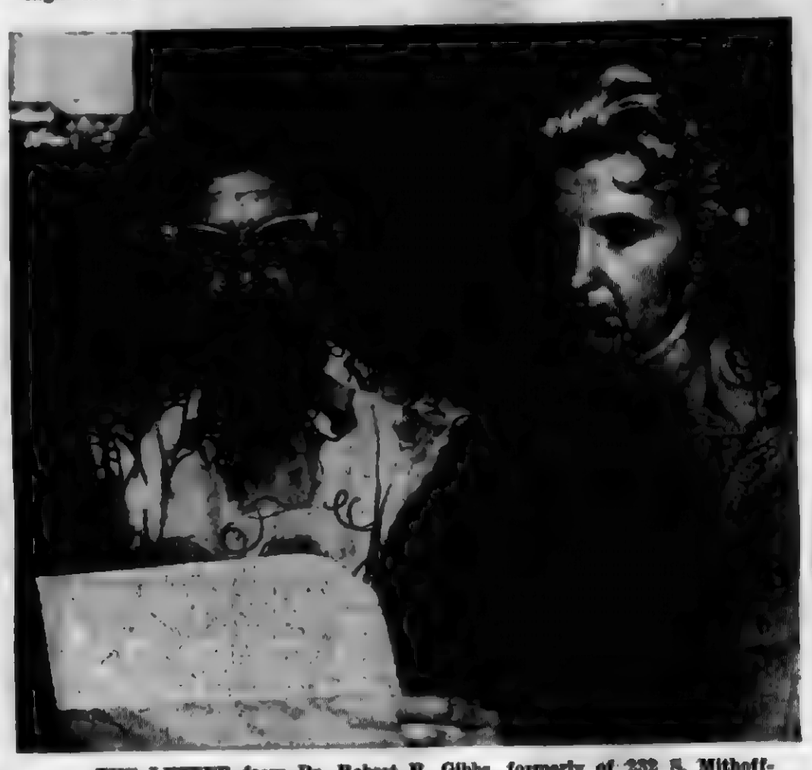
The South High alumnus who graduated from Ohio State in 1930 wrote:

"The vastness of it is beyond description. How does one tell more than he can feel?

"The radio calling for cars to line a football field and light it up so that a woman can be rescued while she is having a baby; an elderly woman on a rooftop from Thursday night until Monday; another standing on a chair, atop a stove waiting three and a half days on the chair, up to her neck in water; a man sending his family back on a boat and watch it collapse 50 feet from him, his two-week-old and two-year-old son lost."

In another passage he told of rescuing a family of three adults and four infants after they had spent the night in the street with water up to their chests. Their only worldly possessions was a plastic wash basket with some clothing and a box of breakfast cereal.

Gibbs wrote of food going to waste without power to supply refrigeration and ice becoming more valuable than gold. He cheerfully paid $2 for a 75-pound block.



And he spoke of the "esprit" which led all human beings willing to attempt to help their brethren with racial barriers disappearing, at least fo the time of the crisis. He mentioned his young son Tommy appearing with blistered-hands after throwing the "might and main" of his 80 pounds to sawing trees to clear the streets.

Describing the wild forces of the wind, he brought attention to the willow tree in his back yard, pushed over in a great 45 degree angle. "It looks like a Can-Can girl with her skirt over her head and her fanny shining at the bald head row."

Again hitting the note of compassion for his fellowmen with which the letter was laced, he begged his family to realize how great the need is, and how diligently he will work to distribute whatever can be sent to relieve the misery.

Mrs. Reichert and Mrs. Kunzi aren't through yet. They still want to help, and anyone with clothing, especially for children of pre-teen age can call either of them, but they can use "anything for anybody."

Gibbs is the son of Mrs. Lillie Gibbs, 227 Powhatan. Another sister, Mrs. William Dalton lives at 4256 Dublin-rd and his brother Harold, now in South Vienna, is a former resident of 798 Racine.

THE LETTER from Dr. Robert R. Gibbs, formerly of 232 S. Mithoff-st, made fascinating but tragic reading for his sister, Mrs. Carl Kunzi, Jr., 3192 Eastwick and her neighbor Mrs. Jack Reichert, 3180 Eastwick. The New Orleans veterinary brought the horror of Hurricane Betsy alive in a manner possible only for someone who lived through it. He wrote: "Outside we could hear the wind screaming, roaring at the eaves and against the glass. Water was spurting through the door like a cut artery bleeds. Suddenly we hear something like a giant Bronx Cheer; it was the door, still closed but the wind forcing itself through the weatherstripping."

Local Youth Hits Lowest, Longest 'Grounder' Of Season

By BOB KIEBEL

James (Jamie) Kenefick lays claim to hitting the longest ball in Reynoldsburg. Anyway, it takes the longest time to come back.

Last month, Jamie received a new softball. His mother, Mrs. James Kenefick, wrote his name in it before he picked up his bat to launch a new baseball career. On the front lawn, Jamie threw the ball up in the air and swung his bat. He got a hit the first time he tried the ball out—but it rolled down the sewer in front of his home at 6891 Bartlett-rd.

Jamie choked back tears of disappointment. He thought his brand new ball was lost — why, anyone knows that something going down a sewer must surely go all the way to the center of the earth.

He thought about that new ball a lot. But he also remembered that he was a first grader in Herbert Mills School now, and big fellows learn to suffer defeat without a whimper. So he kept silent — but he couldn't help thinking about the ball once in a while.

Last week, during an outing which both families attended, Service Director Charles M .Laird told Jamie he had the ball in his office at the Municipal Building. Jamie thought the man must be kidding. But the more Jamie thought about the lost ball the more he thought he ought to look into the matter a little more thoroughly.

He kept after his mother, but sometimes "Moms" are slow about getting around to "important things." He was sure he could take care of this business himself, but then — he wasn't allowed to cross Main Street.

FIRST GRADER "Jamie" Kenefick thinks the city has the best sewer system in the whole world. Jamie is presented his lost ball by Service Director Charles E. Laird. It was found coming from a storm sewer.

Finally he was taken to the Municipal building, and sure enough Laird had the ball, a little the worse for wear, but it was his — it had his name on it.

Laird explained that the workmen in the Waste Water Treatment Plant spotted the ball coming out of a storm sewer. They raked it out before it got into the plant's system and returned it to him when they saw it had Jamie's name on it.

COME WALK WITH LAURA COWMAN FOR AN AFTERNOON OF FANTASY

By JANE ROBINSON

Laura Cowman is as refreshing as her work.

She is copper-bright, comes closer than most to "gracious living" in a delightful contemporary home and would no more consider a Bohemian life than she would try to grow a beard.

And yet, almost prosaically conventional by art colony criteria, she has done something "way out."

Laura has developed a new art media.

And that isn't easy today when artistry is seen in a torn label from a No. 2 can of tomatoes.

She calls her brain children "Hylozoist paintings."

Long a serious painter in oils, she literally stumbled into the new form when the odd shapes and textures in her backyard wood pile caught her attention.

Much as a less talented person might "doodle" she began to experiment with the material at hand. When the wood pile tended to monotony she cast a quizzical eye at the chunks of cement left from a recent pool renovation and when a friend suggested seed pods might add a note, she gave them a try.

But the casualness of her original approach is belied by the finished product. To the new form she brought the same studied design, the fine sense of color and the intellectual imagination which has brought her national recognition since the early fifties when she turned her attention to fine arts.

From childhood more pleased with crayons than dolls, Laura as a very young woman turned to commercial art. The fashion and advertising worlds were happy with her but it left her cold.

While in Detroit, where her husband, a marketing executive, was transferred from Columbus after the war years, she made the plunge and divorced herself from commercial art.

Since then her paintings have been exhibited in almost 50 juried national, regional and state shows, as well as several one-man shows locally. The latest star on her palette is her acceptance as one of the two Columbus artists selected for national exhibition at the 30th annual Butler Institute which opened in Youngstown, June 27.

But Laura Cowman has a many-faceted personality.

The same versatility which allows her to switch media as gracefully as a ballerina changes tempo affords her many roles.

No outdoor girl (wildlife terrifies her, she has condescended to swim in the family pool only once in three years and exercise bores her) she nevertheless is an enthusiastic fan of her golfing husband and the swimming prowess of her son, Greg, who captains his team.

Although jealous of the time spent away from her easel, she is proud of her home which shows careful attention, is a thoughtful hostess who entertains effortlessly.

And somehow she finds time to satisfy her voracious appetite for the written word. The half dozen or more books she devours weekly tend to make her a stimulating conversationalist and she is as familiar with the world around her as most women are with prices at the supermarket this weekend.

One thinks of an artist as an individual gifted in one of the graphic arts.

No one can deny that Laura Cowman fits that picture.

However, that is only the background of the canvas upon which her personality is reflected.

It is easier to think of her as a charming and vivacious woman who uses her creativity only as one more tool to enrich her life and that of others.

HUNG ON the patio wall of the T. M. Cowman home, 2267 Johnstop-rd, is a character who, while repelling many with his little cracked heart, reaches out to others. His creator has named him "Come Walk with Me and Be My Love."

FORTUNATELY THE COWMAN kitchen is not of the Pullman variety as it leads a double life as Laura's studio. On her easel today is a large abstract, unfinished and untitled. Such work makes up the bulk of her current work, although she is far from a slave to any one school. Six of he reanvases are currently in the rental collection of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts and a number of her paintings, graphics, serigraphics and drawings are hung at the Little Gallery, 117 McMillan.

AT THE COLUMBUS Festival on the State House grounds this summer the "Bay of Bisque" by Mrs. Laura Cowman represented a unique art form, which she has dubbed "Hylozoist Painting." Designed to be hung outdoors in a pool or patio area, the paintings are composed of wood, stone, plaster and what-have-you. The term refers to the Greek doctrine based upon the belief that all matter is animated. Describing her use of this media as "fantasy," she has with her serious oils and watercolors earned herself an international reputation and membership in various art leagues including the National League of American Pen Women, the oldest cultural organization in the United States.

EVEN THOSE forever loyal to traditional art are unfailingly amused by "Family Portrait." Mrs. Cowman explained that the whimsical use of seed pods (a lock of hair for the left hand figure, the up-turning mouth on the second and the quivering eyebrows on the third) represent the common genes shared by the family. This and other art works have led to the request for a biography and photos from the Parisian magazine, La Revue Moderne Des Arts Et La Vie.

LIKE MOST OF Laura Cowman's Hylozoist paintings, "It Came From the Deep," seems to will its own shape, and appears differently according to the eye which beholds it. Oddly enough, decorators have found that the panels lend depth and breadth to an area, in much the same manner as a room is enlarged by mirrors.

HUNG ON the patio wall of the T. M. Cowman home, 2267 Johnston-rd, is a character who, while repelling many with his little cracked heart, reaches out to others. His creator has named him "Come Walk With Me and Be My Love."

Area Windshields Hit By Vandals

Police said a vandal, believed to be a hammer-swinging motorcyclist, smashed windshields of 14 East Side autos Sept. 16.

Damage was estimated at $1000.

The cars, mainly sports models, were parked near the Berwick Court and Arms Apartment developments at 1710 Lonsdale-dr.

Another incident of windshield destruction was reported Sept. 18 when a brake drum was thrown through the windshield of an auto at Hamilton-rd and E. Mound-st.

Police are uncertain whether the brake drum incident was connected with the vandalism of 14 other autos earlier.

M. Scudder Elected Head Of DeMolay

S. Michael Scudder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Scudder of 757 Beechwood-rd, Whitehall, was elected master councilor at the recent semi-annual meeting of Whitehall Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

He is a junior at Whitehall Yearling High School where he is center on the varsity football team.

Raymond Markwood is the next senior councilor of the group and Keith Ward started the elective ladder as junior councilor.

Scudder is an R.D. and has served his chapter as preceptor, marshal and junior and senior councilor.

He represented Whitehall Chapter at meetings of the fourth district council and served as chairman of the jurisprudence committee.

He is also directing the fourth district Muscular Dystrophy drive in November.

Bexley Pupils In Merit Tests Semi-Finals

Five senior boys of Bexley High School have been named semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test program.

Phillip Spohn scored 149; Charles Burkam, 148; Stephen Samuels and Frederick Laird, 146, and Richard "Woody" Jones, 145.

The boys are now in the process of submitting required, needed information. The school will be notified when finalists have been selected.

Bexley-Whitehall Battle Always 'Even Money'

Ram 'Firepower' Vs. Lion 'Dazzle' Seen As Ingredients In Annual Rivalry

Whitehall meets Bexley tomorrow at 8 p.m. on the Lions' field.

Those dozen words should be enough to spell out just about the most exciting 48 minutes of football the area has to offer each fall.

BUT FOR those who poohpooh the annual clash between the East Side grid elevens as over-rated, we offer a few bygone scores:

1962 — Whitehall rallies in second half to defeat Bexley, 36-20.

1963 — Whitehall edges Bexley, 6-0, as Earl Hunter returns second half kickoff 75 yards to score game's lone touchdown.

AND IF YOU think the Rams and Lions can't come up with even a more exciting 48 minutes tomorrow night, put your money down. You're betting against pretty tough odds.

"We just seem to get by each year with a win by the skin of our teeth," Whitehall coach Jim Bline says. "Bexley always seems to play its best game against us. Even the year we won the championship we only beat them 7-6."

"I figure the pressure's on us," Bline continued. "He's (Bexley coach Don DeJong) lost two already."

"WE HAVEN'T really been tested yet," the Ram mentor added. "We played both Westerville and Eastmoor in 'down' years."

Looking at his Rams opponents, Bline commented, "They won't have the size we had to contend with at Eastmoor, but they'll be a lot quicker.

"I look for a different defense than the one we've seen in their first two games. The one they used last year worked pretty good. They'll probably use that one again.

"WE EXPECT they'll be splitting their line more to try and work those fast backs loose. They've got a fine running attack. (Rick) Weber's (Bexley quarterback) a sprinter on the track team. We expect a lot of options, passing and bootlegging from him."

The Ram grid boss again expressed satisfaction with his defense, pointing out that it has accounted for touchdowns in each of Whitehall's first two games.

"That's the kind of defense you like to get. I just hope they can keep it up."

EVEN IF Whitehall's defense fails to produce a score against Bexley, the Ram offense seems more than adequate to provide a few points.

Against Eastmoor, the Rams compiled 255 yards (all on the ground) while that nasty defense limited the Warriors to 41 total yards.

Against E-M, Bline had words of special praise for Gary Stimmel, the Rams' top "hatchet man" (defensive tackles), Jim Heaton (scored TD on interception and led offensive blocking), guards Randy Rhoades and Wes Seymour and back Count Fuller, who Bline believes might be seeing more action in the near future.

THE RAM mentor also singled out fullback Tom Barton, a three-year letterman who played what Bline termed "his best game as a Whitehall football player" against Eastmoor.

Whitehall, which has a fine passer in Mike Allen, has been sticking mainly to the ground this season, causing Bline to remark, "We have a pretty decent passing game. We'll have to use more of it one of these games."

Over at Bexley coach Don DeJong has been pleased thus far this season with his Lions' ability to move the ball.

"We've still got some bugs to iron out in our pass defense," DeJong admitted, pointing out two scoring aerials by Gahanna last Friday. "This is the area where we were hurt so badly last season."

FUMBLES WERE the big Bugaboo in Bexley's loss to Gahanna (Lions lost three) as Bexley finished behind, the winners only 241-239 in the total offense department.

A real bright spot was the passing of Weber, who hit on six of 11 attempts for 116 yards.

"We know they (Whitehall) have a good fullback attack (Tom Barton) and an adequate ball carrier at quarterback (Mike Allen). We'll have to stop his (Allen's) rollouts to the outside. This is where they've hurt their first two opponents," DeJong concluded. "We might even get a look at their passing game."

BOTH CAMPS should be physically able for the game with Bexley's Paul Schultz (a starter last season) possibly ready to go against the Rams.

Schultz, a halfback, has been sidelined for the past three weeks by a bruised calf muscle.

Rams, Hawks, Tigers, Gahanna Stay Clean

Whitehall, Gahanna and East added up second straight '65 wins last weekend against tougher opponents but the big explosion came from Hartley where Jack Ryan's Hawks decidedly disposed of their second straight City League opponent.

Whitehall rammed neighborhood rival Eastmoor, 28-0, Gahanna downed Bexley, 22-14, East whitewashed Ready, 26-0, while Hartley crushed Marion-Franklin by an identical count.

ELSEWHERE, late starter Academy shut out Maumee Country Day, 20-0, and Zanesville handed Walnut Ridge its second straight setback, 30-0.

There was little doubt who was in command at Hartley after the first few exchanges of the pigskin.

Hard-running halfback Scott French was too much for the Devil defense to handle as the slippery senior added three more touchdowns (scored two in opener last week) to his collection on gallops of three, 37 and 70 yards.

IN ALL, French picked up 193 of Hartley's 341 rushing yards in 22 carries, granting the Hawks all the points they really needed with a first period six-pointer.

Oddly enough, that first scoring drive was sparked by the only completion quarterback Johnny Brandt had all evening (in four tries) when he hit Larry Irwin with a 22 yard strike.

The Hawk defense, which appeared in the M-F backfield all evening, granted the Devils only 62 yards on the ground and completely frustrated M-F quarterback Dale Darnell, one of the CL's top passers.

DARNELL HIT on only eight of 24 passes and had four aerials pilfered by the Hawk secondary.

Besides French's three TDs, Joe Gatto added a fourth on a 13 yard scamper in the third period.

BARTON BROKE up a scoreless first period with a 22 yard TD scamper and then granted the Rams a 16-0 intermission bulge with a short plunge in the next stanza following a short E-M punt.

Whitehall continued its offensive mastery (205-41 on ground) over the Warriors in the second half as quarterback Mike Allen rolled around end to run the count to 22-0.

Herb Seymour and Jim Heaton got the Ram line in on the scoring in the final stanza as Seymour tipped an E-M pass into Heaton's hands and the junior tackle took it all the way in from the Warrior 20.

EAST, capitalizing on Ready fumbles, exploded for three second half TDs to sidetrack the improved Silver Knights.

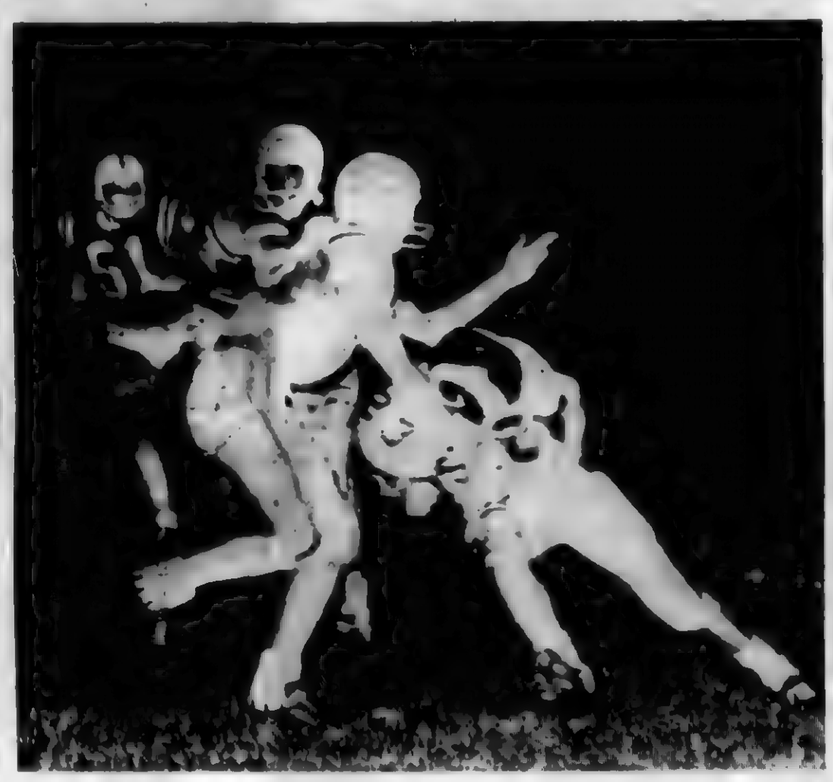
Griffin added two more scores in the second half, one after the Knights had lost the ball on their one yard line. Longest Tiger scamper of the evening came when Chuck Wright streaked 72 yards to paydirt in the third period.

DAVE BELLI, Gahanna's big fullback, continued his rampage through enemy defenses by scoring a pair of TDs (six, 30 yards) in the Lions' win over Bexley.

Bexley carried a six-all deadlock off the field at halftime but Gahanna added a pair of TDs in the third period to offset a single six-pointer by the losers.

Rick Weber and Colby Crail accounted for Bexley scores with Gahanna's winning margin coming on a 33 yard TD aerial from quarterback Bob Mach to end Mike Bokros.

Belli piled up 135 yards in 26 carries to pace the ground game while Bokros picked up 54 yards on a pair of receptions and Steve Clements totaled 44 yards with four completions.



Defensively for Gahanna, Bokros (inception), middle linebacker Jerry Serrafini and tackle Dave Tucker were outstanding.

ACADEMY relied on a strong defense and the running of Neil Larrimer to gain its opening win against Country Day.

The Viking defense halted two scoring drives in the first half while the offense was warming up for post-intermission play.

Academy wasted little time thereafter, taking the opening kickoff and scoring on Larrimer's 10-yard spurt to paydirt — the TD set up by a 27-yard ramble by Larrimer. . .THE VIKINGS picked up a pair of insurance tallies in the final stanza on an 11-yard run by Larrimer and Herb Lape-to-John Fulford toss which covered 23 yards.

Powerful Zanesville scored twice in both the second and fourth periods to drop Walnut Ridge.

DILL KILL — Hartley defensive halfback Jerry Dill (12) arrived just in the nick of time as far as Hawk fans were concerned Friday night, batting down this pass from quarterback Dale Darnell intended for Keith Ferris (79).

Little Bucks Win Kiwanis Bowl Game

The Little Buckeyes, defending Ohio Valley Conference champs, won the first annual Eastern Kiwanis Bowl game Saturday night at Eastmoor High, downing the McDonald Golden Eagles, 14-0, in the title game.

The Little Bucks set up the big win with a 21-0 verdict over the Lockbourne Skyhawks in the opening one-period tilt with Jerry Garriott (22 yds.). Billy Vest (nine yds.) and Terry Cashin (15 yds.) scoring TDs.

In other games, the Golden Eagles blanked the Bremen Blackhawks, 6-0 with Breman winning the consolation tilt over Lockbourne, 7-6.

The Little Buckeyes were presented the victory trophy, supplied by Eastern Kiwanis, who realized the benefits of the game.

RAMON GIBSONE
"Great White Way" Remembered . . .

Ex-Opera Star Leads Quiet Life In Grandview

Sixth-av in Grandview Heights has few connections with Broadway in New York City—except for Ramon Gibsone.

Once Gibsone was one of the bright names along the Great White Way. Today he lives in retirement in a small apartment on W. Sixth-st.

In the 1930's Gibsone sang with the Metropolitan Opera and toured the U.S. and Europe with several leading opera companies. His name was on the marquees of such stage hits as "Gypsy Love Song" and "Rio Rita."

Gibsone will not divulge his age, but he jokingly claims he was on stage in "Our American Cousins" at the Ford Theater the night Lincoln was shot.

Neither will he allow his real name to be used for publication. "Gibsone" is a stage name, and the man said he does not want "dozens of women offering me a chance to make a 'comeback' at their club meetings."

His many-faced career began when he was 17. Gibsone lived with his family on a small farm seven miles from Columbia, Tenn. He recalls that one day his father bought an old Victrola phonograph with several opera records (including one by Caruso).

"I fell in love with opera that day," Gibsone said, "and I've been in love with it ever since."

Gibsone said he listened to the records every night and tried to imitate them during the day while he worked in the fields.

Meanwhile he attended Hawkins Preparatory School when all the farm work was completed. There he was a star football player and spent much of his time attending concerts.

"When I became 21, I decided I would have to leave Columbia, Tenn., if I wanted to see any of my dreams come true," Gibsone said. "So I went to New York."

Gibsone worked for several years as a hotel bellhop and a backstage laborer at theaters. In his spare time he practiced opera and "heckled" theatrical producers.

Finally, in the early 1903's Gibsone won a $5,000 Robsarte scholarship for opera study. He won the scholarship in competition with nearly 7,500 entrants.

Lionel Robsarte, the scholarship sponsor, was one of New York's most famous opera teachers in those days. Gibsone studied under Robsarte for nearly five years.

Then the Paramount-Publix movie theater chain hired Gibsone to travel the circuit. He sang opera in the vaudeville shows the theaters presented between movies.

Gibsone's dramatic tenor voice was heard on stages in most large American cities including Chicago, Dallas, St. Louis, Buffalo and Detroit.

Upon his return to New York, Gibsone got major singing roles on Broadway, and he was eventually accepted into the Metropolitan Opera.

Then Gibsone developed ear trouble. The big years had ended.

Gibsone became a radio announcer for two years. Then he went into public relations work until he retired.

He moved to Grandview two years ago.

Gibsone and his wife, Tyree, said they are happy in Grandview and plan to stay there.

Gibsone has a strong feeling about music today:

• "Opera has decreased in popularity in recent years, but I believe it has begun to make a grand comeback.

• "There has not been a good popular singer since Bing Crosby. Most of today's singers are 'squeaking chipmunks,' but the Beatles have done a good job with one or two songs.

• "The 'wild' character of much of the popular music today could have some correlation with the increase in juvenile delinquency.

• "Funeral music is too sad. At my funeral I'm going to have only one song and a prayer. The song will be a bouncing operatic tune, 'La Donna E Mobile' ('All Women Are Fickle.')."

1000 Whitehall Youngsters Attend Kiwanians' Bicycle Safety Day

Whitehall Kiwanians, sponsors of the city's second annual bicycle inspection day held last Saturday at Whitehall-Yearling High's athletic field, pronounced the program an unqualified success.

"It will be continued," chairman Joe Boyle said, "and next year it will be held in the spring—at the start of the bike-riding season."

Purpose of the program is to check bicycles for safety features, and at the same time treat the city's youngsters to a day of fun.

The prize list of more than 100 items was headed by bicycles, trophies and hamburger dinners were awarded in the bike races. Free Pepsi-Cola and potato chips were served to all.

The Kiwanians gravely observed, according to Boyle, "that quite a few bikes in the Whitehall community are in very unsafe condition. A few minutes of dad's time with a wrench, and some elbow grease," Boyle continued, "is badly needed."

Boyle also commented that parents who did not attend with their children were unaware of the Kiwanians' efforts in regards to their children's safety.

Grand prize winners of the large bicycles were Darlene Chesser, 4506 St. Ann-ln, and Dennis Curry, 1257 Dellwood.

Small bikes were won by Lolly Griffith, 588 Ross-rd, and Ken Supowit, 622 Bernhard-rd.

Bike race winners were awarded trophies and McDonald's Hamburgers and Burger Boy offered hamburger dinners to each of the 150 racers.

Tight Race—

fusal, all took place in about two weeks' time.

Before and after the Republican Primary, Holzhause had declared that he would support Haytcher over Moling. But (shades of the 1964 GOP national convention) it now looks like Holzhause is going to become a "Moling" Republican.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI — The Moling platform was released this week and calls for "renewal" of the city's street and sewer program, fiscal integrity, attention to complaints of citizens, improvements at the city park and courtesy to the public from all city employes . . . Haytcher, who had earlier announced his platform, challenged Moling to give his views on zoning . . . Asked if he would continue the current council-administration freeze on apartment construction, Moling answered: "Did I ever do that?" . . .

In apparent answer to charges that he would not devote full time to the mayor's office if elected, Haytcher said he has already begun to "phase out" his private law office. It will be closed if he wins in November, Haytcher said . . . .

Republican Council President Walter Siemer continues to rank as the officeholder with the widest bi-partisan support. But Councilman-At-Large Marvin H. Levine, a Democrat, enjoys enough respect among Republican leadership to be considered a good bet for re-election . . . And newcomer Ted Harmony, another at-large council candidate, is a Republican with a visible vocal band of Democrat supporters in his first race for public office. . . .

The race for solicitor between Democrat John Toomey and Republican Jim Maxwell could be conducted in sign language for all the audible noise it has caused thus far . . . But the promise on both sides in all races is that the campaign will become hotter as the days become cooler.

The World of Animals

By FRANK MILLER, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband tells me he read in your column that bones are OK to give dogs. When did you change your mind? I distinctly remember reading in your column that bones were not good for dogs. In fact, my husband and I are constantly feuding because he slips bones to our old dog, Sheik. Now, doctor, where do you stand? —A.A.

DEAR A.A.: Hate to scuttle your husband on this argument, but I have never approved of bones as a snack for old dogs, unless such bones are made of properly prepared leather or nylon.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When we took our dog in to our veterinarian he just had a limp. After the examination, the doctor said he wanted to X-ray the leg, so he did. He found a bad hip joint and he wanted to consult with another doctor on the case. He did and finally our dog had a hip operation.

Now my husband is slightly burned because our doctor called in another one on the case and ran the bill up. He says a good man shouldn't have to lean on someone else's ideas. What do you think about this? I have always had confidence in our veterinarian before.—B.R.

DEAR B. R.: As veterinarians become more skilled and proficient, the similarities between their methods of practice and those of MD's become move obvious. Just as you don't reasonably expect your family physician to know about all phases of human medicine, you should not logically expect your veterinarian to be more competent than all others in all phases of veterinary practice.

In the field of small animal medicine, for example, some doctors lean toward a field of special interest, and so naturally become more adept in that particular area. Only a veterinarian interested in providing the very best in professional service would bother to look for a colleague with specially developed skills and (if available) call him in for consultation.

The fact that your veterinarian called in a consultant on your dog's apparently complex hip condition means he is worthy of increased confidence, not less.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I dropped in on a girl friend the other night—and there she was clipping the underside of her pregnant dog. I let this pass, but the next thing I know here she's scrubbing the dog's stomach with soap and water.

She tells me the dog's due to have pups any time now and let's it go at that. So I let it go too. But now I ask you, is that woman really with it or isn't she? Isn't this stomach washing going a little too far for a dog—D. M.

DEAR D. M.: Clipping the undercarriage of a long-haired, pregnant female makes a lot of sense. This makes the upcoming milk bar easier to keep tidy. The soap and water is another step in the right direction. It isn't so much a problem of good clean dirt—the danger is that there may be roundworm eggs on the skin of the abdomen, and these infect the puppies the first time they nurse.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it possible for a female which has to have a Caesarean to nurse the puppies or must they always be raised by hand? —L.O.

Dear L.O.: This depends upon the condition of the female at the time of surgery. If the operation was performed while she was still in good condition, she should be able to take care of the puppies with very little help. In fact, a strong female may be nursing and taking care of her offsprings within a few hours after surgery.

DEAR DR. MILLER: There must be thousands of your devoted readers who would welcome a discussion in the column on neutering male kittens and the proper age for it. In talking with exhibitors of fine cats in this area, I find them unanimously behind my very fine veterinarian who recommends that the later the operation is done, the better. But many cat books I have read say the earlier the better. Therefore, there must be pros and cons. —W.J.

DEAR W.J.: It's all "pro" as far as neutering itself is concerned. The "detached" male is, in almost every respect, a more satisfactory pet. Now it is true there are differences of opinion as to the proper age for neutering the male, but there shouldn't be.

The cat neutered at three to five months of age may have trouble in later life because his urinary equipment does not develop properly. It is therefore advisable to allow the male to reach maturity—about eight months — before the surgery.

It is best not to postpone the operation too far beyond this date. Then the male may develop habits that remain long after surgery has removed their apparent source.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is a pig wallow something a pig really needs? Our son has a pet pig which seems to love mud. I feel this is really quite unsanitary. —C.Y.

DEAR C.Y.: Perspiring pigs are rare — and pigs do need some method of keeping cool. Air conditioning is excellent, if available. On the other hand, a wallow will work. It needn't be an old mud hole, either. A shallow tub will do the job, and it can be refilled frequently enough to keep one pig presentable, yet cool at the same time.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of this newspaper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

The only freedom worth possessing is that which gives enlargement to a people's energy, intellect and virtue. — William E. Channing.

TRAFFIC ROUTES TO KIDS DAY – LOCKBOURNE AIR BASE

ALL ROADS WILL LEAD to Lockbourne AFB this Sunday afternoon when the Air Force and Kiwanis sponsor the 12th annual Kids Day. Thousands are expected from all of Central Ohio to flock to the program to be highlighted by the spectacular aerial demonstration of the "Flying Professor" and Bill Fornof. The above map is published with routes suggested by the base information office of Lockbourne, laid out to avoid traffic congestion and confusion. Unlimited parking is available. Gates will open at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26, and the program beginning at 2 p.m. will continue until 6 p.m. For nine named children the day will be an especially memorable occasion; they will be honorary base commanders for the day. The public is invited.

"HELP FOR HINDELS" is the theme of the dance to be held from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, in Frazeysburg Elementary School auditorium. "The Trolls," a fledgling dance group, are donating their time in an effort to aid Shelbi Hindel of near Frazeysburg who lost both eyes due to cancer. (See story.) From left are Fred W. Deubner, 2420 Wickliffe-rd, of Hastings Junior High; Marc Moriva, 523 LaRoea, Grove City, of Brookpark Junior High; Joe Hanlyn, 323 Thurman-av, of Barrett Junior High, and Steve Westbrock, 241 W. Henderson-rd, of Bishop Watterson.

Youthful Musicians To Play Benefit Dance For Blind Tot

Last month, cancer cruelly plucked out the eyes of little Shelbi Annette Hindel.

She is sightless at 22 months of age. Both her eyes were removed by surgery in order to save her life.

This tragic story of snuffed-out hope aroused the residents of Frazeysburg, where Shelbi lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hindel. It also affected the community at large.

One such person for which the Hindel saga held special meaning was Mrs. Fred Deubner of 2420 Wickliffe-rd, Columbus.

Herself a recovered cancer patient, she wanted to add her aid to those people in and around Frazeysburg who were already showing their generosity to Shelbi.

Mrs. Deubner's son, Fred, is a guitarist in a young group of musicians organized seven weeks ago called "The Trolls." The group was fledgling. But they were good enough to make two appearances with Teens Unlimited at Grove City and play for the Shawnee Hills Swim Club and next a fraternity at Capital University.

So it wasn't as if the combo hadn't the talent . . . it was more, it just hadn't had the opportunity.

Mrs. Deubner talked with her son. They agreed to pool their talents to help the plight of little Shelbi Hindel. Fred's group would play a benefit teen dance to attract youth from Zanesville, Newark, Dresden and Frazeyburg.

Total proceeds from the "Help For Hindels" dance to be held 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, in Frazeysburg Elementary School auditorium will be turned over to Bumpus who is setting up an educational fund for Shelbi.

The other members of the group, Marc Moriva of 523 LaRoea, Grove City; Joe Hanlyn, 323 Thurman-av, and Steve Westbrock, 241 W. Henderson-rd, are all eager for their performance for Shelbi.

Mrs. Deubner puts it this way: "This experience will instill in them the pride of accomplishment that comes from helping someone less fortunate."

And the boys think so too.

Others who want to contribute in any way, money or other material assistance, may call Mrs. Deubner at HU. 6-1121.

Jaycees Draft Resolution On Ku Klux Klan

Columbus Jaycees have drafted a resolution on the Ku Klux Klan, which will be voted on by Ohio Jaycees at the all-state meeting, to be held in Columbus this weekend.

The resolution claims the principles and philosophies of the Ku Klux Klan are in direct conflict with the principles and philosophies of the Jaycees and many citizens of the community and state.

Columbus Jaycees also voted in favor of two resolutions prepared by the United States Jaycees favoring the retention of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Law and a policy of support for present Viet Nam policy.

COOK EXPRESSES 'INCREASING CONCERN'

Private Clubs Get Liquor Law Reminder

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has issued a stern reminder to operators of private clubs throughout the state that the state will make "no exception to the law regarding Sunday sale of liquor."

A letter to private club presidents from Liquor Director Donald B. Cook said in part:

"It is with increasing concern that we call to your attention the matter of Sunday sale and consumption of liquor in private clubs, and ask your cooperation in bringing this illegal practice to a halt.

"We feel certain that neither you nor any others in your organization would want to suffer the embarrassment of temporary or permanent loss of your liquor license, and seeing club employes and members arrested and tried for Sunday selling or consuming of liquor."

A spokesman for the liquor department said he knew of no present plans to add agents to this phase of liquor law enforcement, nor or any change in enforcement procedure.

A Wrong Way To Do Right

The "old," self-defeating "gag" Speaker's Rule at Ohio State University sorely needed modification. The "new" rule, if fairly administered by the university, should be acceptable to all exponents of responsible academic freedom.

But the manner in which the rule was changed is the symptom of a serious situation at OSU which will not be soon or easily corrected.

The modification, effected by members of the university board of trustees, does not reflect the sentiment of the full board as shown by previously recorded votes on the question. The element of collusion here is so obvious that it is frightening.

Two trustees were absent when the Sept. 14 vote was taken. Each had opposed at the July 8 board meeting when the modification measure was defeated, 5-3. Each man knew on July 8 the date and location of the September meeting.

They knew that the "Speaker's Rule" would again be brought before the trustees, and that a newly-appointed trustee would be attending his first meeting. And they knew how he would vote.

Yet neither man attended the all-important meeting —despite the fact that one of them was only 35 miles away. If only one of them had attended, he could have forced a 4-4 tie vote and defeat of the rule change.

If a subsequent meeting of the board is blessed with attendance of all nine members, will the "Speaker's Rule" be reconsidered for a possible 5-4 decision to rescind the modification? We don't think so.

The great manipulation has been accomplished. But the means to the "just" end can never be justified.

Those who stood up and were counted are to be congratulated.

Why Bill Taxpayers For Markethouse?

There is a simple and fair solution to the controversy concerning whether Downtown Central Market should be re-built.

Simply and fairly, forget it!

Who wants it? A handful of merchants who are not abreast of their times and a few Columbus city councilmen with similar rear-view vision.

Who would pay for it? Thousands of Columbus residents who would never go near it. And similar thousands of suburban Columbus income taxpayers who may never have seen the old one, let alone care about a new one.

Any lease arrangement by which the city of Columbus and its satellite suburbs must support private business is a bad arrangement.

Forget it!

Chalk Up One For Mayor Holzhause

It's a happy occurrence when a city's chief executive can please the politicians and keep faith with the people in the same act. Whitehall Mayor Bill Holzhause did just that in re-appointing James C. Polzer as the city's service director.

Holzhause was faced with the tough assignment of finding a man who might serve only until the mayor's term expires on Dec. 31. He solved the dilemma by forgetting the political differences which made Polzer one of his opponents in the May Republican Primary—and probably caused his defeat. He acted, instead, for the best interest of Whitehall.

And the reaction of both Democratic and Republican leadership in Whitehall seems well summarized by one officeholder who told the mayor, "I don't know if I would have had the courage to do what you have done."

50 'Big K' Years

It's a "Golden Year" for Kiwanis International, the organization which serves because "We Build."

Sunday initiates the three-day convention at the Sheraton-Columbus for the delegates from Ohio's 324 clubs who are observing Kiwanis' 50th year.

Were these men, who dedicate themselves to the idealism which leads to "righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will" less mature, they might come with blazers bearing the big purple "K" over their hearts.

They won't.

Yet most Kiwanians do wear the ideals of the "Big K" in their hearts.

Hats off to this idealism and to the energetic pursuit of it which leads to community projects such as Kids Day at Lockbourne AFB next Sunday.

THE EMERGENCY SQUAD

Once in a while one has an experience in which the conduct of others is so prompt, efficient and courteous that still others must be told about it. We had such an experience recently involving one of the Columbus Fire Department's emergency squads.

Within minutes after I fell unconscious at home, No. 1 squad from 22nd and Main was picking me up and bandaging a cut nose. Then they carried me downstairs and prepared me for a ride to a hospital.

Squad Chief Dennis George and Firefighters William Henestofel and Richard E. Martin knew all about first aid. But beyond that, no one could have shown more kindness in making me comfortable. They worked beyond the call of duty.

Fire Chief First Assistant Samuel H. Zaayer and Dept. Sec. Lt. Robert S. Cavener gave me a brief history of the emergency squad service.

Meeting a clear need, the program began in 1937 with one converted hose wagon. Now there are five cars in service, each carrying emergency equipment, including oxygen. Of course the crews are thoroughly trained.

The cars are based strategically at 22nd and Main, Deming and Arcadia, Broad and Mill, Parsons and Hinman, and Main and S. Hamilton. In 1964 they drove 84,247 miles on 13,164 runs.

Capt. Robert Schrader heads the emergency squad program, assisted by Lts. George Miller and Ed Hart, the latter one of the very early squadmen. Including officers, 18 men are assigned at full strength for continuous duty.

Legally and ethically neither squadmen nor their superiors can accept any fees directly for services rendered. The program is one of the city's many public services paid for by tax dollars. But I am assured that there's no law saying that a grateful citizen can't follow my example in giving a modest check to the Firemen's Benevolent Association, a voluntary, self-sustaining project to benefit families when in need.

It says here . . .

Useful public service is a hallmark of a civilized society.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

For the last five years, one of the most spectacular advances business has ever experienced has been the evolution of many forms of so-called "public relations" programs.

The whole business is, of course, the intended desire to "improve the public image" of this or that product or service and stir the imagination of a growing number of "maybe patrons."

With all the blah, blah, blah, now being thrown at the mass-mind, it is no wonder that only one idea in 10 ever clicks to the benefit of the sponsor. Able and sincere practitioners of this new commercial profession are making "discoveries" that sane and sound business management has always known—i.e. "a satisfied customer" is the best public relations force known to man.

The old adage is still true; intelligence and honest citizens are not perpetual suckers. Nothing is ever free. Old and trusted outfits are still building "public image" with good manners, honest merchandise, genuine polite service and, most of all, sense enough to take immediate care of all complaints about quality or failure of anything to stand up to the claims made for it.

Guest Pulpit . . .

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life."—The Gospel of John, chapter 3, verse 16.

What the city of Columbus is to Central Ohio, this great verse of the New Testament is to the Bible. It is the metropolis of gospel truth, the hub of the scriptures, and the center of Divine revelation.

Martin

What the sun is to our solar system, John 3:16 is to the Christian message.

This verse announces that when God loved, He loved a world; and when God gave, He gave a Son . . . His Only Son.

One night during World War II a father and his young son were walking down a village street looking at the stars hanging in the windows of homes from which men had gone to serve our country. There was a star in the window of almost every home on that street.

The boy was impressed as his father told him of the meaning of the stars . . . that each one represented a son given from that home.

As they walked along in the deepening twilight, Venus, the evening star, shone in the west and glowed all alone in the evening sky. It was so bright that when the boy looked up, it held his attention.

Suddenly he turned to his father and said, "There's a star in God's window too, isn't there Daddy? Did God give His Son?"

"Yes," said the father, "God gave His Son, because He loved the world."

The world very much needs to hear this message today! However, it is up to each individual to respond to it. The end of the verse tells the reason why God gave His only Son: — "that whosoever believeth should not perish but have everlasting life."

Believing, on personal faith, is the way to receive the "gift" of "eternal life."

The Bible says, "God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath life." "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life." "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Challenges Gun View

To the Editor:

The O'Flaherty piece ("Assignment Television, Sept. 9) concerning his opinion of guns reeks of mis-information, and is misleading thereby.

A toy gun is not "almost identical to the equipment used to murder a U.S. President from a window in a Dallas book warehouse." A toy gun is a toy incapable of inflicting injury unless used as a club or gouge.

Although Mr. O'Flaherty refuses to concern himself with the nature of the material televised in "The Man From UNCLE," it is in the material presented that we find the gaping hole in Mr. O'Flaherty's written wish for the disarmament of all Americans. Most of us would find death at the hand of a karate expert just as final as that resulting from stabbing or shooting. The theme of "The Man from UNCLE" is violence, however arrived at.

Mr. O'Flaherty writes "I wonder how many youngsters will be similiarly inspired by the plastic gun from "The Man From UNCLE?" My question to Mr. O'Flaherty:

"Why do you not tell your readers that a very small percentage of the crimes of violence committed by those under 17 years of age involved guns of any description?" (Fewer than 12% of such cases involved guns).

Jets? Let Them Eat Cake!

To the Editor:

We have read and heard much, much "hoopla" about our fabulous Jets this year 'via' newspaper and radio.

How about a tremendous round of applause for our neighbors to the north, the Toronto Maple Leafs, Jet fans?

The Jets won the pennant cake but Toronto won the "Governor's Cup" frosting!

Let's give credit where it is due, to both teams.

A Toronto fan living in our "Wonderful World of Ohio."

Likes Ad Guarantee Service

To the Editor:

I wish to congratulate you on your Guaranteed Want Ads — a most unusual idea and a service to householders like ourselves.

In our most recent Spectator ad, we sold the item through the third insertion, so you can see why we thank you for your plan. In previous ads, we sold the items the day the paper came out. We even sold things we had not advertised, when people came "looking."

Also may I say that the ad-takers are patient, courteous and helpful.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — It is possible, of course, that the theater will fill with radioactive dust, that the audience will die in their seats, and that the house lights will gradually dim to nothingness as the un-oiled generators burn themselves out.

But if it doesn't happen, the next act of the human drama will be a combination of the "Ride of the Valkyries" and the "Perils of Pauline."

The serious business of putting a human being on that most sterile and worthless piece of real estate, the moon, and snatching him back to rejoin the earth is dreamstuff to the average man. But here at the Douglass Missile and Space Systems test center the first S-IVB, prototype of the top stage of the Saturn V, has completed its tests.

Compared to the lower stages the S-IVB is sort of a Volkswagen. The prime booster, the Saturn I C, will have five engines of 1,500,000 pounds thrust each. If that blows up on the pad, goodbye Brevard County, Fla. The Saturn second stage will have five 200,000 pound thrust engines. The little S-IVB (it's only 58 feet long and weighs a mere 175 tons loaded) boasts a single 200,000 pound engine.

But the S-IVB has the job of directing the fly to the mouth of the trout. It must carry its moonwalkers into orbit around the earth, shut down its engines until it positions itself perfectly, fire itself up again and travel more than a quarter of a million miles to a moon orbit, release its lunar excursion module, pick it up again, and zoom back to re-enter the earth's gravitational field. This is an error-prone performance, roughly comparable to a gorilla trying to drive a hole-in-one in a hurricane.

The fact that there are all sorts of intelligent people, covered with doctoral hoods, who not only think this can be done but are sure of it, is astonishing. It will cost 30 billion dollars — maybe more. To bring back a handful of moon rocks will be nice. And it will be interesting to listen to eyewitness confirmation that as a home for men the moon makes the top of Mt. Everest look like Palm Beach. But the stunt of going to the moon probably isn't worth 30 billion or anything like it.

So you have to consider "serendipity." A couple of centuries ago Horatio Walpole wrote a fable about "The Three Princes of Serendip," who in their travels, were always happening across wonders they weren't looking for. So serendipity means the accidental discovery of valuable things.

If we had had as big boosters as the Russians we could have put cruder hardware into orbit. But because our early boosters were comparatively weak we sought to match Russian space achievements by a frantic program of miniaturization. This proved to be a disguised blessing, for the sophistication of our space vehicles led us into world leadership in electronics.

The argument in favor of the 30 billion is that if we can pull off the man-in-the-moon act we can master space platforms that may have defense ramifications as staggering as the atom bomb was two decades ago. The trouble with being ordinary citizens in a representative republic these days is that our level of knowledge doesn't permit us to make an intelligent judgment of the dividends of serendipity. We rely on scientists. And some scientists, in their zeal for discovery, have a monumental contempt for the dollar.

All this makes you wish we could take a swig from the Fountain of Lethe and forget a lot. Ordinary citizens could decide pretty well whether the Kentucky rifle was an improvement on the Brown Bess, whether vaccination really stopped smallpox, and whether to dig the Erie Canal.

But now you can't even understand the man who must make the big decisions. It's a brave New World, sure enough. And pretty [illegible].

Calling Ohioans!

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE
Former Governor, State of Ohio

The year 1958 was a campaign year.

My five children were still at home and each helped in that year's unsuccessful try for the governorship. Our four daughters and my wife, when possible, hosted a number of teas.

It was on the occasion of the one held in Columbus that my oldest daughter Toni met a young Air Force lieutenant then stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base. Two years later they were married.

Lt. Bob Watkins retired from the service, but remained in the active reserve. He began law school in Toledo and was well along towards completion when the Berlin crisis broke and his unit was activated. By this time the couple were the parents of four children. A fifth was born shortly after his return to active duty. The Berlin crisis faded into the Cuban missile confrontation and then came Viet Nam.

Bob left for Viet Nam in March, 1964. Toni and her five children, the oldest then six, spent Christmas of 1964 with us on McNaughten-rd. Among their gifts were Vietnamese pajama outfits sent by their father. While photographing the little ones in color so their father could see how well his gifts became them, I could not help but wonder the necessity of this separation. When Bob returned in May of 1965, I asked him whether or not he thought we were serving a purpose. His reply was an unequivocal yes.

The word of one jet pilot certainly should not be enough upon which all of us could or should base our opinions. But thousands more are being called and it might be well to review briefly the reasons why the United States finds itself in Viet Nam and why we cannot pull out.

The issue is not partisan. All of our living Presidents agree on the reasons and the needs. The opposition that exists also crosses party lines.

On April 4, 1954, while the French were still engaged in the struggle for Indo-China, President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a letter to Prime Minister Winston Churchill emphasized the danger to the free world should Indo-China pass into the hands of the Communists. He warned of the effect on our global strategic position with the consequent shift in the power ratios throughout Asia and the Pacific.

On Oct. 1, 1954, President Eisenhower wrote to the then President Diem as follows:

"The implication of the agreement concerning Viet Nam have caused grave concern regarding the future of a country temporarily divided by an artificial military grouping, weakened by a long and exhausting war and faced with enemies without and by their subversive collaborators within."

The President then acceded to President Diem's request for assistance and clearly stated the purpose in this language:

"The purpose of this offer is to assist the Government of Viet Nam in developing and maintaining a strong, viable state capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression through military means."

The success of this approach was demonstrated in a congratulatory letter written by President Eisenhower six years later on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the birth of the Republic of Viet Nam. He said:

"You and your countrymen have used your strength well in accepting the double challenge of building your country and resisting communist imperialism."

The President's letter closed by saying,

"Although the main responsibility for guarding that independence will always, as in the past, belong to the Vietnamese people and their government, I want to assure you that for so long as our strength can be useful, the United States will continue to assist in the difficult yet hopeful struggle ahead."

The success of the Vietnamese in restoring order and rebuilding a spirited citizenry produced renewed Communist attacks both from without and within and by Dec. 14, 1961, President John F. Kennedy found it necessary to reply to President Diem's letter describing the dangerous conditions existing as a result of North Viet Nam's efforts to take over his country.

His reply emphasized the outraged feelings shared by him with the American people over what he called "the deliberate savagery of the Communist program of assassination, kidnapping and wanton violence."

The President then recalled that the United States in 1954, though not a party to the Geneva accords, had declared that it would view any renewal of aggression in violation of the agreements with grave concern and as seriously threatening international peace and security. In keeping with that view, he declared that we would promptly increase our assistance to Viet Nam's defense effort as well as help relieve the destruction from the floods.

Church Of Christ Seeking Funds

The Ohio Conference of the United Church of Christ is out to raise over $2,000,000 in extra funds over a period of three years. The program, combining both national and state projects, is called "Breakthrough-Action." Over five regional associations' committees are ready to visit more than 600 local churches to present the appeal to over 200,000 members at congregational meetings during the fall of 1965.

The purpose is to show the need in Ohio for Christians to support efforts for more churches, neighborhood surveys, relocations, camp and conference centers, "point of contact" ministries, church colleges, seminaries, campus ministry, world friendship, senior citizen helps, and metropolitian ministry.

The United Church of Christ is a union of the Evangelical and Reformed Churches and the Congregational Christian Churches.

Who Said 'Pioneering' Was Really So Tough?

By ADELINE BALEY

I wouldn't say that our annual vacation treks to Yosemite Park equal the hardships endured by the pioneer women crossing the plains, but I cannot help but draw a comparison.

For instance, just to look at my hands reddened from washing dishes in cold water (our fires always go out before the water is heated). I'm sure that I'm the only woman in America who right now could pose for a mechanic's soap commercial.

I particularly feel a kinship with those hardy women when I read a yellowed page from a diary of theirs, such as you find behind glass in museums: "It took our weary band of travelers 36 hours to traverse from Merced to Yosemite." Believe me, traveling with our seven kids, it seems just as long.

What puzzles me, however, is how these women found the time to turn into veritable Dorothy Kilgallens, writing detailed accounts of their arduous trips westward. Mine is a lot shorter:

"Whosoever findeth this journal, let it be known that in August of 1965, Anno Domino, nine souls departed from home and hearth to journey into the Sierra Country. It was decided that the eldest, wisest and the one holding all of the gasoline credit cards, my dear husband, would be the wagon-master and that I would ride shotgun to settle any skirmishes that might develop in the back seat.

"Brian, our young son, was placed in the rear for the purpose of informing us should any of the suitcases come loose from the roof where they were strapped. It was indeed a prudent move, because it wasn't long before a pillowcase, stuffed with a few of our possessions, blew off. We were then able to retrieve it.

"We took Trail number 99, a well-traveled route, and found ourselves in the middle of the longest wagon train ever to leave from one place—220 miles long and consisting of 5000 wagons and 49 motorcycles, who obviously were our scouts as they continually raced ahead.

"Pushing onward, we made our first stop at one of the outposts to stock up on supplies — comic books, candy bars, soft drinks and potato chips.

"We arrived at Yosemite at dusk, and tears came to my eyes as I gazed at the sheer beauty of Yosemite Falls, Half Dome, Glacier Point and the onion I was peeling for that night's dinner.

"As I write this, the end (of the vacation) is drawing near. Praise be the Lord."

BUILDERS OF 40 SUCCESSFUL LAKE SUBDIVISIONS

THE HEDGE bordering this immaculate home is as well-manicured as the green of a first-class country club. Why? Because the persons who live here care. Although Stambaugh teems with youngsters such as the lad on his bike, it is a heterogeneous neighborhood, with middle-aged couples and retired men making their homes side-by-side with those of growing families.

FOUR YEARS AGO, Horace Brown made a decision. The hustle and bustle of mid-city Columbus was not for him. After shopping around for a lot, he found just what he wanted at 785 Stambaugh-av. Using the building skills he possessed as a mason, he began construction on the seven-room home above. The family has never regretted the move, but regrets that less than a block from their home are former dwellings which any self-respecting ghost would refuse to haunt. "And how very much we would like to have a decent street and adequate street lighting!" exclaimed Mrs. Brown, in discussing her hopes for the future.

Horizons Brighten In Stambaugh

URBAN-RENEWAL CAN SPELL HOPE

By JANE ROBINSON

German Village is a unique area in which there is a great deal of community pride.

A few weeks ago when the possibilities of Urban Renewal assistance for the community was mentioned, the uproar would have led one to believe Urban Renewal is a dirty word.

However, about a mile south of German Village, just off Groveport-pk, is another neighborhood where the residents equally value their homes, their churches, their schools and their self-respect.

And here Urban Renewal is looked upon as a potential friend.

This little pocket of homes which probably not one in a hundred persons in Franklin County realizes exists, is known as the Stambaugh Addition.

In its own conservative way, this community is as unique as the more sophisticated German Village.

Less than three miles from the very heart of a metropolitan city, the community treasures the atmosphere of a hamlet of 50 years ago.

The pace is leisurely with children in the streets free from the perils of through traffic. Life-long neighbors sit on the porches, chatting without the din of passing trucks.

On Sunday mornings the homes are deserted, as entire families unfailingly attend one of the three churches within as many blocks. In the late afternoons, these same families can be seen working together in one of the several "community gardens" from which everyone cans for the winter.

Most people own their homes and many families have been there for three generations.

It is not a wealthy group that lives in Stambaugh, but each family has a security beyond that provided by their jobs, often meager savings and Social Security.

They have the cushion of friendship to ward off the misfortunes arising from unemployment, illness and old age.

A new baby, a new bride or even a neighbor's new curtains are matters of general interest.

And when the word hit recently that the community was up for consideration as an Urban Renewal study area, it was big news.

Basically a conservative group, family after family took the attitude that "it sounds good so far, but we want to know more."

These people know they need help. They don't want to change the atmosphere of their neighborhood, but they are not happy with its appearance.

Throughout the years, time and neglect have taken a frightful toll here and there.

Sandwiched between houses where pride in home-ownership is a by-word are buildings which should have been torn down years ago. Backed up against yards that could serve as an advertisement for lawn seed are weeds waist high providing refuge for vermin, mosquitos and "empties." Of even more immediate concern are the homes that are "borderline cases."

These are the buildings, often empty, which if left alone, will soon totter into dilapidation beyond repair, the same buildings which can once again become comfortable middle-class homes—if help is available.

But the help must come before it is too late.

The very compactness of the community, with two long streets and several crossways, makes it adaptable to the type of urban renewal which came in as the bulldozer type went out.

Yes, the bulldozer still has a place in today's urban renewal. For the houses where supporting beams are ready to give up the ghost and floors are rotting away amid crumbling foundations, there is no better answer.

But then the bulldozer pulls out, and rehabilitation moves in.

Residents are shown by experts how carpentery here, wiring there and paint in almost any place can bring a home back to life.

Attention is drawn to fences that need mending, deserted sheds that should come down, and debris to be carted away or used for landfill.

And in addition to talk, federal assistance is made available which puts home improvements in the reach of everyone.

And the city, when such a project is undertaken, shoulders its share. In the place of condemned homes, miniature parks appear. Streets are improved and an all-out effort made to provide adequate street lighting.

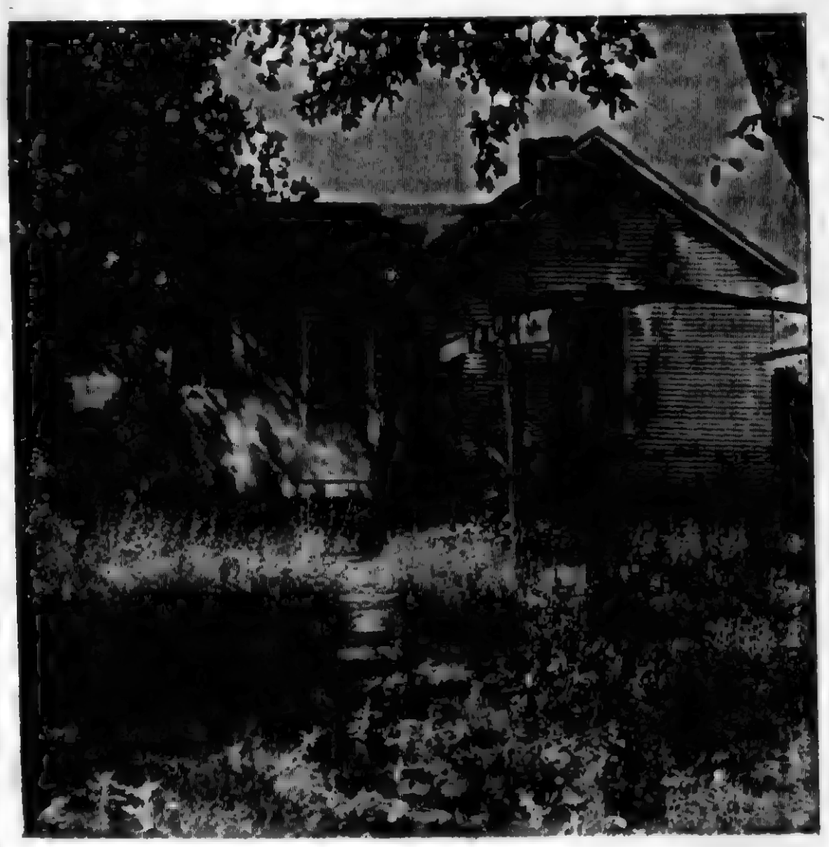
A neighborhood too often shoved aside as being run-down suddenly becomes everyone's pet project.

And what are the end results?

An entire community enjoys the benefits of a face-lifting.

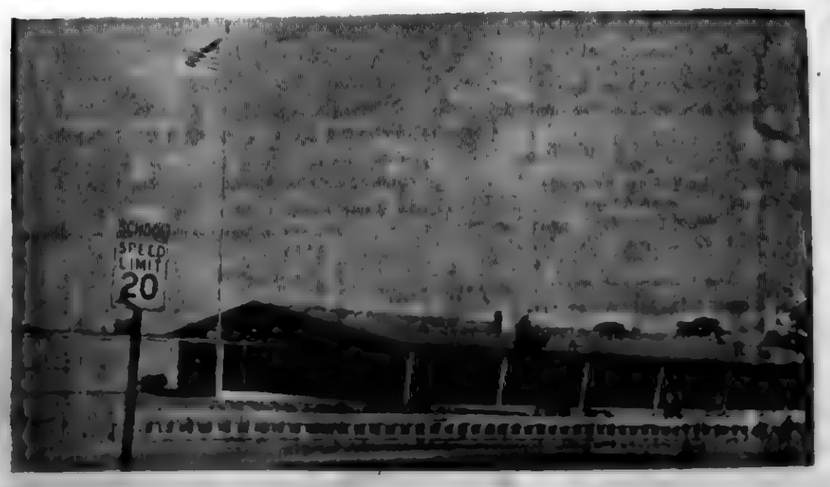
Property values rise, responsible citizens move in to fill the vacant homes and the municipality counts up its improved tax duplicates.

In Stambaugh there is already a beauty of community spirit.



With Urban Renewal it can boast a face to match, to show the world.

Will it be one of those areas chosen by Columbus Urban Renewal by which every house is made a home?



Probably, if the residents of Stambaugh remain willing to give it a try, and voters give Urban Renewal a green light in November.

CONDEMNED, AND FORGOTTEN. Long ago this building passed the point of no return, although once, we know, a family was proud to call it home. But it will still serve a purpose, according to Pat Phelan, director of Columbus Urban-Renewal. Whenever an area is rehabilitated, jobs are created not only in new construction, but in doing away with the old, and landscaping the site if it is left empty.

SET FAR BACK from the street, this house, with a "For Rent" sign on the gate, is shaded by an old apple tree. Today, it doesn't have much to offer, but is has possibilities. The wing of the house, built of concrete blocks, is sound. It boasts both plumbing and wiring. But this home is an excellent example of "Tomorrow may be too late." Left vacant, there is only one way it can go—down.

ONLY TWO YEARS AGO an addition was built for Holmesdale Elementary which serves those living in Stambaugh. It is one of the few grade schools in the city which provides hot lunches for the children, a practice initiated when it was a county school. Older children attend Beery Junior High and Marion-Franklin Senior High.

A HUGE GARDEN lies at the back of the home of Rev. and Mrs. O. L. Little in Stambaugh and provides the parishioners of the St. James Pentecostal Church with all the vegetables they can eat with plenty left over to can. A. D. Chambers, left, and James Lockhart had been farmers in the deep South all their lives before coming to Columbus in the Depression years, and they don't forget it. Lockhart even has his small patch of cotton and a row of peanuts just to prove that the crops he was so familiar with in his youth can adapt themselves to Central Ohio. These fine, friendly gentlemen are among those who provide the first "must" for a successful urban renewal project—"interested people." Stambaugh also has the other factors that are important: a framework of good homes, the eyesores that must go and those needing help which can be "saved, not demolished."

A COMMUNITY where churches are important is usually an upright community. The Mount Carmel Baptist Church is but one of the three in Stambaugh Addition. Rev. H. W. Patterson is a "no-nonsense" pastor who feels that the social aspect of a church can deter its spiritual growth and believes that the mid-week services and prayer meetings are more important than church dinners and bazaars. One indication of the interest in the church by its congregation is its four choirs with a fifth junior choir being planned.

Whitehall Bantams Seek Grid Opponents

Whitehall's Bantam football team is seeking games. The team is willing to schedule games for home or away, preferably on Sunday afternoons, but will also play on any week day.

Whitehall's team will play any team up thru 125 pounds weight limit. Teams interested please contact head coach Stanley Brown (BE. 5-1979), 4056 E. Mound-st, Columbus.

WRFD Carries Jug

WRFD Radio will carry the final heats of the Little Brown Jug race live today at approximately 3 p.m. Chuck Stokes will provide color at the pacing classic.

Sorry, Joe!

The Spectator inadvertently listed a 60-yard TD scored for Watterson vs. South last week as belonging to Jim Schultheis. The scorer was Joe Schultheis, not Jim.

Grid Scoreboard

IF YOU'RE like this reporter and can't wait for Friday night's high grid scores in the morning paper, set your dial to ole' buddy Ron Barlow's scoreboard show on WMNI which opens up with halftime tallies about 8:30.

Each week, eight games are spotlighted with reports coming in direct from the fields of combat.

To help the young soul, to add energy, inspire hope, and blow the coals into a useful flame; to redeem defeat by new thought and firm action, this, though not easy, is the work of divine men. — Ralph Waldo Emerson

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Day after tomorrow the annual OSU football express begins its nine-week run down the tracks, hopeful that the stop will be Pasadena, Calif., on Jan. 1.

But in less than two months the mammoth stadium will be empty again and rabid football fans will begin that annual cocoon spin which generally develops rabid basketball fans.

BUT football's most important product (at least athletically) won't be put aside for a number of Buckeye generals, not the least of which will be Athletic Director Dick Larkins.

Wittenmeier

"No, I don't think I know what pressure is anymore," Larkins was telling Big Ten official and Columbus attorney Don Hamilton at our table at a Big Ten Preview dinner at the Grandview Inn last week.

Pressure is dealt out in big spoonfuls at OSU where football fans annually wend their way to the giant horseshoe at a clip unmatched anywhere in the country.

Since football fans like football games and the more the better, more than one OSU fan cornered Larkins and wanted to know why only five home games appear on the Bucks' schedule this fall.

"LAST YEAR'S home schedule (seven games) and this one are flukes," Larkins explained, adding that six home and three away is usually the norm (that's the way it'll be —at least through 1968).

Prospects of loading up with home games are growing dimmer by the year, especially in the Big Ten, according to Larkins.

"Nobody wants to give an 'away' date without picking up a 'home' commitment in exchange," the Buck Athletic Director says.

LARKINS used to have "seven at OSU, three away" arrangements with both Iowa and Indiana but no more. Apparently the gate is no longer a final consideration (Indiana's new stadium can accommodate little more than half of what Ohio Stadium can).

What decides which of nine other Big Ten schools appears on the Buckeye schedule each fall? (Seven conference schools must be included yearly on each school's schedule).

That little item is froned out at yearly conference meetings which have run much more smoothly with the arrival of Bill Reed as Big Ten Commissioner.

"I REMEMBER one year when it took three whole days to work out our schedule," Larkins said. When Bill (Reed) became commissioner, he asked if he could work out the schedules himself."

"His first offering seemed to please everyone and he's been drawing them up ever since."

Schedule making begins with all ten teams inserted on a large board. Traditional rivalries take precedence with directors then dickering for opponents to fill the remaining openings.

Other times it might appear to the average fan that some schools are given defined preference to others.

As case in point for OSU was Minnesota, who returns to the Buck schedule for the first time this fall since the mid-50's.

"IT WASN'T that we had anything against playing Minnesota," Larkins said. "We just couldn't get together on a mutual date."

In regard to the "rivalry" games, OSU's are Illinois and guess who? Michigan, who sometimes seems to have rivalries going with everyone in the league lists the Buckeyes and Illini in that category.

ODDLY ENOUGH (at least to OSU fans), not everybody desires to corral the Bucks on their schedule.

A two-game series with Navy fell through several years ago when the Middies' new athletic director flew in from Annapolis one day, lunched with Larkins and asked to be relieved of Navy's commitment.

"He was very frank about it," Larkins recalls. "He simply told me, 'You're just too tough'."

THE OSU Athletic Director laments the fact that he's been unsuccessful in landing the service academies on the OSU schedule. "I don't know why," Larkins says, "but they seem to have a preference for either Michigan or Illinois."

Each year Larkins seeks representative teams for OSU's non-conference foes. "I think we've proved that with Penn State (knocked off the Bucks twice)," Dick added.

Probably the most common question that comes Larkins' way is: "When is Ohio State going to play Notre Dame?"

THE ANSWER to that one is a decided "not likely," at least in the foreseeable future. As Larkins points out, the Buckeyes already normally schedule two Indiana elevens (Indiana U. and Purdue).

The Buck athletic director readily admits it would be a big drawing card but anyone who tries to find a ducat to any OSU game after Sept. 1 can tell you how badly Ohio Stadium needs a drawing card.

A 'HOT POTATO' IN P-V BACKFIELD

IT'S ALL YOURS—Pleasant View quarterback Charlie Hess (31) flips a quick pitch to halfback Rick Erbe (11) in the first period play last Friday at Grandview. Erbe advanced to the Bobcats' four-yard stripe before being brought down by Grandview's Ned Leidensperger (36). P-V's 80-yard march died with a fumble on the next play but Panthers won anyway, 14-12.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

When Robert Manry, the man who sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in a 13-foot boat, went into Lake Erie with his vessel to please photographers, he was swamped worse than he had been in his entire Atlantic voyage.

I think this has special significance to those who travel to Erie for fun and fish. It is true that Lake Erie is one of the most dangerous waters in the world.

IT LAYS in such a way that prevailing winds keep it choppy and turbulent. The shallowness (twelve feet at the deepest) causes great ground swells that add to the problem of navigating a small boat.

No where else on earth do the storms appear as fast as they do on Erie's waters. Several years ago, I was a guest on a sixty-footer out of Ashtabula Harbor. It was a calm, cloudless Sunday with not a breath of air nor a ripple on the water.

Our ship-to-shore radio told us to head for port, there was a blow on the way. We thought surely there was a mistake. Five minutes later we were in the midst of a line squall that had all the marks of a hurricane. The spindrift from the waves breaking over our bow was so great we had to go below to keep our tobacco dry.

WE WERE very happy to be on a large vessel. In a smaller one we wouldn't have made it. When small craft warnings go up on Lake Erie, heed them or wind up on page one. When the lake is choppy and running high, it is very easy to run aground on those numerous reefs that hide just under the surface.

I strongly suggest you get an up to date chart of the area you wish to cruise before you go to the lake. There are four newly revised charts available from the Army Corps of Engineers.

These charts are 32 by 40 inches, show the depth at all points in the lake and only cost a dollar. They are: CHART NO. 3 — Shows all of Lake Erie, the Niagara River, the St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair. The scale is one foot to 400,000 feet.

YOU MAY order your charts from: U. S. Army Engineer District, Lake Survey, 630 Federal Building, Detroit, Mich., 48226. Make your checks payable to the Treasurer of the United States, one dollar each for as many as you want. They also make excellent wall decorations if framed tastefully.

With the fresh attention focused on the Lake's pollution problems by Gov. Rhodes, it could very well make a comeback to reign again as a top flight fishing paradise.

He'll have to figure a way to get Canadian officials to cooperate to accomplish this goal. It does no good to restrict American commercial fisherman when the Canadians go right on using gill nets, fishing over the reefs and keeping all sizes of fish to sell to the mink farms.

1965 HAS seen a very good catch of white bass, the yellow perch are still hitting in spots and the consensus of opinion is that walleye fishing had an increase of about ten per cent.

So far, I've heard the drop in walleyes was due to many different things, the eel, raw sewage from cities, industrial waste and commercial fisherman. The one thing that hasn't been mentioned is the sport fisherman.

Find me a man who fished for walleyes ten years ago and I'll show you one who brags about the hundreds of fish he would boat every weekend he would journey to Erie.

It seems natural that this indeed had something to do with the demise of the table-grade pike.

FOOD MARKET THIS WEEK

Autumn Brings Market Changes

Autumn is officially here, bringing with it the usual changes in food markets, particularly in produce departments.

At fruit counters it's apple all over the place from now through October. Ohio-grown McIntosh, Mrs. Frankie Cortland and Jonathan are in good eating condition and priced reasonably. Ohio Red Delicious are available but they will eat better in October.

Ohio apple production is now forecast to total 3.5 million bushels, 100 thousand bushels above the Aug. 1 estimate. Color and quality is good this year but size varies also within various areas due to spotty rainfall. The local ones are sizing well.

This is also a great time for grapes. You can choose from at least a half dozen varieties in assorted colors . . . Flame Tokay, Thompson Seedless, Red Malagas and Cardinals, Ladyfingers and White Italias. Ohio purple Concord harvest has started in a light way.

You can look forward to a big citrus year, unless weather conditions change the outlook. Florida citrus growers report one of the biggest—if not the biggest—citrus crop in history now hanging on the trees. Hurricant Betsy banged the fruit around a bit in some places but not doing extensive damage. The heaviest damage was done in the lime and avocado fruit belt, where losses were extremely heavy.

Vegetables Unpredictable

Forecasting supplies of local vegetables at this time is difficult when a killing frost can come at anytime. As this is written, the green beans are especially fine and sweet corn should be good for another week or so. A few tomatoes are coming in from Northern Ohio but rains last week caused cracking and excessive rot on many of them. Both red and green cabbage is excellent. Cooking greens, such as spinach and kale perk up with the cooler weather — prices are reasonable.

Fall vegetables that should interest you for heartier meals are cauliflower, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and yams. All the autumn varieties of squash and pumpkins are abundant and local turnips show good quality and beautiful color.

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — grapes, apples, bananas.

Vegetables — snap beans, cabbage, potatoes, cauliflower, peppers, cooking greens, dry onions.

Meat, Poultry — broiler-fryers, eggs, "beef specials," ground meat, fresh picnics, small turkeys.

Columbus Eating Picture Brightened By Candlelight

MAITRE DE Bob Keenan makes a final check on a table setting in preparation for the dinner crowd at The Candlelight Restaurant, 1435 Grandview-av. Grand opening for Columbus' newest quality steak house has been set for Sept. 29-30.

One sure sign of "growing pains" in a metropolitan center is the sudden need for more and better places in which to dine out.

For the Columbus area, this need has happily resulted in the appearance of a new quality steak house, The Candlelight Restaurant, 1435 Grandview-av.

Formerly The Flame, it was purchased by the new owner, John Barrett, in early July of this year. Barrett, who has led a combo in the area for many years, will now entertain with his three-piece group in his own establishment on Friday and Saturday nights.

Most refreshing feature of the restaurant is the "New York" look — the polished but comfortable atmosphere—which is carried out in the interior.

Barrett collaborated with his maitre de, Bob Keenan, in the remodeling effort. Barrett said the original interior lent itself well to the theme, and that Keenan, who had served as maitre de in several large New York clubs before coming to Columbus, brought with him the distinctly "New York" touch.

In addition to the dining area, which seats 73, the restaurant boasts a new cocktail bar and modernized kitchen facilities. Hours have been set as follows: lunch, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.; dinner, 6 to 9 p.m. except Fridays and Saturdays, 6 to 11 p.m. There are no cover or minimum charges.

The grand opening will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29 and 30, and will feature special prices, hors d'oeuvres and musical entertainment.

Barrett's explanation of the importance of The Candlelight is simple:

"It's different . . . The area needs a good steak house, and that's what we will attempt to provide. We serve only prime beef, and will try to offer meals as good as any to be found in the city."

School-Alcohol Law Pushed Through Council

By CHUCK HARTLE

Intoxication will have to be confined to the emotional variety at high school football games in Columbus, according to an ordinance passed by city council Monday.

Though school policies have forbidden the use or possession of alcoholic beverages on school property the issue has now been made a matter of public law.

Action came in the wake of the stoning of a bus carrying football players following a season-opener at South High two weeks ago. Police report two arrests and as many as 30 others implicated.

No serious incidents took place at last Friday's games.

School buses were in the news again as parents protested the busing of four classrooms of pupils who would have attended Hamilton School. They are being taken to Arlington Park.

School officials, who were accused of attempting to desegregate the nearly all-white Arlington Park School, point out that the situation is made necessary by overcrowded conditions at the Hamilton School.

Fortunately for thousands of recipients of aid from United Appeal agencies, it takes more than a fire to char the enthusiasm of the UA staff and volunteers now completing preparations for the 1965 campaign.

Headquarters of the organization has been moved from the E. State-st office, which was swept by fire last week, to the Buckeye Building at 42 E. Gay-st. Offices of United Community Council and the Columbus Metropolitan Community Action Organization, which also were burned, are now at 167 E. State-rt, respectively.

Big Ten football is back in action with OSU opening at home against North Carolina, Saturday. And, with it comes the usual scrimmage for tickets. One alumnus was heard to complain that his seats were within "grabbin" distance of the ball in the tower somewhere south of the end zone.

Clergymen Protest Telephone Recording

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Legal action is being taken this week by local church leaders who feel that the National Council of Churches has been "smeared with libel" by a "Let Freedom Ring" telephone recording.

Dr. G. Weir Hartman, executive director of the Columbus Area Council of Churches, told the Spectator that efforts are being made to "get facts and legal advice" in squelching a "Freedom" message, which, in essence, calls NCC administrators a bunch of Communists.

Of main concern to Dr. Hartman is the fact that Columbus listeners can't reply to the attack. "It defies all justice and truth," he said. He added that protests will be filed with the Federal Communications Commission against the NCC tape which he called "a vicious attack on our demoninations in America . . . . an attack designed to smear and destroy."

The recorded message (see accompanying story) advises callers to write P. O. Box 1 in Westerville, O., for information. The phone number, however is an unlisted AMherst-3 exchange, indicating that the message, at least emanates from the North Broadway area of north Columbus.

SPECTATOR SPECIAL

Actually, Columbus residents can get "Freedom" literature somewhat cheaper than in most cities. Usually, the massage ends with a closing appeal for the caller to send 25 cents for further information. Columbus telephoners, however, are merely asked for "a donation."

It is presumed that Columbus-area residents have made the tapes worthwhile —at least worthwhile enough to cover the $32.55-per-month bill from Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

James Dennis, commercial manager for Ohio Bell, says that $16 a month is required for the recorded message and an additional $16.55 is charged for an unlimited business line.

Dennis added that Ohio Bell does not limit what is said on the recorded messages. "The only time we would disconnect service," Dennis added, "is if the recording is lewd or threatens life and limb."

Dr. John Wilson, head of the Ohio Council of Churches, joined Dr. Hartman in expressing dismay over the attack and pointed out a number of fallacies in the message's content.

For one thing, the tape says that Rev. Edward Dahlberg of the Chicago Theological Seminary is president of the NCC. The presidency, however, is now held by Bishop Rueben Moeller, who

'LET FREEDOM RING' IS MESSAGE TITLE

Here is the recorded message pertaining to the National Council of Churches which Columbus area residents can hear over their own telephones:

"Let freedom ring.

"The National Council of Churches has — from its beginning — been under the control of communists and communist fellow travelers.

"Among the NCC's most vicious and anti-Christian spokesmen are:

"Dr. Franklin H. Littel of the Chicago Theological Seminary. Littel was on the executive committee of the communist front called the Methodist Federation for Social Action.

"Rev. Edward Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, has been supporting communist causes for 20 years.

"Dr. Harry Ward, one of the founders of the original organization, called the Federal Council of Churches, has

Jerrie Mock Sets New World Speed Record

Bexley's own Jerrie Mock has added a new world speed record for a single-engine Aero Commander 200 to her growing world laurels.

Jerrie Mock

Her average 205 miles per hour over a 312-mile triangular route broke a Czech pilot's record of 178 mph for this class of plane. To meet the total weight limit of 2204 pounds, Mrs. Mock dieted to lose six pounds—weight of an extra gallon of gasoline — and the plane was unpainted, another weight gain. Except for eliminating paint and the removal of three seats to save additional weight, the plane is a standard American model for private pilots.

Whitehall Pay Boost Takes Effect Friday

The standard of living for most Whitehall city employes will take an upward swing Friday — the effective date of pay raises enacted by council in a special Tuesday session. The bulk of the $94,000 annual package goes to police and fire department personnel, who will realize a pay boost of about $60 a month. The new pay plan includes five salary range "steps" for all classified employes, with four "incentive" increases spaced over two years of service. Longevity increases have been added at the 10, 15 and 20-year levels of job tenure. The pay boost ordinance gained unanimous approval of council.

BEXLEY TEACHER SALARIES AT LOW; LEVY IS SOUGHT

Bexley schools' prestige position in the state for quality of education, long a pride of the city, "is going to drop," warns Dr. E. E. Jarvis, school superintendent, "if we don't match or exceed our neighboring cities in teachers' salary schedules."

Improvement of teachers' salaries (now lowest of any neighboring city) is rated first in priority needs for the five-mill school levy on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Excellence of a school system depends, in large part, in the opinion of educators, on its ability to attract and retain superior teachers.

And Bexley salaries are now $300 less than other area cities at the starting level, and more than $1000 less than Columbus, Grandview, Upper Arlington and

EXCLUSIVE

Worthington at the top level.

Other needs for the levy are, to provide new learning aids and supplies, repairs and remodeling, equipment and other capital improvements, and to stabilize finances.

More than four-fifths of Bexley school financing comes from city taxes. The schools also do not qualify for any of the federal aid programs because of city's residents' high $10,000 average annual income.

Teachers in Bexley schools are ranked fourth among 159 Ohio cities in professional training. In years of experience, they are above state average and the highest in the area.

The need to establish a salary scale commensurate with the high proficiency of the schools' staff is apparent to teachers, administrators and school board members, if education quality is to be maintained.

Barnett Center Opens For Registration

The question of "chicken or egg"—people or equipment—at Barnett Center was solved by the Columbus Recreation Department.

"Both," was the decision.

Barnett, finished but unfurnished, was to open its doors to the community today for registration and inspection, although all the equipment and furnishings are still not in place.

A limited program will get under way Monday, and will be expanded as ceramic kilns and other equipment are installed.

The center, adjacent to Barnett Elementary School, on Barnett-rd just north of Livingston-av, will serve the city's sprawling, fast-growing southeast. Sixteen schools are located in the area.

"We thought people would like to come in, look around and get acquainted with the leaders right away," Jerry Feddersen, recreation supervisor, explained this week's opening.

Registration, necessary for participation in center events, will be accepted right away, and the program will be developed in areas in which people express ttheir interest.

Leaders suggest that school children come to the center for registration after school,

Solons Lend Ear To Woes Of Residents

Bexley Council members lent an attentive, collective ear Tuesday to residents' requests ranging from land development and truck traffic woes to curb cuts.

And officially first reading was given to an ordinance making it illegal to place grass clippings and leaves in the streets or in the alleys.

A letter from E. F. Wildermuth of 91 Ashburton-rd, urging consideration to rezoning for apaitments in Bexley, drew an appreciative response from council.

The need for luxury apartments in the city, for the convenience of residents who wish this type of housing and to raise the tax duplicate has been strongly protested by those who wish to preserve Bexley's residential status.

Wildermuth, in his letter, explained that he and many of his friends are considering apartment living, and wish to remain in Bexley.

Permission was granted to C. A. Burkhart to develop three lots he presently owns in Delmar at the southeast corner of Cassingham for light commercial purposes.

Use is restricted to warehouses, wholesale sales or similar operation. Manufacturing of all types is forbidden in Bexley.

Robert Willis of 2844 Delmar-dr appeared to ask council's help in controlling the nuisance of large trucks and cars at the truck terminal at 500 N. Stanwood.

The trucks, he said, park on Delmar and have damaged properties there instead of using the terminal lot. This he said, is crowded with junk autos and trucks.

Additional curb cuts were requested by the property owner at N. Columbian-av and Maryland, and approved by council. Heavy parking by guests at the Governor's Mansion was cited as the reason for the need of extra driveways for personal parking.

$2 Million Pacts Let At Capital University

Contracts for more than $2 million in construction have been awarded, and work will begin this fall on a new women's residence hall and a campus center at Capital University.

General contract for the $500,000, four-story women's residence hall was awarded to Robert W. Setterlin and Sons, also apparent low bidder for the campus center's general contract.

The new residence hall, to house 121 women, is scheduled for completion in time for the fall term, 1966.

The campus center, most costly in Capital's expansion program is estimated at $1,700,000, and will be constructed of slate, white concrete aggregate and brick, with a mansard roof compatible with surrounding buildings.

Included will be a bowling alley and billiard room, games and television rooms, student publications area, student government and student activities workshop, barber shop, print shop and addressograph and storage areas, all on the lowest level.

An 80- by 40- foot lounge, post office, a snack bar featuring an 18-foot fireplace in a sunken pit, bookstore, information director's offices, and music and reading rooms will be located on the street floor.

A patio, opening off the main floor, will be flooded in

'Blue Ribbon' Citizens Are Asked To Join City's Urban Renewal Push

BY JANE ROBINSON

A procession of Columbus' top citizens will file into City Hall next Tuesday evening, and for those interested in VIP's, it should be a rather spectacular parade.

H. J. Holroyd, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Community Improvement has invited what is described by city officials as the "Blue Ribbon" Citizens of the city to attend a meeting to form Columbus' latest civic group.

To be known as Citizens for Urban Renewal, the group will work between now and Nov. 2 to get the city's urban-renewal issue "away from the 20 yard line and into pay-dirt."

Holroyd's committee, appointed by the mayor two years ago, will from a nucleus for the group. With 85 invitations already accepted it is expected that the resolution made last week setting the membership goal at one hundred will be doubled.

To Name President

From the top professional, church and business leaders of the community will be selected a president for the group.

"To this 'distinguished' citizen' will go the vigorous job of informing the voters what urban renewal can mean to each and every one living in the Columbus Metropolitan area," a spokesman stated Tuesday.

Actually the crusade will try to get two principal ideas over to the public.

The first is that the program is "free" with no increase in taxes, and the second involves the projects on the drawing boards.

EXCLUSIVE

No More Taxes

The free angle comes with the fact that one-fourth of city income taxes is already slated for capital improvements, and the six million dollars asked for is merely for bonds to be retired from the income tax dollars.

Furthermore, for each of these dollars, two more will be forthcoming from the federal urban renewa program.

Of local money, $1.4 million is earmarked to complete the six urban renewal projects now under way. These are the Goodale, Mohawk, Market Mohawk, Children's Hospital, Dennison Conservation, Bolivar Arms and Ohio State University North projects.

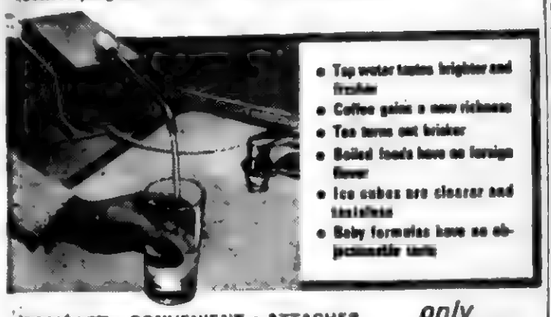
The balance will go to initiate at least a dozen additional projects designated currently as study areas. In each, the emphasis would be on rehabilitation. As a well-known Philadelphia architect recently pointed out, "A prairie fire is needed in our nation's cities, not to burn the old cities down, but to wipe out the dullness of present unimaginative planning and urban design and to replace the indifference of city folks with enthusiasm and spirit of the great new era which is upon us."

Civic Center Eyed

One of the more interesting studies will be that of the Civic Center Area where the city fathers hope to see a huge hall and athletic facility arise.

Among the groups from which the "Blue Ribbon" Citizens have been drawn are the Jewish Community Council, the Columbus Diocese, the League of Women Voters, the United Church Women, the Hilltop Community Council and other neighborhood groups.

JIFFY DRIVE-IN OPENS



A NEW SIGN has made its appearance on E. Main-st. It belongs to the newly opened Jiffy Drive-In at 3440 E. Main-st. "This is the second Jiffy in Columbus," said manager George Thomas. "It is open 24 hours a day, as are all Jiffys. We will feature good food, fast service at the counter or for carryout, and will serve our breakfast specials any time."

FSF LEADERS RENEW FIGHT AGAINST SPEAKERS' RULE

By TOM SEELAR

The hopes of Ohio State University officials that the "free speech" controversy had been settled were killed Monday night when the Free Speech Front (FSF) held a closed meeting to plan further action.

FSF is a group (not recognized by the university) which organized hundreds of students and faculty members last spring for rallies, pickets and sit-ins protesting the university's Guest Speakers' Rule.

Monday's "secret" meeting was attended only by four of FSF's most powerful leaders. However, they decided to hold a public meeting next Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Campus Center, 121 E. 16th-av.

Two weeks ago the university Board of Trustees voted to modify the old Speakers' Rule which gave the university president the final authority to ban any "subversive" guest speaker from speaking on campus.

But all of the FSF leaders who attended last Monday's meeting said they have "serious reservations" about the modified rule.

May Hold Rally

An informed source told the Spectator that FSF probably will hold a rally on the OSU campus sometime next week. He said the rally probably would feature a "name entertainer."

The source also said some FSF members wanted to test the modified Speakers' Rule "in a manner that would leave no doubt about whether the university really will be open to free debate."

He said professors from Har-

Undeveloped Area Bought

A 30-acre industrial site in northeast Columbus has caused the vacating of non-existent streets and alleys by county commissioners.

The area, bounded by Hudson-st, Cassady-av, Stelzer-rd and U.S. Rt. 62, was laid out in 1923 for development and streets and alleys were dedicated on paper to the county.

However, the site was never developed and the streets and alleys were ne er built.

Franz Stone, a manufacturer of industrial sprayers, has purchased the area for an assembly plant site.

Stone told county commissioners he expects eventually some 15 small industrial plants will be built on the acreage.

It is zoned for light manufacturing.

98 Percent Of Teenagers Back In School

NYC SCORES IN DROP-OUT WAR

This week Ward Barritt, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, took a look at the number of youths in the initial program who have returned to school this fall.

With one goal of NYC set to reduce drop-out rates, Barritt had good reason to like what he saw.

At the end of the summer, 565 potential students were involved in the program.

Of these 138 students who had previously quit school returned to evening school and another eight resumed classes in regular high schools.

Another 419 who had not yet joined the drop-out army went back to their respective schools. Only 10 of the teenagers in the $.5 million program which started last spring failed to return to school.

With Richard J. Boyd appointed assistant director, (a position made possible by council action in August), Barritt is currently getting set for a second phase of the program which has a tentative budget of $1.6 million for the coming fiscal year. Of this only $200,000 will be supplied from local sources with Uncle Sam picking up the rest of the tab.

Within five weeks, Barritt expects 1,000 youths to be enrolled as either full time or in-school phases of the program.

He explained that a number of students will be assigned to posts within their own schools. (During the summer months, various branches of city government provided most of the employment opportunities.)

Barritt's assistant is on leave of absence from South High School. His most recent assignment in his career of the past eight years was as a teacher and counselor in the Columbus Public Schools.

Salaries—

The city of Bexley, whose citizens are mostly business and professional people of high cultural values, expect and demand the best schools," explained Frederick W. Shafer, president Bexley Teachers Association and a teacher for 39 years.

"Their high standards and excellent support . . . have made it possible," he continued, "for our schools to hold a prestige position in Ohio.

Veteran teachers express the professional pride and personal satisfaction they have found in Bexley Schools, and their concern that the city tinue to attract quality teachers.

"In the mid-40's Bexley was in the upper ten percent teaching salary bracket in the state, attracting teachers with the highest professional qualifications," explained one teacher of 19 years.

"And these people remained," she continued, "because of the high quality of the schools and their encouragement to improve our teaching background."

Miss Susan Scatterday, principal Maryland School, discussed the need of a competitive salary schedule if Bexley is to continue its policy of being selective, adding only the "cream of the crop" of new teachers.

"This year it was difficult hiring the best teachers, with the most potential, at our salary schedule."

And other career teachers at Maryland Elementary added their views on the schools' need for the levy . . .

- Miss Gladys Sherwood: "The explosion of knowledge demands highly technical training on the part of teachers. Career teachers are staying in Bexley with every confidence that the community will recognize their efforts."
- Miss Helen Harwood: "It is a matter of pride among teachers of Bexley Schools that among 159 Ohio cities they have ranked fourth on years of preparation and training. For this high level of teaching efficiency there exists a salary schedule that is not commensurate."
- Janet Glickman: "Fine schools make a fine community . . . those of us who own property in Bexley should remember that the proposed levy will be the best means of retaining property values at their present level."
- Mary Ellen Keil: "Teachers do not look at salaries alone when judging a school system, but at the total extent of the financial support given the schools."

"There is no other single factor, however, more significant in determining the quality of education a community obtains than the teacher's salary schedule. Quality teachers naturally gravitate to the school systems which pay the highest salaries."

Volunteers of America gave lodging, meals, jobs to nearly 13,000 destitute men and parolees in Franklin County in the past year, using $22,599 in local United Appeal funds. UA home solicitation is Oct. 11.

Protest—

was elected two year ago.

Before that, NCC president was a layman, Irwin Miller who served for three years. Rev. Dahlberg retired from the NCC over five years ago.

The massage also names Dr. Harry Ward and claims he has been "identified under oath, as a Communist." Dr. Wilson said that Ward has never had an connection with the NCC and added that he is "very, very old by now" and, quite possibly, dead. Before World War II, Ward did serve on a minor committee of the NCC.

Dr. Wilson said the Ohio Council of Churches has contacted the NCC in New York and has urged them to take legal action, also.

Just for the record, neither the Columbus Area Council of Churches nor the Ohio Council of Churches are members of the NCC. The NCC is made up of denominational bodies.

The NCC was started in 1950 when the Federal Council of Churches (formed in 1907) merged with about seven other bodies including the Council of Religious Education, the Protestant Council of Higher Education and the United Church Women. The NCC was formed as a kind of "umbrella" organization.

However, the NCC is felt strongly in Columbus as throughout the United States. Many of the Sunday School lessons used in this area are provided by the NCC.

The "Freedom" messages reportedly come from tapes supplied by Let Freedom Ring, Inc. creator Dr. William Campbell Douglass, a Sarasota, Fla., physician listed by the Anti-Defamation League as a John Birch member.

In his literature, Dr. Douglass says his is "a non-profit corporation established to disseminate anti-communist, anti-Socialist, pro-American broadcasts via a telephone tape recording."

In Columbus, Let Freedom Ring promotors contact various local residents, give them the unlisted phone number, and urge them to telephone for "two minutes of anti-Communist dynamite."

It mhight be pointed out that the NCC is not the only group to fall under the Let Freedom Ring attack. The messages have put the Communist label on about every group in this country, from the U.N. to the Peace Corps.

The Anti-Defamation League says that the "Freedom" messages "serve the Radical Right, from its isolated axegrinders to its largest national membership organization, with a weekly propaganda scare available around the clock."

Suggests Burlesque House Zoning Law

Two Democratic candidates for City Council today recommended the city provide a new zoning ordinance restricting the establishment and operation of burlesque houses in Columbus.

M. D. Portman and Donald L. Woodland asked Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner to use the zoning ordinance device to stop the "spreading practice of the burlesque house operation in residential neighborhoods."

The three Council candidates suggested the administration submit to City Council an ordinance the provisions of which compare with restrictions involving permits for bars and dance halls.

Under those provisions, liquor places and dance halls are banned within 500 feet of schools, playgrounds and churches.

"The burlesque house zoning ordinance would remove those places from residential sections, schools, churches, playgrounds and similar sites," Portman and Woodland pointed out.

"In order to operate such places, owners would be required to obtain approval of the necessary zoning application by the Planning Commission and/or by City Council. This would require public hearings, not now required.

"We urge the administration and the Council to consider seriously such legislation in the best interests of the Columbus public."

They said that under present conditions, residents of the Livingston and Parsons Avenue neighborhoods — as well as city officials — are powerless to fight location of the burlesque houses planned in those areas.

"The new ordinance," Portman and Woodland said, "would give these citizens the proper weapons to combat those objectionable type theaters."

been identified under oath as a communist, and went to Moscow in 1924 and 1929 to discuss with Stalin the use of the church in the communist conspiracy. This is sworn testimony.

"But this is only a sample of the NCC's pro-red-leadership.

"Let us quote from heaings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

"Of the leadership of the National Council of Churches, we have found over 100 persons with records of services to communist causes. The aggregate affiliations of the leadership is now, according to our latest count, into the thousands.

"With people like this in positions of power in the National Council of Churches, is it any wonder that the NCC promotes literature so filthy that it cannot be sent through the mails and that they financed a revolutionary training school at which a convicted homosexual acted as an instructor?

"If your church belongs to the NCC, we suggest that you make your next church pledge with the following restrictive statement: 'Payable within one year after date of withdrawal from the National Council of Churches.'

"In Columbus, most if not all of the large Protestant denominational churches belong to the National Council of Churches. For information on this satanic, pseudo-religious organization, send your donation for a complete documented expose to: Post Office Box 1, Westerville, O. Let freedom ring."

Anti-Communism Crusade Scheduled For Columbus

The 8 p.m. program is open to the public, and will feature an address by Dr. Schwarz on "The Current Communist Strategy for the Conquest of the United States."

He will discuss the Communist involvement in race riots, university campus activity, exploitation of the Viet Nam War and the India-Pakistan war. Dr. Schwarz will also deal with the nature of the conflict between the Communists of Russia aand Red China.

Dr. Fred C. Schwarz will bring his Christian Anti-Communism Crusade to Columbus again Thursday, Oct. 7, when he will appear at the North High School auditorium.

Hartley Rooters Miss Turn And Wind Up Late

Bishop Hartley High School's football team must have wondered what happened to its cheering section Friday night in their game with Hillsboro at Hillsboro.

Actually, three busloads of rooters missed the Hillsboro turnoff from I-71 and wound up in the outskirts of Cincinnati before turning around.

The missing cheering section got a red light and siren escort to the football field from Hillsboro police to whoop and holler for the last quarter of the game.

It must have done some good.

Hartley won, 28-8.

Rams, Hawks Face 'Biggest' Tests

'Possessive' Stallions, 'Explosive' Jackets Visit For Loop Openers

A pair of "big dividend" grid clashes which could go a long way in deciding pennant fliers in the Central Buckeye and Central Catholic loops highlight area fare this weekend—and East Side fans won't have to miss either of them!

They have the schedule makers at Whitehall and Hartley to thank for their bonus—the Rams scheduled against Mt. Vernon tomorrow evening, the Hawks hosting DeSales Saturday.

"IT WILL be our biggest challenge of the season," says Whitehall grid boss Jim Bline of his Rams' meeting with CBL favorite Mt. Vernon tomorrow. "If our defense holds up, I think we can win."

School officials are anticipating the largest turnout of the season and justly so — with the loop title possibly hanging in the balance.

"They'll (Mt. Vernon) probably close the town up," Bline joked. "They don't like Whitehall anyway."

IT'S NOT too likely that the Jackets are any favorite of Whitehall fans either, especially after their 16-7 decision over the Rams last fall — a loss that started three consecutive loop setbacks for the home favorites.

Bline doesn't expect to see anything new from the Jackets — just the same belly series, options, rollout passes, fullback trap off tackle and "sprint outs" the Jackets have worked successfully in seasons' past.

"This club can foul up on three straight downs and then go all the way on the next one," Bline warns, pointing out Mt. Vernon's TDs this fall have been on the long, long variety.

ALL-OHIO halfback Jim Byrd usually gets most of the Jacket headlines but Bline stressed the fact that Mt. Vernon will be bringing in a well-balanced attack tomorrow evening.

"We feel their quarterback (Gregg Kundrat) is the key. He's the most underrated player on their ball club," Bline added.

Besides Byrd, who's lethel just about anywhere (at 185 pounds with speed, he goes both inside and outside and is a fine pass receiver), there'll be fullback Randy Baldwin to contend with.

"HE (BALDWIN) must be pretty good if they can move a fine one like (Randy) Clemens up to end," Bline commented.

The Rams will be outsized like they were at Eastmoor with Mt. Vernon boasting a front which will average between 205-210 pounds (compared to Whitehall's 180 line average).

"Mt. Vernon is a great one for capitalizing on your mistakes. If we don't make many, we'll be in good shape. I just hope I can wake up Saturday morning real happy," Bline concluded.

FOR THE record, Mt. Vernon opened with a two-point loss to Coschoton (overconfidence in Bline's belief), blanked Mansfield Madison the following week and clobbered Grandview (30-6) last weekend.

Only bad bump last week against Bexley belonged to defensive tackle Pat Packard, who'll be ready tomorrow night according to Bline.

Whitehall's defensive effort against Bexley was "the best we've had," Bline said, conceding that the offense wasn't too bad (338 yards).

QUARTERBACK Mike Allen proved he can throw the pigskin, completing eight of 13 tosses for 92 yards. "Penalties (for 85 yds.), a few mistakes and Bexley's punter (Mike Luby) hurt us," the Ram mentor added.

Defensive standout were "hatchet men" Dan Dersan, Rick Foltz and Wes Seymour while Mike Fleming (scored lone TD of game) and end Tom Kleinline ("played best ever game") topped the offensive lineup.

The leather figures to be cracking loudly Saturday at Hartley in the first meeting of two members of a tough CCL alignment this fall.

BOTH INVADING DeSales and Jack Ryan's Hawks are sporting identical 3-0 records —the Hawks holding a 78-10 point advantage over three opponents, the Stallions leading in that department, 62-30.

DeSales figures to be at full strength for the meeting but Hartley may not be so fortunate.

Missing from the Hawk lineup Saturday will be defensive end Tim Connor, who suffered an eye cut last weekend against Hillsboro.

LEADING Hawk scorer and ground gainer fullback Scott French has been hobbled by an ankle injury but Ryan expects him to be ready. Ditto for linebacker Nick Cenci and back Mike Cunningham, sidelined via the flu this week.

Hartley's crack defensive unit will get the job of breaking up the Stallions' strong "possession" game, operated from DeSales' T formation offense.

Halfback Tom Rock (190) and fullback Mike Metzger (180) are the threats inside, basically on off-tackle slants, while speedster Steve Green is the outside "breakway" threat.

FOR THE first time this season, quarterback Mike DeAscentis showed off his passing arm last week against Wilmington—hitting on six of 14 for 72 yards of the Stallions' 295 total.

But fans who are coming to see an aerial battle will be largely disappointed since both the Hawks and Stallions like to stick mainly close to terra firma.

"We'll just have to cut off their possession game and get through their traditional 4-5 defense," Ryan summerized.

LOOKING back to his Hawks' warmup battle at Hillsboro, the Hartley mentor commented, "We should have scored eight more touchdowns. We had two passes intercepted in the end zone and two of our backs were caught from behind after they got in the open. Other than that, we did pretty good."

Ryan did believe this Hawks' downfield blocking loked good against Hillsboro, singling out Larry Irwin in that department. On defense, tackle Sam McKee did a fine job.

In other area games tomorrow, Academy (2-0) hosts Dublin (2-0-1), Bexley (0-3) travels to Worthington (0-3), Eastmoor (1-3) visits Brookhaven (1-2), East (3-0) journeys to Central (1-2), Gahanna (3-0) joins Marysville and Walnut Ridge (0-3) welcomes Marion-Franklin (1-2).

Fullback Dave Belli continued his strong running (outgaining the entire Westerville team with 186 yds. in 24 carries last week).

Other standouts were soph halfback Chuck Freeman on offense (averaged 5.8 yards in first start) and Mike Bokros (third interception in as many games) and tackle Nelson Bobb on defense.

Five Area Elevens Maintain Perfect Marks With Victories

Five area elevens compiled wins last weekend to provide the East Side with five unbeaten clubs after three weeks of grid play.

Whitehall's narrow 6-0 squeaker over Bexley provided the fourth straight thriller in that series—and with the Rams winners all four times.

CHUCK ROBSON'S East Tigers opened City League play by disposing of the last CL eleven (West, 31-0) which could match the Bengals' perfect mark this fall.

Hartley, with 'scootin' Scott French again showing the way, racked up win number three at the expense of Hillsboro, 28-8, while Gahanna relied on a deadly ground-air combo to open its Mid-Eight title defense successfully with a convincing 30-6 win over Westerville.

Academy outscored Pickerington, 38-22, to cop its second win without loss while Eastmoor broke into the win column with a 16-0 spanking of Walnut Ridge.

WHITEHALL took advantage of the "one, big play" for the third straight year to gain its margin over luckless Bexley.

The only score came early in the first period when Mike Fleming, the Rams' 6-1, 165 senior halfback, rambled 64 yards to paydirt.

Whitehall's defense, which hasn't allowed a TD since Westerville went all the way on the opening kickoff of the '65 season, held the Lions completely at bay, except for one penetration to the Rams' 20.

BEXLEY'S defense, except for Fleming's one "getaway," was equally as stingy — thanks largely to the toe of punter Mike Luby, who kept the Rams downfield all evening (once on a 60 yarder).

Apparently, Chuck Robson wasn't joking when he said the emphasis was going to be on offense earlier this season.

The Tigers showed plenty of explosiveness against the Cowboys and tossed in their usual defensive stinginess to boot as West managed only 152 yards gained and three first downs.

THE TIGER offense clicked for 253 yards with Jim Griffin and quarterback Paul Stith each counting up a pair

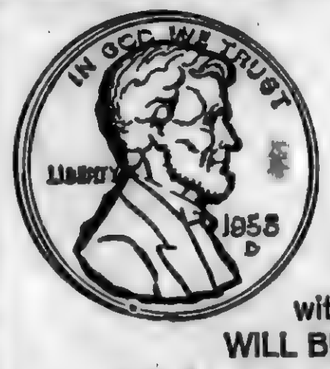
Trexler, Richardson Pace Whitehall Bantam Victories

After two weeks of play, good balance is evident in the Whitehall Bantam Football League.

In last week's action, the Browns rallied in the final period to open up with a 20-14 upset win over the 49ers as Mike Richardson (40 and 70 yard TDs) and Alan Grundy (20 yard TD) set the pace.

THE RUNNING and passing of quarterback Clarence Sesco kept the 49ers in contention while Bill Renner (32 yards) and Tom Barber (35 yard pass from Sesco) recorded the losers' touchdowns.



The Bears and Redskins pushed across single first half TDs and then showed tight defenses which resulted in a 7-7 tie.

Mark Stewart rambled for 55 yards to put the Bears ahead in the opening period but the 'Skins charged right back one frame later to tie the score on Junior Phipp's of six-pointers.

Stith also helped account for East's fifth score — hitting end John Slappy with a 19 yard scoring aerial in the third stanza.

The Tiger defense helped set up at least one TD when Willie Jackson blocked a Bronco punt on the West 35. Griffin scored two plays later.

JACK RYAN'S Hawks blasted off to a 20-0 first half lead and then coasted to the win over Hillsboro.

Scott French, who now has added up seven TD's in Hartley's first three games, scored on romps of eight and 28 yards.

Joe Gatto and Mike Cunningham added Hartley's other two TD's, the latter pacing off 44 yards for his six-pointer.

Hillsboro's third period score was the first recorded on the Hawks this fall.

FULLBACK Dave Belli and quarterback Bob Mach were the chief engineers of Gahanna's demolition job on Westerville.

Belli rambled 184 yards in 24 carries, tallying TD's on runs of 33 and 81 yards. Mach shared the spotlight, however, by completing eight of 11 passes for two touchdowns (15 yards to Doug Young and 45 yards to Mike Bokros).

In all, the Lions compiled 376 yards (or 215 more than the Wildcats) while adding up 17 big first downs.

A PAIR of juniors — fullback Steve Casto and quarterback Randy Yoakum scored touchdowns to snap Eastmoor's scoring and win drought.

Both scores came late in each half. The Warrior defense thwarted Scottie scoring hopes with five pass interceptions.

Academy scored two touchdowns in each of the first three periods to outscore Pickerington.

VIKING co-captain Al Unetic apparently found a new fullback slot (was guard last season) to his liking, romping for three TD's.

Jack Hammond, Neil Larrimer and Herb Douce recorded single six-pointers — Larrimer streaking 83 yards to paydirt, Douce rambling in from 54 yards out.

TYREE TAKEOFF — West Jefferson quarterback Mike Tyree (11) picked up a first down on the way to the Rough Riders' fourth period TD against Reynoldsburg Friday but the soph signal caller's progress met an abrupt end with this crisp tackle by the Raiders' Denny Spires. The World of Animals

By FRANK MILLER, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's about my goldfish, Pal. He is always hungry. Every morning he gets the required pinch of goldfish food. An hour later, I walk by and he shakes his head violently and breaks the surface of the water with his mouth.

So I give him another pinch of food and he eats it all down. This goes on four to six times a day. Should I continue this or not? I tried to just ignore him, but it's hard. — L.M.

DEAR L.M.: Apparently Pal is a compulsive eater. If so, he could become extremely frustrated if he didn't get all those snacks. You might continue, but keep a sharp eye on his waistline and cut down if he begins to bulge excessively.

A second possibility is that he is merely lonesome and all he really wants is some extra attention. In this case, a friendly gurgle or two might make him just as happy as all that extra food.

DEAR MR. MILLER: May we have your advice on how to arrange vacation travel when you are trapped by two six-year-old felines who, you are certain, wouldn't appreciate being on the trip, would be miserable in a boarding place, would be confused and frightened if someone were hired or cajoled to feed them at home? They are our Manx cats.

Our relationship with these cats is close and constant. In the past we haven't ventured far. We'd like to head for Mexico City and related places but won't, under any circumstances, neglect our cats. We realize some people would feel us too wrapped up in these cats, but we offer no apologies for loving them the way we do. —V.M.

Dear V.M.: Certainly no apologies are needed. Loving animals (any species) is something I heartily approve of. Still, you have worked yourself into a predicament and presented me with a practically insoluble problem.

Because you do have two (cats), I'd be in favor of your last — and least — "unacceptable" proposal. If you could pay someone, familiar with cats, to come and feed and water and change sand boxes, those two would have the best chance of a relatively trauma-free experience by remaining home.

Granted, anything you do will be somewhat unacceptable to them as long as you are gone. Still, this approach seems the easiest on them. A knowledgeable person can keep track of their assimilation and elimination and call in a veterinarian if it seems necessary.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I own a Doberman Pinscher, Jake by name. I have him trained as a guard dog and nobody, but nobody, comes within a mile of my convertible when he is in it. I was reading a thing about German Shepherds as sentry dogs and got to wondering why they don't use Dobermans instead?—H.R.

DEAR H. R.: First of all, the armed forces like to standardize when possible and the number of German Shepherds available makes it possible for them to stick to one breed. Secondly, the German Shepherd has a double coat of hair that makes him adaptable to a wide range of climatic conditions. (Getting back to Jake — just what happens if a child who is unafraid of dogs tries to clamber into your convertible?)

DEAR DR. MILLER: We would greatly appreciate your opinion. It concerns our parakeet, Perky, who has been slowing down a lot in the past few months. We called a veterinarian about the problem and, of course, he said to bring Perky in. This we intend to do.

But, in the course of the conversation, he mentioned that an X-ray might be helpful if the condition was hard to pin down. Could you tell us if this would really be safe to use on our bird? We have never heard of this before.—T.E.

DEAR T. E. (copy of on earlier reply) Better get Perky in as soon as possible and let the doctor determine what will be necessary to diagnose the condition. For the fraction of a second necessary for an X-ray picture there would be absolutely no danger to Perky. X-rays ARE for the birds, and may be extremely useful under some circumstances.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Buckeye quarterback Bill Vest passed to halfback Jerry Garriott for a 15 yard scoring play and quarterback John Todhunter plunged over from the one yard line to end first half play.

In the last frame halfback Mike Egger scored from the 11 yard line for the Buckeyes' sixth TD and quarterback Vest scored the final TD on a one yard plunge.

THE McDONALD Golden Eagles scored first early in the opening quarter with a pass from quarterback Carl Hart to end Jim Payne, good for a 63 yard scoring play. But Bremen came back quickly with a score, added a safety and "iced" the game with a third period TD.

Ministers To Discuss Mental Health Needs

"Ministering to Changing Mental Health Needs" is the theme selected for a seminar Tuesday, Oct. 5, cosponsored by the Ohio Mental Health Association and the Ohio Chaplains' Association.

The one day meeting will be held at the Nationwide Inn beginning at 10 a.m. Dr. Thomas W. Klink, director of the Division of Religion and Psychitary, Meninger Foundation, Topeka, will keynote and summarize the affair. All chaplains in the state service will attend, and pastors from all over the state have been invited.

Rev. Warren Bright, pastor of the Glenwood Methodist Church and chairman of the Ohio Mental Health Association, Religion and Mental Health Committee, describes the first in-depth conference of this kind to be held in the state.

It is for the purpose of further developing the role of the institutional chaplain as a part of the psychiatric healing and rehabilitation team in the state hospitals. It is also designed for churchmen recognizing the growing pastoral attention required as more persons are returned to or remain in their communities as a result of modern methods of treatment for the mentally and emotionally ill, and retarded.

Dr. Klink has served at the Meninger foundation since 1959. He was educated and received degrees from Pacific

Dr. Thomas W. Klink

University, and the University of Chicago. He received his clinical training at Elgin State Hospital, Illinois State Training School for Boys and Bellevue Hospital, N.Y.

Dr. Klink also served as chaplain at the Iowa Methodist Hospital DesMoines, and the Topeka State Hospital. The Meninger Chaplain is the author of numerous books and papers. The most recent, "Depth Perspectives in Pastoral Work," was published this year.

Fr. Ralph Karl, OMI, president of the Ohio Chaplains Association, and chaplain, Columbus State School, will preside. The agenda will include five group discussions and summaries. The luncheon session will be chairmaned by Rev. Harold Davidson, chaplain, Juvenile Diagnostic Center, Columbus.

The seminar coincides with a business meeting of the Ohio Chaplains Association, which Fr. Karl says will be partially devoted to planning similar meetings, both intramural and extra-mural.

Others scnoduled to participate are: Dr. John W. Wilson, Columbus, executive director, Ohio Council of Churches and member, board of directors, Ohio Mental Health Association; Rev. Wilbur White, chaplain, Dayton State Hospital.

Police Cruiser Smacks Car; Two Hospitalized

Police reported a Whitehall police cruiser, chasing a speeding motorcycle, crashed into a car and caused the hospitalization of two military officers.

The accident happened on Yearling-rd, north of E. Broad-st, Sept. 22.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. John Kitko, 35, of 406 Clemson-st, Gahanna, was released Sept. 25 from St. Anthony Hospital.

Army Maj. Robert Hoppe, 40, of 425 Oberlin-st, Gahanna, was listed in good condition Sept. 28 by St. Anthony Hospital.

The driver of the cruiser, Patrolman Ernest Bleil, Jr., 33, of 416 Bernahrd-rd, Whitehall, was checked and released at the hospital.

No citations were issued pending an investigation. Police said they were attempting to locate the driver of the motorcycle.

A spokesman for the police department said they were uncertain whether Bleil was using his siren when the collision occurred.

There is an old Chinese saying that each generation builds a road for the next. The road has been well built for us, and I believe it incumbent upon us, in our generation, to build our road for the next generation.—John F. Kennedy.

FOR LADY BIRD

THESE TWO gals are doing their bit to beautify America. Weeding the myrtle on U.S. Rt. 40 are (standing) dental assistant Diana Minshall, 1260 Louis-dr and dental hygienist Connie Overly, 266 Scott-dr. They work for Dr. George Gordon at 3230 W. Broad-st who sent them out with hoe in hand to improve the landscape.

Leaders—

vard, Yale and Case are being considered as the speaker who will test the rule later this fall.

New Rule A 'Trap'

One FSF member said the new rule might be a "trap" designed by the trustees to "pacify the campus and weaken the free speech movement."

Those attending Monday's meeting were: Miss Toby Emmer, Sanford Weinberg, John Manning and Alex Mosely.

Emmer and Mosely are undergraduate students, but Weinberg and Manning are graduate students who teach at the university.

Weinberg said he was dissatisfied with two parts of the modified rule:

• "The university reserves the right to require 'a debate format in which the speaker debates with a qualified opponent.'

• "A speaker invited by a student organization must not advocate action or urge the audience to take action which is illegal under the law of the United States, the State of Ohio, or any political subdivision of the State of Ohio, or which is prohibited by the rules of the university."

Takes Issue

Weinberg said the first point might hinder free speech "because many speakers will not accept an invitation to campus if they know an opposition speaker will be presented on the same program.

"A question and answer period should be sufficient," Weinberg said. "If a man is telling lies or speaking nonsense, he will expose himself by his evasive or illogical answers."

He said he wondered who would pay for an opposing speaker's expenses.

Weinberg also said free speech would be denied if speakers are not allowed to advocate illegal action.

"Some laws are bad," Weinberg said, "and if we are not allowed to speak against these laws, we have little chance of correcting the mistakes of the past."

May Call Strike

Another FSF member, who would not allow his name to be used for publication, said: "If the trustees do not plan to grant true free speech, a paralyzing strike by students and faculty might be the only answer."

This statement is meaningful because some FSF members favor a union of students similar to a labor union. The idea has been tossed around behind closed doors since last spring.

The only major precedent for this kind of "union" is the Union of Free Students organized recently at the University of California at Berkeley during the "free speech" storm there.

Union leaders at Berkeley report the organization has proved "very successful."

FSF leaders said they originally had planned to organize the union in July if the board of trustees had abolished the Speakers' Rule then.

However, they decided to concentrate their efforts on FSF when the trustees defeated a proposed rule change by a 5-3 vote.

Now the leaders say they are dissatisfied with the modified rule approved two weeks ago. So they plan to keep FSF active until the new rule can be tested.

Toby Emmer, one of the leaders, said she thought the union should be recognized while FSF is still active.

"If we wait until the Speakers' Rule trouble is ended, we might lose strength for the union," Emmer said.

The speakers' Rule has been the subject of sporadic, but heated, controversy since it was instituted in 1951.

Coals of the controversy burst into flame again last spring when university officials refused to grant permission for Students for Liberal Action (SLA) to invite Herbert Aptheker to speak on campus.

SLA is a university-recognized student organization. Much of its membership overlaps that of FSF.

Aptheker, who later made a non-speaking appearance on campus, is the head of the National Institute for Marxist Studies.

Movement Of God Is Unmistakable In The Holy Land

By CHARLES D. KIRSCH
Reynoldsburg Methodist Church

Our summer was spent in the Holy Land visiting the shrines of the Christian faith and many which are also related to Judaism. The movement of God through the history of these lands is unmistakable. The people who reside in the Holy Land are very much aware of the religious importance of their native soil to millions of people in other lands, and one senses their personal pride and admiration.

Kirsch

These people are warm, humble and grateful. A day in the desert of the Negev makes one marvel at the courage of the children of Israel and know what it meant for Moses to challenge them to a land of milk and honey, which seemed beyond human reach. Yet, they trusted and followed because of their great faith.

Only a few hundred miles away on the island of Cyprus we visited in the royal palace of Archbishop Makarios and saw in this man another Moses, who, armed with the same tools as that great Hebrew leader, was challenging his people to the good life, and the roadblocks again seemed insurmountable.

A visit in the home of David Ben Gurion in Tel-Aviv, Israel, reminded us again of the aspirations of the human heart, inspired by a religious faith. The modern history of Israel is a struggle not unlike the ancient history of that land we know so well from our study.

It may well be that we are caught up in a new reformation, but it is the same spirit that moves through history in men that has the power to create a new person and to make it possible for him to do that which seems impossible.

In our own country we are beginning to see the resurgence of power within the Church as she moves beyond the walls of a building and is revealed wherever the need exists.

The critics of the Church are now having a field day, and only this month the National Observer had a front page lead article called: "Is The Local Church Out of date?" The writer goes on to tear the modern Church to pieces and is often justified in his criticism.

But the fact is that the Church is very much alive and most of the recent criticism of the Church comes from those who object to the church's involvement in the world.

The Church has always been "in the world" at its best and some great leader comes forward in every generation to set us back on the course. We have just lost one of the great leaders of our day in the passing of Albert Schweitzer. But other voices are now calling us to our task as Christians. Some of the voices of the future are not known by many yet, but God has a way of sending to us in every age the man who will be His voice and do His will.

The wilderness that we who follow Him must cross may not be Sinai or a Negev, but rather a plane of mediocrity, or a desert of unconcern, or a plateau of the status quo, or the quagmire of an affluent society that has so much that God does not seem to be a necessity any longer.

It may well be the task before us today is much greater than that which the children of Israel were presented by Moses. But we can be sure of this: The source of our strength is the same and is unfailing.

In Him we live and move and have our very being. Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve. As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.

Huston Thomas Shot In Leg

Huston W. Thomas, 21, of 204 S. Cassingham-rd, a student at Stanford University, accidentally shot himself in the leg Sept. 27, police reported, while "practicing fast draws."

He was treated for a flesh wound at the Stanford Medical Center and released.

Police referred the matter to university officials who said guns were not allowed in student residences.

The reason why the race of man moves slowly is because it must move all together. —Thomas Reed.

Barnett—

and teens and adults from 6 until 10 p.m.

Miss Joanne Kinsel, former school teacher, recreation leader and assistant director, has been named director of the new center.

Assistant director is Jeffrey Forster, experienced recreation director.

Regular operating hours of Barnett will be 2 to 10 p.m. weekdays, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Open To Others

Outside groups wishing to use facilities of the center such as meeting rooms or basketball court, in hours when Barnett is not open may reserve the space by calling the Columbus Recreation Department in City Hall, 469-7500. There is no charge.

An advisory council of community adults is now being selected and will be announced. Members will assist in planning a program and establishing policies.

The center will share some of its facilities with the adjoining Barnett Elementary—the school will have access to the gymnasium for physical education classes, and some evening craft program may be conducted in the school's classrooms.

And, as part of the cooperative plan, recreation and school grounds will be developed jointly.

A "kiddie lot" for small youngsters, lighted tennis courts and ball diamonds are among development plans for the future.

Brooks Offers CATV Suggestions To Council

Columbus Utilities Director William H. Brooks has urged city council to proceed with caution in legislation permitting Cable Antenna Television (CATV) franchise agreements.

In a letter to Councilman Charles R. Petree II, chairman of council's Judiciary Committee, Brooks listed several "suggestions" for inclusion in any CATV ordinance council might eventually enact. He called for:

- A specific time period for any license or franchise agreements.
- A flat (one-time) fee to be paid to the city in addition to the annual three percent of gross revenues.
- A stipulation for cancellation of license in the event of failure of the licensee to comply with city code provisions covering CATV operations.
- Provision requiring submission of maps or prints showing the pole line system, and notice of any system changes or removals, excepting individual subscriber connections or dis-connections.
- A strict liability insurance requirement.

Brooks said that "private enterprise competition will provide a proper leveling influence, provided that there is proper governmental regulation to protect the interest of the citizens."

Brooks said that he had made "quite a study" of the pros and cons of CATV, and that he would "assist, or furnish any information which might help" in council consideration of a CATV ordinance.

Nostalgia Worth $1.5 Million Reigns At Antique Show

Fascination with the past apparently is just as popular as it ever was.

More than 100,000 antiques —valued at an estimated $1.5 million — were offered for sale this week at the Columbus Antique Show in the Youth Center at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Prices on individual items ranged from five cents to $12,000.

Fifty three antique dealers from five states participated in the show which ended yesterday (Wednesday). States represented included Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kentucky.

The annual show is co-sponsored by Mrs. Ogden Wintermute of Mt. Vernon and the Ohio State University.

Each part part of the profits are donated to one of the university's scholarship funds. The money will go to the OSU Men's Glee Club this year.

Mrs. Wintermute said last night that the total number of sales had not been tallied.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

Can Village Offer Business An Image?

A German Willage story: here's vone friends have asked me to write about, since it concerns der past, present, und future of German Willage.

Early dis year I bought der southvest corner of Fourth und Yackson streets, back to Berger-al. On it is a two-story commercial structure of a type vonce com.non in Columbus but now, because of wicious bulldozing of our historical buildings, rare.

High above its facade is der date — 1884. Not ancient but because of dis demolition of Columbus landmarks, a treasure. Behind it, ramble dilapidated frame structures. Like most aged frames in our Willage, dese vill have to be pulled down. I had no plans for dis corner; it fell into mein lap und I vas happy at der thought of eventually cleaning it up.

Soon I chanced upon a man who vas district manager of an Ohio insurance company — a small, solid, company, over a hundert years old. Its downtown lease vas running out und der manager vas looking for new quarters. No clod vas he; dis man knew Europe vell. Enchanted mit our old-vorld atmosphere, he schpent off-hours roving German Willage.

Dis man saw mein 1884 Building. Being avare of dat Madison-av magic vord "image", he realized dat here vas a perfect image producer for his insurance company.

Here vas a solid old building for a solid old company. Here vas a building dat had survived der years as soundly as good insurance does. Here vas a building dat could be modelled after der oldest insurance company in America which, housed in a historic Philadelphia residence, is in a neighborhood closely resembling German Willage — Society Hill, solid, old, on der upswing after years of neglect.

Der insurance manager also noted dat mein 1884 Building vas located only vone block from der thruvay. Der Yackson und Fourth corner vas thus an ideal location for salesmen, who could drive one block to Route I-71, then fan out through Central Ohio. Furthermore, vhen cleared of der frame structures, der space behind mein 1884 Building vould make 12 off-street parking spaces. Dese are hard to find as chili powder in Hasenpfeffer.

Vell, so I had an architect draw up plans converting mein 1884 Building into an office building. Ivan Pusecker den painted a view of der outside, showing stylish gas lamps, shutters, awning, und potted topiary trees. I den vaited for two big bosses of der insurance company to come to Columbus und inspect mein und four other locations.

Came der big day und .... I kissed der big company goodbye. For only den did I learn der big bosses vere from der sticks. Immediately I suspected dey vould undergo der ironic reversal dat afflicts many small towners vhen dey come to a big city: dese bosses vould, I felt, ignore old picturesque German Willage und vould vant a modern building in a brassy business district.

How right I vas! Der two small towners chose a slick modern building mit no historical background for deir historical company. Vorst of all, dey chose a location vay out in an end of town that creates hardship for der employes who must drive all der vay in from Reynoldsburg und Vashington Court Haus.

So dere you have mein German Willage story. Der upsving of our Willage has created national interest. Probably more private money has been put into der German Willage revival dan all der money of Urban Renewal construction in Columbus.

Yet mein 1884 Building still broods tenantless because, as far as some Ohio businessmen are concerned, German Willage ist for der Katz.

NAA Walkout Sanctioned

United Auto Workers Aerospace Division Local 927 voted unanimously Sept. 26 to serve notice of strike intent on North American Aviation today.

The action gives the UAW bargaining committee, engaged in contract negotiations with NAA at Los Angeles, a stronger position. Similar votes were taken at NAA plants at Los Angeles, Tulsa, and Neosho, Mo.

If a new pact is not agreed on today, the union's negotiating team in Los Angeles will serve notice on management that a strike vote will be taken in 10 days.

If a new contract is settled in Los Angeles before Oct. 10, union locals will vote to ratify the contract.

If the new pact is refused, there will then be a strike vote.

OUR APOLOGY

The professional announcement appearing on Page 2, Eastern Spectator, Sept. 23, telling of the opening of the office of Dr. Ronald B. Ward, D.D.S., was not presented in the format desired by Dr. Ward. The Spectator regrets any embarrassment it may have caused him.

Opportunity Knocks For Jobless Youth

If you're between 16 and 21 and jobless then that rap-rap-rap you're hearing is opportunity knocking.

Right now is the prime time to get a position in the Franklin County area, according to Jack Harris, acting manager of the Youth Opportunity Center, 239 S. Fourth-st.

Harris says that he has a number of openings waiting for ambitious youths now that most young folks are back in school and the summer job-rush has ended.

If you're not qualified for any particular job, the Youth Opportunity Center will take care of that too. Mary Preston, YOC training coordinator, can fix you up with valuable training in about every field from welding to baking.

Miss Preston says the YOC is currently operating 11 training programs at 278 E. Spring-st (the Trades and Industry Center). Persons taking part under the Manpower Development Training Act of 1962 can even get $20 a week (high school grad) to $71 a week (two years of work history and with a family) while they're learning.

The training phase takes anywhere from 16 weeks (to learn food service) to 46 weeks (auto body repair). Classes take up 40 hours a week. They even pay for transportation—five cents a mile or bus fare.

The YOC takes special pains to be sure that the right youth is matched up with the right job. Wallace P. Cash, of Hilliard, who is supervisor of testing, administers aptitude tests to allow applicants to see what they're best suited for.

Out-of-town people are aware of YOC and the work it does. Cash told a story of a young man who walked into the center with a suitcase. He sought a job even before he found a place to live.

Largely through the efforts of the center, and groups like it throughtout the state, the number of 16 to 21-year-olds unemployed in Ohio has dropped sharply.

Grove City Man Is Kiwanis Lt. Governor

Harold A. Waits, 3589 Orders-rd, Grove City, has been elected Lt. Governor of the Ohio District Kiwanis International for the 10-W Division. The division is composed of 13 clubs in Central Ohio counties, including the western half of Franklin County. Waits was appointed at the Ohio District Convention which wound-up a four-day run yesterday (Sept. 29) at the Sheraton Hotel in Columbus. Waits is a charter member of Grove City Kiwanis and has served as president of that club and division chairman of various committees during the past seven years. He is active in many community activities and is an agent for Nationwide Insurance with offices at Central Point Shopping Center.

Assistant Director Sought For CMACAO

the position of executive director of the local Community Action Organization, Ralph R. Tidcock announced Tuesday that he is accepting applications for an assistant.

The post, which involves the coordination of the local anti-poverty program, demands at least a bachelor's degree in sociology, social work or social science coupled with a minimum of eight years' successful job experience.

Experience in either volunteer or public agencies is desirable but not essential although experience in working with people is a basic requirement of the job. The salary range is from $9,500 to $11,000. Applications should be mailed to Tidcock at the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization, 167 E. State-st.

Tidcock replaces Dr. Samuel Stellman, associate professor of social work at Ohio State who has been on loan from the university.

Tidcock has been a Columbus resident for six years and has served as senior field representative for the National Association for Mental Health, covering a 15-state area.

Holding an undergraduate degree from Marietta College, the new director earned master degrees at both Kent and Ohio State.

To speak ill of others is a dishonest way of praising ourselves; let us be above such transparent egotism. — Will Durant.

Stanley Schwartz Lauds Stellman

When Dr. Samuel Stellman returned to his post at OSU this week, he was preceded by a letter from Stanley Schwartz, Jr., president of the Board of Trustees of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization.

The letter was addressed to Dr. Novice G. Fawcett of the university and thanked OSU for making Dr. Stellman's service available to the local anti-poverty program.

"Thousands of the poor who need our help, as well as the total community will benefit from his efforts on behalf of the disadvantaged in our community," Schwartz wrote.

He stressed that the executive committee feels the future of the program is assured because of the sound beginning it enjoyed under "Dr. Stellman's expert direction."

Students Begin Climb To Higher Education

Today's Students . . . Tomorrow's Leaders

There's an empty bed in the house.

Mother's buying about three gallons less milk a week, one of the kitchen chairs is pushed against the wall and there's no shirt to be ironed at the last minute on Saturday night.

Dad's the first one in the bathroom.

He hasn't stepped on a roller for the past two weeks, the phone hasn't rung all evening and on Saturday afternoon he can tune in a football game without anyone switching channels.

All over America sons and daughters are off to college.

It's a nostalgic time for parents . . . an exciting time for students and a turn for the better in world affairs.

The Spectator is proud to be a part of an education hungry community and is happy to list today's students and tomorrow's leaders. Students are listed according to high schools and in most cases have included their class and major.

THIS NEW COLLEGE FRESHMAN, Bobbi Burkey, truly can feel as if she's a "know it all," especially when her older sister, Mary, a senior, has taught her "all the ropes" about college. Bobbi and Mary, who reside at 7674 Burkey-av, are students at Capital University this fall.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

The Muscle 'Myth' . . .

An old battle came to the fore last week when a visitor from the COSA (Central Ohio Swimming Association) stopped by.

The old battle concerns Joe Teenager, a talented youngster who could be one of state's best swimmers or best football players — but probably not both.

THE AQUA element wants Joe at the pool; the football coach says "stay away."

We can still remember the words of our old high school football coach who, in no uncertain terms, put swimming "off limits" after the start of preschool grid practice.

Wittenmeier

"Soft muscles," "loose muscles" were some of the terms bandied around to our memory then and these are the same barbs that send swim coaches clawing at the walls today.

"THE THEORY that there is one type of muscle for football and another for swimming is a myth," says OSU tank coach Bob Bartels.

"There's just nothing to this 'soft' and 'hard' muscle business," the Buck mentor added. "And I'd like to invite anyone who doesn't believe that to come up and look over some of our swimmers some time."

Bartels disagrees that the conditioning required for swimming is detrimental to football ability or any other sport for that matter. He pointed out a number of outstanding gridders who used swimming as a conditioner.

A CLOSE-TO-HOME example was the late Bob Connell, a standout swimmer for Bartels' predecessor, Mike Peppe, in the winter and track mentor, Larry Snyder, in the spring.

"In fact, Johnny Pont (Indiana grid coach) has his football players swim after practice on occasion," Bartels added.

The OSU swim mentor did concede, however, that the types of conditioning for the two sports are geared to develop different parts of the body and admitted that muscle flexibility would be affected by the different training techniques.

"FOOTBALL conditioning is geared to develop strength in the neck, upper arms and extensors of the legs, while swimming works primarily on the extensors of the arm — the muscles which help a swimmer move quickly through the water," says Bartels.

"Although I've never known of a football player who was a good middle distance man, I've known quite a few who were good sprinters," the Buckeye coach concluded.

One area grid coach discourages swimming for his prospective football players when summer practice sessions near because of blisters. ("The swimming softens up does develop a smoother, longer kind of muscle which is not as 'explosive' as the muscle developed in football conditioning."

"I CAN SEE no objection to periods of swimming for a football player, however, as long as he's doing other work (conditioning) which is applicable to football."

And if that statement doesn't put us right back where we started from, I'm not a frustrated swimmer who never made much of a name for himself on the football field.

"I'D HAVE no objection to a football player who swam during the summer for conditioning purposes but very few do," he added.

Another football coach claims that he asks his players to give up swimming at the start of practice because the water "loosens up their muscles and makes them bruise easily."

"During the early part of the summer, we encourage them to swim because we believe there is no more complete exercise," he concluded.

NONE OF the coaches interviewed could deny the importance of swimming as an asset to building lung power, an important ingredient to any athletic endeavor.

All coaches interviewed listed swimming far down the line, however, when asked what type of conditioning programs they would suggest for football players during the "off" season.

The coaches suggested wrestling or basketball during the winter months (as opposed to swimming) and track in the spring ("baseball affords too many chances for leg and ankle injuries").

THE CONSENSUS seemed to be that sports such as wrestling and track afforded more "carry-over" value for football players.

For those grid prospects not competing in other sports, the coaches suggested calisthenics, isometrics and weight lifting in that order.

In the final analysis, the big point seemed to center around competition for the young athlete. Local fans are well familiar with the much-publicized differences between Woody Hayes and Fred Taylor over talent like John Havlicek and, more recently, Ron Sepic.

EACH COACH desires to "land" a particular athlete, then hope he'll specialize in his particular sport.

Football coaches, for example, are not suggesting that swimming is harmful to the development of a good grid prospect; swim coaches echo the same belief.

However, if either had his "druthers," he'd prefer a different kind of conditioning program, which wouldn't be particularly acceptable to the other.

THE YOUNG athlete, who many times doesn't wish to "specialize" (and shouldn't be pressured to), is left squarely in the middle.

OSU trainer Ernie Biggs, who certainly should know what's good (and not so good) for football players, was asked to play the role of referee in the "old battle."

Said Biggs: "Swimming

The Ohio Division of Wildlife reports that last week's high temperatures resulted in poor muskie fishing at Hoover Reservoir.

The opposite was true for walleyes, however, with several reports of four and five pounders taken. Most fish are still being caught from the dam to midway up the lake in 15 to 20 feet of water.

Bass fishing is reported good at Indian Lake with the most successful results coming on black artificial night crawlers in the morning hours.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

Each year, the American Motor Car Company (Rambler) selects 20 worthy people in these United States to receive its Conservation Awards. This year, three of these coveted awards came to Ohio.

Ed Zern of Sports Afield magazine was on hand to make the presentations at the Ohio State Exposition. Ted Lee, Director of Youth Education programs for the League of Ohio Sportsmen was a deserving recipient for his slide programs shown to over 50,000 school children each year. (I have the honor to know Ted, let me add a footnote to his acclaim.)

TED RETIRED from the railroad several years ago and just would not vegetate in his backyard hammock. Instead, he began collecting color slides of the great outdoors and put them together in very interesting programs.

He offered to show them to school children of Central Ohio and soon he had a full schedule and countless thousands of youngsters have a richer knowledge of the outdoors because of him. My hat is off to a man who has put his retiring years to good use.

The second Ohioan to receive an award was Karl Bednarik who, through constant study, has become one of the world's top waterfowl experts. His greatest single endeavor in the name of conservatinn was the planning and executing of Magee Marsh as a prime duck habitat.

THE THIRD honored conservationist was a plain dirt farmer who saw the intelligence of proper land management and practiced it.

He is Frank W. Shutt from Sugarcreek, Ohio. Not only did he practice contour plowing, maintaining wildlife habitat and every other conceivable manner of conservation, but he preached it to his Amish nieghbors until he managed to make them see the light.

Don't forget, you senior citizens—if you are 70 or more years old, you may now pay $1.25 and make application for a lifetime fishing license. The regular license agents have the forms necessary aand will accept your money. It takes about two weeks to get your "lifetimer" through the mail.

THE FIRST week of the squirrel season was very productive for those hunters willing to brave the rain squalls and drippy forests. Most years, the hardwoods are crackily dry in September but our unusual rainfall was a great help to early hunters.

On the other hand, the heavy rains have washed great quantities of mine acids out of the abandoned mines in southeastern Ohio. Streams draining out of the old mine fields are in bad shape, especially the Hocking River.

The League of Ohio Sportsmen has passed a resolution condemning the Ohio Pollution Control Board for its lackadasical attitude toward many current pollution problems. What a shame our tax money goes to support appointees that look for reasons not to stop pollution.

I JUST PUT down a very fine book on hunting, but only after I had read every page. It's published by Doubleday and edited by Vlad Evanoff. Each chapter is on the hunting of a different specie of game and by a different author.

My favorites were: "Cotton-tail Hunting" by Tom McNally, "How to Shoot Ducks" by Jimmy Robinson and "Hunting the Wild Turkey" by Roger Latham. This book is a winner whether you think you know all about hunting or are a greenhorn.

Another winner for your bookshelf is "Never Cry Wolf" by Farley Mowat. This is a gripping story of the inside workings of the animal mind. My ole preaching buddy Stu Baxter, sent my copy but it is on the news stand this month in the paperback edition.

Buy it once, you'll read it twice.

A Name To Remember

Columbus City Councilman (by appointment) Carl J. Kegelmayer likes to see his name in print. Kegelmayer is running for election and wants all the publicity he can manufacture.

Recently, a bus-stoning incident followed a high school football game. Kegelmayer pounced on the opportunity to grab some publicity. He decried a lack of local law to prohibit the possession of intoxicating beverages at school events.

He (pardon us—Kegelmayer) pushed through council a hastily drawn and faulty piece of legislation. It was so written that it placed unwarranted restrictions on legitimate, adult social functions.

Incidentally, the police report of the bus-stoning stated that there was no evidence indicating that alcoholic beverages played any part.

Kegelmayer couldn't have cared less. Kegelmayer saw his duty to the Kegelmayer campaign and acted accordingly.

One of Kegelmayer's previous publicity stunts came after he complained that he couldn't understand a city finance director's report to council. Kegelmayer's proposed solution to that problem was a recommendation to abolish the finance department.

We join Kegelmayer in hoping that his name is remembered on Election Day. We also hope voters remember the questionable quality of his performance as a councilman.

Control Or Coercion?

The state liquor department's current crackdown on Sunday sales at private clubs might be commendable, if its sole purpose was uniform enforcement of laws already restricting sales in public drinking places.

But that's not the reason for the department's sudden zeal in halting Sunday sales to the privileged.

The real reason is to apply pressure among influential persons, and the Sunday sipping society is full of them, for legalized Sunday sale of liquor.

Governor Rhodes promised a lot of big city convention officials and metropolitan area state legislators that he would push such a bill through the recent legislative session. But the House balked and killed the Senate-approved bill.

The squeeze is now being selectively applied to country clubs and other private drink spots in an effort to prepare the legislative climate for approval of the Sunday liquor bill at the next session of the General Assembly.

It is easy to imagine the pressure many legislators are already getting from club members and officials in their counties for a Sunday liquor law.

Using state liquor department enforcement agents to lobby for a Sunday liquor law is a blatant misuse of the powers of state government.

Nothing really worthwhile in this world, including The Spectator, is "free."

You may be currently receiving The Spectator at your home without paying for it, but someone is.

The Spectator is NOT a "shopper" or a "throwaway." It's the largest circulation weekly newspaper in Ohio. And it was judged the best weekly newspaper by the Ohio Newspaper Association in 1965. It has won more newspaper prizes than could be listed in this space.

The Spectator got that way because its readers trust it and its advertisers know it means business.

But it's not free!

The Spectator has a voluntary pay policy. You can pay one of our 800 carriers 32 cents for four weeks of home delivery or $3.50 for a year's mail subscription.

Through The Spectator's saturation circulation policy, you can still get one of our eight distinctively different suburban and metropolitan editions without paying for it. But someone does. Thousands of readers do!

Just a reminder concerning your neighborhood carrier. We pay him a penny for each newspaper he delivers. He gets four cents for each one on which he collects.

Broom Closet Dropout

By JOHN KEASLER
(Reprinted from The Washington Daily News)

In Akron, O., Clarence Bradshaw quit his job as a school janitor to become a teacher, thereby taking a $350 cut in salary.

This case of the dropout janitor mirrors a disturbing trend in our culture.

If all our janitors start throwing in the towel and simply giving up, who will be next? It could upset our entire system, in which we pay janitors more than teachers, rock and rollers more than scientists and bad actors more than good interns.

Mr. Bradshaw's action leaves me with a faint feeling he should be investigated. He was sneaking around going to night school. Finally, he dropped out of janitoring altogether, turned in his broom and $6000 a year for books and $5650.

What kind of example is this for the nation's youth? You take one guy who starts indicating that success isn't measured by dollars alone and — well. One bad apple can spoil a barrel.

The whole thing strikes at our very taproots. When I was a youngster, Mr. Mack, our high school principal, was always telling us kids if we didn't keep going to school and studying hard we would end up driving a truck.

Several of the more alert boys in my circle profited by Mr. Mack's words. They dropped out of school and became truck drivers. In no time they were making more money than Mr. Mack.

Did Mr. Bradshaw have no thought of status? There he was, a dashing maintenance engineer, until he went wrong.

The teaching addiction is treacherous. I have another friend who once was successful. He was advance man for a Gilbert & Sullivan troupe. Then he became the highly-paid circulation manager for a national news magazine. But, secretly, he kept slipping around and getting degrees. A few years ago he went completely to pieces; started teaching and couldn't stop.

He is now assistant to the president of a college in New England. We send him a basket at Christmas.

Well, Mr. Bradshaw, you have been warned. Go ahead and blow a responsible position and fritter away your time trying to teach our children. Just don't expect us to pay you.

The Hardest Bag To Pack

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

One overriding factor that we seem to overlook or want to forget is that peace is not ours merely for the asking.

If it takes two to fight, it sometimes takes many more than that to make peace.

Communism as a world force relies on our great concern for peace and for comfort. At the same time they nourish their own major objective — the control over the mind, property, hearts and souls of all humanity. The total establishment of this godless philosophy is not to them to be accomplished in a week, year, decade or even a century. It is not necessarily to be established through nuclear warfare or the destruction of civilization, but through the failures of the free world to make the necessary adjustments in keeping with the changes that are a necessary part of progress.

If in their drive they can cause us in our desire to pursue our own selfish objectives to give in to their constant harassment the majority of the world's people would soon be theirs and we would soon follow.

On July 28, 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson pointed out, "But we must not let this mask the central fact that this is really war. It is guided by North Viet Nam and spurred by Communist China. Its goal is to conquer the South, to defeat American power, and to extend the Asiatic dominion of Communism."

"Most of the non-communist nations of Asia cannot, by themselves and alone, resist the growing might and grasping ambitions of Asian Communism. Our power therefore is a vital shield. If we are driven from the fields in Viet Nam, then no nation can ever again have confidence in American promises, or in American protection. In each land the forces of independence would be considerably weakened, and an Asia so threatened by Communist domination would imperil the security of America itself. We did not choose to be the guardians of the gate, but there is no one else."

History clearly points out that the appetites of dictators are not satisfied by the sacrifice of one small nation. Each sacrifice demands another, each succeeding one larger than the one before to fulfill an ever-growing capacity to consume and to ravish.

Viet Nam: 1962-1965

Dean Rusk in his Aug. 3, 1965, statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee clearly delineated the methods of aggression; each different but all designed to achieve the same end. The Communist name for aggression is "a war of national liberation." For example, Communist terrorists in Venezuela are described as leaders of a fight for "national liberation" but Pravda said that "upsurge of the nationtional movement in Latin America has been to a great extent a result of the activities of Communist parties."

The importance of Viet Nam in the total Communist scheme is best demonstrated by a statement attributed to General Graf, leader of North Viet Nam's army, "If the special warfare that the U.S. imperialists are testing in South Viet Nam is overcome, then it can be defeated everywhere in the world."

Thailand has already been designated as the next target. Secretary Rusk pointed out that should the aggression be successful in South Viet Nam, the forces of militant Communism everywhere would be vastly heartened, and we could expect to see a series of so-called "wars of liberation" in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

The result would be a bowling pin reaction with one pin falling before another, those that would stand after the first hit would fall before later efforts.

During a trip to Europe in the early post-war years, I was particularly impressed by the difference in the remarkable progress made in West Germany and the lack of activity and the despondency existing in Communist-dominated East Berlin.

Similar parallels can be drawn between the progress made in South Viet Nam between the years 1955 and 1960 and the drop in food and industrial production in North Viet Nam during the same period. The takeover of South Viet Nam, so confidently expected by the Communists in 1954, did not take place. The fact that South Viet Nam was outstripping the vaunted Communist system, made it necessary for Hanoi to accelerate its attack in order that the failures not stand too naked before the world.

The effort in South Viet Nam is part of the ever existing never-ending struggle for freedom. If the fight should be taking place at the corner of Broad and High it could not be any more meaningful to our liberty than it is in the air, on the water, in the jungle and in the streets of cities, and the villages of South Viet Nam. Our vast benefit lies not only in the maintenance of our freedom but also in the fact that at least at this point the major sacrifice in the loss of life, property and freedom is being made in most instances by others.

Letters To The Editor

Favors W-J Bond Issue

To the Editor:

It is getting close to the time for the school bond issue to be put before the West Jefferson community to vote on and I am getting concerned.

There are a number of questions being raised that I would love to answer but without the information I cannot. The town is bitterly divided and has been for many years. I can name several people who will not vote for our President but every time a school issue has been put on the ballot they go out in rain, snow or hail to vote against it.

Many people say, "I have no children . . . why should I be burdened?" These children make up our doctors, lawyers, firefighters, etc. Your future may depend, in many ways, upon the education of our children. It might also be pointed out that taxes also support our police and fire departments. You need these people even if you never use their help.

As in other communities, West Jefferson has men who volunteer their services on the fire truck and risk their lives to protect you and your property. The police chief gives his time for a token pay. The Jaycees give their time and energy for your community yet, in return, people still don't want to help educate the children of these people.

These children will give much future aid to the community. Children are an investment and, without them, there is no future.

People Are Important, Too

To the Editor:

The latest "Wonderful World of Ohio" monkey business report comes to us direct from the Midwest Governors' Conference in Michigan.

The hue and cry coming from the conference is that the Midwest is being discriminated against by our Federal Government.

It seems that our illustrious governor insists that the Atomic Energy Commission locate a $280-million atom-smasher plant (project) in Ohio.

It would seem to me that we had better start thinking more about our "Wonderful World of Ohio" citizens and less about the "Wonderful World of Ohio" business and the almighty dollar.

In the final analysis, people count much more than business or money.

For example: Part of the Tennessee State Fair was reduced to a shambles by a $10-million fire recently. Maybe we should take a good look at some of our old buildings (fire traps) on our "Wonderful World of Ohio" State Fairgrounds.

Human life is far more important than business or money.

To the Editor:

I have been a subscriber of the Hilltop Spectator for about 30 years and formerly an employe for about eight years.

The first thing I have always read in the paper was the publisher's "Spectator" column, even when I went back and got it "hot off the press" myself. I'm sure I am an average reader-subscriber and there must be many other people who feel the same as I.

Please, couldn't it be continued. I liked the rest of the paper also, but I do miss this particular column.

Police, Or Lights, Wanted

To the Editor:

A recent edition of The Spectator (Sept. 9, 1965) has a letter stating that no street lights are planned for E. Gay-st. We have asked the city to furnish police protection at least until the lights are installed.

A later edition of The Spectator (Sept. 16, 1965) carried a letter from Howard Stemm, Division of Electricity, stating that he "expects to have lights on Gay-st before Christmas this year."

There have been no lights on Gay-st since last July.

We saw a police cruiser on and around Gay-st Friday and Saturday during early evening. Also, we saw two police officers on their beat at Town and High-sts. We've also seen two police officers on their beats on N. High-st (above Goodale). Within five minutes, we also saw two police cruisers there.

Why have all the policemen on N. High-st above Goodale-st? An occasional show of police on E. Gay-st would be a great help. It would help to establish confidence.

FOR PROGRESS

THE GREAT U. S. ILLUSIONS . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

It was night in a teeming street in Karachi, and in the harsh, white glare of the gasoline lanterns the young man lay on the dirty pallet, surrounded by a gawking crowd. I approached and he surveyed me with large, sorrowful eyes.

"What's going on?" I asked.

There was a stir in the throng and a name was shouted. A youth in a turban was pushed forward. He bowed, politely.

"The gentleman is English?"

"American. What's this all about?"

The boy in the turban explained.

"Our friend is on a hunger strike," he said. "Not a morsel nor a grain will pass his lips — only cold tea, until the Kashmir is returned to Pakistan. Our friend says the Americans have shown little interest in the rape of Kashmir. Our friend asks when the Americans will prove their friendship to the Pakistanis by helping drive the Indians away."

That was nearly 10 years ago. The martyr on the pallet has either thought better of his vow, or he is a very dead martyr.

The American people hoped that even if we didn't try to drive the Indians out of Kashmir we might make firm friends of the Pakistanis. We handed Pakistan $3 billion in economic aid. We handed her $1.5 billion in arms and armaments. Pakistan was to be a bulwark against Communism. It was to be the keystone of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

So now Pakistan is strongly allied to Peking. Pakistan rings with anti-American slogans. Our gift tanks and planes spearheaded the attack on India. And the Indians, who pointedly refused American military aid until the Red Chinese three years ago struck their northern borders, are furious that they have been hurt by American weaponry. The fact that Americans have poured more than $5 billions in economic aid into India, that the nation would be a charnel house of starved bodies without American generosity, has been quickly forgotten.

How do we get into these messes? How do we manage to be so hated?

We have repeatedly made the same blunders, based largely on the idiotic belief that other nations would react essentially as we think America would if it were in their situation. For instance:

ILLUSION 1, that non-Communist nations would rally to our aid in the struggle against Moscow and Peking.

As soon as the rest of the world got the idea that the U.S. and U.S.S.R. had reached an atomic stalemate they began to feel free to pursue their own nationalistic goals, using conventional weapons, if necessary.

ILLUSION 2, that a piece of the world printed in one color on a map is a country.

The Republic of Congo consists of 200 tribes. Many of the new African states are grab-bags of many tongues and many gods. India became a nation only at the point of a British bayonet. If Kashmir goes, Premier Shastri fears that the Sikhs will will want an independent Punjab, the Dravidians an independent South Indian state.

ILLUSION 3, that if we repay abuse with kindness that abuse will die away.

All this does is give foreign politicians a cheap whipping boy without the danger of inconvenient results. So we keep sending planes to foreign capitals bearing both gift-gold and new windows for our embassies.

With the dollar strained and, perhaps, headed for deep trouble, it is time to take a new look at giveaways. The tragic struggle between Moslem and Hindu is not the world's worst mess.

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS — U.S.A.

For 22 years, the Little Brown Jug pacing classic has been building up to a truly great sporting event. This year, it surpassed anything I have seen at Delaware Fair Grounds.

More than 40,000 dedicated fans jammed into every available square foot of sitting and standing room. Thousands were there by 8 a.m. with their folding chairs set up all around the half-mile track. At 10:30 it looked pretty blue to all of us. The track was sloppy and many believed that they would have to postpone the race until Friday.

"Curly" Smart, vice-president of the Little Brown Jug Association and caretaker-manager of the track, did an unbelievable job with drags and rollers and tons of sand. By 3 p.m. one could see here and there light colored spots as the sun added its help to Smart's efforts.

Then came the big moment for the first heat. Right here I wish to pay a special "bouquet" to Chuck Stokes of Scioto Downs raceway. He has an excellent PA speaking voice, and his preliminary build-up was the best I have ever heard. Then they were off and as smooth as silk in the get away from the wire.

It needs to be said that the starting gate, originally thougt of by the late Steve Phillips, is the one thing that saved harness racing from oblivion.

Before the back stretch was reached the first time around, it was evident to everyone that Irwin had complete control of the race every step of the mile. The times at the quarters and the half were sensational and his drive down the stretch to register victory in 1.57 flat was even better than the superb performance of Overtrick two years ago.

One surprising performance was the first drive made by little George Sholty to get Rivaltime "all-out" up the back stretch the first half-mile. For an eighth, he was pacing faster than any other horse in the race. Then he had had it, and did well to finish third in the first heat. The second heat showed that Rivaltime had shown his best in the first burst up the back stretch.

Governor Rhodes did a fine job in the winner's circle and Bret Hanover is really a "ham." He new exactly what was going on there every minute and the way he scraped and bowed to that marvelous grandstand crowd was something to warm the heart of everyone there. He is not only a great horse, he is a tremendous equine personality.

Compliments should also be paid to the way the entire event is managed from start to finish. Parking management couldn't have been better. Many young men from Ohio Wealeyan were ushers and ticket-takers. Both the Delaware Police Department and Delaware County Sheriff's boys were on the job every minute. It all goes to prove once more that in any sporting event, there is no substitute for "class," and the Little Brown Jug has it in spades.

ONE WOMAN'S OPINION

Demise of Truant Officer Is Boon To Modern Hooky-Players

Columbus Public Schools have no truant officers.

I know, because I recently offended a gentlemen by referring to him as such.

He made no bones about the grossness of my error.

Robinson

"We haven't had truant officers for over 20 years," he stated, apparently somewhat appalled at my ignorance.

However, Columbus Public Schools have had truancy, and plenty of it, in the past couple of decades. Even the most gullible cannot account for an absenteeism rate of up to 20 percent entirely by illness and family funerals.

When these truants take off from school—some to loaf, some to fish perhaps, and others for a little freelance mugging or shop lifting, there is no "truant officer" in hot pursuit.

Instead there is a "visiting teacher," who sooner or later may catch up with him.

And when he does, about the worst that his captive can fear is that he may end up, not in jail (Heaven forbid!), but in a "detention center."

After he is "rehabilitated" or "diagnosed" or "treated" (certainly not "punished" or "corrected" or "reformed"), he will be allowed to return to school.

And then the cycle is too often repeated.

Why do I consider truancy and its punishment important?

Because the truant youth usually has a dismal school record, and dismal school records tie in with delinquency.

Of the 2,000,000 youngsters coming to police attention annually, many have first shown their defiance of authority by school truancy.

A rose smells as sweet by any other name, but what about the euphemistic terms now used to deal with our major and minor juvenile hoodlums today?

Do these "soft-pedal" words carry the strong arm of authority that some older and plainer talk does?

If one of my children were truant, I believe he or she might get the message straighter and faster if the TRUANT OFFICER got on the trail, armed with the threat of a good sound WHIPPING and/or being KICKED OUT of school or into a JAIL CELL.

I know for sure that this visiting teacher, suspension and detention center bit doesn't sound like the real business to me.

And I probably scare easier than a lot of the teenagers clogging the juvenile court dockets today.—JANE ROBINSON

Ohio Chamber Backs Issue Two

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has reaffirmed its long-standing support of metropolitan federation with adoption of a resolution specifically supporting State Issue No. 2.

State Issue No. 2, on the Nov. 2 ballot, would permit political subdivisions around cities of 50,000 or more population to form urban service authorities for the joint handling of police and fire protection, water and sewer services, refuse disposal, transportation needs and similar matters.

Voters in each proposed urban service authority would have to vote on the specifics of any federation proposal in which they are involved.

The Ohio Chamber directors have approved similar resolutions on four previous occasions.

Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

Recognizing the increasing interest in numismatics—coin collecting — The Spectator is offering this series of articles to acquaint the collector of coins, paper money and stamps with all phases of the hobby. We will discuss the fascinating associations between numismatics and history, politics, economics, art and many other subjects.

Subjects of interest to both collector and investor, advanced and novice, will be covered. The purpose of these articles is not to be the final word, but to serve as an introduction. Your local library, coin club or coin dealer will be happy to help whenever possible.

The author will be glad to answer specific questions if they are directed to him in care of this publication.

Perhaps the best way to cover some of the most important facets of the hobby would be to present a series of questions and answers:

What is meant by the term, numismatist?

The term is a derivative of the Latin "numisma," meaning coins. A numismatist is generally a serious student of coins, tokens, paper money and other objects of exchange media. As is true of serious collectors of other objects of fine art, the numismatist does not merely collect — he makes a study of what he collects.

What is a facsimile?

A facsimile is a copy of an original coin, token, etc. It is against the law to manufacture a copy of legal tender coin or currency. However, it is generally considered that facsimiles of some of the earlier colonial coins are justified since in many cases the originals are virtually unobtainable. These copies are usually marked in some way, however, to denote the fact that they are not genuine. Many copies of the mid-1800's have achieved some acceptance, while current copies are spurned by most advanced collectors.

What is the significance of the initials V.D.B. on the reverse of some Lincoln cents?

The initials are those of Victor D. Brenner, who designed the Lincoln cents, released in 1909 to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. After the release of the coin, public objection to placing initials in such a conspicuous place was so great that they were removed. In 1918 they were restored, this time at the base of Lincoln's shoulder. They remain there to this day.

WHEN POLIO hit at North American in 1954 W. H. Hoalcraft, 541 Cline-st, was one of the three employes to be stricken. Today, all three are back at work. Every day finds Bill preparing intricate wiring for the assemblers, and grateful "for what he has left." In spite of his constant battle with inconveniences such as the steps which are as effective as a "No Admittance" sign on many places he would like to go, Bill feels life is giving him a pretty square deal. He is one of the physically handicapped to whom employment doors have swung open.

Bill Hoalcraft Deeply Grateful For Chance To Use 'What's Left'

By JANE ROBINSON

The routine of Bill Hoalcraft sounds quite ordinary.

He works as an electrical preparation man at North American, his employer for 15 years.

There's only one car in the family and his wife, Retha, drives him to work before heading for South High School where she is employed. In the late afternoon she picks him up, and most evenings are spent quietly at home.

They watch television, supervise the homework of their 14-year-old daughter, Debbie and he occasionally fiddles around with electronic repair or leathercraft while Retha catches up with the ironing.

But Bill Hoalcraft is not an ordinary man.

He might have been, but 11 years ago polio struck.

When the crisis passed, he found himself in an iron lung, completely paralyzed.

The next 19 months at University Hospital were ones of alternate hope and despair and eventually Bill accepted the truth that he would never walk again.

The rest of his life would be lived as one severely physically handicapped.

Never again would he cut the grass, or ask his wife to dance, or romp with Debbie.

His hobby of bowling was permanently shelved and fishing became a rare treat.

But he didn't have time, once he left the hospital, to feel sorry for himself.

He had a family to support and he was going back to work.

It isn't just the same as it was before.

Now a motorized wheelchair waits at the doorway. He carries his lunch, as the plant cafeteria is too many wheel-miles away from his department.

If he wants a drink of water, he takes a glass to the fountain, as he can't possibly reach the waterspout. And if his job involves lifting, he must rely on a co-worker's cooperation.

But those are minor matters.

What is important is that every day he performs a skilled job, does it well and is well-paid for his efforts.

What would have happened to Bill Hoalcraft if North American had looked at his useless legs and shoulders and said, "We're sorry, but—"?

Hoalcraft thinks he knows what would have happened if he had been forced into idleness.

"I would have gone 'batty'," he said.

"And he would have taken Debbie and me with him," his wife added.

But he was among the lucky.

His employer gave him a chance to show that he could use "what was left."

Monday opens National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

Jack Rafferty of the U.S. Unemployment Service is one of those dedicated to convincing local employers that the handicapped man or woman has a great deal to sell.

He mentioned the slogan of NEPH Week, "Ability Counts."

To back up his contention that it is not philanthropy but sound economics to hire the handicapped, he quoted statistics that show their employment records are far superior to those of the able-bodied.

Absenteeism is so low it drops off the graphs (Hoalcraft has not failed to report one day this year) and their tendency to be cautious has built for them a tremendous safety record.

Rafferty added that one quality of the handicapped is almost impossible to measure.

That is "Loyalty."

Bill agrees that he feels a deep obligation to always "do my best" because the company "gave me a chance."

Midstate Bolt & Nut Co. To Expand Local Plant

Midstate Bolt & Nut Co., 1575 Alum Creek-dr, will double its capacity with a $200,000 building addition, it was announced recently.

The firm, which is the largest distributor of industrial fasteners in Ohio, chose to expand its Columbus plant rather than locate in another state, Governor Rhodes stated.

James B. Cheney, Midstate sales director, said the firm considered sites in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia area.

Nationwide Revises Auto Rate Plan

Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company has announced the most extensive revision of its auto rating structure in its 39-year history.

The new system contains two major ingredients:

A refined classification plan which takes into account a motorist's age, sex, marital status, driver training and car use for determining his base rate for auto insurance.

A flexible rating plan whereby a driver's accident record determines part of the cost of his insurance protection.

The new program which will affect motorists in Ohio and Michigan, starts Oct. 1.

It will go into effect in four additional states in December and in other states in 1966.

Civil Defense Offers Course

The course is comprised of techniques intended to save lives, such as mouth-to-mouth resusitation, stoppage of severe bleeding and treatment of poison victims.

A. A. Hughes, Jr., will be the instructor.

Smells — Who's To Blame?

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

The rendering factory is only one attacker of the olfactory senses, John C. Elam, attorney for Inland Products, Inc., operator of the Frank-st plant, told County commissioners Monday.

He reminded officials about the garbage-filled fill just across the freeway, 30 acres of sludge south of the Inland plant, a manure pile at the workhouse, and raw sewage pits at Whittier and Front-sts and other places.

Counter attacking a Columbus official told commisioners that the Inland plant smelled worse than the city sewage.

Pupils with homework aren't the only ones in the school system with problems this fall. The Columbus School Board has been given an ultimatum — get started on a desegregation plan or face demonstrations.

The urging was done by Rev. Arthur Ebbs of CORE and Rev. Phale D. Hale, of NAACP.

On another front, the Columbus schools have declined to give students a questionnaire supplied by the federal government. Superintendent Eibling said the questionnaire violates school policy by asking personal questions including some about the economic status of the students' parents.

Some highway department should hire Curly Smart. Heading up the maintenance crews at theDelaware Fairgrounds, he worked a near miracle getting the running surface in shape for last week's record performance by the magnificent bay colt, Bret Hanover.

Smart turned a sea of mud into a "fast" track in a matter of hours. He used road scrapers to peel off several inches of mud and replaced it with 110 tons of sand.

The result: Bret Hanover ticked off a 1:57 mile which broke the world's record, and followed with a second heat victory in 1:57 and 2/5.

Variety . . .

By I. F. HOWELL

In a recent column we described some early educators, including William Holmes McGuffey. With no opology, but with a promise it will be the last, we must mention one more thing about McGuffey and his work, long known to many, but new to us. But first the background and the occasion of the discovery.

Trying to think of a good direction for a short, leisurely afternoon drive, we remembered Johnstown and the village square. So we took off on 62 northeast.

In Johnstown the ancient village hall stands as we remembered it. Marked parking spaces and a garage are new. Near a side door of the hall the word "Library" marks a door beyond which is the one-room branch of the Newark library system.

Mrs. R. J. McInturf, 83 Kasson-st, is the librarian. She is a gracious lady with a face transfigured by a kind of grace.

Mrs. McInturf owns one of the two remaining sets of the McGuffey Reading Charts and has it in the library. It was used as a study guide before there were grades in rural schools. It is a wooden case about 3 by 4 feet, opening and closing with handwrought iron hinges and fasteners.

On one side are the Complete School Charts, 1882 edition, prepared by Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Company. On the other side the McGuffey Reading Charts cover 32 large pages assigning seven study subjects, including U.S. History.

It says here . . .

The pioneers in education are out of date now. What would we have done without them?

Fire Prevention Week To Begin Sunday, Oct. 3

Seventy thousand home fire safety check lists will be distributed to Columbus school children the week of Oct. 3.

All children in grades one through six will be asked to take these check lists home.

The parents are asked to assist the children in checking the items on the list and correcting any hazards found.

Seventy percent of all fires occur in the home, fire prevention officials stated. This check list will be a great aid in reducing the number of fires in the community this year, officials feel.

All residents in the area are reminded to participate in the observance of fire prevention week by checking their homes and places of business for hazards and eliminating them.

Programs of fire prevention safety are available to all groups, such as PTA, church, scouts and school.

Program chairmen should contact Lieut. Bill Hennosy, fire prevention public information office, as far in advance as possible for arraignment of these programs. Call 221-3132 Ext. 441.

CORRECTION

Last week the Spectator stated that I.L. (Ike) Breene, 40, 6065 Ambleside-dr, Devonshire, was named a new car salesman for Rodenfels' Chevrolet, 55 W. Broad-st. The Spectator erred. It should have read I. L. (Ike) Greene, not Breene.

COFFEE BREAK

So What Do I Do With Leftover 'Leftovers'?

By Adeline Daley

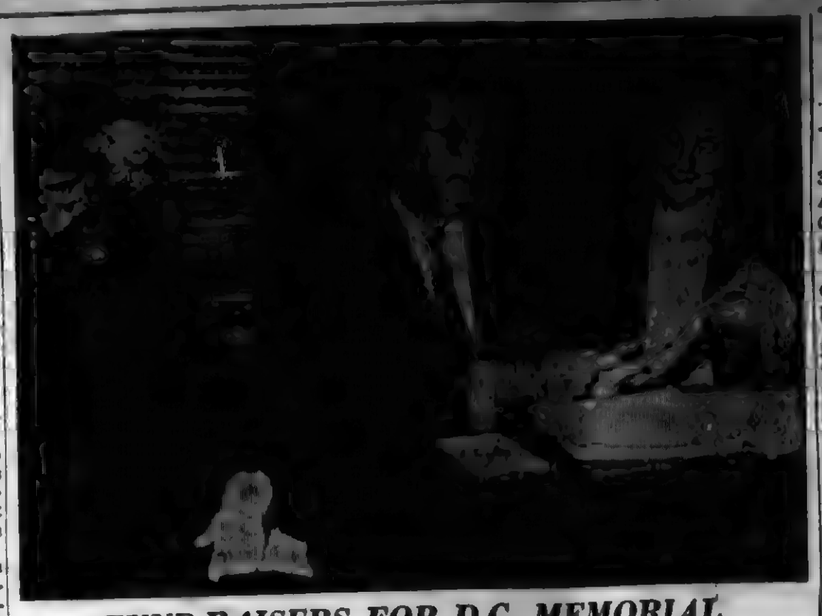
Among the many admirable qualities of the "smart homemaker," who is always spoken of in revered terms in the food sections of newspapers and magazines, is that she saves oodles of money by serving leftovers that are both attractive and palatable to her family.

And why shouldn't these leftovers be, when you add $8 worth of mushrooms, almonds, wild rice and imported wine?

Nevertheless, I have dutifully cut out dozens of recipes handed down by these "smart homemakers" (and how I'd like to clout one of them), but I have come to the sad conclusion that we just don't have the right kind of "leftovers" in this household. For instance, what can you do with three limp waffles, left over from breakfast?

And what about that pot of cooked oatmeal that nobody wanted, preferring sugar - coated Ruffy - Tuffies instead.

Our refrigerator is fairly bursting with left-overs — a half cup of peas, an equal amount of pureed tomatoes, some cold mashed potatoes and a boat of gravy from last Sunday's roast, to name but a few. All of the latter ingredients would make a dandy Lamb Casserole A La Petite Pois (another name for hash), but, unfortunately, the recipe also calls for six cups of diced leftover lamb.



Not only do we no longer have six cups of anything, but even the bone is gone. I flipped the dog for it after it had been stripped cleaner than Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard. — Which comes pretty close to describing the pantry shelves in this house, incidentally.

I didn't have much more luck, moreover, when I tried to pluck enough cold chicken to make a deep pot pie, even though I used more surgical instruments than Ben Casey. There wasn't enough left for a shallow pot pie, one inch high, because when it comes to eating meat, our kids make Henry VIII look like a vegetarian.

I have seen standing rib roasts fall to their knees and collapse within 15 minutes. Shoulder roasts just shrug and give up. And a rump roast? Oh, well.

About the only meat I can depend on for leftovers (maybe "heldovers" is more appropriate) is a preparation which comes in a can and became well known during World War II. It is not one of our family's favorites. I have tried to serve it in more disguises than Lon Chaney Sr. ever tried, but for naught.

Now if somebody could come up with an attractive and palatable recipe for "left-overs" of leftovers we'd really have something, right?

FUND-RAISERS FOR D.C. MEMORIAL

HARRY RICHTER, executive vice-president of the Ohio National Bank and a Hilltop resident, looks at a picture of the planned Mary McCleod Bethune Monument — the first to be dedicated in memory of an American Negro in the nation's capital. With Richter are Mrs. H. Richard Hahn, president of the United Church Women and Mrs. Mayme Moore, chairman of the Columbus fund drive. Women's groups from throughout the community at the request of Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner are helping with the Columbus campaign. A tea will be held Sunday, Nov. 7, at St. Philip's Episcopal Church. 366 Woodland-av, to raise the local share. The project nationally is being conducted by the National Council of Negro Women.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Markets Are Full Of Good Eating

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — Grapes, apples, bananas.

Vegetables — Cabbage, potatoes, cauliflower, green beans, egg plant, leafy greens, fall squashes.

Meat, Poultry — Beef "specials", ground beef, broiler-fryers, pork roasts, wieners, small turkeys, eggs.

Food markets are taking on October's glorious coloring faster than the Ohio countryside this year. While lawns and fields stay lush and green, produce departments are filling with red apples, jugs of golden cider, green and golden squash and bright orange pumpkin.

Mrs. Franks

Foods slated to be most plentiful during the month are apples, broiler-fryers, cheese, rice, turkeys, onions, shelled pecans, dried prunes and frozen orange juice — just in time for fall's heartier menus.

October is apple pickin' time in Ohio — the period of heaviest harvesting and marketing. Lowest prices and peak quality come during National Apple Week, Oct. 14 to 23. Apples will probably be under more pressure from citrus this season, if crops in Florida and Central California are as good as now indicated. The more apples that can be sold before oranges start in volume, the better. For you, this means apples at attractive prices.

Grapes — Western varieties and Eastern Concords — will be plentiful during the month, and fresh cranberries make their debut. The first estimate of the cranberry crop has been made and shows only a slighted to be larger than last year, and better than average. Bananas will continue to be good values.

All members of the cabbage clan come into their own at this season: red and green cabbage, broccoli, snowy white cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, collards, kale and kohlrabi. Plentiful supplies of onions will be on hand from an all-time record crop. Yams and turnips are naturals for October menus and white potatoe prices will continue their downward trend from the unusually high prices earlier in the season.

Marketings of both turkeys and broiler-fryers are expected to bel arger than last year, assuring abundant supplies for late-season cookouts and for poultry-oriented dinners all through the month.

Beef prices during October are expected to stay close to those in September, but more fed beef will be available. Government reports place the number of hogs on farms on Sept. 1 at 12 percent below last year. However, you'll see more fresh pork in meat cases and somewhat lower prices than during past months. Prices on choice lambs are expected to ease only slightly from September levels during the remainder of the fall and move up again the first half of 1966.

Bike License Enforcement Stirs Council

Whitehall City Council's regular Tuesday meeting featured a light agenda and lack of any serious disagreements, but some raised eyebrows over the magnitude of the city's bicycle ordinance crackdown.

Safety Director Darrell Todd told council that "several hundred" warnings had been issued over last weekend to children riding unlicensed bicycles. He said parents of those warned will receive letters acquainting them with the license requirements.

Councilman James Toomey suggested eliminating the use of unmarked cars in the enforcement drive. He pointed out that many children are warned by parents and police alike to shun strangers, particularly those in automobiles.

Council tabled an ordinance calling for the extension of E. Mound-st from Shady-ln, westerly. A decision will await a traffic survey to be made after Hamilton-rd is restored to full traffic use.

Also tabled was the "noisy animals or fowl" ordinance. It goes back to the safety committee for further study.

Council also banned parking on both sides of Hamilton-rd between E. Main-st and E. Broad-st, and approved installation of three-phase traffic signals at the Hamilton-rd intersections with Fairway-blvd and Broadhurst-dr, and at the Maplewood-av and Etna-rd intersection.

Tabled by council was a measure to remove the traffic signal at St. Ann-ln and Hamilton-rd. The measure will be acted upon after Solicitor Paul Haytcher confers with the Columbus Transit Co.

Whitehall Parent Asks Help In 'Pledge' Fight

Mrs. John Law, 878 Dimson-dr E., appeared at the Columbus School Board to ask help and support in her planned effort to have a Supreme Court ruling reversed. The 1942 decision stated that repeating the pledge of allegiance in schools was not a requirement. Mrs. Law protests, saying "Men have been fighting and dying for the flag since the Civil War. And furthermore, I am deeply hurt that you do not open your meeting with the pledge of allegiance." Mrs. Law's child attends Kae Avenue kindergarten in Whitehall. Board member Donald Calhoun explained that the board could not institute any such legal action, or spend public money in this matter. And School Board President Paul Langdon promised to send her a list of patriotic organizations that might support her effort.

East Columbus Lions Plan Spaghetti Feast

East Columbus Lions Club will sponsor its annual spaghetti dinner Oct. 24, at the Desert Inn, 3540 E. Broad-st. The meat sauce, meat balls and sausages are prepared by Lion Tommy Iacono of "Tommy's Pizza," with the help of the East Columbus Lions Auxiliary.

Proceeeds are used to provide help and services for the blind and near blind.

Tickets for the "All You Can Eat Dinner" are 75 cents for children and $1.50 for adults. They may be purchased at the door, from any East Columbus Lion member or by calling the ticket chairman, 866-1253.

Whitehall Recreation Center Is Opposed By City Resident

George W. Snyder, 4312 Etna-rd, on record as objecting to the proposed recreation center in Whitehall, has cited general good of the city, not political motives, as reason for his opposition.

A levy to finance construction of the $770,000 recreation facility, to appear on the fall ballot, is premature, according to Snyder.

"Capital improvements are badly needed in Whitehall," Snyder said, naming Collingswood sanitary and storm sewers, Collingswood, Robinwood, Westphal and Beechwood street improvements as most important.

"And think, I think, a surplus should be built up in the general fund to take care of unforseen problems.

"Only then," he continued, "should a recreation center be considered."

Snyder also challenged the proposed site for the recreation center—north of the high school on Yearling-rd — as being unwise.

"The recreation department estimates the location will cost $90,000—I have heard it is priced even higher—and land the city already owns in Whitehall Park would be an even better place. Baseball, football and picnic facilities are already available.

Snyder also questioned the size of the Yearling-rd site as being inadequate for parking.

The recreation board's esti-

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Apartments Still Key Issue

By FRANK RYAN

The general rule in political races is that there can be no "issue" to promote when the opposing candidates agree on a given subject. But not so with the matter of apartment construction views in the Whitehall mayor's race.

Former Mayor Walter B. Moling has good reason to remember the "apartment issue" of the 1963 campaign. It was rated as the main single factor which caused his defeat at the hands of first-time candidate William H. Holzhause, who ran as an independent.

Holzhause renounced his independent label early this year to run in last May's Primary Election as a Republican, but lost to Moling in a three-way race. Now the former four-term mayor must face the challenge of Democrat Paul J. Haytcher, who is serving his second term as city solicitor.

But at least a part of the campaign must seem repetitious to Moling and familiar to voters who follow the campaign.

MOLING

HAYTCHER

Haytcher has pledged strict limitation of apartment zoning, and says his Republican opponent must share the blame with GOP councilmen for a "continued" over-supply of multi-dwelling apartment complexes.

An exchange of news releases included the following comments from the mayor candidates:

Moling made his strongest stand against apartment rezoning by declaring: "As for apartments, this question was decided by the voters in the last general election. I feel that we have enough apartments. I also know that our planning and zoning, and building regulations must be revamped.

"The platform used in the last general election, 'no more apartments,' did not hold water. There have been several twin singles built which come under the apartment ordinance, also a large building which is being used as an apartment. I have no intention of doing away with the freeze on apartments."

Haytcher answered by accusing Moling of having a "conveniently short memory," and of trying to shift the blame for too many apartments onto the present administration.

"Doesn't he remember," Haytcher asked, "that he was mayor when all of this (apartment rezoning) took place?

"The mayor of Whitehall gets two opportunities to make a decision on zoning; first as chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, and secondly, by the use of his veto power on zoning ordinances.

"Unfortunately, he (Moling) failed to exercise the leadership given to him by the law in curtailing the influx of

GROUPS WARN:

'Move Now On DeFacto In Schools'

By BETTY DAFT

An implication that civil rightists may ask for Federal intervention "to bring the full impact of the 1964 Civil Rights Act to bear on school segregation in the city," was contained in a statement to the school board this week by Rev. Phale D. Hale, president NAACP.

Rev. Hale and Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of CORE, repeated demands made at the last board meeting that the administration immediately initiate a plan to racially balance the city schools.

After the meeting Rev. Hale also indicated that demonstrations were a possibility if the school board and administration did not take early action on the problem.

But proposing the transport of children by bus from one school district to another to affect racial balance was vehemently denied.

Both Rev. Hale and Rev. Zebbs indicated that they would wait until the next school board meeting when a school policy statement will be released before taking any action.

The restraint that marked demands and replies on the de facto issue in previous sessions was absent at Tuesday's meeting. Heated charges of inaction and unconcern on the part of the school board were answered with righteous indignation by members as unjust, unfair.

Rev. Phale's criticism of Dr. Eibling for refusing to allow the city schools' participation in a survey conducted by the United States Office of Education drew a quick retuke from Negro board member, Dr. Watson Walker.

"It was the Board of Education," he said, "not Dr. Eibling who refused."

The survey, "designed to measure inequality of educational opportunity by measuring performance of students," according to Rev. Phale, required questions on the socio - economic background of school children.

The board's decision against permitting the study was based "on the school psychiatrist's opinion that these questions were not appropriate to be asked of these children."

Board member Donald Calhoun also answered Rev. Phale.

"The sweeping statements you have made (against Dr. Ebling) are most irresponsible. You have not inquired of any board member why we

Whitehall Hydrants Cleaned

Whitehall Firefighters, ready for their annual stint of flushing the city hydrants before winter, issued their annual advice to housewives:

"Better NOT wash clothes on the day the hydrant in your neighborhood is cleaned!"

The regular schedule for hydrants will appear in The Spectator each week until the project is completed. The streets covered the first week will be:

Flynn Harvey, 418 Josephine-av, is Ohio Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan. He is working this week to establish a Klan chapter on the campus of Ohio State University. He says that students have approached him and urged that a Klan chapter be started there.

Donna Trugman s leading a protest movement in efforts to stop the Ku Klux Klan from organizing a chapter on the campus of Ohio State University. She has led pickets to all Klan rallies in Ohio during the last year. She is founder of the Committee for Militant Leadership to oppose the Klan.

Klan Wants OSU Chapter

Coed Leads Opposition

Flynn Harvey, Ohio Grand Dragon of the United Ku Klux Klan, announced this week that he would like to organize a Klan klavern (chapter) on the campus of Ohio State University.

But university officials and a coed student leader said "No!"

Harvey, 43, of 418 Josephine-av, said 12 OSU students had approached him at a recent Klan rally and had expressed a desire to organize the campus chapter.

However, Harvey said he could not reveal the students' names because of the Klan's code of secrecy. He said he planned to meet with the students again this week.

John T. Bonner, OSU executive dean of student relations, immediately issued a statement saying the Klan would not be given university recognition because the university forbids any of its organizations to discriminate on the bases of race, color or national origin.

Donna Trugman, a recently-resigned member of the Ohio State Student Senate said she was organizing students and faculty to protest growth of the Klan.

Miss Trugman led pickets at all Klan rallies in Ohio during the last year.

"Everyone else is on the campus," Harvey said. "Why not the Klan?"

"Ohio State is a good place," he continued. "I really would like to take the Klan up there. But I wouldn't try it if the students didn't ask for it."

Harvey said he would be satisfied if he could operate a klavern off-campus in the university area, but added that if the students wanted to seek university recognition, he would back them.

If the organization does not get recognition, it will not be allowed to use any university property for its activities.

Miss Trugman recently founded the Committee for Militant Leadership to oppose the Klan. The group presently has about 30 members.

According to Klan rules, Harvey needs 25 members to start a new klavern.

Miss Trugman said the goal of her committee is "to prevent, offset or combat Fascist and police-state encroachments on the freedoms of the American people."

She resigned from her position as Student Senate human relations commissioner last week. She said she resigned "because the university apparently didn't think my duties should go beyond the university area.

"I'll oppose the Klan and other groups like it no matter where they operate," Miss Trugman continued. "If the activities of the Ku Klux Klan don't come under the heading 'human relations,' I wonder what does."

She accused the Klan of being "immoral and un-American."

Harvey said: "If it's a crime to be a white, native-born American citizen, then I'm guilty. But I don't think I am guilty of anything. I would even paint my house purple if I thought it would help the Klan."

Klan Sets Rally Site; Harvey Protests Tax

By BETTY DAFT

Plans for a home county rally and the recruitment of new United Ku Klux Klan members continued this week by Ohio Grand Dragon Flynn Harvey, 418 Josephine-av, despite a report that he may be called to Washington in the investigation of Klan activities.

A five-acre farm tract just south of western Columbus has been leased for a full year, Harvey disclosed, and would be the site of a rally and cross-burning Saturday, Oct. 23, providing he is not in Washington at that time.

Meanwhile, Harvey has taken up a new cause—he protests Columbus' income tax as "illegal" and "unconstitutional," and announced that he had not paid his city taxes this year.

Harvey labeled the tax, "the work of legalized gangsters . . . we now just have gangsters and call them politicians."

"I got a summons a couple months ago," he said, "but didn't answer it." He continued that he would be glad to have the matter go to court as a test case.

Tuesday he accepted an invitation from Dayton Radio Station WHIO to "defend the Klan" in a telephone hook-up with Robert E. Sweeney, Ohio Congressman-at-large. Harvey also answered questions called into the station by listeners.

Klan—

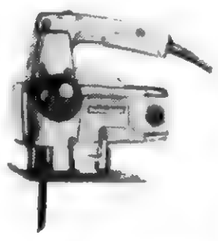
Ohio Rep. John M. Ashbrook has announced that he would ask the House Un-American Activities Committee to subpoena Harvey for hearings expected in mid-October.

However, Harvey said, "I have not been subpoenaed yet. All I know is what I have read in the newspapers and been told by newsmen. I would be glad," he continued, "to have a vacation in Washington at government expense. I would be glad to speak my piece about the Klan."

"If the government could spend $366,000 on the Selma march, I guess they can pay my way to Washington. And they say the Klan investigation is only costing $50,000—I don't know how far they can go on that."

Harvey also charged "discrimination" against Klan members. Self-employed as a contractor, Harvey said some of his regular employers no longer called him when his position with the Klan was made public.

This is the part of his income on which he must pay city tax. He also explained that he receives a pension as a wounded veteran of World War II.



He also added that he would be "on salary from the Klan when we get a few more members."

It is not ease but effort, not facility, but difficulty, that makes men. There is, perhaps, no station in life in which difficulties have not to be encountered and overcome before any decided measure of success can be achieved.—Samuel Smiles.

poorly planned apartment housing. He did a lot of zoning but no planning and the city is now suffering."

Moling's attempt to saddle the Holzhause administration with the approval of two requests for twin-single houses brought a reminder from Mayor Holzhause that he did not sign either ordinance. Each measure was approved by a 7-0 vote of council.

Both Democrats and Republicans on council agreed that the limited number of twin-single homes in one project approved was necessary to secure a development of single-family houses.

There has been intermittent talk about separating twin-single construction from the zoning classification applied to apartment complexes.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI

Councilman-at-Large Ray Shipley has seen them come and go in his five terms on council. And he's beaten some stiff and bitter competition aimed directly at his candidacy. But now he faces the prospect of being knocked off council by a man who isn't even an opponent and, in fact, has Shipley's best interest at heart.

Shipley got orders a few weeks back from the family medic to give "normal living" a try for an indefinite period.

The prescription was the sleep eight hours and have standard work eight hours, sleep eight hours and have eight hours for fun. And the good doctor does not include "politicking" in the fun category.

Shipley's teammates in the at-large race have promised to carry his name to the electorate.

Word has it, though, that Shipley's making a few "social calls" on neighbors and friends during his "recreation" periods. Some even say that he's doing a little "bootleg" campaigning for a couple of fellows named Harmony and Hiatt.

The mayor candidates have been invited to appear on the same platform for two "candidates" programs.

Eastern Kiwanis wants both Moling and Haytcher for the Tuesday, Oct. 19, breakfast meeting of the club. Moling said he is "considering it very seriously." Haytcher has accepted.

Both have also been invited to appear before a meeting of the Whitehall Democratic Club, meeting date to be announced.

In the letter of invitation to Moling — released to the press before it was received by the candidate — Democratic Club President Hugh Parker told Moling that the response to an appearance by Moling and Holzhause two years ago was "excellent." He promised a neutral chairman for this year's forum, which will be open to the public.

Republican solicitor candidate James Maxwell has entered the campaign in a "big" way, at least if you consider sizes of signs. Maxwell has taken space on several billboards and claims to be the first Whitehall candidate to hit the big boards.

Incidentally, Maxwell's Democratic opponent is Jim Toomey, not "John" as printed in a previous report here.

Larry Shipley, the 22-year-old political neophyte who lost in the primary to Republican veteran Treasurer Francis Shaeffer, passed his "how to lose graciously" test. He offered his services to the victor in the general election campaign and is doing duty as a sign planter.

This prompted the opinion from one source that "Father Ray" has instructed his son well in the art of politics, and that the younger is proving to be "a Ship off the old block."

Dispute Idles Lightswitching In East Area

Nobody is switching on the lights adjacent to the East Freeway in a large section of the East Side.

Residents, noting an increasing crime and vandalism rate, are complaining.

But no one knows to whom the responsibility belongs. The State Highway Department says it is up to the city. The City Engineering Department says it is up to the state.

Meanwhile, the fact remains that the lights along the streets that were torn down months ago when construction on the freeway project began is still black as pitch.

However, lights have been placed along Cole-av, Mooberry-st and other adjacent thoroughfares.

But nobody throws the switch.

Howard Stem of the City Division of Electricity said his department is ready to turn the lights on any time he gets the order. And the order must tell him who to bill for the power.

Paxson, Harbold Shine In OC Gridiron Play

Former Whitehall quarterback Ron Paxson, now calling signals for Capital University, ranks fourth among Ohio Conference players in total offense after two weeks of play.

Paxson's total, plus fullback Gordon McMaker's 180 rushing yards, helps place the Crusaders second in the loop in total offense (296.5 yards). Denison leads with 310.5 yards.

Ex-Bexley High student Rick Harbold paces the OC in punting with a 41.6 average (665 yards in 16 boots).

Snyder—

mated annual budget of $53,350, or an increase of $25,850, is too low, Snyder believes, to operatte and maintain the building in addition to other programs.

"It costs $12,000 for heat, light and telephone in the Municipal Building," he said. "And there would be additional salaries for the recreation center's increased staff. And the center would be twice the size of city hall.

"In view of the additional $90,000 the city must pay for firemen and policemen's salary raises," Snyder continued, "where are they even going to get the extra $25,850?

"I think," he concluded, "that when capital improvements are completed, when there is an amount left in the general fund to take care of unforeseen problems, that would be the time to consider a recreation center. And then bar nothing in building the best."

Snyder, a real estate man, was an unsuccessful candidate in the May primary for Republican councilman from the Third Ward. He was defeated by John Bishop, chairman rec-reation board.

The first federal paper money was issued by the U.S. Treasury in $5, $10 and $20 notes in 1861.

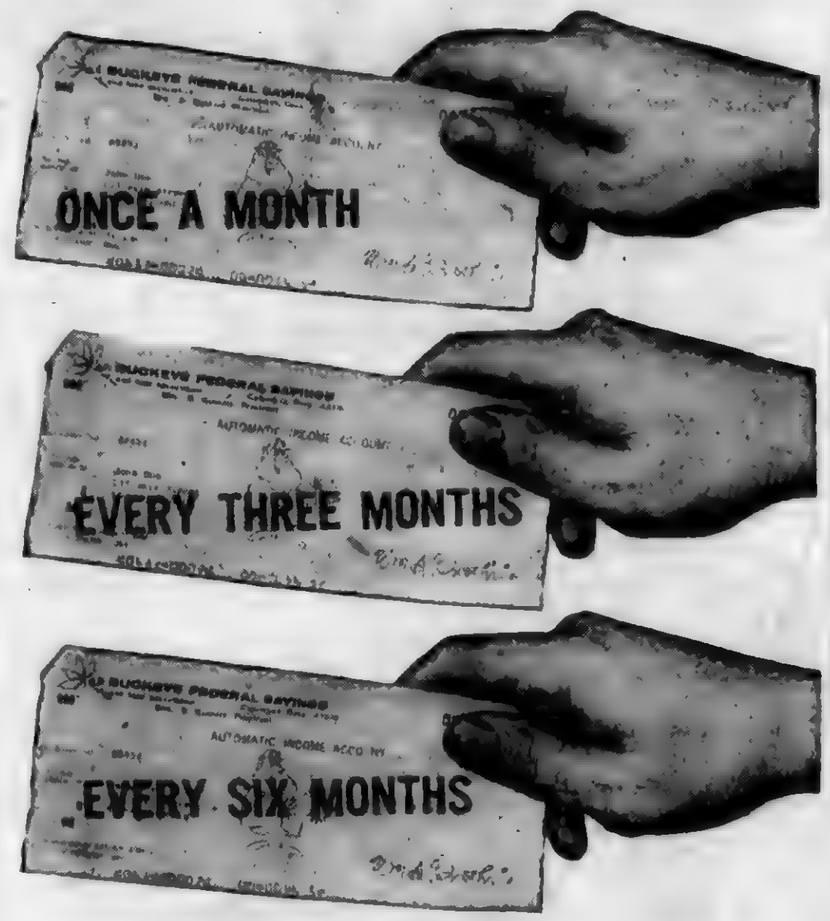
made our decision (against the survey)."

The need for communication, of mutual understanding, was repeatedly stressed during the meeting:

By Rev. Zebbs who sharply protested the repeated reports that he was in favor of bussing children. "I reject this constant allusion," he said. "None of us are in favor of that."

By Dr. Walker who quickly spoke in Zebbs' support "Whenever Zebbs' name is mentioned, bussing follows. We are in error in assuming he meant that. He never has."

And by Donald Colhoun, who said, "I think we also have a right to righteous indignation when we are told we are not concerned (about de facto school segregation). And we are indignant when we are constantly being told that some of our schools are inferior. This haranguing makes it even more difficult."



Dr. Walker quickly replied, "frustration makes people harrangue. Only the frustrated know this.

New Reading Center Opens In Junior High

Curriculum in the Reynoldsburg Junior High has been expanded this year to include a Reading Center. Plans developed during the summer, when the former economics laboratory was remodeled and equipped to provide for a reading improvement program believed both remedial and developmental.

A counselor's room has been located within the facilities. Mrs. Rozella Stigler, director of the program, is spending time in the area of guidance with pupils who come to the reading center and with other students needing assistance.

District Administrative Assistant Harold F. Benner said it is hoped that the program will improve the reading ability of children having difficulty, by using a variety of methods of instruction and by working with individuals or small groups. Emphasis is placed on basic reading skills, increasing comprehension and developing a desire to read. A widespread selection of curriculum materials is used to provide variety, stimulate interest and to meet the needs.

Benner pointed out that small reading groups receive special instruction during four periods of the day with effort made to schedule pupils during study periods. Guidance is also given in the areas of social adjustment and improvement of study skills. Later, an opportunity will be offered to interested mothers to work individually in the center as a "reading mom."

Interest and needs of pupils are the main criteria for determining enrollment in the program, Mrs. Stigler said. Pupils who attended summer reading classes are encouraged to continue with the improvement program during the regular school year. Students enrolled are administered a standardized test to help determine reading levels in the areas of vocabulary, comprehension and speed, and a test to identify letter sounds which is utilized for work in the teaching of phonics.

God Is The Judge—Not Us

Rev. Fr. Hoch

One of the greatest fallacies of our age is to draw general conclusions from particular events. The sensational news stories of crimes and escapades of some of our teenagers have stigmatized the whole category of youth.

It is an injustice stemming from ignorance, to classify all youths this wey if we were to recount our own experiences, we would discover that the majority of youth have very high ideals and aspirations, and that it was only the few that gave the bag image. Most problems of youth are found in their elders' confused thinking, contradictory actions and lack of responsibility.

However, we forget that the teenager is a complete individual, capable of responsibility and constructive social growth. By understanding his adolescent nature we are capable of aiding him. God has bestowed natural and supernatural gifts to each individual and each has acquired other powers through education and experience. As a child emerges from the total dependency of parents, he begins to exercise the great gift of individuality. His thinking is his own, the clothes are of his own choice, his training towards a career fits his own mental and physical ability.

Most youths seek guidance and will accept advice but they do not want others to do their thinking for them. They love to be challenged and will responsibly do their assignment, but do not want to be bullied as a child.

Each generation has its distinctive marks to impress in history—in music, dress, dance as well as food and recreation. Why should youth follow the ways of their parents' "good old days" when God has placed in us the aspirations to seek out truth, to expand our love to all fellow creatures and to explore the vast regions of the heavens, the depths of the seas or the bowels of the earth?

We need only to observe youth in action to see the wonderful transformation taking place daily in education, science, industry and the military. Under proper guidance and lofty motivation they can and will succeed in bringing about the peaceful brotherhood of man and the faithful service of their Heavenly Father. "Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who built it; unless the Lord guard the city, they labor in vain who guard it."

With the zeal and love that the youth of our day have manifested toward their neighbors all over the world, these cannot be lacking a fervent love of God. As St. John said "he who loves his neighbor fulfills the whole law" and again, "he who does not love his neighbor whom he sees, how can he love God whom he does not see?"

Religion is the most essential relationship you have with your Creator who alone can satisfy the longing desires of reunion with Him. Use your mind to know Him, love and serve Him with your bodies in the service of others and you may rest assured that you have achieved the greatest reward of fulfilling your purpose of life according to the plan of your Maker.

"If God be with you, you will never walk alone, you will never fear the enemy, you will never fear your Judge when He utters your lasting decree."

'Fairy Tale' Comeback Booms Raiders' FCL Title Stock

By Jack Wittenmeier

"That was the greatest team effort I've ever seen in my 12 years of coaching. It's got to be the highlight of my coaching career."

So said Reynoldsburg coach John Thompson of his Raiders' "story book" ending Friday night against St. Mary. Trailing 18-0 at halftime, Reynoldsburg wrote a more thrilling finish than the Brothers Grimm ever did—taking a giant step toward the FCL title in the process.

IN FACT, the only thing missing from Friday's fantastic comeback effort was "and they lived happily ever after."

But that will have to wait for three more victories over three remaining loop foes (Dublin, Canal Winchester and Academy).

Thompson admits frankly that his '65 Raiders are not one of his better clubs — in a physical sense. "But you couldn't have asked for much more than what they gave us that second half. It took a lotta' guts to come back like that."

STATISTICALLY, St. Mary beat the Raiders in every department except scoring, including total offense (296-220).

St. Mary scored on its seventh play from scrimmage with quarterback John Shepard hitting end Bob Leach on a 59-yard TD pass play.

With 37 seconds left in the same period, Shepard drove over from the one and it looked like a sad homecoming for Raider fans as the Rams went up, 12-0.

THINGS WENT from bad to worse for Reynoldsburg as Shepard added a third TD to St. Mary's total before intermission.

But the second half, like the man says, was another story.

The Raiders' defensive line, which featured a 10-man rush on punts, made the first big break for the Raiders by forcing a poor punt.

REYNOLDSBURG drove in for the six pointer late in the third period as Gary Shade banged into the end zone but victory was still far away with only one period remaining.

Mike Gorrell made the next break by picking off a Shepard toss. Shade capped the Raiders' second short drive by spinning around right end and diving into the end zone. The junior quarterback tried his keeper again and the margin was down to 18-14 with 4:45 remaining.

Four plays and a bad snap from center later, the Raiders had the ball again on the Ram 29. With Shade circling end and fullback Gene Harshaw pounding the middle, the Raiders drove to the one with 1:39 remaining in the game.

SHADE DROVE over on the next play and the comeback was complete.

Just to make sure, however, Harshaw turned in his best kickoff of the season, booming the ball over the head of deep man Mike Hodge, who had to settle with downing the ball in the end zone.

Thompson admitted he gave no stirring speech at halftime. "I'd like to take credit for it (the comeback) but I can't very well take credit for something I didn't do."

THE RAIDER coach did admit to a few "defensive adjustments." "We felt we needed more pressure on their passer so we moved Denny Spires over center."

The move paid off handsomely as Ram coach Ray DeCola admitted after the game that a breakdown in St. Mary's pass protection was a big factor in the loss.

"We told a couple of kids if they didn't start doing their job they wouldn't be out there too much longer," Thompson added. That apparently helped also.

"WE KNEW WE could move the ball. As always we had a 'game plan' and we knew it was still good. We just carried it out better in the second half. But we did throw more than we had planned," the Raider coach added.

"We felt we could block at least one of their punts. That's why we had the 10-man rush and our halfbacks only about 15 yards back. The way things turned out, we didn't have to block any.

"Punting is part of the game and they had two pretty poor ones."

ALTHOUGH Thompson was quick to admit the Ram win was a team effort, the Raider mentor added that Gary Shade did an exceptional job at quarterback and Kevin Turner was outstanding, turning St. Mary's outside game in.

"Overall, it was a great team effort. We'd rather have that any time," Thompson concluded.

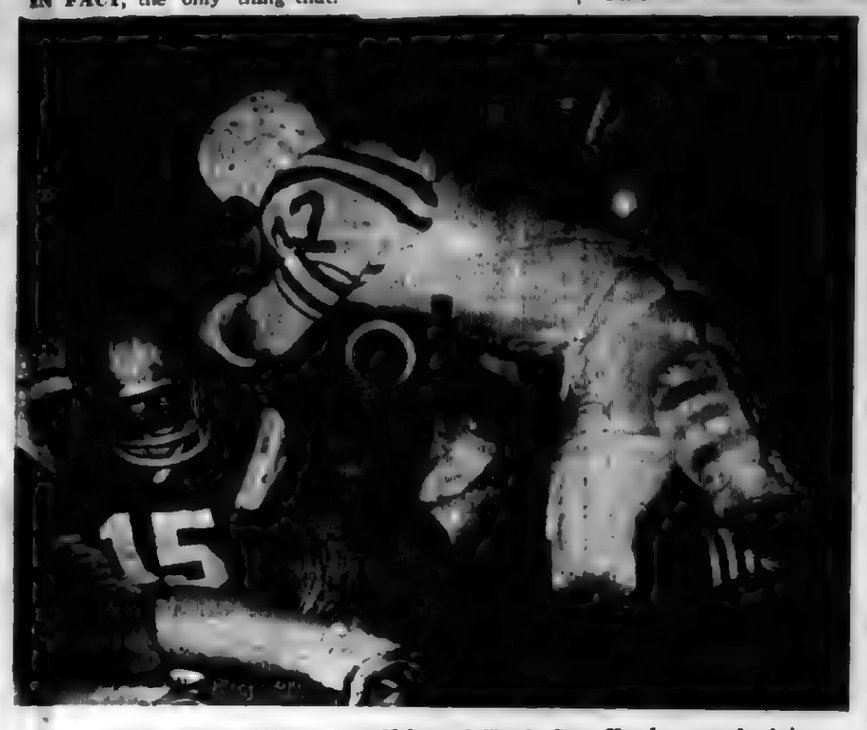
"I didn't really have to say anything at halftime. We had a couple of kids who kept saying, 'We can get them.' One of the boys acted like he wasn't even worried. I was."

TOMORROW night the opponent will be Teays Valley, a club that has been up-and-down all season.

The Vikings beat Walnut Ridge in their opener and lost to Circleville and Logan Elm (lost fumble in end zone in last minute) before bouncing back last week against Westfall.

"If they can beat Walnut Ridge, they must have a fairly good ball club," Thompson said. "We're concerned about them."

"THEY HAVE a fine young sophomore quarterback (Bruce Roese) who runs the option well. Overall, they have fair size and they'll be bigger than we are."



T-V likes to run their fullback off tackle, hit with counters and flip the screen pass. But the big offensive play is Roese's option.

"He (Roese) ran his option 14 times last week against Westfall. They seem to like to run wide."

AND THAT'S fine with Thompson who believes the "outside" defense is probably Reynoldsburg's strongest point.

"Everybody told us Groveport would beat us outside. Then they said West Jefferson would get us out there. And they said the same thing about St. Mary. Nobody's killed us out there yet," the Raider mentor concluded.

Defensively, the Raiders should see a 5-4 alignment with a "monster" (best outside linebacker always goes to strong or wide side of the field).

KEY FIRST DOWN—Reynoldsburg fullback Gene Harshaw cracks into the St. Mary line Friday night, picking up a first down on the Rams' 18 with 2:24 left in the ball game. Quarterback Gary Shade scored on a sneak less than a minute later to provide Raiders with thrilling come-from-behind win over St. Mary.

JUST A SHADE inside the end zone on this scoring sweep Friday night was Raider quarterback Gary Shade, slipping past defender Dick Braun (14) for the second of his three second-half TDs against St. Mary.

VICTORY RIDE — Reynoldsburg coach John Thompson rides off the field in style Friday after his Raiders scored three touchdowns in the final half to edge St. Mary, 20-18, and take the "driver's seat" in the FCL title chase. "They've got guts," Thompson commented of victory. (Staff photos by Jack Wittenmeier).

QB Coulter Paces W-M Again, 32-0

Quarterback Lonie Coulter continued to spark the Watkins Memorial offense last weekend, figuring in all five TDs as the Warriors won their third straight '65 game, 32-0, over Northridge.

Coulter, who brought W-M's Homecoming crowd to its feet twice with dazzling TD sprints of 91 and 80 yards, hit halfback Doug Shackelford on scoring pitches of 13 and nine yards and added a third with end Paul McConnell on the business end of a 37-yarder.

Overall, Coulter accounted for 219 yards rushing in 10 carries and added 136 more yards in passing by hitting on eight of 10 attempts.

As a team, W-M piled up 345 rushing yards. The Warriors, who opened their season with a tie, face their biggest test of the season tomorrow night at Johnstown.

Johnstown snapped a long Warrior win streak last season and spoiled W-M hopes for the Licking Valley grid title.

Ninth Graders Win Second, Down Vikings

Coach Ed James' ninth graders turned in Reynoldsburg's second straight '65 victory last week with a 22-6 verdict over Academy in a rainy downpour.

Jim Majerus raced for all three touchdowns on scampers of 20, five and 25 yards. The junior Vikings, who passed two out of every three plays, found their aerial game stunted by defensive backs Elmer Keels and Rick Farlow.

Keels picked off one Academy aerial and returned it 30 yards to set up one Reynoldsburg TD while Farlow also pilfered a Viking pass which resulted shortly later in another six-pointer by the winners.

Reynoldsburg is scheduled next at Circleville, facing the Tigers Saturday at 10 a.m.

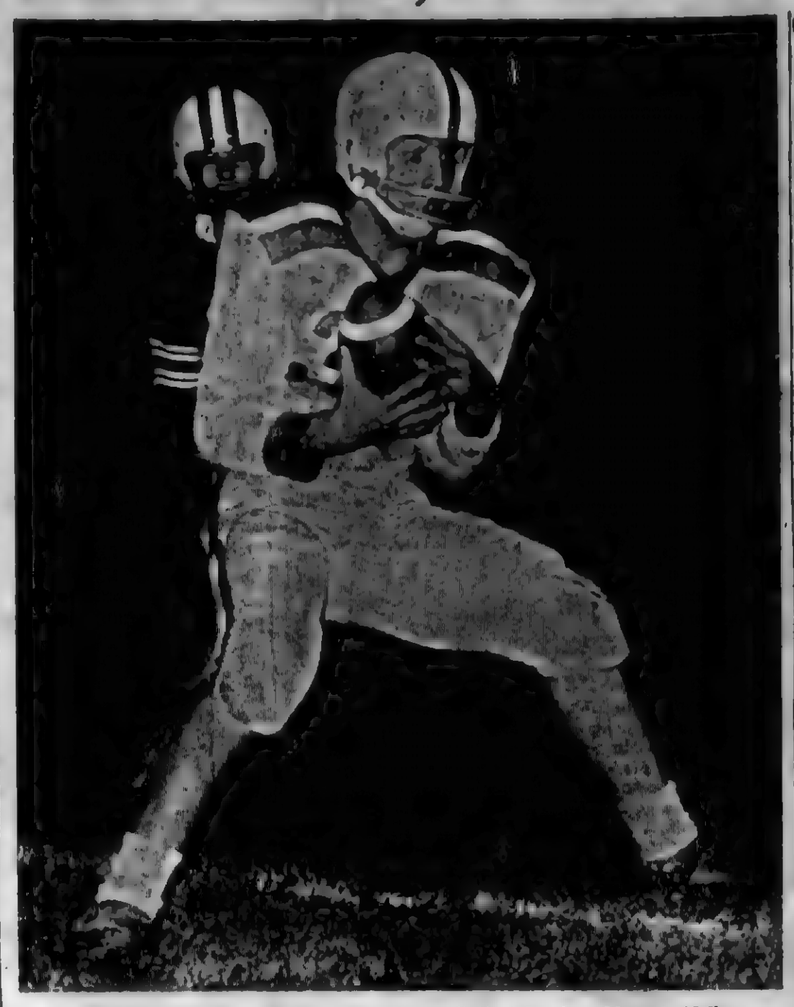
Little Bucks Roll, 46-0

The Little Buckeyes defeated the Bremen Black Hawks 46-0 and the McDonald Golden Eagles and the Lockbourne Skyhawks fought to a 7-7 tie in Ohio Valley Conference play last weekend.

Buckeye quarterback Bill Vest scored three TD's and passed to end Steve Korpiaski on a 55 yard pass-run scoring play.

Buckeye halfbacks Terry Cashin, Jerry Garriott and Jim Kuhn each scored one apiece and Mike Egger was the defensive standout for the Little Bucks. Egger (two), Dave Ross and Jim Kuhn added conversion runs.

McDonald scored first with a pass from quarterback Jim Payne to end Carl Hart in the first quarter but the Skyhawks rebounded in the second half with halfback Henry Weaver's 20 yard sprint knotting the count.



The last frame saw great defensive action by both teams. Hart and Weaver also added the crucial PATs.

Gahanna, East Put Perfect Marks On Line

GATTO GRAB — Hartley halfback Joe Gatto takes in a 23-yard sideline pass from quarterback Johnny Brandt in fourth period play Saturday against DeSales, moving the ball to the Stallion three. Scott French pounded over for Hawks' second TD two plays later but Hartley lost to DeSales, 38-16.

Area Unbeaten List Trimmed To Three

That's how many undefeated elevens remain around the area after Hartley and Academy were trimmed from the list of unbeaten in grid play last weekend.

EAST, GAHANNA and Whitehall stand alone at 4-0 after the Hawks fell under DeSales, 38-16, and Academy lost out to Dublin, 12-6.

Chuck Robson's Tigers came too close for comfort at Central, winning 14-0 with not-so-much offense but plenty of defense.

'Twasn't much more of a picnic for Jim Bline's Rams —but the Whitehall crew hopped over a "big" obstacle with a 12-8 win over Mt. Vernon.

THINGS WERE a little less frantic at Marysville where George Troutman's Lions rolled to victory, 34-6.

Elsewhere, Bexley got the "Big Play" in an 8-7 verdict over Worthington while Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge were suffering City League setbacks to Brookhaven (26-14) and Marion-Franklin (32-16) respectively.

Two big scoring plays and that strong defense were instrumental in keeping East on top.

THE TIGERS took a 6-0 lead halfway through the opening period, thanks to quarterback Paul Stith's 31-yard scoring aerial to John Sluppy on fourth down.

What appeared to be East misfortune was transformed into Central misery a few plays earlier as Chuck Wright ran for a crucial first down after a poor pass from center on a punt looked likely to put the Bengals in the hole.

But the East offense fizzed thereafter (fumbling seven times) and Central actually was knocking on the door (at the Bengals five once) in the second half.

THE ISSUE was in doubt right up to the final five minutes of play until Jim Griffin picked off a Pirate pass and rambled 70 long yards to paydirt.

Mt. Vernon looked best in the statistical department (15 first downs to Whitehall's five) but the Rams came up with the clutch plays.

Coach Jim Bline, who commented last week that he considered Jacket quarterback Greg Kundrat "the key of Mt. Vernon's backfield," apparently versed his Ram defense well in that department.

KUNDRAT tried 16 passes and completed but two. Kundrat's counterpart on the other side of the line — Mike Allen — fared quite a bit better as both clubs swapped their reputed ground games for airwave offense.

Allen hit on four of eight tosses but two of those completions lighted up the scoreboard.

The first covered some 40 yards and found halfback Mike Fleming on the business end. Whitehall's strong defense gave the offense an assist on that first score as Ken Flowers deflected Mt. Vernon's punt and the Rams took over five yards from Jacket territory.

AFTER MT. Vernon stalled inside Whitehall's 35 four minutes before intermission, the Rams traveled the distance in six plays, with Allen's ten-yard flip to Tom Kleinline ringing up the six-pointer.

Jarrin' Dave Delli scored three times against Marysville to up his touchdown total to eight this year.

Bell scored on short runs while Chuck Freman added a 20-yard score and quarterback Bob Mack tossed 15 yards to end Mike Bokros to the other six-pointer.

GAHANNA compiled 304 yards on the ground and added 30 more via aerials, accumulating 20 first downs in the process.

Nobody can say Bexley quarterback Rick Weber does not budget his passes.

Weber threw only twice against Worthington but both were completed and accounted for all the Lions' scoring.

BEXLEY trailed 6-0 late in the first half but Weber quickly changed the completion of the game by hooking up with halfback Colby Crail on a 66-yard TD.

Fred Grim added the conversion on Weber's only other pass and the Lions and Cardinals turned to defense the rest of the way.

DeSales blew up Hartley's fine defensive record with an impressive display of possession football (Hawks had yielded but ten points in three previous games).

TAILBACK Tom Rock was the biggest thorn in Hartley's side, scoring three TDs and rolling for 133 yards in 21 carries. Overall, the Stallions outgained the Hawks, 362-196.

The Hawks trailed 16-2 at intermission — the only tally coming when a host of Hawk tacklers (led by Doug Parker) nailed the Stallions' punter in the end zone for a safety.

The closest Hartley got all evening was 16-10 with 4:38 remaining in the third period. Joe Gatto squirted through an opening and raced 34 yards to paydirt.

THE HAWK drive covered 72 yards in 12 plays with Scott French's key first down pickup on the 35 the big play.

French added the Hawks' final TD late in the game by bulling over from the three, climaxing a five-play, 74-yard drive (highlighted by quarterback Johnny Brandt's pass to Joe Gatto which put the ball on the Stallion three).

Academy's defense held Dublin scoreless but Don Burton picked off two Viking passes and returned them for touchdowns as the Irish dropped Academy from the ranks of the unbeaten.

LONE VIKING score came in the final period when quarterback Herb Laps hit Jim Gordon with an 11-yard strike.

Marion-Franklin's passing master — quarterback Dale Darnell — got healthy against Walnut Ridge Friday, firing for three TDs.

Big Larry Brown grabbed a short Darnell toss in the opening period and then eluded several Scottie tacklers to romp down the sidelines on a 32-yarder to give the Devils a lead they never relinquished.

W-H GOT both its tallies in the final period when Mark Olsen stole a M-F lateral and hopped five yards to paydirt and Dick Mollett hit Rick Houchen on a 21-yard touchdown pitch.

Eastmoor capitalized on an early break to put Brookhaven in the hole.

Rick Lech plunged over from the one early in the game after the Warriors gobbled up a fumbled punt on the Bearcats' one.

BUT THE lead proved to be short lived as All-City halfback Steve Kesterson rambled for four TDs (three on long springs) to spell E-M's upset hopes.

The Warriors' other score came in the third frame when end Jack Terry snagged a pass from quarterback Randy Yoakum, worked his way outside Kesterson and sprinted 65 yards to paydirt.

'Cruisers Biggest Challenge'—Troutman; Robson Sees Defensive Battle Vs. B-H

SPORTS

East and Gahanna, a pair of defending league champions who have been making noises like "repeaters" this fall, face their biggest loop tests to date tomorrow night.

The Tigers, who have slapped down four straight opponents (including City League mates Central and West), must contend with Jim Anderson's Brookhaven Bearcats at Hartley Field.

THE LIONS of George Troutman will test the Mid-Eight loop's unbeaten "sleeper" — Groveport — before a Dads' Night crowd on the Gahanna rectangle.

Gahanna rapped Groveport last season, 52-0, but East didn't have it that easy, slipping past the Bearcats, 13-6, on the final night of the season.

"We'll really have to go some to beat them," Tiger coach Chuck Robson admitted earlier this week. "They outplayed us last year but fumbled six times. I figure they'll have more confidence this time and, remember, they've got just about everybody back."

ROBSON LOOKS for a low scoring, defensive game with the win going to the club which makes the least mistakes. "Our scout tells us that (Steve) Kesterson isn't one of the best, but 'the' best halfback in the city. He's fast and really tough."

The East coach isn't just talking through his hat about Kesterson. The Bearcat speedster has racked up nine TDs in four games, including four last Friday against Eastmoor. (Only DeSales has shut him out).

Four of the scoring scampers have been of the "breakaway" variety (77, 84, 89 and 79 yard runs).

FOR THE record, Brookhaven opened with a win over Pleasant View and then dropped back-to-back verdicts to CCL entries DeSales and Ready before bouncing back last week in their city opener vs. the Warriors.

The loss to DeSales was only 12-6 and the Bearcats beat

Star of the musical is Jackie Warner, who has held comedy roles in Broadway plays such as "Wish Your Were Here," "Damn Yankees," and "Bells Are Ringing," as well as "Irma La Douce," "Carnival," and "Wildcat." He is the only man in the musical and he is surrounded by ten girls.

'FIRE SAFE HOUSEKEEPING' URGED

THE TRAGIC LOSS of three lives in home fires last week, on the eve of National Fire Prevention Week, placed a grim emphasis on the local observance. In Whitehall, Melvin E. Canode, 49, perished in a fire at his apartment at 3566 E. Main-st. And in South Columbus, Kay Francis, six, and four-year-old Lynn Bodiford died in their beds in a blaze at the home of their grandparents, 1952 S. Washington-av. Whitehall firefighters are urging "fire safe housekeeping" with a sign and tombstones in front of city hall. A firefighter, dressed as "Sparky" the firedog, launched the week Saturday by landing in a helicopter at Robinwood Plaza and distributing fire safety-slogan balloons to youngsters. The week is also being marked by programs in schools, literature and displays in store windows.

Bandits Net $20,000 From Safes Here

The Kahiki Supper Club and the Ontario Store were scenes of robberies by two teams of pistol-wielding safe crackers late Oct. 3, police reported.

The bandits netted an estimated $20,000.

At the Kahiki, two bandits threatened an ower with his own gun, forced him to open a safe and then tied him with an electrical cord.

At the Ontario Store, six employes were locked in a restroom while three burglars spent six hours opening a safe with a torch.

Police believe the Ontario robbery was done by a highly professional group from outside the city.

The deliberateness of the thieves, who drank milk and juice to refresh themselves during the six hours it took to burn open the store's safe, carried over to their departure and few clues were found.

Questioning of the victims in the Ontario incident uncovered one employe who claimed one of the bandits was a "giant" about 6 foot 5 inches tall, weighing more than 200 pounds with a muscular build.

REENLISTS

MSG Aaron T. Howard, whose wife, Mary, lives at 2825 Petzinger-rd, reenlisted for three years in the Regular Army, while serving with the 4th U. S. Army Missile Command in Korea. Howard, a supply sergeant in the command's headquarters Company, entered the Army in 1939 and arrived overseas on this tour of duty last January.

PUCO Is Asked To Make Phone Ruling

To Identify 'Freedom Ring' Subscribers

By FRANK RYAN

At least a portion of the mystery surrounding the controversial "Viet Freedom Ring" messages will be lifted if the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) agrees to a request by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The Spectator learned that Ohio Bell has asked the PUCO to approve a change in tariff regulations which would permit the company to identify those who lease equipment for recorded messages.

The action is the outgrowth of a series of messages available to people who dial a specified telephone number. The "Freedom" recordings have attacked the National Council of Churches, civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and others.

Local figures attacked in a recent recording were Rev. Phale D. Hale, NAACP president, and Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of CORE.

A PUCO spokesman said a hearing will be scheduled to consider the tariff regulation change. He said that Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Co., had also made a request similar to that of Ohio Bell. PUCO commissioners must approve any such change before it becomes effective.

J. Phillip Gibbs, district manager for Ohio Bell, told The Spectator that the telephone company cannot refuse the leasing of telephone recording equipment to those who operate within laws affecting use of telephones, and who meet credit requirements.

"We cannot tell anyone what to say," Gibbs added.

Gibbs stressed that the request before the PUCO would not affect private telephone subscribers who request unlisted numbers. The change would affect only those who make use of equipment for recorded messages to be made available to the public.

The local messages emanate from the Westerville area, and include requests for donations to be sent to a Westerville post office box. There has never been identification of persons or groups sponsoring the messages, except for the "Let Freedom Ring" slogan.

The "Freedom" messages are in use in local communities throughout the nation. One local source reports that as many as 30 to 40 state public utility commissions have been asked to take action similar to that proposed for Ohio.

If the PUCO approves the Ohio Bell request, the new rule will be in force throughout the state.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TRYOUTS

Carradine Collection Pleases Art Lovers

Mr and Mrs. Richard Dye Carradine, 6931 Retton-rd, exhibited their personal art treasures in the senior high Monday.

The exhibit included the originals of: "Asselijn," by Rembrandt; "Voltat," by Renoir; "Self-Portrait" by Monet; "Washington Square" by Salvador Dali; "London Street Scene" by James Whistler; "Beaudelaire" by Georges Rouault; and "Green River Boats" by Lebadang.

The exhibit was arranged through the cooperation of Executive Head Robert P. Heischman and Principal Joseph Endry and was placed on loan for the pleasure and study of art enthusiasts.

The Carradines announced they were establishing the Carradine Concert and Lecture Fund, which will permit the Reynoldsburg High School to have a yearly series of prominent artists and speakers through 1966 and '67.

Among those planning to visit the school will be Suzanne Silvercruys, famed sculptor; Jane and Paul Westbrook, formerly featured with Robert Shaw Chorale; and Joe Gooter, columnist, lecturer and author of "Bullpen," Bullring and Bull," lecturing on the "Importance of a Sense of Humor."

The first speaker planned to appear will be Mme. Silvercruys, a gifted author, leader in international affairs and one of the world's most famous living sculptors. One of the amazing points of interest, drawing her audience directly to her, is her ability to model a subject selected from the audience as she talks. For their patience, the model receives her finished product upon completion of the program.

MR. AND MRS. Richard Dye Carradine, sponsors of Monday's art exhibit announced their collection of art was an introduction to a planned concert and lecture series in the senior high, to be held in 1966 and '67.

Olympic Athletes To Test High Altitude In Warmup

Ohio Track Club president Jim Lorimer will depart Monday for Mexico City to join a 16 country alignment (including U.S. and Russia) for a pre-Olympic "warmup."

Primary purpose of the Olympic preview will be to obtain data on the effects of high altitude conditions on Olympic athletes.

THE ALTITUDE in Mexico City, host for the '68 Olympics, is 7500 feet—a height which might create definite oxygen problems for competing athletes.

There will be competition in six sports (track and field, boxing, swimming, gymnastics, cycling and fencing) at the warmup.

Lorimer will serve on the U.S. Olympic committee as a track and field assistant coach and also fill the role of manager of both men's and women's teams.

THE WARMUP will be conducted Oct. 15-16-17.
